1040 Freshmen Register; Largest in UM History

Will Finish Baker Dorm In February

The new $80,000 Baker dormitory which is still under construction should be completed by February, according to Mr. F. B. Thomas of the University Housing Office.

The dormitory which will hold 350 men is being built in the center of the Hills - Brooks - Greenough - Chadbourne Quadrangle.

When this new dorm is completed the housing office expects to make the County Circle dorms into single rooms and to make the rooms in the Freshmen dorms which are now triple into double rooms. This will end the crowded conditions which now exist in these dorms.

At the present time the Sophomore and Junior men are being housed in County Circle, two men to a room. The Freshmen this year have been placed in Greenough, Chadbourne and Brooks where the single rooms have been made double and the double rooms triple. The seniors are in Mills house.

The increased enrollment and the lack of housing have made it necessary for the University authorities to utilize the available facilities to the fullest degree.

Alviani to Hear Music Auditions

A new musical organization has been planned and two have been reactivated this year, it was announced today by Prof. Doric Alviani, Head of the Music Dept.

The Harmonaires, open to freshman women only, has been organized to meet the 7 p.m. closing hours of the frosh and to fill the need of such a group for those who have participated in high school music clubs and wish to continue. Rehearsals for the Harmonaires are tentatively scheduled for Mon. and Wed. afternoons from 4 to 4:45.

The Statettes, a female octet, will be revived now that there is a larger female enrollment. Requests for more Gilbert and Sullivan operettas have caused the reactivation of the Savoyards, open to men and women of all classes.

The University Chorus, the Chorale, the Operetta Guild, and the Statesmen will continue to function as they did last year.

Prof. Alviani has announced the following times for auditions and rehearsals:

UNIVERSITY CHORALE (Men and women, all classes)

Auditions: Thurs., Sept. 20 10-12, 3-5, Fri., Sept. 21 3-5:15, Mon., Sept. 24 3-5:15. Music office, Mem Bldg.

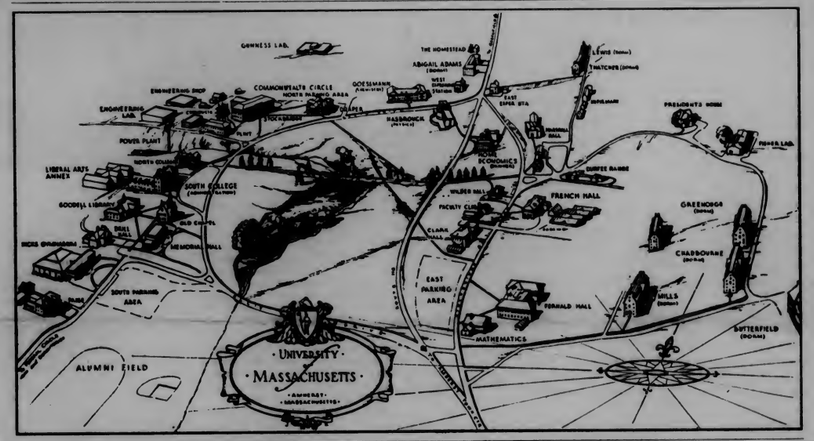
DANCE TUESDAY NIGHT

An informal dance, "Stag or Drag", will be held at the Drill Hall tomorrow night (Tuesday) from 8:30 to 11.

Sponsored by the University Faculty Women for their student fund, the dance is the first of its kind but it is hoped that a registration dance such as this will be an annual event.

The Mello-Aires will provide music for the dance and admission will be 25 cents per person.



Total University Enrollment To Include 3600 Students

More than one third of the total enrollment of the University of Massachusetts undergraduate school will be freshmen according to approximate figures from Marshall O. Lanphear, Registrar.

The freshman class is expected to number slightly over 1,000 including 600 men and 400 women. Of these, there will be about 80 second semester frosh, who attended the Summer Session to receive their first semester credits. This is the first time since World War II that such a system has been accepted.

The total enrollment is expected to reach aproximately 2900 this year. These figures cover only the undergraduates, however.

On Saturday, September 15, the transfer students were registered. These students numbered about 150.

With the increase in freshmen there is an increase in women on the campus. According to Miss Helen Curtis, Dean of Women, there will be about 1,000 women this year. This is the largest enrollment of women in the history of the University. The women will be housed in six dormitories and six sorority houses.

In the past few years the enrollment of women has been held back, as Dean Curtis has said, so that we might accommodate the large numbers of veterans who desired an education after the war. Now we are able to accept nearly all qualified applicants.

New Dining Hall To Serve 2,000

A "NEW DEAL" in the dining hall situation may be expected in the near future.

The new dining hall which will be located just south of the women's dormitory quadrangle will accommodate about 2,000 boarders, according to University Treasurer Robert D. Hawley.

Essentially a two-story building, the ground floor will contain a snack bar, coatrooms and storage space.

A modern adequate kitchen and service rooms with three separate dining halls of 250 student capacity will occupy space on the first floor. Two of these dining halls are so arranged as to make it possible to open them up as one room for special occasions.

A small third floor area is provided for varying groups up to 100 persons.

The present main dining hall is located within a building built in 1903 and lacks the space and adequate facilities for the proper feeding of the present student body.

Charles Dubois, English Prof, Dies At 41

The University of Massachusetts has suffered the loss of Charles Nelson DuBois, associate professor of English at the University for fourteen years.

Mr. DuBois was born in North Troy, Vt., Feb. 13, 1910. He attended schools in North Troy, and was gradu-

11 Pianos Given For UM Dorms

Plink, plink, plink. From whence cometh such musical notes?

As a result of a plea by dean of women, Miss Helen Curtis, eleven pianos have been offered to the University for use in girls dormitories.

Since more than 1000 women will attend the University this semester, two new residence houses have been prepared for them. Neither house had a piano. Now there are eleven of them.

What better fate could be contrived for an old piano than to spend a few years at college, expenses paid, as a companion to the gentle sex during happy hours of play?

Board and Room Rates Boosted For This Year

Board and room rates paid by the University of Massachusetts' students have increased since last fall according to Dean Hopkins.

Last year's board rate which was $8.75 for a five day period, is up to $9.50, according to the dean. This increase, he feels, is necessitated by the raise in raw food prices of 12% over last year.

The rental rate in the self-liquidating dormitories on the university

Book Selling To Be Same As Last Year

The improved plan for book distribution used last year will be used again this year according to Augustine J. Ryan, general manager of the C-Store.

Upper-classmen will purchase their books in the book store; freshmen will get their books in room 15, 1st floor of the C-Store.

Schedule

The book store will be operated for two weeks on an extended schedule beginning Sept. 17th to the 29th. Weekdays it will be open from 8:00 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., with the exception of Sept. 21 when the store will be closed from 10:00 until noon during convocation. On Saturday the 22nd the store will close at 3:30.

Mr. Ryan expects a minimum of delay for students in the purchasing of books because he has 50% more books than he had last year at the same time.

Arthur Julian Dies After 40 Yrs. Service at UM

Professor Arthur Nelson Julian, Head of the German Department, died August 11 at the Dickinson Hospital in Northampton.

Born in Plato Center, Ill., Nov. 22, 1895, he was the son of Richard and Louisa J. Julian. He was educated at Elgin Academy and Northwestern in

Announce Years Concert Series

The return of the DePaur Infantry Chorus on October 18 will mark the first event of the University Concert association for 1951-52, faculty adviser Doric Alviani announced today.

Three Other Programs

The three other programs on the schedule will be: Nov. 28, the Morley-Gerhart piano duo; March 2, the Little Symphony of New York; and April 15, Eugene Conley, Metropolitan Opera tenor.

DePaur Infantry Chorus

The DePaur Infantry Chorus, which is being brought back to the university by special demand, was enthusiastically received by the campus when the group sang here two years ago.

Composed of former infantrymen who banded together upon discharge, it has been lauded throughout the country for its performances.

Morley-Gerhart Duo

The Morley-Gerhart piano duo is currently appearing with Fred War-

Welcome Freshman

With this issue of the Collegian we welcome to our campus the largest freshman class in the history of the University of Massachusetts. We hope that before long you will be taking an active part in the many phases of college life offered here.

College is not entirely what Hollywood writers would have us believe. A number of responsibilities accompany the many pleasant aspects portrayed in the general run of movies. Those who have the maturity to accept the duties of adulthood (for we have entered this stage of life on entering college), as well as the social life of college people, will have no difficulty adjusting themselves and finding their places among us.

When we speak of responsibilities it is likely that only one will immediately seem apparent to the new student — studying. This is, unquestionably, our first responsibility as college people. In order to remain in good standing we must maintain an acceptable academic average, which can be achieved only by study and application.

Studying is not our only responsibility as men and women of the University of Massachusetts. Our campus runs parallel to the communities in which we shall take our places when school days are past. Through our student self-government we attempt to practice the policies of the local governments where we live. Ours is, perhaps, a more ideal form of government than those of some towns of which we hear, but basically it serves the purpose of introducing us to politics as they would be in a pure and uncorrupted democracy. It is, therefore, the duty of all of us to do our share to keep this government functioning. The requirements of a good citizen are to be aware of the issues at hand, to take a stand on these issues, and above all, to vote on every referendum, election, etc., which the Senate puts before us.

To keep abreast with matters before the Senate, we suggest that you read the report published by the Senate each week and the Senate Report as printed in the Collegian after each meeting. The reports are published so that those who do not have an opportunity to attend meetings may learn what transpires. Furthermore, we continually discuss matters on the Senate floor on this editorial page and attempt to clarify them for those who do not thoroughly understand. Just as it is wise to read the editorials in a daily newspaper, it is wise to read them in the Collegian. We try to keep our editorials useful as explanations of the events on our campus.

A responsibility peculiar to students is school spirit. If we do not cheer for our school, our athletic teams, our musical organizations, our dramatic group, our social activities, our student government, our publications, our fellow-students, our faculty, and our administration, certainly we cannot expect others to do this. It is up to every one of us to be a press agent for our University. The more active a part we take in promoting our school, the more likely we are to realize just how much it has to offer all of us.

As we make these few responsibilities a part of our college life, we shall see the benefits of our education more clearly. As future citizens of the United States, we can learn to partake fully of all our advantages if we start to practice in the experimental laboratory which college affords us.

There seems to be no need to spend a great deal of time discussing the more pleasant aspects of campus life. Parties, dances, formals, bridge, the C-Store, and the many other social activities become a part of us with no extra thought. College is an introduction to life. The pleasant things of life are always more easily accepted than those which require more thought and contribution from us.

To our freshmen we say, "Enjoy college. These four years have a great deal to offer. Get the most out of them by putting the most into them."

To the upperclassmen we wish to say, "Hi! It's great to see you all again."

Let's make this the best year for the U. of M.!

Your Senate

By John Heintz

FRESHMEN!

Read your handbook. It will give you all the information you will need to acquaint you with the customs and routine of the University.

ED. NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles on your Student Government. The object of these articles is not to criticize, defame or cite for contempt our three year old venture in self government, but rather to point out ways, which Mr. Heintz's year as a senator clearly showed, that our student government structure may be improved, and further to acquaint the student body with the problems facing the Student Senate. We hope that these articles will give a clearer view of the place of the Student Senate in our college community.

It is interesting to hear the views of the C-store experts about what is wrong with the Student Senate. Some claim it is a rubber stamp for the administration, some say it is too weak, more ridiculous, some students actually feel it is too strong. However, the major fault with the student government does not lie in its constitution, its members, its meetings, its decisions or its power; rather it lies with the student body.

The ineffectiveness of the student government is caused by a pathetic lack of interest in it by the students. Here you muse "Huh, I vote for the senators in the fall, what more does he want?" Is it really enough? Just vote and forget all about it? Let your senator worry about the details. Many students don't even bother to vote. Let me point out a few examples of where student backing would have aided the Senate and thus the students.

Last year a prominent member of the administration was quoted as saying that the student government was ready to take on more responsibility as soon as the student body proved that it was squarely behind and in full suport of the student government. Here is a perfect example of how the students could have and still can have more say in the operation of the University. If the students take an active interest in the activities of the Senate the administration also will take a more liberal view towards the opin-

25 Scholarships For UM Students Given By Solons

1. A bill providing 25 scholarships in the amount of $250 each has been passed and approved by the House and Senate at Boston;
2. The scholarships will be awarded to deserving students at the University of Massachusetts.
3. It covers a proposal which was placed before the legislature earlier in the year and on which there had been committee hearings.
4. The steps taken by the House and Senate is one of interest to many because it pertains to education and the assistance of worthy students.
5. The operation of the plan, with the possibility of its extension, are matters that will claim attention during the months of its use.

Hawley Resigns As Treasurer

1. President Van Meter has confirmed reports that Robert Hawley, treasurer at the University of Massachusetts for more than thirty years, would resign at the end of the year.
2. Mr. Hawley, will retire under the veteran's thirty year law.
3. Mr. Hawley, a native of Springfield and a graduate of Classical High School there, received his degree from the University in 1920. He was secretary of the University from 1926 to 1939, when he replaced Fred C. Kenney as treasurer.
4. No successor has been mentioned to date. President Van Meter said the university trustees will select Mr. Hawley's successor.

Collegian Profile

Van Meter is UM's 13th Presiden

Editor's Note. This is a rewrite of profile No. 1, introducing for the first time to the freshman class . . . our president.

Back in 1913, a gangling (six feet two inches) 19 year-old student ran a one-man delivery service for a laundry to earn some of his way as a freshman at Ohio State University.

Today, at 57, he is Dr. Ralph A. Van Meter, 13th president of the University of Massachusetts.

Natural Leader

"Men who know him best," editorialized the Boston Globe, "say he is a natural leader, genuinely democratic, wholly without frill, and liked by all ages of men and women."

These personal qualities, plus his demonstrated skill as an administrator, largely explain why the trustees unanimously selected him as president after canvassing, as Chairman Bartlett reported, "the names of at least 50 possible men."

Upon graduating from Ohio State the future head of the university came to Amherst as an instructor in food conservation at what was then called Massachusetts Agricultural college.

While teaching here, he met Miss Eudora Tuttle, of Eastport, N. Y., a Cornell graduate, who was teaching home economics. In 1918, while he was in the army, they were married.

Service In France

He saw service with the A.E.F. in France. Following his discharge, he settled here in Amherst.

An excellent scientist, he was named professor of pomology in 1923. Subsequently, he acquired a Ph.D. in horticulture at Cornell.

Dean Of Horticulture

In 1932, he began his administrative career as a dean of the school of horticulture. Known throughout the school as a man who looks for evidence before making conclusions, he soon became one of the ablest administrators on campus.

During World War II, he had charge of the army training program on this campus.

Named Proxy In 1948

He was formally inaugurated as President of the University of Massachusetts in October of 1948.

The Van Meters have four children: Marcia, who is a U. of M. graduate; David, an engineering instructor at Pennsylvania State college; James, a research engineer at United Aircraft in Hartford; and Helen.

Hiking Favorite Hobby

Hiking is the president's favorite hobby. His favorite stamping grounds are the White Mountains, the Green Mountains and the Adirondacks.

He is a member of the Metawampes faculty hiking club.

The Metawampes have a song of many verses, one of which concerns the president, and says:

Now here's to Ralph Van Meter!
They say the view is fine
From his exalted summit
He leads our hikers on the trail,
With footsteps long and wide.
The son-of-a-gun, he ought to be hung
For that un-Godly stride.

Placement Office Service For Coeds

Mrs. Geoffrey Cornish, placement officer for women, requests that all women students who have applied for part-time work report for assignments and work cards immediately. Work cards are necessary before reporting to employers.

A typing test will be given to students interested in typing positions. This test must be taken unless applicants have had previous experience.

All girls interested in baby sitting for faculty and townspeople should leave their names with Mrs. Cornish. A list of baby sitters with addresses and telephone numbers is sent to all those interested in this service.

Work opportunities are limited on campus. Girls interested in working in faculty homes a few hours each week are asked to report to the Placement Office.

A placement meeting for Senior women will be held on October 14 at 11 in Old Chapel Auditorium. At this meeting placement registration forms will be distributed and services and functions of the Placement Office will be explained.

Light up the Sky To Be Given By Roister Doisters

For their opening play this season the Roister Doisters have selected a modern comedy, "Light up the Sky" by Moss Hart, it was announced today by Prof. Arthur Niedeck, Doisters' director.

The production is scheduled for presentation in Bowker Auditorium on Nov. 17 and 18. Shortly after registration audition dates will be announced and the cast will be chosen.

The Doisters are negotiating at present to bring Charles Coburn, noted motion picture actor, to the campus during the first semester. Mr. Coburn will speak on acting and the movies and will perform some characterizations from his films.

This should be a high season for dramatics and for the Roister Doisters if all plans reach fulfillment.

Benoit Captains 1951 Squad

Twenty freshmen prospects, who are eligible for varsity competition for the first time since 1946, are among the near record number of pre-season candidates for the Redmen varsity football squad, just completing their second week of pre-season training.

Head Coach Tommy Eck, with a bigger barrel of talent from which to draw, has high hopes of bettering the school's three and five record for the past two years.

Although he has doubts whether any of the frosh will break into the offensive varsity lineup because of the lack of familiarity with the split "T", Eck is impressed with the work of several frosh contenders, especially on defense.

A squad of sixty-three still has not enabled Eck and his staff to name a starting team for the season opener at Bates, September 29.

Kicking took a big part of the practice sessions and once again Backfield Coach Earl Lorden was on the lookout for someone to fill the punting role. Benoit, who did most of the kicking last year, was being pushed by the long boots of freshmen Steve Kowaleski of Northampton and Ed Katz of Boston English, while sophomore Frank Jacques also put in his bid for the assignment.

Three freshmen from Western Mass. are battling for positions on the varsity. Vic Fontana of Hinsdale, last year's All-Western Mass. Class B center, is playing at center, while All-Western Mass. guard Dick Pomper of S. Hadley Falls is working as a linebacker and Holyoke's Fred Niezgoda is playing at guard.

Football Season Accompanied By Hard Seats, Cold Weather

By Dusty Evski

The red-headed cop took my athletic ticket and punched it. We walked through the gate. Alumni field lay spread before us, filling with a gaily apparelled football crowd. A hawker approached me with a fistful of programs.

"Programs here, only a quarter, follow the signals and players with a program."

I bought one, although it was more of a gesture than anything else. Usually by the time I manage to find the right page in the program, three more plays have run off, and I am way behind schedule. But it looked good to have a program, especially when the proceeds went to a worthy cause, they told me—athletic scholarships, I guess.

No Seats on 50-yard Line

Me and my date, a shy young thing of 18, ambled past the bleachers. I was hoping for a hail from some friend on the 50-yard-line— we might have gotten a couple of good seats that way. Nothing happened, so we wound up on the minus five, with an admirable view of the soccer field on our right. Unfortunately, nobody was playing soccer. Not that I would have known what was going on if they had been.

The whistle blew, and the game was on. My date was no football fan, I discovered shortly. She kept asking me when the Drill Team would perform and who was that cute player that just came off the field? I mumbled answers suitably inane, and she seemed satisfied. The play was down at the other end of the field most of the time. Just as the Redmen brought the ball up where I could see who had it 20 per cent of the time, the quarter came and they shifted ends.

Smiling merrily as a fellow spectator waltzed past me carrying two cups of coke and a hot dog, I wiped the coke spray from my glasses and stealthily reached for a can of refreshments in my raincoat pocket. I managed to open it without spraying more than four people in the vicinity with foam. One guy looked back with a very lustful glance—he was dying to join me, but I didn't have much, and he was a stranger.

My date looked askance as I tipped back the can and took a sympathetic gulp. My throat was parched from listening to the hoarse cheers of the frosh. I couldn't figure out whether she was sore because I hadn't offered her any, or whether she was just shocked by the unconventionality of my action. I'm joking, of course.

Drill Team and Band Entertain

I turned back to watch the game. U. of M. was ahead, and they looked like a cinch to win. The air was getting colder and the seat was getting harder. The half came, and I stood up and stretched. The Drill Team strutted on to the field, and the band Bertramed across the goal line.

My date was all eyes. If there had been a grass stain on any one of those gray uniforms, she would have seen it. The band lined up down the way and burst into the Alma Mater. We stood up and lifted our voices in song. My date knew the words, but good. I surreptitiously conned the Handbook of a frosh near me and did a creditable job on the tune. The band quit, and we sat down. The seat was still hard. I checked the magazine; my commodious pocket held only two more rounds. It looked like a long second half.

Chapel Bells Signal End of Game

Eventually, the game ended. U. of M. won. We joined the throng and headed for the exit gate. My date's eyes opened wide as one of the players jogged past us. Finally, we arrived at the car in the parking lot and I jazzed the ancient crate into life. We threaded our way out to North Pleasant Street after dusting off a couple of student pedestrians on their way to ring the Chapel bells, and at length coasted up to her dorm.

Shortly I was coasting into Mike's- that word which has become banned in the columns of the Collegian. I entered the defamed portals and scanned the flushed faces in the booths until I spotted a kindred spirit whom I thought I knew. I bought a round for the booth, walked over and dealt the glasses out and was accepted immediately.

In the course of the next few minutes, I found out what had happened at the ball game: who carried for the scores, first downs, penalties, total ground gained, etc. All the fellows had different figures, but there is always room for a justifiable error.

Yeah, football is a great game, I thought to myself, drawing rings on the table with the wet glass. Too bad I didn't go with the troops, though- but next time. And then, I lit a cigarette and left the bistro, face turned toward the cold gray dawn.

"I like a professor who lets his hair down once in a while!"

ions of the students concerning problems facing the university.

Another example of the lack of student interest is the referendum placed before the student body at the end of last year. It contained four questions concerning the student tax and four constitutional amendments. It takes a two thirds majority vote of at least fifty percent of the students to pass on questions of this nature. Because of the lack of interest the necessary vote was not realized. Now, with some justification it may be charged that the referendum was held at an inconvenient time and that it was not very well publicized. However, the students who did vote showed that these obstacles could be surmounted. Where was the rest of the student body? When the senators try to work for the benefit of the students they are hampered by this do-nothing attitude of the campus.

The problem of student apathy in their government can be easily solved. The third Monday after we return, elections are held. Every student can show his interest and determination to have a top notch student government by considering carefully the candidates for senator and by getting out to vote for the best man.

We have had do-nothing senators in the past who represent those who think the Senate is a toy for the political science majors to play with. This can be prevented by the students taking an interest in the coming election. It takes only a few minutes of your time and it is well worth it in the long run when you consider what the Senate can do for you. How about it? We have had only a sixty percent vote in the past, let's have ninety this year.

Now that everyone is all ready to run out and vote, let's remember one more thing. After the voting, are you just going to forget the Senate exists? It takes only a few minutes a week to follow the activities of the student government. If you don't understand what is going on, as reported in the COLLEGIAN, ask your senator, it is his job to know. This is important. Without your support and backing the student government will be a sham and a joke. Get squarely behind it all the way. Keep your interest in it up all year. You will benefit by your support, or lose by your lack of support. Remember, it is all up to you.

Little Symphony of New York

The signing up of the Little Symphony of New York is in line with the present collegiate trend of hiring small groups for concerts.

Because of the high cost entailed in getting larger groups, most colleges have been unable to provide their services. It is felt that such small groups as the Little Symphony (40 pieces) satisfy both requirements.

Eugene Conley

Eugene Conley, a native of Lynn, who will sing here April 15, will have the distinction soon of being the first American to open a European opera season.

He is scheduled to sing at La Scala, Milan, Italy.

He has sung at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, and on the Firestone and Bell Telephone Hour radio programs.

Draft Information

Information concerning draft status and military reserve programs is available in the Placement Service on the second floor of South College.

You are invited to bring any questions concerning these matters to Robert J. Morrissey in this office.

Student Leaders Hold Conference

A skit, speeches, meetings, and a buffet lunch highlighted the Sixth Annual Women Student Leaders' Conference at Knowlton House on September 14-15.

Miss Kay Romano, chairman of the Conference introduced the House Council Skit at the meeting Saturday morning.

"What qualities does a House Council need to cope with situations like this?" and "How can a council give leadership to a dorm, yet get the residents to use their initiative and feel the house is really theirs?" were the questions posed at the end of the skit.

Miss Barbara Clifford spoke on "Activities for House Spirit."

After group meetings of freshman counselors, upperclass counselors, and sorority presidents at which "Jo" Cormack, Charleen Palmer, and Muriel Fauteux, respectively, served as chairmen, a buffet lunch was served at Draper Annex. Miss Romano spoke on Senate Affairs and Miss Judy Broder on Women in the News.

Chairman of the Women's Judiciary Board, Miss Polly Harcovitz, addressed the group on "Residence Regulations and Individual Responsibility" at the afternoon meeting.

The Conference Committee was Catherine Romano, chairman; Joan Cormack, Williamina Harvey, Charleen Palmer, Miss Helen Curtis, and Mrs. Stewart Davey.

$9000 Is Given For Poultry Study

A rare respiratory disease among poultry will receive special study during the next three years at the University.

A grant of $9000 has been given the veterinary science department of the University for this study by the Massachusetts Society for promoting Agriculture.

Chronic respiratory disease, a poultry ailment for which no cure is known at present, says Dr. Henry Van Roekel, professor of poultry diseases, was first reported in the United States in 1943.

Only 53 flocks in Massachusetts have been identified as having the disease and the only known control measure is the removal of all birds and the establishment of a new flock.

Some of the definite symptoms of the ailment are tracheal rattles, coughing, sneezing, and retarded growth. The result, of course, is loss of egg production and loss of income to poultry men.

Medical Unit Study Is Backed Down

The future of the proposed medical school for the university still hangs in mid-air as this year's legislative session continues.

This summer the House Ways and Means committee of the state legislature recommended that a special recess commission study the need and feasibility of a college of medicine as a part of the U. of M.

The commission would comprise two senators, five representatives, and three appointees of Governor Dever.

Earlier in the year, when measures were being heard, there was much interest in establishing such a school.

Many thought that it should be set up in Springfield since it would be an ideal center for a new medical college.

Medical groups have continually declared that there is no more room for students in the Boston hospitals with three medical schools in that area.

Although the bill was scheduled to be brought up for debate on the House floor by the end of July, no action has been taken.

VETERANS

Veterans studying under the GI Bill are required to meet in Bowker Auditorium, Stockbridge Hall, at 4:15 p.m. on Tuesday, September 18 to complete V. A. forms for re-entrance. Failure to attend this meeting will cause subsistence allowance checks to be delayed.

Veterans who have had a change of status involving marriage or increased dependents should submit certified copies of marriage and birth certificates to the Veterans' Office on the second floor of South College immediately. Increased subsistence is only paid from the date of receipt of these certificates.

Veterans are invited to bring individual problems concerning veterans' affairs to Robert J. Morrissey, Veterans' Coordinator and Assistant Placement Officer, whose office is on the second floor of South College.

Prof. Julian was a member of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and was secretary of the local chapter for 26 years. He was also a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic fraternities.

Prof. Gordon Dies At 76

Dr. Clarence E. Gordon, 75, former head of the geology and mineralogy departments here at the university died Aug. 28 after a long illness.

A graduate of this school, he received his bachelor's degree in 1901. He was awarded his master's degree in 1905 from Columbia University.

He was appointed assistant professor of zoology here in 1906, and professor in 1910, serving as the head of that department and also of the entomology and geology department from 1910 to 1930.

From 1930-1937, he was head of the geology department and from 1937-1938 head of zoology and geology.

From 1938 to June, 1946, he served as professor of geology and mineralogy, heading these departments.

Prior to this, in 1927, he was appointed head of the division of physical and biological sciences, serving in this capacity until 1945.

Although Dr. Gordon taught the various courses mentioned, he is best known as a geologist, having done intensive field work during the summers. In 1929 he carried out field work in the British Isles.

Early in the recent war, he was appointed by the governor of Massachusetts to head an important committee to investigate the mineral resources of the commonwealth in relation to the war effort.

He is best known for his studies on early palaezoic corals and on the structural geology of eastern New York and western Vermont.

Butterfield To House French House, PDN

Because of the increased enrollment of women students and the failure of completion of a new women's dorm north of Lewis, girls will be living in Butterfield this year.

The first floor of the dorm will be divided, half going to La Maison Francaise and the other half to Phi Delta Nu Sorority. The local sorority is now well-organized enough to have separate living quarters.

The French House, last year accommodated in the Abbey, will innovate a special table in the dining hall, which will be co-educational this year. The residents of La Maison Francaise and anyone else interested in French conversation will be invited to eat at this table. Mlle. Yvette Monet, who was the French resident in 1949-50, will resume duties in that capacity again this year.

New Chaplain For SCA Students At UM

A full time chaplain will be on the campus to serve protestant students this year.

The Rev. Sydney Temple, Ph.D., who began his duties on the first of September, is supported by contributions from six denominational bodies: the Congregational, Episcopal, Baptist, Methodist, Lutheran, and Presbyterian churches.

In addition to his general duties with all Protestant students, the Chaplain will give guidance to the Student Christian Association on the campus. The S.C.A. sponsors informal "Bull Session" discussions each Sunday evening at 8:15 in the dormitories. This year the discussions are being held in all of the dormitories in rotation. The first session was held in the Abbey last Sunday night with a large group in attendance. The next discussion will be held in the lounge of Butterfield Hall next Sunday evening.

The Rev. Arnold Kenseth, chaplain of the S.C.A. for the past several years, has given up his University duties this year to devote all his time to his duties as pastor of the South Amherst Congregational Church.

Missing Thespian Is Great Loss

It's not often that the descendant of a famous stage personality is lost, strayed, or stolen on our campus. Today it happened! Trixie is missing!

Who is Trixie? Well, had you seen the Roister Doister production of "I Remember Mama" a few seasons ago, you would have witnessed the star performance of her thespian aunt.

Trixie's description: orange, black, and white; age six months; fuzzy tail. She's sort of fuzzy all over—being part Angora.

Anyone seeing the cat, should contact Dave Duncan, janitor at Lewis and Thatcher Halls.

Vets' Checks Due In Dec.

The 390 veterans on our campus will again have to wait until late in Dec. for their government checks.

The United States Congress recently cut the appropriations of the Veterans' Administration, who, in sequence, are being forced to cut their personnel.

This reduction, due Oct. 10, is in excess to the expected enrollment in U. S. colleges and universities this fall. As a result, the checks due between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1 will be delayed to the latter part of December.

At this time, no alternative has been suggested to deliver the checks on schedule.

HANDBOOK NOTICE

The Handbook Staff will meet Tuesday, October 2, at 7 p.m. in Old Chapel, Room C. Staff members and anyone interested in joining the staff are urged to attend.

Van Meter States Integrity Priceless

"Your personal integrity is your most priceless possession", advised President Ralph Van Meter in his welcoming address to more than 2,000 students last Thursday morning at the Curry Hicks Physical Education Building.

He went on to say, "No one but you can make you honest. You can cheat in an examination in spite of all anyone else can do to prevent it. But you are forming habits which will rule you inexorably. It is far more important to you and to all of us that you be honest and dependable, than that you pass any examination or any course or get any degree from any university."

President Van Meter, in emphasizing the fact that all real education is self education, urged the students to give serious thought to their educational development, and to seize upon all opportunities offered them.

He said that education "can proceed surely and swiftly only when the student has an active desire to learn and to take that responsibility for his or her own education which leads to a considered, energetic, and aggressive aproach to learning. The materials for education are by no means confined to the classroom; they are everywhere."

The president told the students that their generation would soon begin to take over the responsibilities of international leadership. He warned them not to allow the wrangling of Congress to undermine their faith in our form of government, and that this country is not run by inspired genius but by the agreement of many people.

"The United States of America is one nation that has boldly advanced the ideal that every man should have a fair chance, based on his ability to carry his part of the common burden of civilization," he continued. "Unjust and unfair discrimination, based on things that are not pertinent, must be purged from American life. But remember, too, that discrimination based on character and ability is the very foundation of effective social, political, and economic organization."

In a report of the progress being made by the university, President Van Meter announced that a number of life-saving improvements had been effected on campus. Plans for a new dining hall were almost completed, and a new dormitory will be ready for occupancy at the beginning of the second semester. Plans are also being drawn up for a new public health building which is expected to be built next year.

Plans Stated For Draft Deferment

Assistant Secretary of Defense Mrs. Anna Rosenberg clarified the student deferment situation on September 12, 1951, when she explained that "Under present manpower requirements . . . it will be necessary to cease the granting of college student deferments."

The lady in charge of manpower and personnel continued her statement emphasizing that the Defense Department has not and will not recommend that such deferments be discontinued unless there is "a substantial change in the size of the Armed Forces. THERE IS NO CHANGE IN PLANS FOR THE COMING ACADEMIC YEAR."

Mrs. Rosenberg also pointed out, as she and her superiors have consistently repeated, that when the present draft requirements cease to be adequately met, a tightening of college deferments would be in order.

"This would mean that fewer students would be permitted to defer their military service until after the completion of their higher education, but it would not mean, by any means, that no students would be deferred for that purpose."

Senate Meets; Plans Election

With 15 returning senators, the 1950-1951 Senate held its final meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 25, to lay plans for the election of the fall Senate which will take office on Tuesday, Oct. 9.

Dormitory elections will be held on Thursday, Oct. 4, at house meetings. Fraternities and sororities will hold primaries on Wednesday, Oct. 3, and final election on Monday, Oct. 8. Election in the dormitories will be run at the discretion of the head proctors. Each fraternity will be allowed to nominate two in the primaries and to elect a total of four in the final election. Sororities will nominate one each and elect a total of two. Commuters and married students will hold elections on Thursday.

Students connected with Greek letter organizations but living in private houses will vote with their fraternity or sorority.

Auditions Start October 3 For Student Prince

Professor Doric Alviani announced today that auditions for the Operetta Guild production of The Student Prince will start next Wednesday, Oct. 3, with tryouts for the singing chorus and the dancing chorus. Anyone who enjoys folk or square dancing is urged to come; no other experience is necessary.

Over 50 people are needed for the cast alone; many more for the production staff. Auditions for speaking parts will be on Wednesday, Oct. 10,

Foreign Students Feted By Faculty

Foreign students at the U.M. met with the faculty and deans of schools in Skinner Hall auditorium last night at a reception held in their honor.

The program consisted of a brief welcoming address by President Ralph A. Van Meter and short talks by Robert S. Hopkins, dean of men, and by Dr. Gilbert Woodside, director of the graduate school.

Faculty guests included members of the Romance language and food technology departments. Undergraduate organizations including Adelphia, Isogon, Maroon Key, Scrolls, the Senate and the Interfraternity and Panhellenic councils were also represented.

The program was an all-University welcome for the record number of 45 foreign students from 20 separate countries who are enrolled at the state university this year.

Senate Elections

The Student Senate, one of the most important organizations on campus, will hold elections next week. At present the Senate is a temporary body composed of last year's Senators, who will carry on the elections so that the Senate will be able to function as a legal body within the next two weeks.

It is urgent that all students take an active part in supporting the Senate by electing the most efficient people to represent them in this body. We have found in the past that an efficient working group in the Senate can accomplish many useful tasks, which an unorganized group of students could not do on its own.

It is the function of the Senate to bring all student problems to the administration and the faculty. If we elect good workers to these offices, we shall have many of our problems solved and our gripes ameliorated.

Every student will have an opportunity to vote for the Senators from his residential district. Those of us who have seen the Senate in operation in the past should feel obliged to re-elect those Senators who have shown their abilities as workers as well as to see that those who have been Senators because of their popularity alone, who have not contributed any effort to the job at hand, are not re-elected to this responsible organization.

Students who are new on campus, especially freshmen, should be sure that they are electing leaders and workers to the Senate; the Senate is neither a beauty contest nor a popularity poll, it is a vital working organization, and we must all do our best to keep it such.

Keeping the aforementioned facts in mind, we must all take a few minutes to think about these coming elections. Who were the workers last year? These people should be re-elected. Who were the Senators in name only? Let us not make the mistake of returning them to clutter up the Senate again this year. Who were the workers in high school? They should be the Senators from the freshman dormitories this year.

Japan Correspondence Club

We have recently received a letter from Japanese students who wish to correspond with college students in the United States.

". . . We boys and girls 14 age - 23 age numbering about 2,000, consider it the best and the shortest way for learning democracy that we correspond with the college students, and have formed a group for this purpose . . .", the letter states. Having been urged to mention this worthy attempt in the Collegian, we shall include the address of the organization at the end of this editorial.

We feel it an honor that the young people of Japan are interested enough in adhering to our form of government and in learning more about it. This is an excellent opportunity for us to become better acquainted with the folkways and mores of Japan and to aid the future citizens of that nation in a fuller understanding of our principles and customs.

The Japanese students are interested in all phases of our culture. Government, education, social activities, hobbies, sports, traditions, and customs are a few of the many subjects which we may write about and which they will be interested in.

We are certain that those of us who write will gain as much from such correspondence as those who receive our letters will. Here is an opportunity for all of us to do a great service to the Japanese students, to our own government, and to ourselves.

Redmen Open Season; Travel To Bates

Head Coach Tommy Eck announced earlier this week that the University of Massachusetts' Redmen would be put through a tough week of defensive work in preparation for the season's opener with Bates tomorrow. Coach Eck was not satisfied with the defensive work of the team in their scrimmage against Amherst College last Friday despite the team's 33-30 win. The coaching staff, however, was pleased with the spark shown by the offensive platoons.

The Redmen face much the same problem this year as they faced at the beginning of last season—the job of building the team around a few veterans with the sophomores providing most of the material for the defensive squad.

In an effort to pick a satisfactory defensive squad, Coach Eck tried out Noel Reebenacker at safety, Ted Piers, a freshman, a right half, Bill Rex at left half, with very good results, but the full-backer up position is still hanging between four men. Two men have shown exceptional speed but have no experience; they are freshman Bob Vafides and sophomore Phil Costello. The two men having experience but not speed are senior Bob Driscoll and sophomore Jack Wofford.

On Monday of this week, the Redmen team was cut to forty-four men with five seniors, fourteen juniors, seventeen sophomores, and eight freshmen retained. Of these, only eleven are lettermen, three of them being seniors.

This apparent lack of reserves at all positions make it doubtful whether a complete two platoon system will be used. Important among the returning lettermen is George Howland who has been out of action since the first day of spring training due to a broken hand. The cast has just recently been removed and George is expected back in the lineup for the opening game. Also outstanding cogs in Coach Eck's plans are Don Junkins at end ard defensive halfback and Noel Reebenacker at quarterback. Reebenacker should divide the duties at quarterback with Capt. Jack Benoit, following the pattern set last year.

Three sophomore halfbacks, Paul D'Vincenzo, Charley Redman, and Bill Rex add to the depth at halfback with all three slated for a lot of action, since their speed and good ballhandling can be well utilized under the split T offense. Senior Bob Driscoll and junior Bill Hicks should share honors at center.

Dick Conway or Phil Costello appear likely to start at the fullback slot but both will have a difficult time trying to duplicate the performance of last year's sixty minute fullback Dick Gleason.

Some promising sophomores are contending for many positions along with some especially good-looking freshmen, Larry Berlin, Paul DeCelle, and Harold Wilson at tackle, Ed Brophy and Frank Grandone at guard, Bob Equi and Milt Taft at fullback, and Bob Wofford at center are all men who will play a big part in Redmen expectations this fall.

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

With the advent of the fall sports season, a quick glance seems to forecast winning seasons for all the varsity teams.

The varsity soccer squad, opening its season this Saturday against Dartmouth, seems to be much stronger than last year due to the addition of several stars of last year's frosh team. Despite the team's 3-1 loss to Amherst in a pre-season scrimmage last Tuesday, Coach Briggs feels that the squad should be able to better last season's record.

The varsity cross country squad should with a little luck race through an undefeated season. The best news to hit Coach Derby this fall was that George Goding, star of last year's cross country squad, has been released from service and is now back in school. Goding scored an impressive win against Williams last fall as he set a record for the new course.

Goding's return, coupled with the arrival of several members of last year's undefeated frosh squad led by record breaker Harry Aldrich, should enable the Mercurymen to hit the peak first achieved three years ago when the Big Four were running for the Redmen. This freshman squad incidentally was the team that whipped the Amherst College varsity last fall.

Tomorrow, the Redmen travel to Bates to try to continue their three-straight winning streak against the Bobcats. Last year's 26-0 win gave the Redmen the edge in the series with nine wins, eight losses, and one tie. One of the highlights of last year's game was a brilliant 60 yard run by Noel Reebenacker to set up a score by Marty Anderson.

With the final roster released by Coach Eck, the squad shows six freshmen on the varsity squad. One of these, Ed Katz, is on the sidelines temporarily due to a pre-season injury. The rest of the contingent should see plenty of action this year, especially Ted Piers, a sharp halfback from Natick. The quarterbacking slot will probably be split between Reebenacker and Benoit, similiar to last year.

Sports Personalities

"The Captain"

The Redmen's captain this year is Jack Benoit, who will probably be the starting quarterback in the opening game tomorrow afternoon. This position is the same that the twenty-one year old athlete held down for most of last season. Jack, a product of Cathedral High of Springfield, won four letters there under the tutelage of Billy Wise, head coach. There he set some sort of a record by making the all-Springfield team as quarterback for two straight years.

In addition to his work on the gridiron, Jack also won three letters in baseball while patrolling the outfield. During his season on the squad, the team won the State Championship in 1948.

In his freshman year at the University, Jack captained an undefeated eleven, the only one in the past three years.

Weighing in at 165 pounds, Jack is one of the more rugged boys on the team even though he suffers from poor eyesight and is obliged to wear contact lenses while playing ball.

Besides being a leader on the football field, Jack is very active extra-curricularly. In addition to his duties as treasurer of his class, Jack is also the past secretary and new president of the undergraduate Varsity 'M' club. A finance major, Jack hopes to go into insurance administration after graduation.

Starting Line-Up For Bates Game

A quick review of this prospective lineup shows that there will be one freshman probably on the starting offensive eleven, Ted Piers. Piers, who showed a lot of stuff in pre-season practice is slated for a great deal of heavy duty work this season. Another freshman that would have been very active, Ed Katz, has been temporarily sidelined.

Tennis Notice

Following the pattern set last year, varsity tennis coach Steve Kosakowski announced today that a fall tournament will be held on a college-wide basis. The tournament will be open to all classes in the University except graduate students.

All interested in signing up should come to Room 7 of the Phys Ed Building next Wednesday between 4:30 and 5:15 P.M.

ATT: SPORTS WRITERS

There will be a meeting of all members of the sports staff and competitors interested in joining the staff at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, October 4. There are positions open to cover freshman sports for both experienced and non-experienced freshmen.

GOLF NOTICE

The University varsity golf squad will begin fall practice on Tuesday, October 2 at the Amherst Golf Course. All candidates who are interested will please register with Mr. Touhig at the golf club on the above

Frosh Give Varsity Eight; Play Wildcats and H. C.

Again, this fall, the Frosh have an ambitious schedule with two power-rated teams, the University of New Hampshire and Holy Cross, added to the slate which also includes the University of Connecticut, Springfield and Trinity College elevens. This will be the first time since pre-war days that the Wildcats and Crusader yearlings have been opponents of the Little Indians.

Last season the Massachusetts freshmen successfully handled the three teams which were repeaters on this year's schedule, dropping but one of their six games to the undefeated Boston College freshmen, 13-6.

Although the schedule has been reduced to five games this fall, all five will provide tough opposition for the frosh, since there are no breathers on the schedule and they open against the tough University of New Hampshire squad.

The eligibility of freshman to play varsity ball will supply some key men for Tommy Eck's varsity squad, but the large number of candidates will assure a strong team.

Once again, the Little Indians will be coached by Lorin E. "Red" Ball, who has the big job of introducing the yearlings to the fundamentals of the split "T". Red has coached the freshmen through two undefeated seasons since the war missing perfect seasons twice, and having but three losses chalked up against his team since 1946.

A rally and party for inter-class hockey and tennis tournaments was held at Drill Hall on Wednesday, Sept. 26 at 5 p.m. These will be the first two sports of the first fall semester.

Freshmen Al Gilmore and Bill Connolly at tackle, Ted Piers at halfback, and Bob Vafides and Fred Neizgoda at guard will add depth to those positions, while it is possible that some more of the first year men will also make contributions to the varsity squad.

The team this year is much more familiar with the split T offense than last season when it was first introduced, and the team has plenty of fast men who should produce under this formation.

Essay Contest To Be Sponsored By Quarterly

A $10 prize will be awarded the winner of the essay contest entitled "The Influence of Communism in the Twentieth Century," to be sponsored by The Quarterly, the campus literary magazine.

Through The Quarterly, students may express ideas about what they hold to be true—in prose, poetry, and art. And as the magazine, no longer of a small country college but of an expanding university, The Quarterly should reflect the many and varied interests of the members of the University community. It is not intended to be the expression of a few writing for a few, nor a magazine whose subject matter is limited to fiction and poetry. Instead, The Quarterly, a journal of opinion, welcomes contributions from every department and articles on social, economic, and artistic subjects.

Contest manuscripts must be 750-1000 words, typed on one side of 8 by 10 paper, double spaced, and submitted to The Quarterly office in Mem Hall by October 20, 1951.

Freshman Dance To Be In Drill Hall

Adelphia and Isogon will sponsor the annual freshman get-acquainted dance tonight in Drill Hall from 8-11.

Music for dancing will be furnished by Nunzi Maio, '52, and his band, an aggregation of campus musicians who are donating their services for the evening. Mr. Maio has played several times for campus events.

Decorations on a football motif will be made by the Sig Ep Art Staff. Cokes will be sold by members of Adelphia and Isogon. There is no admission charge.

Faculty guests will be Mr. and Mrs. James Ferrigno and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carey.

Larry Litwack and Jean Hazelton are co-chairmen for the dance.

SCA Cabin Party Set For Saturday At Camp Anderson

The annual S.C.A. Cabin Party will be held this Saturday at Camp Anderson, near Lake Wyola, in Shutesbury, to give freshmen an opportunity to get acquainted with the program of the S.C.A. and to meet the leaders of the Student Christian Activities on campus.

The group will meet in front of Skinner Hall at 2 p.m.; transportation is provided. The program includes afternoon games, supper, discussion of S.C.A. activities, square dancing, and a closing worship service.

Shirley Nichols is chairman of the arrangements committee, which also includes Dot Skilling, Gini Harper, Roland Lindahl, and Herb Brandt. Bob Eckberg, president of S.C.A., is general chairman.

Isogon To Lead Discussions For Freshman Girls

Isogon, Senior Women's Honorary Society, will conduct a series of orientation meetings in the freshman women's dormitories every Wednesday night from Oct. 3-24.

The subjects will be "Dating and Mating", "A Short-Cut to the Dean's List", "What's To Do on Campus", and "Sorority, Pro and Con". Panel discussions will be led by Isogon members and other prominent students will be on the panels as guests.

In the past these discussions have been helpful in answering many questions puzzling freshmen about all phases of campus life.

Marching Band Policy Changed

Every band member appearing on the athletic field this fall will have to pass an audition in compliance with rigid musical standards now upheld by the NEW University Marching Band.

In the program of innovations this year, Conductor Joe Contino announces Art Grove as band manager, and Bill McBane as Mettawampe. At least twice as many drum majorettes as previously used will assist Mettawampe.

Publicity director Bruce Fox, expressed the idea of the executive board members by explaining that, "The University bands are building something new and different—numerically, mechanically, and musically."

Thirty Persons Join Collegian As Competitors

Thirty aspirants for reportorial posts on the Collegian reported for a competitions meeting Tuesday night, Dick Hafey, executive editor reported today.

Hafey said that "although this response is gratifying, there was a minimum of freshmen out".

"Because freshmen women are restricted in their time, competitions for them will be held at a special hour", he added.

Meetings for freshmen girls will be held each Tuesday afternoon at 5 in the Collegian office. Other competitors should report at 7 on Tuesdays.

"Preliminary examination of the experience of competitors is promising", Hafey noted. "All of them seem to have had a considerable amount of experience. They should help to build up the staff."

IZFA Reorganized

The International Zionist Federation of America will once again be represented on the U of M campus.

After a lapse of a year and two organizational meetings, a new local chapter of IZFA has a group of twelve active members who will conduct all affairs - business and social - through the local Hillel facilities.

Under the guidance of Arnold Schutzberg and Dave Naden, the newly reorganized chapter has already started the year's activities with a lecture by Mr. Schutzberg on the "City Life of Modern Israel." With a year and a half recently spent in Israel, both gentlemen are competent to speak on the local situations - political, economic, and social - that exist in the new country. Mr. Schutzberg was a member of the ninth Battallion of the Palmach (commando army) and fought in the Israel War for Independence.

Freshman Serenade Heard In Pelham

Monday morning's freshman serenade was not restricted to the university campus according to reports of several papers in this area.

These reports said that the "hooting, hollering, shouting and singing... could be heard in Pelham, five miles away from the campus."

Amherst residents were said to have believed that the Korean war had ended, so joyful was the commotion.

However, one unusual aspect was noted.

The Springfield Daily News, in an editorial commented on the fact that the disturbance was taken graciously by Amherst residents.

"The Amherst residents who were called by newspaper reporters interspersed their reports with goodnatured laughter," the Daily News said.

La Maison Francaise is located this year at Butterfield Hall, where it occupies one wing of the first floor.

The new quarters include a separate sitting room where French books and records are kept for the use of all French House girls and where French is always spoken. Another feature of the house is a reserved table in Butterfield cafeteria where the members speak French at meals among themselves and with student and faculty guests.

Mlle. Yvette Monnet of Nice, France, has returned to the University and La Maison Francaise after a year's absence. She is proctor there.

Miss Monnet and Barbara Flaherty were elected co-chairmen at the first meeting. Other officers are Elinore Mason, librarian; Josey Dugas, secretary-treasurer; Alida Mixson, publicity; and Anne Marie Lynch, historian.

U. M. Graduates 1130 Vets Since '49

A total of 1130 veterans have received undergraduate degrees at the University of Massachusetts since students were admitted under provisions of the G. I. Bill, it was disclosed today by Robert J. Morrissey, assistant placement officer and coordinator of veteran's affairs.

The total includes all students who transferred from the state university's temporary campus at Ft. Devens between the fall of 1948 and its closing in 1949.

Only 390 veterans are enrolled in all branches of the state university for the current academic year, Morrissey reported.

The first influx from Devens found 1700 vets on the Amherst campus in the fall of 1948. The peak was reached in the fall of 1949 with 1959 vets.

Veteran's educational benefits were delimited on July 25, 1951. The majority of World War II vets have not been eligible to originate schooling since that date.

Frosh Serenade ...

In addition, "Some would explain that Amherst residents, having lived between two campuses all their lives, are immune to such events. The cynical would say that it wouldn't do any good to complain, so the Amherst folks are resigned to their fate."

Concluding on a serious note, "It is possible that some of the Amherst residents who thought the celebration meant that the war had ended stopped to think that the shouting serenaders of a few years ago are today fighting to make that celebration possible."

Index Asks More To Join Staff

The 1952 Index staff is now in the process of organization, The Index is in need of competent personnel in all departments—writing, layout and statistical work, preparation of final copy, business staff.

If YOU have had any experience in any of these phases of yearbook work—and if you have a notorious dependability in meeting deadlines, you should attend a meeting to be held in the Index office in Mem Hall, Wednesday, October 3, at 7:30 p.m. That's tomorrow night. (If you can't make it, drop in at the Index office at your earliest convenience; leave your name and campus address and indicate the type of work you are interested in doing. The Index will contact you.)

High Schoolers Here For U.M. Guest Day

Juniors and seniors of Massachusetts high schools will get a chance to look over the University and what it has to offer them, on October 6, which has been designated High School Guest Day.

Response from the schools has been promising and a good attendance is expected.

President Van Meter states in the pamphlet that has been sent out: "This is an invitation to all of you now enrolled in the High Schools of the Commonwealth to come to the campus as guests of the University of Massachusetts. I should like to extend a particularly urgent invitation to good students who have not thought seriously of going to college.

"We should like to give you some idea of the strength and soundness of the State University and what it has to offer to the serious student. We should like to give you a glimpse at student life and activities. We should like to fix even more firmly in your minds the determination to get a college education—somewhere, somehow.

"Your problem in selecting a college or university is to find the one that offers most in the direction of your own interests and needs and desires. If you are a serious student in good health, there is probably somewhere a college or university that offers what you need at a price you can afford. Whatever your situation, we shall be glad to help you if we can."

9:00 a.m.-12 noon—Registration and inspection of campus.

10:00 a.m.—Escorted by members of the University faculty, guests will leave Mem Hall to visit Labs and classrooms of the several colleges and divisions.

11:45 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Visitors may have luncheon, at moderate costs, in any of the several University cafeterias.

2 p.m.—Visitors will be guests at the Varsity Football game, U of M vs. W.P.I.

UM Ranks 6th In Science

The survey, recently published in "Science" magazine, covered percentages of undergraduates who had gone on to the doctoral level in the years 1924, 1934, and counted those appearing in the seventh edition of "American Men of Science" in 1944.

Students Give Talents For Frosh Dance

The members of Adelphia and Isogon, the Sig Ep art staff, and a university dance band volunteered their services at the traditional freshman welcoming dance held last Friday at Drill Hall.

Murals, painted by the Sig Ep art staff, depicted a theme of Metamorphosis and university life. Maroon and white streamers were also used to decorate the hall.

The music was donated by Nunzi Maio and his orchestra. Mr. Maio has played many times on campus.

Co-chairmen of the dance committee were Jean Hazelton and Larry Litwack. Mr. and Mrs. James Ferrigno and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carey were chaperones.

Surgeon Joins UM Infirmary

A 34 year-old physician-surgeon, Dr. Arnold, has recently joined the infirmary staff of the University.

The new doctor's wide medical background was begun at Boston University where he earned his B.S. and M.D. The United States Navy then became the office address of Dr. Arnold as he served as an officer in the Navy Medical Corps for four years.

It was during his service at St. Albans, N.Y., Hospital, that he met Navy Nurse Florence Marie who later became his wife. The Dr. and Mrs. now have three children—Pamela, Bruce, and Mark.

From the Navy, Dr. Arnold went to the Massachusetts Memorial Hospital where he served as a Resident in Surgery for three years. This was followed by a position as Resident Surgeon at Quincy City Hospital, where the doctor remained for more than a year. This was the last post he held before coming to the U of M.

When asked about his reaction to his present position, Dr. Arnold replied that it was "nice," and described it as something different from his previous line of endeavor. He added that it was interesting from the point of view of the distinct age group with which he works.

Future plans for Dr. Arnold are tied up in the University and a new office soon to be opened in Northampton for the practice of general surgery.

Pajama - Clad ZZZ Man Falls From Roof In Attempt To Dampen "Frosh Serenade"

by Phil Johnson

The largest freshman class in the university's history has enthusiasm and spirit proportionate to its numbers. Each fall, it's open season for freshmen on Metawampee's hunting grounds, with the Maroon Key and Scrolls leading the chase.

From Monday until Saturday last week, frosh gals sported berets and bibs, and the male half resided under beanies and behind name cards. Gum and cigarettes were a plentiful commodity among the men, who had to keep the Maroon Key well supplied. The Scrolls, initiating a less strenuous plan, made certain that our U. of M. songs echoed through the freshman girls' dorms.

And the hazing was not without humor. At 5 a.m. on the first Monday, the Maroon Key members found the frosh waiting for them and ready to go. Enthusiasm was high.

The group, touring fraternity houses, witnessed a rather unusual spectacle at Tri-Zeta. As the clamor and din moved over the lawn, an upperclassman crawled out on Tri-Zeta's roof with a bucket of water. But his foot slipped and down came boy, bucket, and water into the bushes. The revelers considered this punishment enough, and helped the stunned, pajama clad individual into the house.

The shouting and singing led many townspeople to believe either the Korean War was over or someone was having a revival meeting. The beanied frosh, now wide awake, next proceeded to the girls' dorms, where a girl from Thatcher showered the aggregation with periodic spurts of water and perfume from a wastebasket, leaving one Maroon Key member much the sweeter. At the Abbey, one of the more exuberant freshman tried to climb in a lower window with a bugle, but the occupant, not liking his brass, never let him get beyond the sill. Hence the annual array of unusual happenings continued in the true U. of M. fashion.

Freshmen will wear their beanies until the rope pull across the college pond on Homecoming Day. If they win over the sophomores, the frosh can remove their hats and enjoy the sight of a pond full of soaking soph-

Senate Elections

This seems to be the best place to again remind the student body that it is time to elect its representatives for the coming year.

The temporary Student Senate will conduct elections of 39 new Senators, who will hold office for the next year. We do not feel redundant in reminding you that these people must be the most reliable students available in order to keep the Senate on the high level which it merits and for which it was organized.

Sorority and fraternity primary elections will be held on Wednesday night. With these groups lies the power to reinstate the Senators who worked effectively last year, as all residents of the Greek houses have been on campus for at least one year. It is their responsibility, we repeat, to eliminate all "dead wood" which hindered Senate action last year.

The Senate elections are probably the most important elections on campus. With every student voting for the most efficient men and women in his or her residential district, we can have a successful and productive year through the efforts of this group.

Class Meetings

The first meeting of the Senior Class was called last Thursday morning. The assembly, at which the enrollment of the class was stated to be 533 students, was attended by approximately 225 seniors. In order to abstain from daunting the spirit of this 42 per cent of the class, we shall say, as Dean Hopkins did, that it shows more spirit than has been shown by previous senior classes, but that is not enough.

The senior class, we feel safe in stating, has more business to conduct than any other class in the University. Commencement has many aspects, for which preparations must begin well in advance of June. It is, therefore, the duty of every senior to attend class meetings so that he may know what is going to happen, and so that he may lend a hand in achieving the many goals set up by the school and by the class executives.

In order to legally vote on any motion, a majority (over 50 per cent) of the voting members of the body must be present. If a matter which required a vote had come up on Thursday morning, it is obvious from the percentage quoted above, that no business could have been accomplished. Because of a regularity of poor attendance at class meetings in the past a negligible minority of the classes have had to vote upon issues before their classes, with a result that vast majority of the classes, who could neither find time nor interest to attend such assemblies, have been displeased with decisions and have not hesitated to voice this displeasure.

The Class of 1952, since its freshman year, has been a strong, spirited, and united class. There is no reason for any member of this class to have any complaint concerning the decisions made by his classmates. The certain way to avoid dissatisfaction is by being one of those who help make the decisions.

Don't be a chronic complainant; attend class meetings and voice your opinions on all matters.

REPORTERS WANTED

The first meeting of competitors for the staff of the Collegian will be held in the Collegian office, Memorial Hall, tonight at 5 p.m. for Freshman Girls, and for other Competitors at 7 p.m.

EXPERIENCE IS NOT NEEDED

All students interested in learning the fundamentals of journalism and who wish to take part in publication of one of the most important units on campus are urged to attend. Freshmen are especially invited.

Collegian Profile:
Rev. Sidney Temple

For the first time in many years, the University of Massachusetts has a full-time chaplain on the campus to serve the needs of the Protestant students. The Rev. Sydney Temple, Ph.D., is supported by six denominational bodies: the Congregational, Baptist, Methodist, Episcopal, Lutheran, and Presbyterian Churches.

Rev. Temple was born and raised in Dallas, Texas, where he was graduated from Terrill Preparatory School in 1928. He then attended the University of California at Los Angeles where he met Miss Marguerite Miller, a native of Los Angeles. They were married in Riverside, Calif. directly after graduation, and have two children now both in college.

Mr. Temple was later graduated from Seabury Seminary School which is connected with Northwestern University, and received his doctorate at Columbia University, where he served as an instructor.

Rev. Temple has since served as pastor in Episcopal churches throughout the country.

The most exciting adventure in Dr. Temple's life was his archeological expedition from England to Israel during the winter of 1949-50. The expedition was the first party of individuals to cross No Man's Land and to pass from Arab Jordan into the new nation of Israel.

Dr. Temple declared it a wonder to behold the change from Arab country thousands of years old, illiterate and backward, into Israel, "dug from the desert and blooming like a rose."

Rev. Temple described this new nation as a combination of Florida and California. The expedition unearthed in the latter country the New Testament Jericho built by King Herod.

Rev. Temple defined his purposes here at the University. His main aim is to direct the students to the church of their own denomination and to help them remain faithful. Secondly, he is always ready to offer personal counselling to students needing help in the onslaught of college ideas and personal problems. The Student Christian Association chaplain also works with the various organizations on campus such as Edwards Fellowship, Embassy, and Wesleyan Foundation.

In summary, Rev. Temple aims to make Christianity real on this campus, and to make a lasting Christian impression on all.

Squadron Open To Air Sophs

All Air Science II men are invited to attend a general meeting of the Air Cadet Squadron on Thursday, October 4. Movies, with the distinct purpose of informing (as opposed to entertaining), will be shown.

One function of the organization is to provide knowledge of the United States Air Force—its makeup and activity—to those men who will be numbered among its officer personnel within a relatively short space of time.

Advisor Major Grapentine explained at a recent meeting, that the Air Force is training men with the full intention of their utilization. He further pointed out that all information gained at this time, (through such an organization as the Air Cadet Squadron), could be put to good advantage at such time as service may be in order.

All Air sophomores are invited to attend the next meeting of the Squadron, but only with the intention of going to learn. Watch the bulletin boards for the exact time and location of the next meeting of the Air Cadet Squadron of the University of Massachusetts.

Piers Makes 100-Yard Run As Redmen Beat Bates, 21-7

Freshman Ted Piers led the Massachusetts varsity to a 21-7 victory over Bates last Saturday, scoring two touchdowns, one a 100-yard kick-off run. Quarterback Noel Reebenacker added the other tally, with Don Smith making all three extra point kicks good.

The first half was tight, the Bates squad threatening several times deep in the Redmen's territory, but failing to score. Benoit and Piers spearheaded the UMass attack in the first two periods, being the only ground-gainers.

Score In Third Period

In the third period, Massachusetts broke the ice. Following a Bates fumble on their own 43-yard line, the Redmen pushed the ball to the Bates 17, when Piers took a lateral from Reebenacker and crossed into the end zone.

Following Smith's conversion, Bates came back through the air, several pass plays bringing the ball to the Massachusetts five where, following two halted line plunges, the Bobcats again took to the air for their first and only touchdown. The home team made its conversion, knotting the score at 7-all.

100-Yard Run

Piers took the next kickoff on his own goal line, slipped momentarily, recovered and then raced through the whole Bates team for a 100-yard scoring run. Smith again making the extra point.

The final Massachusetts score was made by Reebenacker from the Bates 30 following an 80-yard surge by the Redmen.

The Massmen racked up 11 first downs to seven for Bates and gained 96 yards on the ground to 25 for the Bobcats. Bates gained 40 yards through the air on five completed passes while the Redmen were unable to connect on any of their five attempts. The lineups:

Despite the fact that this year's athletic contests have just gotten underway, the athletic department is wasting no time in planning the schedule for next year's varsity football team.

A tentative program shows the Redmen dropping Worcester Tech and Williams from their schedule. The two replacements will probably be New Hampshire and Brandeis. Another change is planned for the '53 season when the Redmen will probably see Connecticut on their schedule.

A shrewd observer will soon notice the trend in these changes. The addition of Brandeis to our schedule shows the move on the part of Director of Athletics McGuirk to schedule as many Boston colleges as possible. The main reason behind this lies in the fact that such games greatly this fall. All of these men are now in the service.

The opening of school yesterday was expected to bring out at least twelve more men to bolster the squad. The team will be lighter and less experienced than the past few years, but Coach Kosakowski still expects the squad to hold its own against its competition this fall.

A bright spot on the team is Co-Captain Fred Kelly, a 190 pound fullback from Stratford, Conn., who looks forward to a banner year. Red Priest, another senior from last year's club, looks very good in workouts to date. Joe Fretas at the scatback post and Frank Martines, both freshmen, are making strong bids for starting backfield positions, along with Dick Cluff, a 180 pound back. Henry Heald has also looked very good in the backfield. Mel Stephens, a stellar back, will be lost to the squad for at least a week due to a bad ankle.

In the line, Lew Mason and Al Rettle are battling it out for the center post, while Warren Buckman, Charles Nuthold, Art Mudgest, and Al Ughley are fighting for the two guard slots. The tackles are headed by three good sized boys in 6'2½" 250 pound Andruk, Bob Gosselin, Wilfred Lamb, and Bruce Benson. End candidates are Bob Frederico, Arnon Gerard, Francis Flaherty, and Fleetfoot Jim Osborne.

The Aggies are scheduled to play a five game schedule with four of them at home and one away. The team will open their season on October 6.

enhance the University's reputation around Boston. In addition, the ensuing publicity will be much greater than any publicity which might result from such opponents as WPI and Williams.

The addition of New Hampshire and Connecticut to our schedule marks the end result of the efforts of McGuirk to place the University completely within the Yankee Conference. The rules of the Conference state that a team must play at least four member schools in football before it can become eligible for the Conference championship. At the present time, the University only plays two of these schools, namely Rhode Island and Vermont. The addition of these two schools to our schedule shows the beginning of a great upswing on the part of athletics here at the University.

Once the Redmen are completely within the Conference, we have something to gain by an undefeated season, that long sought after goal. Now, even if we were to go through the season undefeated, that would mean little in the matter of possible post-season contests. Whether the Redmen will make a success of themselves in the Conference, time alone will tell.

Many students have complained about the lack of publicity that the University gains in Boston sports pages. They completely forget the fact that a school must have winning teams before it can expect much in the way of publicity. We cannot expect the Boston papers to give much space to a school that usually ends up around the .500 mark. Especially when there are so many Greater Boston schools competing for space. When the University starts producing winning teams, then the students have a legitimate right to seek publicity. Until that time, we must be prepared to stay in the mists of obscurity. After all, no publicity is better than bad publicity anyway. One gets pretty sick of seeing headlines stating 'Massachusetts whipped by Springfield'. Better such stories should die en route to the printer.

Bonfire To Climax Game Rally At South Parking Lot Tonight

For the second time in the history of the U. of M., a Friday night football rally will be held out of doors in the parking lot near Mem Hall. To accommodate the greater number of participants expected this year, the highlight of the rally has been switched from Bowker to the parking area.

This pre-game rally, sponsored by Adelphia and Isogon in anticipation of victory over Worcester Polytechnic Institute tomorrow, will get off to a rousing start at 7 p.m. with a parade beginning at Chadbourne and Greenough. Led by the band and the drill team and sparked by two tanks, the parade will proceed down the road to the front of Brooks and Mills, past the old Physics building where the freshman girls will join the rally, on toward Goessman, past Old Chapel and into the parking lot. The program will be emcee'd by Edwin Jazzinski, '52, and the speakers will be Mr. Warren McGuirk, director of athletics, and Football Coach Tommy Eck who will introduce the players.

The climax of the rally will come with the lighting of the bonfire when the University will pledge its support to the Redmen.

Following the rally, Isogon will sponsor a dance in Drill Hall from 8-11. There will be no admission charge, but contributions will be solicited for Isogon's scholarship fund. Charleen Palmer, chairman of the dance, announced that the music would be supplied by Dave Baker, '53; cookies and soda will be sold throughout the evening. Mr. and Mrs. James Schoonmaker and their guests will be chaperones.

Goodell Safari Nets Odd Prize

A candlelight procession of three students stumbled out of Goodell Library Sunday night to find the cause of mysterious scratchings at the basement window.

The curious noise seemed to be coming from the cement encasement of the window. Finding no flashlight, the ever-ready students decided on the candles. In a few minutes, they found the animal was a muskrat. Off they paraded with brooms and ice choppers to kill it.

No Change In Index Name

The Editorial Board of the INDEX announced yesterday that the 1951 yearbook will retain the name INDEX.

Although a student vote last year indicated a desire that the name be changed, the recent death of INDEX Literary Advisor Professor Charles N. DuBois has resulted in a reconsideration of plans to obtain a new name.

The 1951 INDEX will be dedicated to Mr. DuBois, and the Board feels that the name under which Mr. DuBois worked for many years in his capacity as Literary Advisor should be used on the book dedicated to him.

Recommendations will be made to next year's Editorial Board to consider a name change beginning with the 1953 book.

Football Rally Tonight

The Redmen will play their first home game of the 1951 football season tomorrow. As is customary, most of us will be at Alumni Field to cheer our team on to victory.

It is traditional on our campus to hold football rallies on the nights preceding all home games. By these rallies, we get ourselves into a certain frame of mind, one of enthusiasm and school spirit, with which we can best attend the game.

At football rallies we practice our cheers, sing school songs, dance around a bonfire, and generally get into the mood for the game.

Our enthusiasm at the rallies is usually a sign to the men on our football squad that we are behind them, 100 per cent. No team will let down a spirited group of supporters without an all-out fight. Through our exuberance, we instill a great deal of confidence in the players, confidence and the will to win.

Those who have participated in previous rallies know how much they can mean to everyone concerned. The new students on campus will not only find enjoyment in their first rally, but we feel confident that they will look forward to coming rallies.

A torchlight parade will pick up all dormitory, fraternity, and sorority residents and lead them to the site of the rally. The band, drill team, cheerleaders and tanks will head the procession, in which every student will take part.

The first football rally is tonight!!

Fraternities For Democracy

Because of an anti-discriminatory policy adopted by the University of Connecticut, four fraternities on that campus have recently severed their affiliations with their national organizations. A move of this kind shows definite signs of progress and democracy at work.

The fraternities, Lambda Chi Alpha, Sigma Nu, Kappa Sigma, and Sigma Chi, according to the Connecticut Campus, have left their nationals because they contain discriminatory clauses against racial or religious groups. In leaving a national organization a fraternity assumes a number of handicaps, especially the loss of a sound financial backing. It stands to reason that an association of over 100 chapters will invariably be stronger, financially and spiritually, than a single local house. Yet these groups have made the sacrifice of security in hopes of starting a movement toward removing discriminatory clauses from national constitutions. Such a move may mean the end of segregation and discrimination on a nation-wide, and perhaps world-wide, basis some time in the future.

According to the Campus, Lambda Chi Alpha and Sigma Nu both reported that they were hopeful of reaffiliating next year, but that their national conventions were not held this year so that it was impossible to make amendments to their constitutions. If the discriminatory clauses are stricken out of these national constitutions, as their members strongly feel they will be, another step in the right direction will have been taken.

As a comment, we should like to add that we have heard much talk by fraternity men on our own campus about the same problem. Now that action is being taken on other campuses, a movement on ours is in order. Talk rarely accomplishes much—actions speak louder than words.

An admirable start in the direction of democracy in a true sense has been attempted. The fraternities mentioned above deserve the greatest commendation, as do those on our campus that are in the process of taking similar action. Perhaps a sacrifice on the part of a few more chapters would result in the desired end. No national organization can exist without its local chapters. If enough locals sever their affiliations, something will be done on a national scale and eventually all chapters will return to their original master organizations to live in peace and brotherhood, as their derivation signifies.

THE TREADMILL
by Larry Litwack

Last week, I had occasion to perform a civic duty and register to vote. When I asked for an absentee ballot, the clerk asked me my school address. When I gave her Amherst, she brightly replied "Oh, you go to the agricultural college."

This may seem a rather minor point to many readers, but the point behind this episode strikes me as being much more important. It would seem that with the University going into its fourth full year as a University, the people of the Commonwealth could recognize our change of name.

However, I don't believe that the fault lies entirely with them. There are two ways in which we can make the public more conscious of the fact that the days of Mass. Aggie and Mass. State are gone.

First of all, the newspapers of Massachusetts must be awakened to the fact that there are other colleges in the Commonwealth besides the Boston schools. The University at the present time is one of the fastest growing schools of its size in the East. The growth in our physical plant alone represents an investment of over $10 million in the past five years. If the newspapers were made aware of this fact, the ensuing publicity would go a long way towards correcting any erroneous impressions that all too many people in the state have.

The other way lies right here in our student body. We have at the present time a student enrollment of over 3500 people. Each one of these people are potential salesmen for the University. If the students would only realize this and would take every available opportunity to sell the University, we might see many changes.

No longer would the State Legislature be so free in cutting our budget. It's a funny thing, but the student body represents close to 10,000 voters simply through their immediate families. If pressure was brought to bear by the students, results would soon be forthcoming in the Legislature. Politicians never overlook a chance for reelection.

If the students could get together, they could force the politicians to declare their intentions towards the University, and then vote accordingly. This may sound complicated at first because no one wants to work. However, a little consideration will soon show the feasibility of such a plan. More on this idea later.

Van Meter Asks For Fire Prevention

"President Truman has proclaimed the week of October 7-13 as National Fire Prevention Week. Fire prevention is a matter which should have prominent attention on this Campus and I feel that we should make a special effort during the week set aside for the National Program to inspect our buildings and to take such steps as may be appropriate to minimize the fire hazard here. Accordingly, I have appointed Mr. Hawley as Chairman of a Special Committee to prepare a program and to accomplish as much as possible toward that end."

Redmen Prepare For WPI Eck Looks For Better Punter

The UMass Redmen went through a full practice workout Monday with no contact work as they settled down to a serious week of work in preparation for Saturday's game with Worcester Tech.

Only one injury marred the Redmen's 21-7 victory over Bates. Fred Mazzoda, promising freshman guard from Holyoke, will be sidelined for about two weeks due to a rib injury suffered after he had played almost half of the Bates game. Coach Tommy Eck contemplated moving frosh end Bill Connolly of Peabody into that position.

The coaching staff was disappointed in the offensive action of the Redmen Saturday when they added up only 95 yards rushing. This week, the squad will be put through a little concentrated scrimmage work and passing will also be emphasized as the squad collected 0-5 in the passing column against Bates. The Redmen worked on passing Monday, in an effort to iron out their passing attack which they will need against the Worcester Tech defensive line which averages 205 pounds per man.

Head Coach Tommy Eck is still looking for a better punter. Captain Jack Benoit of Springfield did all of the booting in the Bates game and although he averaged 35 yards per kick, Coach Eck thinks a better job can be done and today freshman Steve Kowalski of Northampton, who saw some time at defensive halfback Saturday, and veteran tackle Bob Nolan of Winthrop were both put through their paces in an effort to look for improvement in distance.

A good share of Wednesday's workout was spent in constructing defensive combinations to meet the Worcester attack on Saturday. The coaching staff expects a well-balanced running and passing attack from the Engineers and since they work off of a "T" formation with quite few variations, the coaches feel the need of more defensive work. Co-Captain Joe Jiunnis and Roland St. Louis of the Worcester squad are two dangerous men in the passing field and the Redmen can expect them to be on a par with any passer they meet all season.

Due to the extreme need of speed in the backfield for Coach Eck's split "T" formation, much stress has been put on the comparative speed of the Redmen backfield candidates. Six of the UMass starters and potential starters are about equal in speed and there is much competition in the daily sprints. Noel Beebenacker of Reading at quarterback, Dick Conway of Quincy at fullback, and halfbacks George Howland of Stoughton, Bill Rex of Foxboro, Charlie Redman of Mansfield, Ted Piers of Natick, a freshman, are the men who most consistently show up among the fastest men in the backfield. All of them have the speed and shiftiness which is necessary to make the split "T" really work.

Rule Changes

* The fair catch has been restored but without the former option of putting the ball into play by a free kick. A scrimmage only is allowed.
* The violation of the substitution rule is no longer penalized as delay of the game. The violation of the substitution rule carries with it a penalty of five yards for the offense.
* The ball may be put in play only after the referee signals "ball is ready for play."
* The penalty for an illegal shift has been reduced to five yards.

Question and Answer Game Surprises Tank Sergeant

A new twist of the ancient "question-and-answer period" appeared on the University of Massachusetts campus recently. Prospective college students, responding to the University's High School Guest Day, found themselves part-of-the-act when they visited the Armored ROTC display in front of Drill Hall.

In addition to a sampling of all weapons and armored equipment used in the ROTC tank courses, several fully-equipped M-24 tanks were open for inspection. In response to a handout sheet of basic instruction in Army radio procedure, the young students accepted the invitation gleefully to mount a tank and launch their questions into the mike of a 508 tank radio. The answers were dramatically relayed back to them from another tank stationed in a distant field.

The "net-control" tank was in the charge of Master Sergeant Harry Platt, Communications Sergeant of the Armored ROTC, while the isolated "response" tank was manned by Sergeant George Whitsit, who wasn't isolated for long.

Shortly after the demonstration opened, eager eyes scanned the terrain west of the campus and discovered Sergeant Whitsit's tank. After a short cross country push, the tank was overwhelmed and questions and answers were crackling both ways until brought under control.

Horse-play? Yes, there was some. Unexpected and non-military questions often took the Sergeants by surprise, but an answer of some kind was promised and delivered.

This one posed a momentary problem: "Who was the little blonde I saw you out with last night?". The answer (after a short radio blackout), "Question not authorized on this wave length . . . out." But Sergeant Platt is still wondering what happened on the other tank when a sweet young voice closed her last transmission with " . . . Roger . . . OUCH!"

Doister In Rehearsal For Fall Production

Prof. Arthur Neideck, director of the Roister Doisters' forthcoming production of "Light Up the Sky", announced that rehearsals are now underway for the Moss Hart hit.

Heading the cast for the production are two veteran actors, Mary Lowry and Bob Boland. Mary, one of the dancing stars of "Brigadoon", has also worked with the Roister Doisters for the past two years.

Bob, in last years Operetta Guild production, starred in a leading role, designed much of the scenery, and was the choreographer for the show. His abilities will take a slightly different turn in this show as he will confine his activities primarily to acting as well as working on the scenery for the play.

Another veteran who will make his appearance in the show will be Phil Johnson. Playgoers at Bowker will no doubt remember Phil for his performances there last year.

The Roister Doisters are making a concerted effort this year to encourage new talent to work with the group. Nine out of the fifteen parts in the show have been given to newcomers.

The production will make its debut on the stage of Bowker on the evenings of November 16 and 17 as part of the activities planned for the Tufts weekend.

Dusty and Friend Join Rally; Comments Highly Philosophical

by Dusty Evsky

Ah, its good to be back. It's only been a short time, really, but things are already nearly normal. Arch is four assignments behind in all his courses, we've got the names of two-thirds of all the frosh girls from their placards, we're already sweating out next month's check, and we've been to our first football rally. It was quite a rally.

It happened Friday night. Arch and I were sitting in our room, matching pennies, when from the distance came the strains of martial music.

"A parade, hey", exclaimed Arch, and he forthwith kicked open the door preparatory to conning the approaching marchers.

It was indeed a parade. In the lead came the band; following them came two M-24 light tanks; and following the warlike tin cans came people, bunches of people. Looking more closely I discovered they were my fellow students. It looked like the parade might be the beginning of a successful party.

"Arch", I said, barely managing to restrain him from emptying a wastebasket on the unsuspecting column, "where's your school spirit. It's a football rally. Let's get in it".

A glimmer of understanding crossed Archie's rugged but honest countenance.

"Geez", he exclaimed, "I ain't never been to a rally. Leave me get my jacket."

Leaving the correction of Archie's grammar to his already overworked pedagogues, I went downstairs and watched the marchers pass, until Arch arrived, shrugging on a field jacket with its 81st division patch still hanging precariously from one shoulder.

As I watched, several cars passed noisily by, each trying to nose the other out of its place. I noticed several dented fenders, with nice shiny new scratches, on the cars. I was not surprised when a couple of empty cans came hurtling from the cars. As they bounced at my feet I noted the trade names. The occupants of the cars were apparently connoisseurs of malt beverages.

Arch and I hovered in the background while the crowd billowed into the parking lot. The noise which issued forth must have been entirely satisfactory to the sponsors of the rally.

Suddenly, immediately after the singing of the Alma Mater (which I must learn one of these days), the rallyers started doing strange things around the bonfire. I reviewed my 'soc' courses mentally, but couldn't identify the ritual. It came closest to being a sort of South American Indian dance, but certain of the significant characteristics were absent.

After giving everyone except the dean's secretary a cheer, and hearing the coach promise a top-heavy triumph for the Redmen, in spite of the fact that the coming opponents were "giants of the gridiron and had not tasted defeat for 15 straight games", the fanatics started what they termed a snake dance around the fire. As the tail of the dance writhed by us, Arch joined in wholeheartedly. I was somewhat perplexed as to the cause of his enthusiasm until I saw that the last spot was taken by a rather attractive damsel. I speculated on her reaction when she found that the adjacent segment was occupied by a large, unshaven character, with a face that would have delighted, but confused, a physiognomist. Oh well, I thought, boys will be boys.

I turned to leave, as the fire was by now nothing but a bed of glowing embers, when suddenly I spotted a couple of guys choosing up on a fifth of Seagrams. Striking while the iron was hot, I sauntered over and introduced myself. They were compatible.

From then on it was a fine rally. As I clambered back into the dorm, singing "Sons of the Valley" I saw Arch sitting at the door. He looked even more puzzled than usual. I leaped to the conclusion that his amorous advances to the lady of the snake dance and been rebuffed.

"What's the trouble, Arch," I asked.

He told me. It seems that when the favored escort of the dancing lady showed up, Arch claimed a prior interest and pushed the latest arrival gently into the College Pond. The cause of the quarrel then told Arch off in rather pointed terms.

"What's a Neanderthal?" Arch asked me.

I told him that a Neanderthal was an early Charles Atlas and he seemed somewhat comforted.

We went to our room and matched pennies some more. He won, but I couldn't make myself care much. The last thing I remember is muttering, "damned fine rally."

And I guess it was.

Adelphia Has Dance Oct. 11

Opening Homecoming Weekend activities will be a campus dance sponsored by Adelphia, senior men's honorary society, on Thursday, Oct. 11, from 8-11:30 in Drill Hall.

Music will be provided by Dave Baker, '53, who has appeared at several dances since the opening of the college year. Refreshments will be sold. No admission is being charged, but contributions will be accepted toward the fund used by Adelphia to finance campus services, such as the hospital touring shows.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Neet and Dr. and Mrs. J. Walter Smith will be faculty guests. Larry Litwack is social chairman.

Following up the dance, Adelphia will further its weekend activities by holding a bonfire concert Friday night in preparation for the Homecoming football game with Williams. This innovation may very possibly become as much a tradition as the rallies. Songs, cheers, and band music will be the highlights of the bonfire concert beginning at 7 in the south parking lot near Mem Hall.

Instructions will be sent out shortly to all houses of residence for the October 19 Float Parade.

Fr. John Ford S.J. To Speak Tonight

The Rev. John Ford, S. J., of Boston College will be the speaker at the first meeting of the Newman Club on Tuesday, Oct. 9, at 7:15 p.m. All Catholics on campus are urged to attend this important meeting.

Father Ford, who has done much work in the past with Alcoholics Anonymous, will speak on alcoholism.

Reports from the eight UM students who attended the National Newman Club Convention, recently held at Wentworth-by-the-Sea, Newcastle, N. H., and plans for the coming year will also be discussed.

Many club members have already participated in the first activity of the year: the entertainment last Saturday of 40 orphans from the ? ? and Brightside orphanages in Holyoke. The orphans attended the football games and were given supper at Phi Sigma Kappa, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Q. T. V., Lambda Chi Alpha, Tau Epsilon Phi, Chi Omega, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Sigma Delta Tau, and Sigma Kappa.

The initial spiritual activity of all campus Catholics was the Mass of the Holy Ghost, celebrated on Tuesday morning at 7.

Series Fever In Studs. Hair

Even the infirmary can't find a cure for that perennial affliction, World Series Fever. And of all places it was least expected to appear on campus, the Barber Shop has been found to be the source.

If anyone is late for class, profs take note-not of the students, but of the scoreboard inside the building, placed there for the convenience of those who go to class to sleep rather than on the grass.

That splotch on the chem book isn't acid, but evidence of the sale of a dripping ice-cream cone. It isn't raining, it's just the sweat of an enthusiastic fever victim. As the shouting ceases, and the radio buzzes on the resumes of the game, the temperatures hurtle downward until the next game approaches, when North College becomes the center of student interest on campus.

The cycle continues-up races the fever; out come the scratch sheets, there goes this week's food money; and down goes class attendance. And Durocher says "it's just another game, boys."

Air Frosh Invited To Cadet Meeting

The Air Cadet Squadron of the University of Massachusetts has taken off into its first year of real activity.

At a meeting last Thursday, the Squadron showed an 8th Air Force film on the bombing of Germany to an audience of more than thirty Air Sophomores. A brief business session followed the film. The Squadron invited Mr. Donald Cadigan, an Air Force reservist and one who has shown an active interest in the organization, to the meeting.

On Thursday, Oct. 25, the Air Cadet Squadron is opening its doors to all FRESHMEN Air Science men as well as any interested Air Sophs. Another educational film will be shown, and the keynote of the business meeting will be a general explanation of the more important parts of the organization's Constitution.

Lieutenent-Colonel De Horn, PAS&T, will be a guest of the squadron at the Oct. 18th meeting, and will present ideas pertaining to the year's plans. Advisors Major Grapentine and Sgt. Ward will coordinate the proposed planning to be presented for general approval of the body.

New Man Assigned To AFROTC Unit

Master Sergeant William F. Freshour has been assigned to the AFROTC unit at the U. of M., it was announced recently by the Air Science unit.

Sgt. Freshour spent 34 months in the European Theater where he earned eight battle stars. He was last stationed at the Air Proving Ground, Elgin Air Base, Florida as a Supply Supervisor.

Fires Aren't Funny

Since President Van Meter has designated this week as Fire Prevention Week, we feel that the problem of the fire hazard deserves mention on this page.

Fire is one of our most dangerous adversaries. In the past four years we have had several experiences with this menace on this campus. We can recall a minimum of fires in our college generation, and although we hope that we shall not have to witness another, the possibility is always here. Fire has hit every possible place where it could find the men and women of the University—a sorority, a fraternity, a dormitory, and a class building have all been fire victims within our memory span in Amherst. Any of us could have been injured in one of these blazes.

There are many ways in which we invite our flaming enemy into our houses. How inflammable were the decorations your house used to liven up the last party? With more than fifty per cent of guests and members smoking, how great a chance did you take with your lives and theirs when you planned your interior embellishments? These are a few things to consider as we attempt to control such a hazard.

The advisability of prohibiting smoking, the device of this menace, in rooms crowded with clothing and furniture, should not be overlooked. It is a nuisance to have to go to a specified room whenever you want a cigarette, but isn't it a greater nuisance to have your clothes, furniture, and even your house burned with the possibility of causing injury to persons and/or loss of life?

A room cluttered with debris, waste paper, and other material which should be disposed of is the perfect breeding place for a conflagration. Does your room fit this description? If so the few minutes it may take to clean it up and to throw away all refuse may pay off in many extra years of life. Worthwhile, isn't it?

Poor electrical wiring can cause many mishaps, not the least of them the subject of this editorial. Do not load up outlets by using three-way sockets. If you reside in a sorority or fraternity, suggest that the wiring be checked. Make sure that cords of lamps and other electrical devices are in good working order. We cannot check too carefully on these matters; they may mean so much more than mere words can convey.

Fire prevention is everyone's job. Fires begin through our negligence. Our thought and care can prevent them. Fires are not funny. Much more serious are the dreadful results of fire. We have all been taught from our early years how to avoid the causes of fires. We must put these lessons into effect. Fire Prevention Week is a good time to start a practice which we shall make a part of our everyday lives—a practice which can insure more days of life.

Letters to the Editor

Univ. of Georgia
School of Medicine
Augusta, Ga.

To the editors of the Collegian:

I was much interested in the recent request in the Collegian of Japanese students who wished to correspond with American students. I recall, years ago, when I was in high school at B. M. C. Durfee, Fall River, Mass. I used to correspond with a student in Germany. I had many pictures and post cards from him. He certainly wrote better English than I wrote German. I often wonder what ever became of him. As for Japanese, it must not be forgotten that we had one brilliant Japanese instructor in Dr. Charles E. Marshall's department of Microbiology by the name of Dr. Aaro Itano. I heard from him a few times from Osaka, Japan. When I was in China after the last World War, I met many of the Japanese soldiers who were waiting to be repatriated. I met one who could speak excellent English. Since at that time mail was prohibited from being sent to Japan, I wrote a letter and asked that he post it to Dr. Itano when he got back. However, I have never heard again from him during the intervening years. When I flew to China the plane stopped just outside of Tokyo, and by a streak of luck I was able to take a jeep ride into Tokyo. We went through Yokohama, and such destruction as our air-men made of that city—not a single building left standing. Many smoke stacks left standing, but that was all. Tokyo itself was spared from bombing as here was the Imperial Palace. Now that we have signed a Peace treaty with Japan, I believe it will afford an excellent opportunity for student exchange of ideas, customs, etc. I hope the students at the Univ. of Mass. will find it possible to do this, especially since it is not too long ago since a brilliant Japanese was a former member of her faculty.

I rarely make comments on items in the Collegian; but this is one time when I believe it is a worthy cause.

Sincerely, yours,
Everett S. Sanderson, M.D.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

This classy campus caper-cutter got his snootful of cute cigarette tests. It didn't take him long to dig out the fact that cigarette mildness can't be determined by a mere single puff or quick-sniff experiment! Millions of smokers, on and off the campus, have discovered there's only one true test of cigarette mildness.

IT'S THE SENSIBLE TEST... the 30-day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a day-after-day basis. No snap judgments. Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Eckmen Lose Close One 14-13 Fumbles and Penalties Cause

Fumbles and costly penalties by the University of Massachusetts gave Worcester Tech its third consecutive one point victory over the Redmen at Alumni Field last Saturday. A near capacity crowd saw numerous scoring chances go by the boards as the Redmen committed 8 fumbles. Midway through the fourth quarter Captain Jack Benoit ran the ball 25 yards to the Worcester 3 yard line only to have the play called back because of an illegal procedure penalty.

Eckmen 6-0

In the opening minutes of the ball game Massachusetts fumbled on its first running play from scrimmage. This was an indication of things to come. Massachusetts held for downs, and a scoreless first quarter followed. Midway through the second quarter, Charley Redmen romped 44 yards, going from the Mass. 27 to the Worcester 29 yard line. Running plays by Redmen DiVincenzo and Benoit placed the ball on the 9 yard line. On the next play Redmen carried to the 5. He lateraled to Benoit who went to the one. Benoit was hit; the ball popped out of his hands and into the arms of Buster DiVincenzo, who went across for the TD. The try for the point was no good but the Eckmen led 6-0.

Early in the fourth quarter Tech took the lead. A Massachusetts fumble gave Worcester the ball on the Mass. 9 yard line. Three plays later George Chadbow scored. The extra point was good, and Tech led 14 to 6. Massachusetts took the following kickoff and in five plays marched 77 yards for a score. A pass from Redmen to Casey netted 37 yards, and then Redmen passed to Tony Chambers for 9 yards and the touchdown. Don Smith kicked the point, but Tech still led 14-13. The Eckmen blocked two punts late in the quarter but fumbles and penalties cost the boys the ball game.

Captain Halsey Allen led this team to a glorious victory last Saturday against Worcester Tech during the halves of the football game. The four mile a half mile race was won by Zelig of Worcester—who also won last year—with a new time breaking record of 23:23.7. (Previously it had been held by Sapienza of B. C. who ran it in 23:57 last year). The Redmen showed their supremacy by filling the next six places. Burt Lancaster, who is a freshman—a change in regulations now permits frosh to compete on varsity teams—and who also distinguished himself in track last year at Tilton School, also broke last year's course record with a 23:57. Hot upon his heels were Harry Alcott and Hank Knapp, who tied for third. Then Halsey Allen finished, followed by George McMullin and Charlie Stengle (another freshman), who

Last Saturday afternoon, I had an opportunity to sit in the press box at the WPI game. After the hospitality of the athletic department, my estimation of those worthwhile gentlemen has gone up one hundred per cent.

In the way of a few sidelights, the role of a coach of college football is sometimes that of a martyr. If Coach Eck hasn't developed ulcers after watching the Redmen fumble away the Tech game, he has a very strong constitution. This is one game that cannot be blamed on the coach. It was lost in the slippery hands of a few players who might try glue in the Williams game.

Remember the old cry of 'break up the Yankees.' Well, last year's intramural champions, Berkshire B, lost most of their starting team to fraternity sixes. Despite this fact, the team seems to be following the pattern set by Old Man River as they just keep rolling along. Undefeated for the past two years, they have already scored two wins this year to run their undefeated string to roughly 29 straight games. Unless someone springs an upset, the team seems due for their third straight league crown. This team is sparked by Bill Prevey, captain of the varsity basketball team, along with one of his teammates, Ray Gunn.

Briggsmen Lose Heartbreaker

The varsity soccer team suffered its second consecutive defeat Saturday by losing a heartbreaker to Union College by one goal. Up to the last 30 seconds of the last quarter, the score was tied, 1 to 1. Union's center-forward, Gansmueller, then ruined all hopes of a victory by the Briggsmen by booting in the deciding goal, a few seconds before the final whistle.

The only Massachusetts goal, which came in the second quarter, was by "Bob" White, a freshman. Although the score is indicative of poor offensive play by the Redmen, this was definitely not the case. The forward line was continually hammering at the Union goal but due to spectacular play by Greenfield, the Union goalie, they were limited to one tally.

The game in general was an example of fine soccer playing, with the offensive and defensive play of both sides being superior.

The scoring, by quarters, was as follows:

Vogel (Union) 1 goal 2nd quarter; White (Mass.) 1 goal 2nd quarter; Gansmueller (Union) 1 goal 4th quarter.

Massachusetts—Bourdeau, goal; Lapton, lfb; Simpson, rhb; Curran, lhb; Wattanayagorn, chb; White, rhb; Hoelzel, ol; Ritzi, il; Hunter, cf; O'Donnell, ir.; Lit, or.

Subs—Tucker, rhb; McGrath, lhb; West, or.; Twardus, ir.; Yesair, il.; Spiller, lf.

Union—Greenfield, goal; Heinzman, lf.; Munro, rf.; Reinitz, lhb.; Repant, chb; Rie, rhb; Gustafson, ol.; Someville, il.; Gansmueller, cf.; Vogel, ir.; Loeber, or.

Subs—Paulson, g.; Lewis, rf; Stuck, lhb; Woodbury, il.; Saddlemire, il.

Lost—A maroon corduroy jacket with U of M seal on left pocket. Please return to Pam Perkins, 320 Lewis Hall. Reward.

Lost—A pair of tan rimmed glasses between Fernald Hall and Brooks. Contact Elliot Aronson, Brooks, for the Reward.

Lost—A pair of horn-rimmed glasses in a black alligator case between LA and Old Chapel. Return to Alumni Office in Mem Hall.

tied for sixth place, thus completing the five necessary scoring positions. After Post of Worcester finished, Walt Sargent, Bob Steere, and George Goding finished respectfully.

A week ago Saturday, the Redmen harriers defeated Northeastern by a close score of 27-28; (in cross-country the lowest score wins). Eddie Shea, who has been training all summer, won the race, but was quickly followed by Harry Aldrich. Northeastern also took third position with Olsen, but it lost the race partly because it failed to place another runner in again until seventh position, and mainly for George McMullin's sprint just before the finish line, where he passed several Northeastern men and thus saved the day for his fellow teammates. The Frosh bowed to the Jr. Varsity by a score of 40-21, even though Tripp of the Redmen finished first.

Coach Derby has great expectations for this year's varsity cross-country team. He hopes that Allen and McMullin will soon join the trio of Aldrich, Lancaster, and Knapp, and that Charlie Stengle, Walt Sargent, Bob Steere, and George Goding will move up closer to them.

The Treadmill . . .

days cross country result, there were two things that attracted some attention. The first was the appearance of a freshman finishing second in the race. Unable to catch Zeleny of Worcester, winner of last year's race also, this boy outdistanced all of the veterans on Coach Derby's squad. The other was the sight of George Goding finishing 11th in the race. Goding, recently returned from 8 months active duty in Korea as a machine gunner, has not yet had a chance to get in shape. In last year's race, Goding finished closely behind Zeleny. Let's hope he repeats last year's show against Williams in which he set a new record for the course while running the Purple harriers into the ground. Another highlight was the running of Hal Allen who turned in his usual outstanding effort.

Anyone who attended the pre-game rally Friday night must have been impressed by the spirit shown by the crowd estimated at more than 1500 students. The season is still young. If the team wants to keep the support of the school behind them, they must start playing better ball. It's all right to lose games, but why go out and hand them to the opposition. The students want nothing more than to support a team that wins its share of games. Despite the fact that Tech seems to be our jinx team, the team could have done better against this class B opposition. Let's see what they show in the Williams game. Last year, the Redmen lost to Williams. But they did so in a way that left the fans solidly behind them, as they went down fighting all the way. Let's turn the tables this week and send the Purple gridsters home more than a little discolored.

BONFIRE RALLY AND SQUARE DANCE TONIGHT

New Senators Sworn In; Five Incumbents Return

The 1951-52 Student Senate took office Tuesday night as the members were sworn in by Chief Justice Barbara Clifford. Nominations for offices will be held at next week's meeting with elections being held the following week.

The only senators to return were Bob Pehrson, fraternity; Clifford Audette, Mills; Dale Humphriss, commuters; Pauline Stephans, Butterfield; Sophia Sowyrda, Hamlin; and Hayden Tibbetts, Plymouth.

Other senators sworn in included: Jean Pryne, Abby; Rita Katz, Butterfield; Marcia Viale, Hamlin; Rosemary Quinn and Roberta Mitchell, Knowlton; George Chandler, Henry Kammer and Edward Katz, Chadbourne; Marie Genuario and Carol Beaul, Lewis; Alberta Premo and Virginia Kaulenos, Thatcher; Tom Bott and Gordon Price, Berkshire.

Dick Jones and Robert Regan, Brooks; Fred Hardy and Charles Miller, Greenough; John Marx and John Dillon, Middlesex; Staneley Maciolek, Mills; Edward Avery, Ruth Avery, and Fred Ames, commuters.

Lawrence Haworth, Plymouth; Jacqueline Buck and Mary Granfield, sororities; and Robert Crosby, Henry Walter, Arthur Alintuck, and John Diller, fraternities.

Last year, Pehrson, as chairman of the powerful finance committee, spearheaded an economy drive. Because of his knowledge of the financial structure he was elected temporary treasurer.

Audette, as chairman of the buildings and grounds committee, was responsible for many of the small conveniences provided about campus. His committee was responsible for any matters concerning the physical plant.

Humphriss, chairman of the publicity committee, began a Student Senate history. This first and only complete history should be completed sometime this year.

The others, Stephens, Sowyrda and Audette, were active on many committees and aided in the smooth running of student government.

FAUX PAS

It may not be Massachusetts Agricultural College any more, but no one can say we're not getting educated in the country.

At Longwood Cricket Club a hush falls over the crowds as a tennis match gets under way, but at UM the common courtesies are dispensed with. Usually the only witnesses to a tennis match are the bottle filling Guernseys that gently graze and chew to their hearts' content as the discontent of competitors rises with each double fault.

But even this isn't enough to keep the name Mass. Aggie. One English professor apparently got so embarrassed in one instance, that he didn't return to campus this year. While [redacted] was lecturing to a freshman class last year, he was continually interrupted by the milling of cattle outside LA Annex on their way to or from the Grinnell Arena. When he finally finished his dissertation with beads of sweat pouring from his furrowed brow, he asked, as is the custom, for any class questions or comments. A hand shot up from those who remained awake, and he recognized the critic by asking Sam to speak. The timid frosh fumbled for a moment before the class heard, "All I want to ask is " . . .MOO snort snort, MOO. This outburst from nature's milkman brought an outburst of chuckled in the annals of witty professors, and the thunderous ovation that followed was evidence of the class' appreciation for the perfect timing involved. With the question still unanswered, unspoken in fact, the dulcet tones of the buzzer relieved the instructor of any further embarrassment.

If this wasn't enough to convince newcomers that they were at the University of Massachusetts, the Military department was very helpful. The case of two bewildered frosh exemplify the usefulness of directives issued by said dept. Two prospective generals were ordered to report to the stables to draw their "fitted" uniforms, and by the time they had gone by six stallions, three brahmas, and two M-24's, it was too late for anyone to tell them they went to the wrong end of campus for the Quarter-

Chambon To Speak At Soiree de Gala

M. Albert Chambon, consul-general of France at Boston, will be the guest of honor together with his party at an all-University Soirée de Gala to be held in Old Chapel auditorium on Oct. 17 at 8 p.m., under the direction of the department of Romance Languages.

The program will consist of an address by M. Chambon, songs and dances of French provinces by students under the direction of Mario Bruni, '53, and French films of Paris and the Riviera.

An exhibit of cultural interest sent by the French government will be on display in the Old Chapel showcase Oct. 11-20.

The Soirée de Gala, to which the public is invited, is under the direction of Professors Stowell C. Goding and Robert B. Johnson of the French department.

There will be no admission charge.

Float Parade on For October 19

The annual float parade, beginning at 7 p.m. on the road between Phi Sig and the south parking lot near Mem Hall, will be held on Friday, Oct. 19.

A prize will be awarded to the men's division, fraternities, and dormitories included; another prize will go to the women's division.

Floats will be judged on the basis of: originality, composition, participation, ability to inspire the team, and over-all effect.

Milton Crane of Adelphia and Irene Finan of Isogon are chairmen of the float parade.

De Paur Sings Here Oct. 18

The de Paur Infantry Chorus will open the concert season at the University of Massachusetts with a return engagement in the Curry Hicks Physical Education Bldg. on Thursday, Oct. 18 at 8 p.m.

The group was organized in 1942 at Fort Dix, N. J. by men of the 372nd Infantry Regiment. A succession of notable appearances to stimulate war bond sales led the Army to set up the chorus as a morale unit to entertain other troops and, during the next three years, they sang for American armed forces all over the world.

When the war ended the singing infantry men decided to stay together under the direction of their leader, Captain Leonard de Paur. Under his leadership they have become one of the most important professional choruses of the time strengthened by the more than 3,000 concerts they have sung together.

Tickets for the forthcoming concert may be obtained by calling Amherst 900, Ext. 351 on weekdays.

Pre-Med Club To Meet On Tues.

Mr. Harold Hall, class of '49, Coach of Basketball and Soccer at Hopkins Academy will be the main speaker at the Phi-Ed Club meeting to be held on Thursday, October 18 at 7:00 p.m. in Room 10 of the Phys. Ed. Building. His topic will be "Coaching Sports and Teaching Physical Education in Small Secondary Schools".

Judson Fellowship To Hear Missionary

The Judson Fellowship will meet Sunday, Oct. 14, at 4 p.m. at the First Baptist Church to hear Miss Willie Harris, a missionary recently returned from Ningpo, East China, tell of her dangerous work under Communist fire.

Supper will be served at 6 p.m. followed by an evening service with the Rev. Howard G. Joslyn, the New England home visitation director, as speaker. His subject will be "In Days Like These."

All students are cordially invited to attend this meeting to be held in conjunction with the Westfield Baptist Association.

500 Alumni Expected Here

Over 500 Alumni are expected to visit the U. M. campus this weekend, it was announced by the Alumni Office.

Alumni who are present Friday will have the opportunity to attend a concert, a bonfire, and rally.

Saturday, Alumni will register in the morning at Mem. Hall. The afternoon will feature the U. M.—Williams game followed by Open House and buffet suppers at most sororities and fraternities.

Previous to World War II, it was the custom of many Alumni to return to the campus on the weekend of the U. M.—Amherst game. The discontinuance of that traditional game and the interruption caused by the war, caused many not to return as they had usually done. At the end of the war it was deemed necessary to make Homecoming weekend official in order to encourage more interest in the alma mater.

Bonfire, Concert To Be In Parking Lot Friday

Because of the hazardous traffic conditions created by the Columbus Day travelers, the Amherst police will not be able to permit the usual rally complete with tanks, torches, band, and hordes of yelling students on the main roads. Therefore, a bonfire band concert will be the innovation taking the place of the rally.

The celebration will take place Friday night in the parking lot near Mem Hall where students gather at 7 p.m. to witness a "bonfire Concert" by the U. of M. band playing school songs and popular numbers by the light of the bonfire.

CROWDS CIRCLING FRIDAY NIGHT BONFIRE.

The cheerleaders will also be present to lead some cheers and stir up spirit for the Homecoming game with Williams on Saturday.

Adelphia and Isogon, joint sponsors of the "bonfire Concert", have expressed the hope that the students will make this rally even more successful than the torchlight parade held last week.

Immediately following the rally there will be an all-campus square dance in the cage under the sponsorship of the I. F. C. to raise money to support a war orphan in Europe. Contributions will be taken up for this cause. Larry Loy of the Extension Office will do the calling and will be backed by his own orchestra.

Solons Day Is Postponed

The annual Legislators' Day to acquaint the legislators with past improvements of the University has been postponed, it was announced by the Dean's office today.

In place of the mass annual visit of the solons, a small committee will come to study special problems.

As a result of last year's Legislator's Day a scholarship bill was passed which provides the University with 25 academic scholarships to each class with no individual one exceeding $250.

The main reason for postponement of the day is the fact that the legislature is still in session. Another reason being that the administration feels that the day will be more successful and interesting if held less frequently.

Edwards Fellowship To Conduct Panel

A panel discussion moderated by John Mannheim on the topic, "The Campus and I," was the highlight of the regular meeting of the Edwards Fellowship on Sunday, Oct. 7, at 6 p.m. in the First Congregational Church.

Preliminary talks were given by Dave Lavalle, '55, of Amherst College who expressed what he believed to be the role Christianity should play on the campus, and Bob Belcher, '54, and Elaine Norcross, '53, who told what they had actually observed of the influence of Christianity among the students at Amherst College and the U. of M. respectively.

In keeping with the theme for this month, "The Campus—A Laboratory for the Christian Life," those attending the next meeting Sunday, Oct. 14, will be divided into small groups to discuss the topic, "The Edwards Fellowship and I". The meeting is at 6 p.m. Dessert will be served, and all students are invited.

Welcome Alumni

Early each Fall a weekend is set aside as Homecoming, when we, the undergraduates have an opportunity to welcome back the alumni of our University. A full schedule of events has been planned to entertain and to show our alumni the spirit which exists at the Alma Mater.

This year our graduates will see a larger enrollment in the student body, new buildings, and activities abounding with spirit.

The Collegian welcomes you all, hoping that you will enjoy yourselves as you participate in our activities.

Scholarship Offered

A letter from Robert E. Bertram, alumnus of the class of '49, has been reprinted on this page. Since it was originally published late last spring, the letter went unnoticed. A new year has begun and we feel that it is time to renew this offer.

Mr. Bertram has made an attempt to provide assistance to a student who puts a great deal of time and effort into extra-curricular activities and meanwhile maintains a high academic average. His only stipulation is a reciprocal offer for the student director of the Drill Team.

Perhaps Homecoming Weekend is as good a time as any to remind our readers that Mr. Bertram's offer still holds. It is worth noticing that our alumni have this interest in student activities. We hope that some arrangement will be made so that this scholarship can be taken advantage of as soon as possible.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

The following officers were elected recently: vice-president, Herbert Wild; I. F. C. representatives, Richard Boutilier and Edward Craig.

Following the Williams game Saturday, a cocktail party and buffet supper will be held for the returning S. A. E. alumni and guests. A general open dance will be held later in the evening.

Zeta Zeta Zeta

Tri-Zeta became the newest addition to fraternity row last week as they moved into their new house between Lambda Chi Alpha and Pi Beta Phi. A series of housewarming parties are planned for the near future.

Dave Jordan, a Tri-Zeta alumnus and veteran of the Korean War, has re-entered the University and the fraternity.

Officers and chairmen for the present year are: Woodie Carver, president; Ken Moser, vice-president; Dave Tatham, secretary; Don Chucka, treasurer; Larry Hobson, steward; John Swana, athletic coordinator; Lennie Campbell, social chairman; Ken Moser, rules committee; John Penn, rushing committee; and Edward Beckwith, housing committee.

QTV

Q. T. V. was visited last week by Henry Fellows, '51, president of the house last year. He is now a purchasing agent for the Pratt and Whitney Company of Connecticut.

The house entertained five guests from Brightside Orphanage Saturday. After seeing the football game, the boys had supper and another hour of rumpus play.

Dave Yessair and Robert Pywell, both of the class of '54, were pledged by the fraternity Wednesday night.

Theta Chi

Theta Chi held its annual Sadie Hawkins Dance on Saturday, Oct. 6. The house was decorated as "Dog Patch" under the direction of co-chairmen Paul Robbins and Ken Orff. Bill McRane was the winner of the "chase". The music of Al Bond and his orchestra, together with picturesque decorations and appropriate costumes, made the evening a success.

As we walk away from the beautiful campus onto the "Better highways for Massachusetts," we still can't escape from the impromptu advertising of the University. A girls' extra-curricular activities class rides by mounted on horseback; a surrey is being pulled rhythmically by; and two tractors drone along the road, racing back to the University of Massachusetts.

P.S.—We've still got one of the finest Ag. departments in the country, and we're proud of it.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Because I believe that such activities tend to increase and not inhibit a good student's scholastic and professional ability, I am prepared to offer a fifty dollar scholarship to the military drum-major of the University Band if the student receives an 80% average for the Fall semester, providing that some other interested person offers a similar scholarship to the student instructor of the University Drill Team.

Robert E. Bertram '49

Ed. Note: See editorial column.

To the Editor:

During the years of elementary school, many of us, now here at college, learned some fundamental lessons concerning cheating, lying and public conduct. For most students, these basic principles were learned; for a few others, they were somewhat distorted . . . To be perfectly blunt about the matter and to stop beating around the bush, I am concerned specifically with the "cutting in line" at Draper, especially in the Annex. If these incidents were few and far between, I would not waste my time complaining about them. Unfortunately, they are frequent and very disturbing to many individuals, as well as to myself. Why do some students, and college ones at that, take the attitude that nobody will object if they "cut in" just this once? (Once is about twice a day for them.) Can't they take their proper place in line?

In view of the above situation, I make a strong plea to those students involved to change their attitude and ways. It is so easy, and so much quicker, to "cut in", but remem those who are at the end of the l are equally anxious to eat and to on their way. So then, despite t per's inefficient method of check off names—which cause longer dela than necessary—try to apply a li self-discipline and save that "cutt in" for emergencies only.

"Battle of The Split T's" As Redmen Meet Williams

Sobered by last Saturday's loss to Worcester Tech, the UMass Redmen have spent a hard week in practice getting ready for tomorrow's Homecoming game against Williams. A battle of the split "T" is in prospect, as Williams employs the same type of an offense as that used by the Redmen.

Both clubs have identical records. Williams lost to Lehigh in its opening game, and last Saturday they defeated Connecticut 7-6. Knowing that the Ephmen's split "T" has not exploded to date this year, the Massachusetts coaching staff has worked hard to insure that they don't repeat last years wide open game. In Wednesday's practice session, the Redmen spent most of the day on defensive work against the Purple's split "T" offensive as line coach Joe Masi worked with the forward wall on its job of stopping the fast Williams backfield. Backfield Coach Earl Lorden had the backs on pass defense in preparation for an expected passing attack from the Ephmen.

Captain Jack Benoit and Bob Nolan have spent some time on their punting. Benoit, who has done most of the punting to date, increased his average for punts by five yards in last Saturday's game, but the coaching staff is still not satisfied with his boots. There might be some shifts in tomorrow's starting backfield. The Redmen are loaded with halfbacks who are in tough competition for the starting berths.

If the Redmen have shaken their attack of fumbleitis, the alumni will see a highly inspired team take the field. The boys will be looking for their first home win of the 1951 season.

WATCH OUT EPHMEN

The Treadmill
by Larry Litwack

Tomorrow will mark the 16th game between Williams and the University with the Purple holding a decided edge in the series with 13 wins, one loss, and one tie. To make this record even more lopsided, the Ephmen have whitewashed the Eckmen ten out of the fifteen games played. Last year's total of 76 points in the game marked the highest combined point total in the series.

In last year's game, the Redmen were trailing by fourteen points when they came up from the ground to take a 20-14 lead. However, star quarterback Noel Reebenacker was hurt shortly afterwards to give Williams the necessary edge to win 42-34.

Stockbridge Starts Grid Season Today

The Stockbridge School of Agriculture will open its 1951 season this Friday at the University of Massachusetts when its untried eleven will face a strong Vermont Academy squad at 3 p.m.

Coach Steve Kosakowski, faced with the problem of only four returning lettermen, has been fortunate enough to bolster his team with a number of freshmen.

Vermont has taken the measure of the Blue and White gridsters for the past two years. Their victory over Deerfield Academy last week rates them as the favorites in the forthcoming contest. The Kosakowskimen hope to spring a few surprises on the Green Mountain boys to send them home sadder but wiser.

The Vermont squad is bolstered by last years Dalton High star back Boyd and a powerful pass combine of Bourlisse and Carter that scored the winning touchdown against Deerfield.

The Stockbridge lineup will find only two seniors starting. Al Ughlig will hold down one of the guard slots with Captain Fred Kelly at the other post. Austin Smith and Robert Frederico have the inside track on the two end slots with Joe Hayden and Forest Saunders are pushing them hard for the jobs.

At tackle will be 230-pound 6'2" "Tiny" Andreck and 180-pound

Girls Open Hockey Season With Frosh Win and Two Ties

The girl's hockey season opened officially on Thursday, September 27, with the traditional opening bully.

The first game, between the juniors and sophomores, ended in a 1-1 tie with both teams evenly matched. Spirit and team-work seemed to be the highlight of this game.

The seniors kept the freshmen on their toes in the second game of the inter-class competition on Oct. 2, which ended in another 1-1 tie. Freshmen versus seniors usually proves to be a one-sided affair with the laurels going to the freshmen, but this year the upperclassmen were alert. However, the true colors of the freshmen shone on October 4, when they met the juniors and defeated them 3-0.

DO YOU INHALE?

Then you certainly should be smoking PHILIP MORRIS!

THIS TEST TELLS YOU WHY:

1 Take a PHILIP MORRIS and any other cigarette. Light up either one first. Take a puff—get a good mouthful of smoke—and s-l-o-w-l-y let the smoke come directly through your nose.

2 Now, do exactly the same thing with the other cigarette. Notice that with PHILIP MORRIS you don't get the bite, sting and irritation that you do with your own brand.

PROVE TO YOURSELF PHILIP MORRIS IS DEFINITELY LESS IRRITATING, DEFINITELY MILDER!

REMEMBER: The irritation you feel in your nose is the same irritation that occurs in your throat every time you inhale! Don't let irritation spoil the good taste, the fine flavor, the rich pleasure of smoking. For a better smoke than you've ever known before, try PHILIP MORRIS—the one cigarette proved definitely less irritating, definitely milder than any other leading brand.

NO CIGARETTE HANGOVER means MORE SMOKING PLEASURE!

The freshman football squad will make their debut this afternoon at 3:00 against a potent New Hampshire club. The game will mark the opening of a five game schedule for the Little Indians.

It seems that the official football schedule is ready for the 1952 season, but it will not be released until the end of the current season. We will know shortly after the Tufts game whether the rumors expressed in this column last week were true. Unofficially, I'm taking bets on their accuracy.

Something that has been completely overlooked is the fact that there are two managers' prizes awarded annually to the outstanding managers. First prize last year went to Gordon Francis, manager of the varsity football team. Second prize went to senior Art Mintz, manager of the varsity baseball squad. These awards were made late last spring at the Varsity 'M' banquet. Mintz, is at present engaged in running the intramural football program here.

Well, it seems that Berkshire will just keep rolling along. How can you beat a club that draws the best talent from throughout the campus. Unofficial opinions state that the Bombers are the best intramural football squad they have seen this year. Maybe the fraternity champ will make these experts eat their words.

The center slot will be split between Lew Mason and Al Rittle. Potential backfield starters will be Captain Fred Kelly at fullback, Frank Martines and Joe Freitas at halfbacks, and either Fred Gunimow, Henry Heald, or Mel Stephens at the quarterback position.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Tomorrow night will be a big one in the annals of Sigma Phi Epsilon. Through the tireless efforts of the social committee, the fraternity has succeeded in persuading a famous recording artist and star of stage and radio, to put in an appearance this Saturday night. The beautiful actress was coaxed with an offer to cover expenses to stop here on the way from Albany, N. Y., to Boston where she will star soon in her own television show according to a Sig Ep spokesman.

Along with "Miss Mystery", the local fraternity has a star-studded review of all time favorites signed up for the evening's entertainment. The program will feature "Luigi" of radio fame, the ever-popular "Gouchos", the brand new musical hit, the "T. Q.'s," and many other familiar stars.

An overflow crowd is expected for the evening's fun and extra help will be on hand to handle the throngs.

Found: Thursday, Oct. 4, a maroon Moore pen on the lawn in front of Draper. Contact Mary Harding, Butterfield.

Competition will be the keynote of the annual float parade this Friday evening.

Preceding the football rally all campus residences will line up their entries for the float parade competition in which individual prizes will be awarded to the men's and women's categories.

Judging will be based on five factors, each worth five points: 1. originality, 2. composition, 3. participation, 4. ability to inspire the team, and 5. over all effect.

The schedule of events is as follows: 6 p.m.—Floats and drivers are to be in place between the south parking lot and Phi Sigma Kappa. 6:45—All participants are to be in their places on the floats. 7:00—the float parade will begin.

The route of the parade is as follows: down Lincoln St. to Amity St., down Amity and into town where the parade will go around the square, then up N. Pleasant St., all the way to Goessman where it will take a left turn to the campus and end at Stockbridge Hall.

The football rally will follow immediately in Bowker Auditorium.

The Board of Selectmen of Amherst and the Amherst Police in requesting that the floats be brought back to their respective houses following the parade.

The float parade is sponsored by Alpha Phia and Isogon under the co-chairmanship of Milton Crane and Joe Finan.

FAUXS PAS

by Bruce Fox

With the administration is still worrying over Metawampee's fourth coat of paint, then let them take heed of the escapades of that three hundred pounds of statutory woman, Sabrina, who started on her infamous path of destruction much the same way, back in 1807.

When the nude was first implanted on Amherst College soil, she received undignified painted adornments and stockings for her shapely limbs and baudy diapers, causing one Amherst president, in the '80's, to order her banishment. However, the chivalrous editor charged with her disposal kept Sabrina in his barn while confessing that he couldn't kill a woman.

She soon appeared at a class of '88 affair as guest of honor; the class of '89 gave her a starring role. The class of '91 managed her theft shortly after, thus initiating the recurring feud between odd and even classes.

After the struggle of classes for possession of Sabrina, she travelled more than any man in a navy recruiting station. She has been located in such diverse places as a West Virginia coal mine, in the basement of a sausage factory, in a bank vault, in several wine cellars and wells; the payoff came when one resourceful student reclaimed her on a forged express order and sent her off to Europe on a cattle liner.

After doing further damage (she was minus part of an arm and foot), Amherst officials regained possession of the three hundred pounds of trash and retired her to the college attic, where she was locked behind closed doors to collect dust for seven hundred years. The reign of rest ended suddenly when decapitation of the statue caused the late President Stanley Hall to track down her tortured soul and later to have Sabrina bolted to the floor.

DePaurInfantryGroup To Sing Thurs. Night

The concert season at the University of Massachusetts will open with a return engagement by the De Paur Infantry Chorus in the Curry Hicks Physical Education Building on Thursday, October 18 at 8 p.m. The singing team is composed of 32 negro war veterans, led by Leonard De Paur.

The University appearance of the chorus is the second of its fifth American tour, the first being at Dartmouth College on October 15. This year, the group will give 180 concerts in a tour that will traverse the United States and Canada, and not close until next April. The De Paur Infantry Chorus will head south to sing in Central America and the West Indies, May 1.

The De Paur Chorus was the first important musical attraction to develop from World War II. Originated in 1942 by men of the 372nd Infantry at Fort Dix, N. J., the group began its appearances to stimulate war bond sales. Then the Army, realizing the potentialities of such talent, set the Chorus up as a moral unit to entertain other troops. During those next three years, they sang for American armed forces all over the world.

When the war ended, the men found themselves bound together by a mutual desire to maintain their successful combination. Under the leadership of Captain Leonard De Paur, the group moved into the civilian circuit. Since then, the De Paur chorus has given 3000 concerts.

Mr. De Paur has chosen the following selections for his concert here at the University.

Where's That Old Spirit?

The cry of our alumni at Saturday's football game against Williams College was, "What has happened to our school spirit?" We should like to echo this cry.

We have a group of cheerleaders who tire themselves out in an attempt to instill enthusiasm into the observers in the stands, but it all seems to be to little avail. Eight cheerleaders cannot make enough noise for three thousand "fans". And isn't it embarrassing to hear the visiting team making more noise and cheering their team on with more support than we do?

There are numerous explanations for the lack of unified spirit on our side of the field. On Friday nights before the games we have our rallies. The new cheers are explained for us at these rallies, but if we do not attend, we have no way of learning them. When the majority of the group does not know the cheers, they inevitably fall flat at the time when they should be used to their best advantage. A winning team needs encouragement.

Another reason for the poor presentation of school cheers at the games seems to be a lack of cooperation with the cheerleaders. Our fellow students are too concerned with the question of Mr. Blasko's status of employment to join the cheering for the team.

Looking ahead to next week's game, we hope that this situation will be remedied. We have seen the spirit at Rhode Island and desire to show them that we can give our team that extra bit of encouragement that is forthcoming from the stands.

Let's go to the rally and cheer at the games. What difference should it make to us whether or not he's a "cop"?

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

For the past two weeks, the residents of Hamlin and Knowlton Houses and their dates have been complaining rather bitterly about the parking situation in front of their dorms on date nights. They resent the fact that the campus police have been tagging those people who park in front of the dorms.

In an effort to clear up this argument, I spoke to Red Blasko, the campus cop. He cleared up the case in a very short time.

In the first place, the law which prohibits parking on the main road is a state rather than a college rule. Hence the campus police in cooperation with the Amherst police are required to enforce it. The road at that point is not wide enough to permit cars to park without obstructing the main road.

The main complaint of the students is that when a fellow stops to pick up or drop off his date, his car is immediately tagged. In answer to this, the campus police reply that anyone who stops for only a minute is not tagged. Those cars which are parked there empty or with occupants engaged in a little harmless recreation will be tagged because they do everything but set up residence on the main road.

The University officials have not failed to realize this situation. They would like to build a parking lot behind the two dorms, but this project would cost anywhere from $20,000 to $30,000 to construct due to the drainage problem that the area presents. Anyone who is conscious of the way the state hands out money knows how difficult it will be to get this money without a long struggle and wait.

The proposal to build a horseshoe driveway in the front of the two dorms was rejected because the administration feels that this would destroy the landscaping of the dorm.

The campus police also pointed out the many parking areas very close to the two dorms. The residents of Knowlton House may use the parking area next to Skinner Hall. The residents of Hamlin House may use the parking area to the north side of Lovers Lane. The residents of the Abbey may use the parking area next to the building as well as the area behind the chemistry building. All of these areas are within easy distance of the dorm. Thus the students actually have little or no legitimate complaint.

A slight word of warning to those students who are unfortunate enough to get tagged in the future: the trustees have approved a plan to set up a rigid fining system for automobile violations with all proceeds going into the state coffers.

Thus, until something is done to alleviate the poor situation at these two dorms, the residents and their guests might as well make the best of it. They have little choice in the matter.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor of the Collegian:

October 17 has been set as the date on which the International Relations Club will present its first speaker of the year. The International Relations Club is an organization interested in fostering a better understanding of world affairs.

To a lot of us, "a better understanding of world affairs" sounds like a nice innocent cliche, something that shouldn't disturb anyone's mental equillibrium very much. And maybe in less critical times, this is all right —though many wisely doubt it. Right now, however, regardless of what the situation was in the past, we have to face a fact: a better understanding of world affairs isn't any longer a matter of mere academic interest: it is, to put it very mildly, an urgent necessity.

And so the International Relations Club on any campus shouldn't be just another extra-curricular activity. It isn't a presumption at all to say that this club should take precedence over any other on campus at this time. Membership isn't asked for on any formal, dues-paying basis. Attendance at meetings is the only—the most important—requirement. The intent of the club is to transmit information, promote thought, and stimulate intelligent action, on the part of students and faculty alike. One of the best ways to begin such a three-fold activity is by hearing out some people who have been in touch with international affairs, who have gone to the trouble of doing some thinking on their experience, and who are willing to share that experience and thought. The International Relations Club expects to get just such speakers.

But providing speakers is only half the battle. And a battle half-fought may as well not be fought at all. So, if the International Relations organization can bring the speakers, it's the responsibility of the rest of the college population to come to hear those speakers.

Students presumably come to college to get maturity and a sense of responsibility. To participate in an organization like the International Relations Club, in more than merely a social way, is to begin to be mature and responsible. The issues that are discussed here, in what one might think is an academic way, are the very same issues that the entire world outside the confines of a quiet college campus is finding painfully present, painfully real and pressing. And yet these issues affect each one of us here. A person who doesn't believe that world problems are a matter of critical concern in his own life is dangerously deluding himself.

Help yourself and your college, then, to become more active participants in the cause of world understanding. Attend all meetings of the International Relations Club throughout the year. World peace, if it's ever to come, requires such participation. Your survival might be demanding it.

Sincerely,
William Deminoff '52

To the Editor of the Collegian:

On behalf of the fellows who have been slipping and stumbling up and down the trail from Brooks to Greenough, I would like to request some action on making the thoroughfare for nearly 300 boys safer. In the evening after 6:00 p.m. the complete way is in pitch darkness because of construction which blocks out any light from Chadbourne and Greenough. If a permanent path with some sort of illumination is going to be built why not start it now before someone gets injured. If this can't be done immediately, at least have a light put up on the dark side of Baker, to light the way for us tired and hungry frosh.

Hopefully yours,
Bob Cutler '55

Ed. Note: The Collegian, per se, cannot take care of problems of this nature, but hopes that in printing letters like these, it will bring them before the Senate.

To the Editor of the Collegian:

I would like to bring to your attention the error made in the Oct. 12 issue of the Collegian which states: "the new student senate members were sworn in by Chief Justice Barbara Clifford." I am not the Chief Justice, nor am I a member of the Women's Judiciary Board. Pauline Harcovitz is the person who holds this office.

Respectfully,
Barbara Clifford.

Dear Editor:

The members of the Maroon Key, as representatives of the Sophomore Class, would like to clarify their position in regard to the traditional rope pull. As far as we knew, this contest was to take place last Saturday as scheduled. Late Thursday afternoon, we were informed by the administration that the rope pull had been postponed indefinitely.

Sincerely,
THE MAROON KEY

Eckmen Shaved by Williams For Second Home Defeat

Scoring late in the second quarter, and midway through the fourth quarter, a Williams eleven led by Paul Cramer and Johnny Kulsar defeated a hard fighting UMass team 14-7, before a homecoming crowd of 8500 at Alumni Field last Saturday. Twenty-one penalties were called in the ball game penalizing both clubs for a total of 210 yards. The Redmen outrushed Williams, but they could not stop the passing attack of Cramer and Kulsar, who completed 10 passes out of 28 attempts for a total of 181 yards.

Midway through the first quarter Ed Brophy recovered a Williams fumble on the 24 yard line. However the Massachusetts attack bogged down, and Williams stopped the Redmen on the 6 yard line. In the second quarter, Williams intercepted a Massachusetts pass on the Williams 40 yard line. Cramer and Kulsar began passing and 10 plays later Williams scored. Cramer kicked the point and Williams led at the half 7-0.

Early in the second half Lou Prokopowich recovered two fumbles which stopped Williams' drives. The Redmen tried everything in order to get back in the ball game, but play centered mostly around midfield throughout the third quarter. In the fourth quarter, Williams took a Mass. punt on the Mass. 47 yard line. Four plays later Williams scored on a Cramer to Kulsar pass which netted 33 yards. The point was good and Williams led 14-0.

The Redmen came right back. Taking the ball on their 10 yard line after an exchange of fumbles, the Redmen marched the length of the field to score. Three penalties against Wil-

Frosh Gridsters Take NH 6-0; Opening Tilt Shows Usual Promise

The University of Massachusetts freshmen opened their football season Friday with a 6 to 0 victory over the University of New Hampshire on the muddy practice field beside Alumni Field. The game wasn't a thrilling one from a spectator's point of view because of numerous penalties and fumbles due to the sloppy playing conditions and the inexperience of the players.

After a series of punt exhanges in the first period, New Hampshire got the first scoring opportunity when they intercepted a lateral on the Mass. 18. However, they fumbled it back to the Redmen three plays later on the 15. Neither team was able to make a first down in the first quarter.

Early in the second period the little Redmen got a big break when they recovered a bad pass from center on an attempted punt on the New Hampshire 3. However, two running plays and two passes failed to click and New Hampshire took over on the 8. From there the first sustained march of the day was made as they moved to the Mass. 43,

Hoelzel And Redmen Tied By W P I 4-4

The varsity soccer team came from behind for the second straight time to tie a strong WPI team 4-4 to give them a season's record of 1-2-1. With the score 2-0 against the Redmen, Al Hoelzel scored three goals in succession to put the Redmen ahead 3-2. Worcester tied it up in the waning minutes with a penalty shot. In the overtime period, Dave Yesair again put the Redmen ahead, 4-3, only to have the Engineers tie it up again on a goal by Couto.

DRILL TEAM MASTER AUDITIONS

There will be a meeting for all those interested in the position of Drill Team Master for the year '52-'53 on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Music Office at Mem. Hall. Mr. Contino, Director of University Bands, has indicated that qualifications for the position must include the basic essentials of close order drill.

CONVO FOR FROSH MEN

Freshman men are reminded of the convocation at Bowker Auditorium on Thursday, Oct. 18. Dean Robert S. Hopkins and Mr. Richard M. Colwell, of the School of Business Administration, will talk on fraternities, and the procedure of the Round Robins will be outlined. The information received at this convocation will be of great help during the rushing period which follows.

Harriers Take Perfect Race From Lord Jeffs

Last week the Varsity Cross Country Team handed Amherst College a decided defeat by a score of 15-48. The meet was entirely one-sided with the Derbymen coping the first six scoring positions in a dead heat. Completing the run in 25:03 were Aldrich, Allen, Lancaster, Knapp, Stengle, and McMullin. Guided by Halsey Allen these first six Redmen joined hands and practically skipped across the finish.

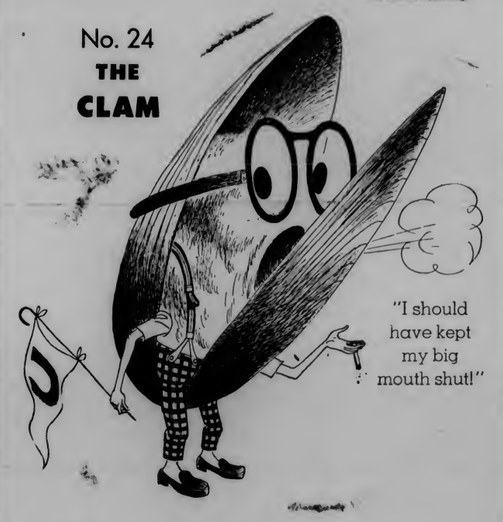
The best Amherst could do was to get seventh and eight in the meet with Bishop at number seven spot at 25:10 and Presswimmer at number eight at 25:16.

Hank Knapp, among the first six to finish, ran rather a unique race. Hank lost his shoe on the first hill and in spite of this finished the race in the winning time of 25:03.

This was the third straight win for the Redmen on the Cross country course, having already beaten W.P.I. and Northeastern.

Next Friday the team goes to Williams to vie with the Purple.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests



Fresh out of Bivalve, N. J., he arrived on the campus all bug-eyed and his big mouth hanging open. He was immediately sucked into a "shell game" and found himself making all the quick-trick cigarette tests. But his native instinct told him that such an important item as cigarette mildness couldn't be tossed off lightly. Millions of smokers everywhere have discovered, too, that there's but one true test of mildness.

It's the sensible test...the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke...on a pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

racking up 3 first downs before losing the ball on a fumble. The Redmen marched back to the New Hampshire 16 when the time ran out. A 25 yard pass from Frank McDermott to Dick Torchia featured the drive.

Late in the third quarter the Redmen started their touchdown drive from their 45 following a punt. Mallon bucked to the 47, then a clipping penalty put the ball on the 34. A pass from Joe Napolitano to Bob Blanchard brought the ball to the New Hampshire 49. White rushed to 46 as the period ended.

At that point the Redmen got a break that meant the game. It was fourth down, the score 0 to 0, and less than a yard to go for a first down; nevertheless coach Ball ordered Charley Dean to punt. Dean punted but the play was nullified by offside penalties on both teams. Again Dean punted and again a penalty was called. However, this time it was on New Hampshire giving the Redmen a first down on the 40. Running plays by White and Dibiaso put the ball on the 37. Then McDerrmott took the ball on a bootleg play and raced around right end to the 17. On the next play McDerrmott passed to John Porter in the end zone for the touchdown. The extra point missed because of a bad pass from center.

DiVincenzo, then bucked off tackle for the score. Don Smith converted, but Mass. trailed 14-7. All hope of a tie went out the window as Williams took the kickoff and marched to the 4 yard line where the game ended.

Buster DiVincenzo was the spearhead of the UMass running attack... Buster averaged 9 yards every time he took the ball... Billy Rex and Ted Piers also played good games in the backfield.

Faux Pas ...

The latest twist to this moving story was added last June when students (presumably from the class of '51) sneaked into the museum with keys made from wax impressions, cut Sabrina loose with an acetylene torch and removed the woman into the cover of darkness.

Word has been received from the offices of the Amherst Student that a cryptic, anonymous phone call had informed the school of her homecoming at a big fire. Such a bonfire is planned in two weeks to celebrate Amherst's Homecoming Day. Popular rumor has it that two '51 honor men, both Phi Beta Kappa and Magna cum Laude, were the abductors.

So you see, dear administrators, Metawampee has not yet begun to fight!

Senate Report:

Pehrson and Alintuck Senate Prexy Nominees

At the Student Senate meeting Tuesday, October 16, Bob Pehrson and Art Alintuck were nominated to the important position of president of the Student Senate. Pehrson, a member of Adelphia and Cadet Colonel of the ROTC, was a member of the Senate last year. He also was temporary Treasurer after the graduation of Frank Kavanaugh, last year's treasurer.

Alintuck, publicity chairman of last year's Winter Carnival and the Campus Chest, has also been active in many campus activities.

Cliff Audette and Henry Walters were nominated for Vice-President. Dale Humphriss, Ruth Avery, and Marion Price for Treasurer, and Mary Granfield, Sophie Sowyrda, and Pauline Stephens for Secretary. Elections will be held at the next regular meeting.

Helen Curtis, Dean of Women and Senate advisor, congratulated the senators on their election and encouraged the senators to try their hardest to fulfill the trust placed in them by their fellow students. She also recommended that they be guided by the experience of the re-elected senators.

Bob Pehrson suggested representatives to Student Life Committee should be elected from the men and women of the senate, the independent men and the Commutors. Dean Curtis suggested that the Senate pick its representatives at the meeting and let the others go until next week. Larry Haworth and Rosemary Quinn were elected the Student Senate representatives.

Cliff Audette requested to know when the class elections would be

2 - in - 1 Play For Doisters

A play within a play is the central idea of the next Roister Doister's new production, Light Up the Sky, which will open Nov. 16.

The action of the play revolves around the opening night of a new play and the troubles resulting. It is a story of show people who love each other, get into difficulties, hate each other, and then find out that they need one another.

Set in the hotel suite of the leading lady, this play traces the emotional revolutions of the star, played by Mary Lowry, the producer played by Marino Grimaldi, the director portrayed by Robert Boland, and the disillusioned, young playwright as played by Robert Hall.

Hort. Show Features United Nations Theme

A United Nations theme will be the central feature of the 39th Annual Horticulture Show at the University of Massachusetts next month, says Dr. Bradford Johnson, faculty chairman of the Hort Show.

The student committees are already at work planning the show which is the largest event of its kind in Western Massachusetts, and one of the largest student-staged flower shows in the United States, says Mr. Johnson.

Competitive student exhibits will be arranged around the perimeter of the main theme along with displays by the members of the Holyoke and Hampton Florists' and Gardeners' Club.

Last year, on a rainy weekend, the Show drew a crowd of 21,000, setting the record attendance of 9,000. The committee is urging those to attend the show Friday or Monday to avoid the Sunday rush.

OFFICIAL NOTICE

With the coming of hunting season next week, this is to advise all students and staff members that hunting on University property is NOT permitted.

UM News Paper Receives Rating

The Massachusetts Collegian has received a rating of "excellent" in the forty-fifth All-American Critical Service for College Newspapers published during the second semester of 1950-51, it was announced today by Dick Hafey, Executive Editor. The service is conducted by the Associated Collegiate Press for its member publications, of which the Collegian is one.

In judging the news values and sources of the Collegian, the Service rated our publication excellent on coverage, vitality, and creativeness, and very good on balance.

The news writing and editing of the Collegian was rated very good. A major criticism of the style of our stories was their length.

Excellent and very good ratings were passed on the headlines, typography, and makeup.

Department pages and special features were considered very good or excellent.

As a final appraisal of the Collegian the survey said, "Excellent overall coverage; good list of creative and special features."

Changes In ROTC Announced Here

Changes in personnel of the Air Force and Armored Cavalry ROTC Units at the University of Massachusetts were disclosed recently.

Col. William N. Todd, former commanding officer of the entire unit, has been assigned to Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., where he is now on duty at 4th Army Hq. Lt. Col. Lewis R. Adams now commands the ground section as professor of military science and tactics. Lt. Col. John G. DeHorn is commanding officer of the separate AF ROTC unit.

Five new officers and four enlisted men have been added to the Air Force complement to assist with new courses now offered in the ROTC curriculum. They are: Maj. Jack E. Grapentine, Alliance, O., former air inspector on Gen. Arnold's staff; Maj. Edward S. Zdrojkowski, Springfield, Mass.; Capt. George W. Gaumond, Worcester; Capt. Albert J. P. Mc-

NewEngraving Process To Be Used In Paper

A new method of reproducing photographs for publication will be instituted by the Collegian next week.

Pictures, which have heretofore been engraved chemically, will now be reproduced on a machine which has been rented by five college newspapers in the area—the Amherst Student, the Mount Holyoke News, the Smith College Sean and Current, and the Collegian.

Preliminary plans indicate that the machine will not only save money but also will allow last-minute pictures to be printed.

Prior to this, pictures have been processed in Springfield, which, in allowing for delivery and engraving time, meant that they had to be sent from this office at least three days before publication.

This meant that many important events taking place one or two days before the Collegian was published could not be covered pictorially. The recent problem of covering football games for the Tuesday edition exemplifies this point.

The machine will be located at Amherst College with the Collegian having access to it at all times, thus doing away with the problem of not being able to cover events soon after they occur.

Responsibility For Rope-Pull Given McGuirk

A phone call from Dean Hopkins to Mr. Warren McGuirk Monday, Oct. 15, relieved the Dean's Office of all responsibility in the future for the traditional rope-pull, and gave it over to the athletic department, it was reported by Mr. McGuirk.

Mr. McGuirk said that he was "one of the most surprised men" when he heard over the P.A. system last Saturday that the pull was to be indefinitely postponed. On Oct. 15, the Dean contacted the director of athletics and asked that his department assume the responsibility. In the past, the department's only responsibility was the drying out of the rope in the cage.

Mr. Benjamin Ricci has been delegated to direct the annual event, and conduct it on an organized plane, according to Mr. McGuirk. Mr. Ricci explained that the pull would no longer be just a muddle of confusion, but that it would be organized to the extent of having a starter, a marked rope area, a starter's pistol, and a stop-watch to keep the event within a specified time limit. All these plans are yet in the formative stage, however, but as many as possible will be incorporated into this year's rope pull WHICH WILL DEFINITELY BE HELD THIS YEAR, according to Mr. McGuirk.

If the many problems suddenly dropped in the lap of the athletic department can be covered in a Thursday meeting, the rope pull will take place this Saturday, after the Rhode Island game. If, however, they cannot be straightened out immediately, the event will be put off until such time as may be deemed advisable by the department to call it, said Mr. McGuirk.

Float Parade Line-Up Is Set For Tonight

For easier organization of the float parade scheduled for this evening, the assembly has been broken up into three groups.

The first group will get in line in front of the Drill Hall. Leading this will be two tanks. The rest will be as follows: 2. The Band; 3. ZZZ; 4 SAE; 5. AE Pi; 6. Greenough; 7. Sig Ep.

The second group will form along the pond on Ellis Drive. It will include: 8. Hampshire; 9. Brooks; 10. KKG; 11. Federal Circle; 12. Sigma Kappa; 13. Pi Phi; 14. Kappa Sig; 15. Hamlin; 16. PDN; 17. Theta Chi; 18. Alpha Gam; 19. Abbey.

The third group forming from the south parking lot to Phi Sigma Kappa will consist of: 20. SDT; 21. TEP; 22. KAT; 23. Plymouth; 24. Butterfield; 25. Lambda Chi; 26. Lewis; 27. Mills; 28. Knowlton; 29. Phi Sig; 30. Berkshire; 31. Thatcher; 32. Middlesex; 33. Chi Omega; 34. QTV; 35. Chadbourne; 36. Suffolk; 37. Roister Doisters.

At 6 p.m. the floats will line up in their respective positions with their drivers; all participants are to be in place on the floats by 6:45; the rally officially begins at 7 p.m.

The judges will use two check points along the route. The first in front of the cage, the second on Amity Street in town.

The names of the judges have not been announced yet, but one will be chosen from our own campus, one from Amherst College, and the last from the faculty at Amherst High School.

This year the torches must be made by the individual houses desiring them. Adelphia has already distributed flyers on the proper procedure for their construction. A member of Adelphia will be stationed at Hasbrouck to take all the torches at the end of the parade as a safety precaution. As a further safety measure, all floa s having torches are requested to carry two buckets of sand.

The winners will be announced at the rally in Bowker Auditorium immediately following the float parade.

The prizes, a first in the men's category and a first in the women's, are being donated by the C-Store.

1130 Vets Got U M Degrees

A total of 1130 veterans have received undergraduate degrees at the University of Massachusetts since students who transferred from the state university's temporary campus at Ft Devens between the fall of 1948 and its closing in 1949.

Only 390 veterans are enrolled in all branches of the state university for the current academic year, Morrissey reported.

The first influx from Devens found 1700 vets on the Amherst campus in the fall of 1948. The peak was reached in the fall of 1949 with 1959 vets.

Veterans' educational benefits were delimited on July 25, 1951. The majority of World War II vets have not been eligible to originate schooling since that date.

U M Inherits Forest Tract

The University of Massachusetts has received the largest land transfer in the history of the county according to Prof. Halsworth, head of Forestry. Mrs. Esther Hyde Cadwell, widow of Frank A. Cadwell, former resident of Amherst and president of the Amherst Savings Bank, has given the University 1200 acres of land in Pelham, as a memorial forest reservation.

The reservation, which is twice the size of the present campus, will add nearly two square miles to the University's existing facilities of 800 acres, including Mt. Toby, making two thousand acres in all.

According to Prof. Halsworth, head of the forestry department, the land will be used as a laboratory for forestry students, since forestry training is actual field work.

Included in the courses using the reservation will be silviculture, forest mensuration, and type mapping. The land is easily accessible from campus, since it is only twenty minutes away.

Mr. Cadwell was in the lumber business before he became bank president. He died in 1935, and his widow, now resides in Akron, Ohio. The title of the reservation will be the Cadwell Memorial Forestry Reservation.

Work Underway On Student Prince

The Student Prince, famous operetta from the pen of Sigmund Romberg, will be the forthcoming production of the Operetta Guild at the U. of Mass., it was disclosed recently by Director Dorie Alviani.

The show, which contains "Deep In Heart" and "Golden Day" will be given for four performances, March 19-22, 1952.

Last spring the Operetta Guild earned widespread critical acclaim for its four performances of the Scotch musical fantasy Brigadoon.

Casting tryouts for The Student Prince will be announced shortly at the University. It is expected that more than 150 students will be interested in the production.

Long Range Plan For Reserve Air Forces

A new long range plan for the Reserve Forces of the USAF has been scheduled by the department of the Air Force, according to Lt. Alden B. Cole, public information officer for the university air ROTC.

Under this plan the reservist will get more realistic instruction and will receive the same treatment and support as regulars in peacetime and wartime. The Air Reserve will become an integral part of the USAF.

Guest Editorial

For the past two weeks, there has been a committee from the state legislature visiting the campus to survey the situation in regard to the need for a new classroom building. It is refreshing to note that the politicians down in Boston have other interests besides their chances in the coming elections.

The need for a new classroom building has been known by University officials, the members of the faculty, and the student body for at least the past three years. It is about time that the members of our legislative body realized that our state university is as important as any of the marvelous roads that our governor is so concerned with. It is rather a sad commentary on the state of our legislative body when they spend more money on roads than they do for the education of their children. Perhaps if they realized the growing impatience of the student body, and the number of votes represented here, they would act much more hurriedly to fill a need that should have been filled years ago.

It is also very sad to note that English classes are being held in the Engineering buildings, that the Romance language department received one teacher to take care of an increase of about 150 students, that students are not permitted to take certain courses because of a lack of teachers and classroom space. It is the job of the student paper to represent the opinion of the student body. It is doing just that at this time.

Redmen Face Rams Sat. In Yankee Conference Opener

The Rhode Island Rams will be the opposition tomorrow, when the UMass. Redmen take the field determined to win their first home game of the season. The Redmen will be at full strength for their first Yankee Conference game of the year. Injuries to Chubby Bicknell and Nobby Nolan in the Williams game have not been too serious and the boys will see plenty of action tomorrow.

Rhode Island comes to Alumni Field with a record of one win and three defeats. Their only victory of the season was a 27 to 0 upset over New Hampshire. This victory broke a New Hampshire victory string which had extended over three years. Halfback Bernie Pina and fullback Pat Abruzzi are the two Rhode Island threats who are highly rated by the Massachusetts coaching staff. Another problem of Head Coach Tommy Eck is the shifting defense employed by Rhode Island. The Rams use wandering backs who shift around and go through holes in the line to nail running plays. Running and passing plays have been set up against this defense.

The UMass coaching staff has not been too impressed with the passing to date. Four quarterbacks, Steve Kolaleski, Frank Jacques, Captain Jack Benoit, and Noel Reebenacker, have spent a lot of time in passing drills this week. An improved passing game by the Eckmen should feature tomorrow's game. In view of their improved play in the Williams game, Larry Haworth and Henry Hicks should see a lot of service at fullback and center respectively.

Frosh Soccer

The inexperienced little Redmen soccer team fought gamely, but lost 3-0 to the UConn frosh in their opening game. Although the UM frosh have had little chance to work together, they outplayed the UConns for the major part of the game. Sulinski and Sullivan played brilliantly for the little Redmen. The next game for the frosh will be Saturday when they will engage the Amherst frosh.

Intramurals

Two teams were knocked out of the undefeated column this week. In League A, SAE defeated previously unbeaten AEPi by a score of 19-13 in overtime. In League B, Greenough B dropped from the undefeated ranks by a 6-0 forfeit against Berkshire A.

Frosh Harriers

Coach Derby's freshman runners won their second meet of the season Tuesday by nipping the Wesleyan Frosh, 28-29. Torgenson of Wesleyan won the two and a half mile race in 15:31.8, but was quickly followed by Conlin, who made a desperate sprint in an attempt to pass him at the wire. Dick Quigley was the second Redman harrier, and was immediately followed by Higgins, Charley Miller, and Pete Tripp. Although Taylor of Wesleyan slipped in for ninth place, Vernon Bruneau, Paul MacInnis, Dick Greene, and Stewart Hussey were close behind him.

The meet was very close and the main credit goes to Freshman Conlin who managed to break up a possible one-two-three finish threatened by Wesleyan. (A one-two-three finish practically guarantees a race victory).

Redmen Harriers Win Fourth Straight

The Varsity cross-country team easily held its winning streak Tuesday by defeating Williams, 18-39. The trio of Harry Aldrich, Burt Lancaster, and Hank Knapp tied for first with a winning time of 23:31.4, which is only 8 seconds away from the course record set by Zeleny of Worcester this year. Fourth position was promptly taken by Halsey Allen, although Wesleyan, led by Locke, filled the next three places, George McMullin and George Goding tying for eighth. It is interesting to note that George Goding, last year's number one man, has greatly improved since the beginning of the year. His schooling was interrupted by a year's time in the Army in Korea and his return to the top has been steadily increasing.

Guest Editorial

For the past two weeks, there has been a committee from the state legislature visiting the campus to survey the situation in regard to the need for a new classroom building. It is refreshing to note that the politicians down in Boston have other interests besides their chances in the coming elections.

The need for a new classroom building has been known by University officials, the members of the faculty, and the student body for at least the past three years. It is about time that the members of our legislative body realized that our state university is as important as any of the marvelous roads that our governor is so concerned with. It is rather a sad commentary on the state of our legislative body when they spend more money on roads than they do for the education of their children. Perhaps if they realized the growing impatience of the student body, and the number of votes represented here, they would act much more hurriedly to fill a need that should have been filled years ago.

It is also very sad to note that English classes are being held in the Engineering buildings, that the Romance language department received one teacher to take care of an increase of about 150 students, that students are not permitted to take certain courses because of a lack of teachers and classroom space. It is the job of the student paper to represent the opinion of the student body. It is doing just that at this time.

The trio of Harry Aldrich, Burt Lancaster, and Hank Knapp tied for first with a winning time of 23:31.4, which is only 8 seconds away from the course record set by Zeleny of Worcester this year. Fourth position was promptly taken by Halsey Allen, although Wesleyan, led by Locke, filled the next three places, George McMullin and George Goding tying for eighth. It is interesting to note that George Goding, last year's number one man, has greatly improved since the beginning of the year. His schooling was interrupted by a year's time in the Army in Korea and his return to the top has been steadily increasing.

Despite their loss to Williams last Saturday, the varsity football team really looked good. There was no comparison between the team that played last Saturday and the group of slippery-fingered men that played against WPI.

This week, the honors seem to go to Buster Divincenzo. Buster played an outstanding game as he averaged nine yards for every ball carry. Unfortunately, his efforts went in vain as Kulsar and Cramer of Williams nullified his efforts.

One bright spot from the game was the observation that Williams is going to lose about sixteen men by graduation next year. Incidentally, a correspondent from Williams informs me that Massachusetts will be playing the Ephmen again next year. In addition, the WPI paper also talked about next year's game. Could it be possible that the University is going to expand their schedule to nine games with the addition being Brandeis on October 31?

It was too bad that the football team couldn't give Tommy Eck a present for the birth of his fifth child. At least this week, the team does not have to be ashamed to have lost, since most observers thought Williams was definitely the better team that was held back by great play by the Redmen.

Next Saturday, Rhode Island comes to town. Now that they have become the University of Rhode Island in New England, let's see if that has made any difference in their football team.

The varsity cross-country really showed their crosstown rivals the right way to do things last week as they romped to a perfect win 15-48. The noteworthy feature was the fact that six Massachusetts men finished in a first place tie. The Redmen harriers look like the team to watch in the Conn. Valley Championships.

The intramural football teams are still rolling along. In the fraternity league, there are only three unbeaten teams left, Kappa Sig, Lambda Chi, and SAE.

In the dormitory league, Berkshire B is on top for a change, still unbeaten. Step right up, folks. Who is going to be the first team to break a 30 game winning streak? Send all applications to Prevey, Gunn, Barrett, Saltman, and Co. Address unknown. A warning to the Bombers-all good things must come to an end sometime.

Stockbridge Aggies Beat Vermont 14-7

The School of Stockbridge opened their football season last Friday by defeating Vermont Academy 14-7.

After a scoreless first half, the Aggies led by Paul McGrath and Frank Mattines drove down to the Vermont 45 yard line. Joe Freitas took the ball and aided by fine downfield blocking scampered 45 yards for a touchdown. Freitas converted to make the score 7-0. Vermont fumbled shortly after the kick with the Aggies recovering. The Aggies again drove down field, Freitas carried for the touchdown and made the conversion to make the score 14-0.

The Green Mountain Boys made their sole touchdown against Stockbridge's second team. Bourlisse of Vermont carried and Vermont made the conversion to make the final score 14-7.

Martines and McGrath, appearing for the first time in the backfield showed themself to be worthy of positions on this winning team by making many noteworthy gains. Gummon did a fine job of quarterbacking the team. Defensively the team turned in a very good appearance. Next week the team plays Suffield Academy here.

Mammouth U of M Float Parade Marches Through Amherst

The largest float parade in the history of the University of Massachusetts aroused the peaceful town of Amherst Friday night as torch-bearing students cheered their way through the streets on the eve of the Yankee Conference game between Rhode Island and the Redmen.

Strutting majorettes, battle-clad Indian warriors, and co-eds in shorts, dungarees, and glamorous evening gowns, were all part of the spectacle which thrilled about 3000 spectators.

The parade was made up of 28 floats built by the various men and women's groups on campus. This massive demonstration was led by a police car, two tanks, drum majorettes, the band, drill team, and cheerleaders.

Despite the fact that the football team had lost its last two games, spirit was high and competition keen. Top honors went to Phi Sigma Kappa with the theme of "Rattler The Rams". About a dozen Phi Sigs clad only in loincloths braved the elements as they mercilessly battered a double life-sized Ram at the head of the float.

In the co-ed class, Sigma Kappa won the award by rocketing the Rams. The float portrayed a menacing looking atomic rocket, shooting a Rhode Island player into outer space.

Sigma Phi Epsilon and Theta Chi won the honorable mention in the men's class while Thatcher and Butterfield Halls were honorably mentioned in the women's division.

Judges for the event were: Prof. Raymond Otto, head of the university art department; Robert McCartney of the news department; Miss Mary Rafferty, art director at Amherst High School

The parade terminated at Bowker Auditorium which held a capacity crowd for the rally.

A roll of drums drowned out the noise of splashing water as three heroic freshmen dragged through the mud of the college pond to bring back a sogging rope for their classmates to cling to.

For the first time in many years, the sophomores earned a legal victory, an accomplishment that gives credit to the Maroon Key, the athletic department, and "he is a cop, he ain't a cop" Blesco. But it also brought back memories of "the good old days" when anything went.

The onlookers reminisced about the time when some quaint individuals re-

Round Robins Start Greek Rushing Season

Round Robins for the fraternities were held last Sunday afternoon from 2-6 p.m., and Monday from 6-10 p.m.

The purpose of this annual affair is to enable the freshman to visit each fraternity, meet the members, and become acquainted with each house.

Transportation was provided by cars from each house. The men traveled in groups of twenty, each group accompanied by an I.F.C. member.

The sorority Round Robins will be held this weekend on Saturday, Oct. 27 from 1-5 p.m. and on Sunday, Oct. 28 from 1-5 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. The freshman women will be divided into three groups alphabetically, and each group will go at a different time. Seven groups of approximately twenty women will compose one of these main groups. Each will be accompanied by a Pan-Hellenic member.

The Round Robins are preliminary to rushing, which begins officially on December 2. At that time, the fraternities and sororities will give out bids.

150 Attend Gala French Soiree To Hear Consul-General of France

A capacity audience of over 150 students, professors, and townspeople filled Old Chapel Auditorium last Wednesday night, Oct. 17, when M. Albert Chambon, Consul-general of France and speaker at the All-University Soiree de Gala, spoke on the current situation in France.

M. Chambon, guest of honor, began his diplomatic career with service in China. Later he was attached to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and served as an expert at the League of Nations. During World War II, M. Chambon saw action at the front and was awarded the Croix de Guerre in 1940. He then joined the liberation movement as chief of the information service. Arrested by the Gestapo in 1944, he spent the next several months in concentration camps in Germany, finally returning to France in 1945 when he was appointed Consul-general to New England.

The program opened at 4 p.m. in Old Chapel Seminar with Mr. Geoffroy Atkinson, professor of French at Amherst College, speaking on the character of Derville in Balzac's works.

At 7, M. and Mme. Chambon were dinner guests of the French department and of the French House at Butterfield. Immediately following M. Chambon's talk, a group of French students in costume presented a program of folk dancing representing the various provinces of France. Mario Bruni, '53, was director of the dancing. Two Air France movies in color on Paris and the Riviera were shown. The guests then proceeded to Mem Hall where a reception was held in honor of M. Chambon. Jane McBrien, '52, was in charge.

Professors Stowell C. Goding and Robert B. Johnson of the French department were co-chairmen of the Soiree sponsored by the faculty and students of the Romance Languages department. High school students and their teachers from nearby towns were present for all events of the program.

United Nations Official To Be Campus Guest

Dr. H. A. Wieschoff, Chief of Provincial Research and Analysis of the Trusteeship Council of the United Nations will be guest speaker of the International Relations Club Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Skinner Auditorium.

The UN week speaker was contacted by telephone at Lake Success by a geology graduate student, Olatunji Fabiyi, a personal friend of the speaker.

Because of his background in political science, history, and anthropology, Prof. Wieschoff was called by the United Nations to head the important provincial research division of the Trusteeship Council.

In the early phase of UN organizational work, Dr. Wieschoff worked as associate of Dr. Ralph Bunche, last year's Nobel Peace Prize winner.

A top authority on African colonial policies, Dr. Wieschoff was general editor of a series of books published by the University of Pennsylvania on African affairs.

Dr. Wieschoff leaves for Paris for the General Assembly meetings beginning Nov. 6.

An American educated in the U.S. and Germany, Dr. Wieschoff is on leave of absence from the University of Pennsylvania where he is professor of Anthropology and Linguistics.

DePaur Concert Scores Hit

by Judy Broder

Some 2,300 students and faculty members as well as townspeople and students of the neighboring colleges attended the DePaur Infantry Chorus Concert last Thursday night in the Cage, and by the one standard we have of measuring their enthusiasm, applause, were delighted with the performance.

Despite uncomfortable seating accommodations, the audience begged the Chorus to do two encores and I do not doubt that they would have sat through a half dozen more if they could have prevailed upon the artists to comply with the wish which the applause implied. I have never enjoyed a concert more.

This is the third time I have seen this group perform. Each time I see them, they sound better; so does "Roger Young", apparently one of their favorites and definitely one of mine after hearing DePaur's arrangement and rendition.

Their Latin American Songs are extremely lively and appealing. I am amazed at the smoothness of the variety of tunes and rhythms. Mr. DePaur deserves a great deal of credit for his arrangements and for the discipline of the Chorus, which is evident by their perfect response to his slightest signal. A deaf person, by watching the director, could know exactly what was heard.

The enunciation was excellent. Having heard "Lili Marlene" countless times, I was finally able to understand every word. The same holds true for the other numbers.

DePaur seems to have overcome every obstacle in choral directing. This concert was evidence of the excellence which can be achieved among singers. Every soloist had a beautiful voice, probably every man in the group is capable of solo work, yet together they bring the kind of music which an audience can listen to for hours.

And they left their audience here at the right psychological moment—when they were still wanting more. I somehow think that no matter when they had ended the program, the audience would have been left with the same feeling.

Dr. Boas Discusses Merits of Socialism

First speaker of the year to address the International Relations Club will be Assistant Professor of History Dr. Marie Boas of the University faculty, who will speak on Britain Today at a meeting to be held at Skinner Auditorium tomorrow evening, Oct. 17, at 7.

Dr. Boas, who visited England and the Continent this summer, had an opportunity to observe English socialism at first-hand. During her 10-week stay in England, she devoted most of her time to a research-project in London. Dr. Boas visited Festival-of-Britain sites in London and

Sig Ep Cut 60 Percent By IFC Ruling

The Interfraternity Council Judiciary Board found Sigma Phi Epsilon guilty of violating Section IV, No. 3 of the Interfraternity Council rushing rules. The rule states: "Fraternity men shall not enter the dormitories to visit freshmen or to discuss therein the subject of entering a fraternity with them before and during rushing." As a result of the verdict, the fraternity has been limited to ten pledges during the first semester rushing.

Milton Crane, prosecuting attorney, stated that the Interfraternity Council based its charge on the following facts: rushing pamphlets were turned in to the Council by a minimum of two freshmen; Mr. Edward Camara, an alumnus of the fraternity, favored Sigma Phi Epsilon in a discussion of fraternities. Mr. Crane also stated that the rules were approximately the same this year as last and there-

Brooks House Tops Drive For Donations

The Christian Activities Fund Drive ended on Friday of last week with Brooks and Thatcher winning honors for the dorms, the S.A.E. and Pi Phi groups having the largest contributions from the Greek letter houses. Boxes of cigars were awarded to the men's dorm and house on Monday with boxes of candy going to the women's residences.

The campaign at Brooks House, which had the largest total contribution of any unit, was led by Dick Robbins, '55, Chairmen for the other houses were: Nancy Meader, '53, Thatcher; Irene Finan, '52, Pi Phi; and Earl Mitchell, '52, S.A.E. Over $200 was collected to underwrite such student conferences as the Freshman Cabin Party and the Day Conferences held three or four times a year on Saturdays, and to defray the cost of all-student Christian Activities which include the Christmas Vespers and the University Embassy. Community Service projects carried on the S.C.A. in Amherst and at Camp Anderson in Shutesbury are also supported by this fund.

International Relations

At this time of international tension and unrest, an organization on our campus, the International Relations Club, is in the process of strengthening itself and its policies. By inviting prominent speakers to address the men and women, both student and faculty, on the current world situation, the IRC hopes to promote an interest and better understanding of world affairs.

In a desire to select speakers who have information on very current affairs, last week the group sponsored Miss Marie Boas, Ph.D., of our history department who discussed Great Britain at precisely the time when elections are to take place in that country.

By a fortunate coincidence a member of our faculty was able to contact a friend of his who is an outstanding authority on the Middle East. This man, Dr. H. A. Wieschoff, a member of the United Nations Council, will speak for the IRC this Thursday night.

Dr. Wieschoff is especially well-versed on the subject of Africa, which is of the utmost importance now that the Egyptians are attempting to get control of the Suez Canal at a time when they are in no position to support or to protect this vital link in our commercial and social affairs. Egypt's attempt is a threat to the NATO establishment, and if successful may mean a great loss to its member nations.

As mature and interested citizens of the United States and the world, it is vital that we keep abreast with current events. The IRC is giving us an opportunity to learn many important facts about the world situation. We really owe it to ourselves to support this organization for in so doing we shall reap the benefits of all that it has to offer. We have everything to gain by attending these discussions.

THIS EXCHANGING WORLD

by Selma Garbowit

What are we going to do about improving school spirit? The answer to this question has been pondered over by many students on many college campuses. Practically every college has at one time or another been faced with the same problem.

Tufts in trying to find a solution has come up with a new organization in the annals of its history called the Order of the Coffee Pot. The Tufts Weekly says "It operates as a secret society to foster good fellowship and to promote school spirit. Its model, that of Bowling Green College in Kentucky, is a self-perpetuating order containing two members from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes. The society will function in absolute secrecy. Nobody, except Dean Kelley knows the identities of its members.

"As part of its activities the Bowling Green group distributes leaflets and posters about its campus on the eve of athletic events. It publicizes school and club activities in many and humorous ways.

"The students continuously try to expose members by catching them in action. This game of hide and seek has produced among the student body a high fraternal spirit and has added immensely to the spirit of the college.

"The Order of the Coffee Pot has borrowed its name from an old Tufts brotherhood, founded in 1858, whose duties were to organize school activities. The members usually made their plans over a pot of hot coffee. The club, however, was not secret nor was its membership limited in any way.

"The six members of the present Order have been chosen by Dean Kelley for their high Tufts spirit. He is to be the only middle man between the Coffee Pots and the rest of the college. They are to function when the impulse moves them and will have affiliations with no other club or group on campus.

"Every spring, the two senior members will be revealed by "The Tufts Weekly." The remaining members will select two new men from the freshman class shortly after the revelation. Should any man in the order be exposed before his time, he will be replaced by one of his own classmen and will be an inactive member of the group.

"Once a person has been admitted into the organization, his membership will extend to the end of his college career. The society has the sanction of the administration and provisional recognition by the Student Council. It will be free to operate in any reasonable manner and will not usurp power or duties of any other group..

"Each member of the Order will be given a silver charm, bearing the inscription "Order of the Coffee Pot-Founded 1858-Tufts." It will, however, never be displayed on campus, except by those who may have been exposed.

I would like to mention at this time that the spirit shown here this past week-end was wonderful. The student body on this campus proved to the football team that they were behind them 100 percent. However in the past, school spirit had been at a low ebb, and we only hope that the high peak reached this week-end will continue for the remaining games, especially for the one with Tufts. If student apathy, on the other hand, should return we may find it necessary to do something about it, and an organization such as that formed at Tufts may prove helpful. It is my opinion, however, that University of Mass. students will not need any coffee pot to perk them up.

YOUR SENATE

by John Heintz

ED. NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles concerned with the workings of the Student Senate. It is hoped that through these articles the student body will have a better insight into the many phases of campus life with which the Senate deals.

There are 89 separate organizations on our campus, of which 4 are governmental bodies, 4 honorary societies, 12 academic activities, 22 departmental clubs, 21 special interest groups, 18 greek letter societies, and 8 religious organizations. Can an undergraduate university of 2600 students support properly, all of these groups?

The answer to this question is obvious: no. However, the problem created by this situation is much more difficult to solve. Last year, as activities chairman, I heard widespread reports of a lack of interest in many of our organizations. The band was always trying to get support for its concerts, the Collegian and radio station were always shorthanded. These are only a few examples of a problem which affected almost every group. It is within the power and it is a moral obligation of the Senate to remedy this, but how to go about this is another matter. The only way is to reduce this number.

At the outset you can discount the governmental and honorary groups. It would be harmful to eliminate any one of these. The academic activities receive enough support or have a program worthy enough to justify their existance. There are not enough greek letter societies now. It would be intollerent to touch the religious groups. That leaves the departmental clubs and the special interest groups. Is it fair to eliminate any of these groups; or rather, how can anyone establish a fair system to reduce this number?

If a required number of members were set it would either have to be too low to do any good, or inequities would result because of differences existing in the nature and drawing power of their programs. I have heard only one suggestion as to how this can be done. This idea will seem wild at first, but thinking about it for a while, you will see its merit. Every four years abolish all departmental clubs and special interest groups. If the students, and I stress students, not department heads and former advisors, have enough desire and interest the group would be started up again by these interested parties. If this sort of a system were put into effect, some of the special interest groups would have to be reclassified. Such groups as the radio station, the Women's Athletic Association, and the Varsity "M" Club could not by their very nature be included. Departmental clubs, connected with national organizations also could not be included.

Just a few words on departmental clubs. The department heads will all violently disagree with me at this suggestion. However, the only activity engaged in by these groups (activities that are not carried out by other groups, that is) is bringing speakers to our campus to lecture about certain professions or fields.

Couldn't this be done through departmental convocations? Why do these clubs, which actually serve no purpose that can't be handled just as easily through assemblies, have to crowd the calendar, and withdraw student support from other activities?

As it is students spend much of their time on their major field, why take the time they should be spending on recreational activities for this purpose? You charge that they don't have to belong to the departmental club, but every student hates to miss a visiting lecturer that all the professors in his major department are going to be raving about for weeks. To me, departmental clubs seem asinine. Some of the programs are interesting, but they prevent a student from belonging to a club which will broaden his knowledge and experience.

There are definitely too many organizations competing for student time. Because of a crowded calendar, no group is receiving proper support. If these suggestions seem impractical, it is because this is a difficult problem to solve. It is the toughest that our student government faces. There must be a solution soon, before the activities such as our publications, music groups, dramatics, and radio station are forced to curtail their programs because of a lack of members, support, and interest.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

We are the men who led the demonstration at the Homecoming football game and we would like to answer that fiery editorial of yours. During the cheerleaders' endeavor to organize the fans we co-operated and devoted our undiminished zeal to enliven our team on to victory. We bellowed the cheers at the rallies, screamed at the games, and drowned out some of our alumni and alumnae while striving to help our team bring the ball over that goal line. Our spirited group always cheered with the cheerleaders and never against them; however I think that your editorials should be directed to those students who are busy entertaining their dates at the football games and just can't find time to squeeze in a few vehement yells for our boys on the field. The Freshman class is doing all the work, why don't the upperclassmen set the example?

fore there was no reason that the fraternity should not be aware of what they were because the rules were read, explained, and ratified by the Interfraternity Council, of which the accused fraternity is a member as of May, 1951. The freshmen concerned were then called to the stand to state the conditions under which they saw the rushing matter.

John Heintz, defending attorney for Sigma Phi Epsilon, stated that the fraternity was not guilty as charged because Mr. Camara graduated in 1950, and the rules have been changed considerably since then. He was not aware of the restriction. He also pointed out that Mr. Camara would not have received the rushing booklets had the fraternity realized that he would be enrolled in the graduate school this fall. It was also contended that the fraternity did not receive an official copy of the rules until after the offense had taken place.

In the subsequent questioning and cross-examining it was brought out that a third freshman had been contacted but not summoned to the trial. At one point during the questioning, one of the freshmen stated that he had been requested to destroy the booklet by Mr. Camara. This charge was dropped under close cross examining, however.

One of the witnesses stated that Mr. Camara implied that his house was the best, while the other stated that the defendent spoke at great length about several of the houses and did not favor his house by any direct statements.

Mr. Camara, in a very detailed account, stated that he only passed out the literature as an example of what fraternities are like. He also pointed out that he had tried only to be helpful to the freshmen and that he had no intention of rushing them for Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Mr. Halsey Allen, chief justice, delivered the guilty verdict, after an hour of deliberation.

Redmen Ram Rams 40-7; Worst Beating In Years

by Jerry Goldman

The UMass Redmen ran up their highest score since 1949, as they romped over Rhode Island 40-7 at Alumni Field last Saturday. Gigi Howland scored three times, and Buster DiVincenzo, Noel Reebenacker and Charley Redman scored once, as the Eckmen tallied 26 first downs and a total yardage of 569 yards.

Early in the first quarter, UMass scored on a 4-play, 53 yard march. DiVincenzo carried for 12; Howland and Benoit went for 20 yards; DiVincenzo gained 10 more, and Howland scored from the 10 yard line. Rhode Island could do nothing with the ball, and Massachusetts scored again early in the second quarter. Howland and DiVincenzo handled the ball on the entire march with Howland finally going over from the one yard line. Don Smith kicked the point and Massachusetts led 13-0. The Redmen were in Rhode Island territory throughout the remainder of the period, but they couldn't score.

A fighting Rhode Island team took the field for the second half. They took the only Massachusetts punt of the game on their 28 yard line, and with Abbruzzi and Pina doing most of the ball carrying, the Rams scored after 6½ minutes had been played. From that point, the game was entirely Massachusetts. Howland scored his third TD of the game with four minutes remaining in the quarter. Smith again converted and UMass led 20-7. On the last play of the quarter, DiVincenzo scored on a 4 yard buck. A Benoit to Howland pass good for 23 yards set up the score.

Rhode Island took the following kickoff and marched to the UMass 16 yard line. Ted Piers intercepted a Rhody pass on the 11, and ran the ball back to midfield. Reebenacker gained 7, and a Reebenacker to Pyne pass was good for 42 yards putting the ball on the Rhode Island one yard line. Reebenacker then went from the 2. DiVincenzo kicked the point, and the final totals showed Massachusetts on the long end of a 40-7 score.

A happy UMass team carried Coach Tommy Eck off the field after the game... The last time the Redmen scored over 40 points was against Norwich in 1949 when the Redmen won 54-0... The smallest home crowd of the year saw UMass play there best ball of the year... Pina and Abruzzi of the Rhode Island club played fine ball... Howland and DiVincenzo sparkled in the UMass backfield... Prokopowich, Vafides, and Chambers played great games in the line... The entire team played a great game... The Redmen travel to Boston next Saturday to play Northeastern... If the team plays the same brand of ball as last Saturday, the Eckmen could upset Northeastern... Northeastern is rated as one of the best small college teams in New England... Let's see the entire student body in Boston next Saturday cheering the team on.

Frosh Harriers Beat Williams 15-44

The Redmen freshmen harriers made it two out of three last Friday as they posted a perfect score to win 15-44 over the Williams freshmen at Williamstown.

Finishing in a five way tie for first place for the Redmen were Pete Tripp, George Higgins, Billy Conlin, Dick Quigley, and Dino Equi.

Following several Williams men to the wire were Vern Bruneau, Ken Wilde, Dick Greene, and Paul Macinnis.

Stockbridge Loses Cross-Country Meet

The Stockbridge cross country team lost its first meet of the season last Thursday to the Amherst frosh 23-37. Lee Chisholm, one of the stars of last year's University freshman team, easily won the 2.4 mile race with a winning time of 14:53.1. His running mate Bob Nugent finished fourth.

Redmen Harriers Win 5th Straight Beat Williams 19-40

Traveling up to Williams College for their fifth meet of the current season, the varsity cross-country team scored their fifth win in succession to maintain their undefeated record. Although hampered by the loss of Captain Halsey Allen who has been sidelined at least temporarily by an ailing kidney, the varsity harriers romped to a 19-40 victory. Coach Derby's winning trio of Harry Aldrich, Burt Lancaster and Hank Knapp covered the 3.7 mile course in 21:03. The Ephmen managed to take the fourth and fifth places with Banta and Wilson of Williams finishing about 150 yards behind the three leaders. However, the Redmen finished strong as George McMullin, Casey Stengle, and George Goding finishing in the next three slots.

The team will face one of their strongest opponents of the current campaign when they travel to Franklin Park to race a powerful Boston College team. The BC harriers lost their first race last week to an undefeated Tufts squad.

Intramurals

The intramural football program is rapidly moving forward. Two more teams dropped out of the undefeated class to narrow the number down to only three in both leagues.

In League A, SAE is sailing along on top with a 5-0 record. In second place is AEPi with a 5-1 record closely followed by Lambda Chi and Kappa Sig both with a 4-1 record.

In League B, Middlesex and Berkshire B are still battling it out for top honors as they both remained undefeated.

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

Now that the Redmen have finally played the type of game that they were capable of, the campus is beginning to rally behind them. The biggest topic of conversation around the campus is about the possibility of the team knocking Northeastern out of the unbeaten class this Saturday.

Last Saturday's game produced stars galore. In the backfield, Gigi Howland, Jack Benoit, and Buster DiVincenzo played their outstanding games of the year. Gigi was consistently called upon for necessary yardage and always came through. His three T.D.s testify to that. Buster maintained his high average of ground gains that he started in the Williams contest. Jack Benoit mixed his passing and running plays to keep the Redmen moving when the team's offensive drives threatened to slow down.

In the line, Nobby Nolan played his usual brilliant brand of ball as he smeared the Rams plays while opening up big holes for the Redmen backs. Tony Chambers was equally great as he broke up many of the Rams end sweeps.

The team finally broke loose. In addition to getting the breaks for about the first time this year, the Redmen started fast and were never stopped. If they played this type of game all year, we would be undefeated now instead of having a mediocre 2-2 record.

After much guessing, I finally managed to get the varsity football schedule for next year. A quick look reveals several surprising additions and subtractions. The Redmen are dropping Springfield College. Williams and Vermont are dropping us (Vermont because they claim we are subsidizing athletes and they are below our class). We are adding Brandeis, New Hampshire, and Connecticut to the varsity schedule. More about this later.

The varsity soccer team has been getting smeared rather consistently this year. However, there is one

Little Indians Still Unbeaten; BeatUConn6-0

The U. of M. freshmen won their second straight game Friday, beating the University of Connecticut 6-0. The Redmen dominated the game as they rolled up over 250 yards by rushing while limiting the Huskies to four first downs. Penalties and fumbles cost the Little Indians two potential touchdown drives.

The only score came late in the fourth period after the Redmen had stopped a Connecticut threat on their three. The frosh stormed back with a 97 yard march featured by the passing of Frank McDermott. The score came on a 15 yard pass from McDermott to John Porter, the same combination that gave the team their opening victory against New Hampshire last week.

Coach Ball was greatly pleased with the work of both his defensive and offensive squads. John DiDiaso and Dick Mallon got off several long runs, while Frank McDermott was outstanding in his passing as he completed four during the touchdown drive.

Next Friday, the little Redmen will try to make it three straight as they tangle with a highly rated Holy Cross J. V. team.

bright spot on the team—the play of Al Hoelzel. Hoelzel at the present time is second in scoring in the N. E. Intercollegiate Soccer League, trailing Eames of Amherst by only three goals. Hoelzel seems to be a cinch to make all New England, and perhaps the All-American soccer team.

In the intramural league, the unbeaten teams are barrowing down. In the fraternity league, SAE is riding high as the only unbeaten team in the league. In the dormitory league, Berkshire B and Middlesex are still battling it out for top honors as both teams are still unbeaten.

The varsity cross country team seems headed for their first undefeated year in a long time. With the New Englands and the IC4A coming up, the Redmen will present a strong threat for the championship.

leased the gates of the pond, and drained off all the surface water, so that the frosh went to their fate with the sight of one vast mud basin before them. They talked of the different makes of cars, trucks, and jeeps used to assist the poor sophs slide their rivals into the muddy depths. They talked of the bruised trees and telephone poles that were damaged while being used as anchor man for the second year muscle-men.

One consolation of remaining tradition was the sight of those overworked villains, the Maroon Key being heaved into the muck, one at a time. One of the not-so-brave sights involved some few members removing their hats and silently sneaking away from the scene of battle.

Well, now that it's over, let's take a look at what is yet to come. After lauding the athletic department for the job they did with only a few days notice, plans are under way (through Mr. Benjamin Ricci) for making this tradition have some real meaning, as is done in most schools throughout the country.

One of the poor points of this pull was the manner in which the soph contestants were chosen. "Any sophs want to join? We need twenty more sophs. Are there any juniors? Any seniors? Any body?"

This will all be eliminated next year when a selected group will pass physical exams before the pull. A suggestion to have co-eds, representing each of the two classes, go through a flipping of the coin ceremony to determine which team will pull "uphill," is under consideration. A ceremony in which the losing side carries the rope back to the cage for drying has been colored by the thought of having co-eds of the winning crowd assist the boys via the paddle route.

All these ideas are fine, but leave out the two main improvements that will need everyone's cooperation. First, and foremost, the pull must have meaning. The proper way is for it to be required of freshmen to wear their beanies until either Thanksgiving or a victory in the rope pull. That way, there will be that important purpose, or incentive, to see that the event is carried out competantly and fairly. This order would be of no value without rigid enforcement, however.

The second thought, entails strict adherance to the rules that may be established. Other colleges, minus the fortune of having a pond, have successful pulls over a white line, because the frosh have everything to lose, pride and beanies; the sophs nothing but an increase in freshman class and University spirit.

No. 22...THE WOODPECKER

Woodrow almost bit off more than he could chew when he tackled the cigarette tests! But he pecked away 'til he smoked out the truth: Such an important item as mildness can't be tossed off in a fleeting second! A "swift sniff" or a "perfunctory puff" proves practically nothing! He, like millions of smokers, found one test that doesn't leave you up a tree.

It's the sensible test ... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke—on a day-after-day basis. No snap judgments! Once you've enjoyed Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Senate Officers

The result of the Student Senate election of officers—ties for the presidency and vice-presidency—has left us with an infinite number of questions and a limited number of conclusions. Since our questions far outweigh our conclusions, it behooves us to place these inquiries before the student body for consideration.

How can two men be equally suitable for these most important positions on our campus? Will the president of the 1951-52 Student Senate be a favorite by only one or two votes? On what are the Senators basing their decisions when they cast their votes?

How do re-elected Senators and past Senators feel about the candidates for these offices; for whom are they speaking and voting? Doesn't it seem that they should know who is the most capable man? Since one candidate for each office is a former Senator, are the other former Senators in favor of these men? Here we have one of our few conclusions: all of the former Senators spoke in favor of Pehrson; only one person spoke for each candidate for the vice-presidency, the one in favor of Audette was a former Senator, the speaker for Walter was not.

It is a shame that (to adapt a popular cliche) old Senators fade away because it would be interesting to discover how they feel about the present situation. Estimating the freshman Senators as about ⅓ of the entire body, we ask who is influencing their voting.

It has been reported by reliable sources that one of the presidential candidates has been accused of trying to become a campus dictator (as if there were a possibility that any student could) by usurping all of the important offices on campus. This man is engaged in one other campus activity and holds no office in that group. His opponent, however, has several official positions on campus in varied activities. Granted, this proves that he is a popular man, but what does it say for his ability to control the Student Senate? Here we shall insert another conclusion: in order to accomplish any action, the Senate must have a strong president, one who can devote his time to efficiently carrying out the duties of this office. Were these facts taken into consideration when the aforementioned statement was made? Did that obviously false statement influence the decisions of freshmen and other Senate members who have never before participated in Senate activities? We would conclude that it did and that it would have operated on us in the direction against the accused "dictator" if it hadn't been that we knew the facts from following the activities of most students through our work on the Collegian.

Having posed a few pertinent questions, having inserted a few conclusions, and having clarified one or two points in question, we should like to quote from other campus publications and to comment on the implications of unwise choices for officers of important campus organizations.

The Baloo, University of Baltimore—"Study your candidates and know them well... For once they are in office there is little you can do until the following year." A truer statement was never made; let's not regret our decisions for the rest of the year.

The Pitt News, University of Pittsburgh—"The calamity of student elections is that it makes no difference who gets elected. Student government is not a voice of the students but a football for the individual candidate's prestige."

We do not advocate such a calamity for our campus government; there are enough popularity contests on campus without making one out of this serious election. Let's make our Senate strong!

New Modern Dining Hall Will Cost $800,000; Building to be Situated in Women's Quadrangle

Plans and specifications for the new $800,000 dining hall were completed last week it was announced today by Treasurer Robert Hawley.

The plans call for a two-story building with a center section three stories high. Glass and brick will predominate in construction and the building will be of a modernistic design, with emphasis on simple lines.

The ground floor will contain a snack bar off a terrace on the west side of building. The rest of the floor will be occupied by offices, coatrooms and storage space.

The second floor will contain three dining halls. A new twist in the project will be that each of these rooms will have their individual serving lines. Each serving line will be separated from its particular dining room. One dining room will serve 250, so that approximately 1800 students can be served at each meal.

In addition, a small third floor area is provided for varying groups of up to 150. The largest of the three private rooms on this floor will seat about 75.

Treasurer Hawley reported that the plans had received final approval of the Massachusetts Public Building Commission. This group visited the campus last week.

"Mr. Nichols and the other commission members have been very cooperative in the planning of this much-needed building," Mr. Hawley said.

The new dining hall will be south of the women's dormitory quadrangle section of the 800-acre campus. There will be entrances on three sides.

Maloney and Tessier of Springfield are the architects of the project.

The present main dining hall of the University, Draper Hall, was built in 1903. Since the end of World War II more than $10,000,000 has been spent on new buildings, and the present to-

SENATE ROPE PULL — WHICH WAY?

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

Once again, the male members of the freshman class are in the middle of rushing. Their life is one constant whirl of smokers, free meals, and high pressure rushing talks by the members of the various fraternities on campus. In an effort to aid the freshmen in making their choice wisely, there are a few suggestions that they would do well to heed.

First of all let us consider the matter of fraternity on this campus. Fraternity men will tell you that it is indispensable to belong to a fraternity. In this respect, they are completely correct: the social life of this campus revolves around the Saturday night dances at the various fraternities; the meals are much better than those found in our campus cafeterias; but even more important, the friendships formed in fraternity are lasting ones, much more lasting than the few friendships that one may make in a dormitory.

You will be told that one fraternity is cheaper than another, that one house is materially better than another, that this chapter has 500 chapters throughout the country. You will be told many things in the next week. You will reach a point at which you are completely and utterly confused. Some of you will make a hasty choice simply to end the confusion once and for all.

You should realize that joining a fraternity is the most serious step of your college career. The wrong choice can mean the difference between a happy four years or a completely miserable four years. What should you look for in a fraternity?

Most important, look at the guys in the fraternity. You will be associating with them for the next four years. You will be known as a member of such and such a fraternity. Your actions reflect on them just as their actions reflect on you. You will be living and eating with these men. Make sure that they are the type of men with whom you would prefer to be associated.

The next thing to consider is the financial problems that arise when you join a fraternity. Make sure that you are completely aware of all charges that may be levied on you before you incur the expenses of a fraternity. Remember, every house on campus has some sort of arrangement for those who are not financially well off. If the only reason that keeps you from joining a fraternity is lack of funds, speak to the men in the house in which you are interested. Some arrangement is usually possible.

However, there is one important thing that you should remember. Do not rush into a decision. Take your time and make sure you have made the right choice. No fraternity wants a man who is not sure about his choice. If you are not sure, wait until second semester. There are worse things in the world than waiting until second semester to pledge. The fraternities will be just as glad to see you then. To quote an old adage, it is better to be safe than sorry. Try to make as rational a choice as possible.

Letters To The Editor

SENATE ELECTIONS

To the Editor:

At last Tuesday night's Senate meeting the newly-elected Senators voted for their officers. The vote, as many know, ended in a tie for the positions of president and vice-president.

It is my honest opinion that this should have been no contest at all since the men of experience and ability should have won without any trouble.

As a former Senate member, I know what Mr. Pehrson and Mr. Audette have done to make the Senate a stronger and smoother-running organization. It is inconceivable to me that they should not be placed in the positions in which they are most needed.

It has been my experience that unless the newly-elected Senators are guided by their more experienced members, the first semester is a total waste of time—time lost in gaining experience.

This is an appeal to the members of the Senate to elect officers who will do credit to not only the student body, but to the Senate itself.

Edward Tyler, Jr.

DUE CREDIT?

To the Editor:

It is an old tradition on the campus that the COLLEGIAN is notoriously inaccurate. However, this story seems to have reached some vestige of truth in Tuesday's edition in the float parade story. Nowhere in the story does the reporter give credit where credit is due. The people who deserve much of the credit for making the rally one of the best in years were Shelley Saltman and the men who helped him, such as Ed Jasinski, Bud Sheiber, and Dave Lamkin. These men worked long and hard to make the rally a success. They were not looking for credit and perhaps it is just as well since they got none from the Collegian.

The Collegian is supposed to report all the news. Let's see it do so without holding any of the facts back.

Bud Leibman
Marvin Reeber

Ed. Note: If you read the report on the rally carefully, you would have seen that it was mainly concerned with the float parade which was the largest in the history of the University. It is the opinion of the Collegian that the success of the rally on the whole was due, not to the performers in Bowker, of whom nobody had advance notice, but rather to the successful organization effected by Adelphia and Isogon, especially Milt Cyr and Irene Finan, co-chairmen, and to the all-out student participation.

The skits in Bowker were almost anti-climactic since the spirit had been aroused before the rallyers reached the auditorium.

Incidentally, nowhere in the section of the Handbook on tradition is there a tradition for inaccuracy in the college newspaper.

SCHOOL SPIRIT—HUMBUG!

To the Editor:

School spirit, school spirit—humbug. If one must become hysterical over the position of a leather ball, then the only sign of hope is that not everyone is given to such hysteria. For years the library, for instance, has been incompetently managed—has anyone on the Collegian ever suspected that a better library might bring us more school spirit? The Collegian's preoccupation with inanities hardly confirms the slogan "A Free and Responsible Press", for it is obviously not responsible, in any mature sense, and one wonders if it is free.

Philip Franke

Ed. Note: Where is your sense of school spirit? We are not a group of worn out researchers. Most of us are still young, and college activities are an important phase of our lives. Sitting behind the stacks in the Lib does not go very far in inspiring us with any great enthusiasm; we want to have a little fun while we can.

Considering the many mature activities which the Collegian encourages along with its enthusiastic support of athletics and other student organizations, we feel that our press is fulfilling the responsibilities which it claims.

Redmen Face Northeastern; Hope To Upset Huskies

by Jerry Goldman

The University of Massachusetts Redmen travel to Boston tomorrow to meet undefeated Northeastern University, in a game which has been touted as the best game in New England. The Redmen are confident that they can knock Northeastern from the ranks of unbeaten teams. A report of last Saturday's performance, which saw the Redmen trounce Rhode Island 40-7, will do the trick.

UMass and Northeastern, have both played Rhode Island and Bates. The Eckmen defeated Bates 21-0, and Rhode Island 40-7. Northeastern has defeated Rhode Island 21-0, and last Saturday they trounced Bates 41-13. The comparative scores show how evenly matched the two teams are, and a terrific game is in prospect, as both teams reach mid-season form.

Main thorns in the side of the Redmen figure to be Tinker Connolly and Sal Lombardo. Connolly, the passer, has completed about 50% of his passes to date this year. Lombardo has been on the receiving end of most of the passes. Coach Tommy Eck has his charges working hard in an effort to stop this combination. The Redmen have also been working on their passing, with emphasis put on the receiving end. Jack Casey, Tony Chambers, Tony Szurek, and Jack Pyne all have looked good snagging the passes of Jack Benoit and Noel Reebenacker.

Veteran tackle Nobby Nolan has been used only sparingly in practice this week. Nobby had a few teeth removed early in the week, but he will be ready to play his usual great game in the line tomorrow. The defensive backfield will probably be the same one which stopped Rhode Island cold. Ted Piers, Billy Rex, Jack Wofford, and Noel Reebenacker make up this defensive unit. Gigi Howland, Buster DiVincenzo, and Captain Jack Benoit are all ready to play a repeat of last Saturday's great offensive game.

The coaching staff would like to see a repeat of last year's game which saw the Redmen administer a 26-7 defeat to Northeastern.

The field hockey inter-class competition ended last week with the Sophomores coming out as the victors. Every game was a battle and the girls played with their hearts and souls. Great spirit and good sportsmanship were displayed by all classes.

As always, the field hockey season was ended with a trip to the Univ. of Rhode Island. This year, however, the Univ. of Conn. made it a triple header. The first game between R.I. and Conn. ended in a 0-0 tie. Mass. won the second game 2-0 from the U. of Conn. The final game R.I. came out on top of the U .of M. 1-0.

The nineteen girls who were sent down to R.I. included players from all classes. These girls were chosen by the field hockey manager, Ann Cotten, according to their ability, sportsmanship, and game attendance.

Middlesex 14; Berkshire 13; Bombers Upset

How the mighty have fallen. The Berkshire Bombers, intramural champions for the last two years, have finally been beaten. The club that couldn't be stopped, the club that rolled up 33 straight games without a defeat, has been beaten. Winner in one of the year's closest games was a powerful Middlesex team, a team that has now won eight straight games and seems destined to be the new champions.

Did the Bombers lose like champions? Good question. Not satisfied with winning one game by forfeit on Tuesday night, the team decided to play Middlesex then instead of next Monday when they were scheduled.

They even played without their starting team. So wha' hoppen? Middlesex 14-Berkshire B 13. Hail the new champions. May they reign long and strong.

Aggies Beat Suffield Acad. For 2nd Win

The School of Stockbridge's football team defeated Suffield Academy 6-0 last Friday to take their second straight win.

The Aggies again went out on the field last week and did a good job both offensively and defensively. Captain Fred Kelly did a good job of ball carrying in helping to drive 70 yards for the Stockbridge TD. Captain Kelly took the ball to his opponents 5 yard line and Paul McGrath went over for the TD. With Fred Gummon tossing the ball to Austin Smith, Bob Frederico, and Frank Mortines 8 passes were completed for the Blue

Frosh Soccer Team Loses

The Freshman soccer team was defeated 6-0, in their second start of the season by a good Amherst Frosh team.

The first half was all Amherst with the Redmen goal being almost continually bombarded by the Amherst booters. Amherst picked up a pair of goals in each of the first two periods and led 4-0 at half time.

In the second half, the little Redmen fought Amherst on more even terms and held the winners to one goal in each of the last two periods, both of which came on penalty kicks.

Mass. Lineup—Cornelius, Sully, Pattern, Parker, Center, Ferrier, Bavineau, Baum, Brady, Landy and Dean. Spares: Melachrino, Beaudry and Kline.

The little Redmen Soccer team lost their third straight decision, 2-1, to Monson High in a closely fought game.

Bavineau, of the Redmen, booted in their lone score, which incidentally is the first that the frosh have made this season.

The frosh have been improving steadily and hope to break their losing streak and get into the win column at the expense of Williston when they meet Saturday afternoon.

and White and 2 Suffield passes were intercepted. Defensively the Aggies allowed Suffield to gain only 11 yards on the ground and saw them only once within their own 50 yard line. Completing only one pass, Suffield was only able to make two first downs against fourteen for the Aggies.

Although the Aggies were able to gain much yardage they were not able to score too often because of the numerous penalties they received mainly when near their opponents goal.

At defense both Pete Elliot, a novice out for the team only two days, and Goose Gossline starred. Joe Freitas, Aggies' outstanding back, was only used to kick off, having been hurt in the first game with Vermont Academy.

EDITORIAL:

The Press and Politics

The Collegian has been accused in the lowest type of letter of being unethical in printing last Friday's editorial. There has been nothing unethical in our stand. It is not only the privilege, but the responsibility of the editorial column of a newspaper to take a stand on such an issue. Here we should like to insert a few sentences which were written in a term paper on the subject of editorials. "The courage to take a stand on current problems is one of the prime needs of the editor. A neutral editor does not serve the purpose. He cannot lead or drive the community to action if he is not brave enough to set a policy and stick to it."

In this case the editor of the Collegian did not arbitrarily decide to back Mr. Pehrson for the presidency of the Senate. We are not "mud-slingers" by nature, nor do we like to hear of mud being thrown at a fellow who is honestly running for an office. The statement was made that Pehrson is trying to take over the campus, and it incensed the members of the Collegian editorial board, who petitioned the editor to write that editorial in Pehrson's defense.

The editor of the Collegian had no intention of interfering in this matter until the aforementioned statement was reported to us by our Senate reporter.

We were originally not of a mind to favor either candidate. However, when we were advised that it was about time that the Collegian took a stand, we decided to favor the experienced Senators who, in our opinion (which we have every right to expound in this column whether or not some people are intelligent enough to realize it), are the most capable men for the offices. This is our stand and we are determined to go to all lengths to stick to it. The Collegian is a free and responsible press! Yes free, and we cannot be intimidated by all the dirty politics and juvenile, insinuating letters from here to Turner's Falls and back.

Here I have a few words for Mr. Litwack. To date only a handful of the three thousand students have expressed their opinions on the political issue at hand. Surely you don't consider these few "everybody". I have already stated the ethical fitness of the Collegian's stand and have no need to say more about that. As for your insinuation that the editorial board did not agree with our stand, Mr. Litwack, get the facts or the facts will get you. We regret, concerning our so-called biased viewpoint, that we were so subtle. It is detrimental to our publication to receive letters like Mr. Goldberg's which criticize our lack of firm convictions.

So Mr. Litwack thinks that the freshmen are looking to the Collegian for a non-partisan viewpoint? Well, if the Senate discussion had remained "clean", the Collegian would also have stayed out of the picture. How can we be expected to give a clear picture to a group of students who are laboring under such a false idea as these unsuspecting ~~freshmen who were betrayed~~ at the last Senate meeting? When a man speaks in favor of a candidate, he is supposed to present positive facts in favor of his candidate, not untrue or defamatory statements about his opponent.

Now let's take a look at Mr. Litwack's harsh critique of our last editorial. In your first critical paragraph, you made your first mistake. We did not say that only one man was capable, we asked if two men were equally suitable. And since when have only two men been running for the office of President of the United States?

Unfortunately (for you), you put your foot in it again in paragraph 2. We definitely stated that all of the past senators spoke in favor of Pehrson. There are five of them, which equals (if your knowledge of elementary mathematics serves us correctly) four more than one. None of these men spoke against Mr. Alintuck, they simply presented the facts of Mr. Pehrson's experience and activity on the Senate last year.

FAUX PAS

by Bruce Fox

I wonder if second childhood shows itself as early as the collegiate stage. I wonder, because childishness seems to be the current disease attacking the campus. The wind carries: "Such a paper should be abolished." "It's a fraternity stand vs. personal influence." How a bunch of college people can kick a relatively important issue around is just plain pathetic.

As a member of the Collegian I was approached by many students and asked about the Collegian's right to take a stand. I was asked why the paper became "biased." I was asked if we had the "right" to print such opinion. What I told them, I shall tell you.

I personally have no say in editorial policy. However as a member of a campus organization I have the choice of either supporting such stands, or, stating my reasons, make my protest known and leave if there are no corrections made.

As far as right is concerned, as an organization, the Collegian has a constitution that governs its actions. The many clauses that sanctify the paper's actions are in the office for those with enough interest to check facts before shouting.

In relation to fraternity, one candidate has used his fraternity to "push" him as well as knock the other fellow, just as bad, if not worse, than some fraternity rushing. In regard to personal relations, any editorial that raises such questions as has the Collegian's stand, are brought to the policy board for approval. Indirectly, such was the action in this instance, with Richard Hafey, Executive Editor and chairman of the Policy Board, giving final approval. I am sure that Mr. Hafey has taken out neither of the candidates.

This column was originally planned to be humorous, but this Senatorial farce has taken on more than a funny face; like the opposition, it's pathetic.

The reason, as I see it, for the stand, is to wake up the students as to the growing danger of not investigating the things they hear. Before you make a decision, look carefully into, under, and through all superficial implications. The reason that even alumni have taken such an interest is apparently an indication that, even though they are no longer directly concerned with this specific incident, they are not content to see such a farce continue.

What kind of retalliation can or has to be offered in defense of a stand taken to clarify the issues involved

3616 Students at UM; Co-ed Enrollment Up

The number of coeds in the undergraduate college has increased from 787 in October 1950 to 1064 at present, and the total enrollment of the University has hit 3616 students, a report from the Office of Publications on registration revealed recently.

Approximately half of the 3015 undergraduates are majors in Liberal Arts and Science, the report showed, with the School of Engineering being the largest professional school with an enrollment of 392.

The four-year-old school of Business Administration is the next largest school at the State University, with an enrollment of 381.

The school of Agriculture and Horticulture has an enrollment today of 372 students, the report showed, with the school of Home Economics having an enrollment of 282.

Other facts on enrollment revealed by the report were that the Graduate School's present enrollment is 293 students, of which 29 are women, and that the enrollment of the two-year Stockbridge is 308. This school took the largest drop in enrollment. Stockbridge School had dropped from 409 last year to 308 this year.

The total enrollment of the University last year was 3524, ninety-two less than the enrollment today.

The report also showed that approximately one-third of the undergraduates today are women.

Queen For Hort Show To Be Chosen Thursday

The first of many campus queens will reign over the annual Horticulture Show, Nov. 1, 2, and 3.

The queen will be chosen on Thursday evening at 6:30 in the Cage by all students participating in the show. Her name will be announced on Friday evening when she and her two attendants begin their weekend reign.

Each course having a display at the show nominated two girls as candidates for the queen. The girls and the organizations sponsoring them are: Aboriculture, Freddie Dole and Jane Hartman; Line Turf, Janice Anderson and Jean Stringer; Floriculture, Marjorie Alden and Phyllis Sears; Forestry, Judith Sanders and Barbara Gates; Food Technology, Sally Marsh and Mary Granfield; Land Architecture, Marcia Warren and Leslie Crowsin; Olericulture, Carol Hartley and Jean Wallsten; Ornamental Horticulture, Gretchen Mathias and Dorothy Goodwin; Pomology, Jackie McCarthy and Beverly Giles; and Wildlife Management, Muriel Fauteux and Marilyn Tessicine.

Officers Elected To Scout Fraternity

The following officers were elected at the second organizational meeting of the National Scout Fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega: president, Ronald Mansback; vice-president, Edward Swenson; treasurer, Frederick Creed; corresponding secretary, Steven Sorrow; recording secretary, Charles Lincoln; and historian, Richard Beddow.

Committee chairmen elected were: program, fellowship, and social, Frank Satrines; service projects, Gil Waldbauer; publicity, Ralph Lawton; and membership expansion, Edward Swenson.

One of the first activities of the chapter will be the sending of a delegate to an annual conference of the Hampshire-Franklin Boy Scout Council.

Alpha Phi Omega is still open to any Scout or Scouter on campus, regardless of rank or time spent in Scouting, provided he is interested in becoming a charter member. It will not interfere in any way with joining any other fraternity.

"Light Up The Sky" Production To Use Sets of Cardboard

Corrugated cardboard will make up the set for "Light Up the Sky", to be produced by the Roister Doisters on Nov. 16 and 17. This is a revolution in construction of flats, according to the innovators, Prof. Arthur Niedeck and speech instructor, Mr. Hank Pierce.

As far as is known, this is the first time this method has been used for a full scale production. Ordinarily muslin is fastened to the wooden frames which form the panels of the background.

The action takes place in the living room of a hotel suite, which, in this production, is built of cardboard. A crew of Roister Doisters, building the set under Mr. Pierce's direction, is using an automatic stapler which will speed up the process.

Prof. Musgrave To Speak In Boston

Names of Honorary Colonel Finalist To Be Announced

The five finalists for Honorary Colonel were chosen this morning at Bowker Auditorium.

Their names will not be announced until the end of the week, it was disclosed by the publicity chairman, Clinton Wells.

"The Colonel wore Silk Stockings" is the theme behind a display in the library which shows some of the past Honorary Colonels.

One of these, Erma Alvord, is the immediate subject of this theme. There is a picture of her at the final revue where she is attired in a pair of sheer silk stockings in striking contrast to the now obsolete knee boots of the officer attending her.

The campus is invited to see if they can guess what year this picture was taken without resorting to research.

This display is just one of the many which will be used to publicize the ball.

SCA Fall Conference To Be Held Nov. 3

The Student Christian Association is now making plans for the annual Fall Day Conference to be held Saturday, Nov. 3, at the North Amherst Congregational Church.

The conference will open with registration at 3:30. The question to be discussed is "Can a Christian be an Isolationist?" Dr. James Laird, the main speaker, will present his views on the subject after which the students will discuss the topic in seminar groups led by members of the faculty. A question period will follow later in the evening. Supper and square dancing will be included in the program which will close at 11:30 with a candle-light service.

Transportation to and from the North Amherst Church will leave Skinner Hall at 3 and return about 12. The cost of the conference, including supper and registration, will be 75 cents.

Paragraph 3 shows that you are completely confused. We did not say a word about the senators who have not been re-elected. There is a question as to how many of them ran for re-election. There is no need to question their ability to testify to the capabilities of the re-elected Senators. Regardless of whether or not they were re-elected, they have had the opportunity to observe the action of the men who were re-elected and can certainly give pertinent information.

We have stated above that our "reliable source" was our own reporter.

We felt no need to enumerate the activities of the two candidates since the question was not one of their versatility but one of the right of a Senator to make an accusation against the integrity of another Senator.

Although this editorial is becoming longer and longer, we shall continue in order to get all the facts before the student body so that there will be no complaints. Among our letters to the editor was one which was signed by a boy who knew nothing about such a letter having been written. Is this why the Collegian should remain impartial? The letter was "loaded" with cryptic comments against the Collegian and also included several statements which were unadulterated libel. We are missing our deadline because our office is like Grand Central Station with people coming in and out of here to remove their names from letters to which they have found out their signatures were affixed without their knowledge. These have been letters against the Collegian and our stand on the current issue.

We have passed the point where we feel obliged to make any apologies for our past action unless we say that it was not strong enough. It is about time that people stopped to think before making rash statements. The Collegian would not go out on a limb for anyone or any principle without first being certain that its view was fair in the face of all the facts. We know what we are talking about which is more than many of our fellow-students can say. If we make a statement, we have proof behind it. We have not resorted to any false statements, mudslinging, or libel.

To paraphrase a statement of Dr. Samuel Johnson, we shall close by saying that we are not obliged to provide you with an understanding but we can provide you with an explanation.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

After reading the last issue of the Collegian, I just couldn't help but write this letter. As you know, I was extremely interestaed in the Senate as an undergraduate and as an alumnus I still am.

During my two terms as president of the senate, I had numerous occasions to work with Mr. Pehrson as chairman of the Election Committee and chairman of the Finance Committee. Without reservation I can truthfully say Mr. Pehrson did both jobs in a most remarkable manner. He was hard working and efficient, and most of all he was dependable. I cannot stress too much these qualities which the President of the Senate should, or rather has to possess.

The main factor, I think, in choosing this year's president should be experience. The president of the Senate needs a thorough understanding of parliamentary procedure, he must fully comprehend the Student Constitution, he must know the development of the Senate, the mistakes made and the honor won. All this is necessary for the proper guidance of the Senate as a body.

There is only one way to gain such knowledge and that is practical experience as a Senator, and as a committee may.

I think it would be detrimental to this Senate to overlook Mr. Pehrson. He has the experience, he has the capacity for work and is very dependable.

In closing I would also like to say that all said above is applicable to Mr. Audette. I worked with Mr. Audette for two years on the Senate and I feel that he too possesses the qualities for making a good Senate officer.

Sincerely yours
William C. Less '51

Ed. Note. Mr. Less was last year's Senate president. It is gratifying to see that "old Senators don't fade away".

Dear Editor, I wish to congratulate you for taking a definite stand on a campus political issue. It is about time that the Editor of the Collegian realized that the editorial column is no place to go pussy-footing through the issues at hand. The place for news is in the news articles; the place for opinions is in the editorial. This is the first time that I can remember a definite political policy being adopted and proclaimed through the Collegian.

The one fault that I found in the editorial was the subtlety used by the Editor. In future editorials, why not have firm enough convictions to present them without disguise?

Sincerely,
Paul Goldberg '52

Dear Editor,

Although not a member of the Senate last year, I attended the majority of the Senate meetings. At all of these meetings I was aware of the interest and enthusiasm Bob Pehrson showed concerning all Senate affairs. There was hardly a plan or proposal which he did not have some definite opinion. I always felt that Bob was the type of person who would stick to something and see it through to its best conclusion, and my opinion of him has not changed in the year that I have known him. When I heard that he had been re-elected to the Senate I was pleased to see that the students had recognized his interest, experience, and ability. Now I read that he is running for President of the Senate, and I certainly hope that this energetic, enthusiastic Senator will be given the position for which he is so well trained and so perfectly suited.

As the Collegian said last week, "we favor experience", and in this case that means Bob.

Sincerely,
Francine Freedman '54

To the Editor:

In view of the past action of the Collegian in reference to Senate elections and the obvious bias in several of the articles appearing in the last week, we, the undersigned, with no intention of being official spokesmen for the groups we are connected with, feel that we should express our opinions on the matter. We completely indorse Arthur Alintuck for president of the Senate for the following reasons:

1. Mr. Alintuck's work on the Interfraternity Judiciary Board was of an excellence seldom achieved in the past.

2. Mr. Alintuck's work on Winter Carnival publicity last year revealed a great aptitude for both work and originality.

3. We feel that Mr. Alintuck will stand up for the rights of the students against all opposition.

4. Mr. Alintuck's membership on the varsity track squad proves his versatility.

5. Mr. Alintuck's leadership qualities have been shown in every campus activity that he has participated in.

For the above reasons, and many more, we not only support Arthur Alintuck for president, but we hope that the members of the Student Senate will not make a mistake and put into office the wrong man for the job. Let's make the Senate strong, rather than what it has been in the past.

Bob Smith, Theta Chi; Michael Marcinkowski, Phi Sigma Kappa; Larry Litwak, Alpha Epsilon Pi; Mary Granfield, Secretary Senate; Charleen Palmer, Sigma Kappa; Henry Boynton, Q.T.V. president; Mongkol Wattanayagoran, Maroon Key; George McMullin, Q.T.V., Maroon Key; Ed Jasinski, Phi Sigma Kappa; Edward V. Sexton, Phi Sigma Kappa; Cathy Cole, Sigma Kappa; Bob Livingston, I.F.C., Alpha Epsilon Pi; Arnie Porges, Senate treasurer, '49. (Ed. Note: This letter was written by Larry Litwak.)

Although it is against the principles of journalism to print petitions among letters to the editor, we are including this one because it is the only positive information we have had in Alintuck's behalf. We wish to prove our impartiality.

DATE WITH JUDY

Dear (if we may use the term loosely) Editor:

Although we must admire the subtlety of your editorial in the last issue, we must disagree with the policies used therein. Since when has the Collegian gone out on a limb for anyone and become a political tool through which you express your personal opinions. Your editorial, to which you gave an unnecessary front page spread, was completely unwarranted. The ubiquity of your article left us dumbfounded. You claim, in your editorial, that "we know the facts from the following activities of most students through our work on the Collegian." If this be so, why did you not release these so-called facts to the student body, since it is the primary purpose of a campus newspaper to reveal all of the facts in a strictly non-partisan fashion.

The obsequious manner you displayed towards one of the presidential aspirants was almost as flagrant as the disdain shown the other. Bias is a harsh word, but it is quite apropos to the situation.

Return the Collegian, once again, to the students, and make it truly "A free and responsible press."

Hearing wedding bells,
We remain

To the Editor:

"Something is rotten in the state of Denmark" Act I Scene IV Hamlet.

In view of the fact that everyone else on this campus feels that they are qualified political experts and have seen fit to express their opinions in print, I feel that it is about time that I started a little writing about some of the things that have occurred to me since the last issue of the Collegian.

Since the start of the campaign there have been charges and counter-charges by both parties with neither one resorting to facts to prove their charges. However, there are some questions that could be raised in regard to the campaign until last Friday.

First, is it ethically correct for the campus newspaper to take a stand on a political issue on this campus? Never before in the history of the Collegian has it come out in favor of any one candidate for any office. Yet, in the middle of one of the hottest races seen on campus in a long time, the editor of the paper, supposedly backed by the members of the editorial board, saw fit to present a completely biased viewpoint in her editorial.

The freshmen on this campus are supposed to be able to turn to their campus newspaper for the complete facts about anything, and they should be able to expect a non-partisan viewpoint on which to make their judgment. By turning to politics, the Collegian has betrayed the ethical trust placed in it and its members by the student body. It is true that the constitution of the Collegian permits the editor to take a stand on campus issues. But this still does not answer the charge of ethics. It is no longer become a case of the best man winning. It has become a case as to which candidate knows the top people on the Collegian.

Now, let us turn to the editorial on the front page of Friday's issue of the Collegian. Let us examine this editorial with a very critical eye to see where the editor has not quite explained herself to my satisfaction at least.

1. How can two men be equally suited for these two most important positions on our campus". This statement shows a complete lack of understanding. The highest office in our country has two men competing for every four years. Does this mean that only one of the two men is capable?

2. "How do past senators feel about the candidates". This question must remain unanswered since up to last Friday, only one past senator has committed himself on the issue. Therefore how can the writer use the plural when only one man has stated his opinions?

3. "Doesn't it seem as if they should know who is the most capable man? If these men had enough judgment to know the capabilities of any man, doesn't it seem as if they would be re-elected to the senate? It is true that in some cases the individuals did not choose to run. But what about the others?

4. "Reliable sources." The editor never reveals these so-called reliable sources. If they are so reliable, why weren't they turned over to the news department and printed for the benefit of the public?

5. "We knew the facts from following their activities through the Collegian." Since the Collegian is supposed to be a student newspaper, it seems logical that they should be able to print all the facts, instead of concealing them and revealing only the opinions that they gather from these facts.

The basic issue at hand seems to be whether or not the Collegian should enter campus politics. My personal opinion is that there has been a lack of ethics on the part of the Collegian. I feel that they have betrayed the trust placed in them when they were elected to their offices. The Collegian has proven that they were better off by not getting an increase in funds last year. Until they can restore the student's faith, they will never get the increase they are still looking for.

when such ridiculous efforts are taken to fog senator's minds? Libel law? In this case, seem to hinder the publication of facts exposing incompetency. because, although they are known, legal intricacies prevent these facts from throwing inference up to personalities.

That people have made utter fools of themselves in print is evidenced in this and last week's "Letters to the Editor" column. This is an example of the proportions that the farce has reached. How much more of this mess has to continue before some of you students realize just what kind of business this "polities" involves? For your own sake, use scrutiny. Open some of those senses—see, hear and smell.

NO COMPETITORS' MEETING

There will be no competitors' meeting either this afternoon or tonight. Watch the Collegian for next week's meeting.

Redmen Bow to Huskies 20-7, Fumbles, Interception Costly

Scoring the first two times they took the ball, Northeastern University went on to defeat the Univ. of Massachusetts Redmen 20-7 at Boston last Saturday. The Redmen completely outplayed Northeastern in the final three quarters of the game, but the main damage had been done. Fumbles again cost the Redmen a ball game and a chance to break Northeastern's undefeated record. Tommy Eck's boys tallied 17 first downs to the Huskies 6, and Northeastern did not have a first down in the entire second half.

Ed Culverwell returned the opening kickoff for Northeastern 50 yards to the midfield stripe. 9 plays later Tinker Connolly scored on a 2 yard buck. A third down pass by Captain Jack Benoit was intercepted on the Mass. 37, and 4 plays later Connolly scored again. The game was only 5 minutes old, but Northeastern led 14-0.

The Redmen came right back. Noel Reebenacker passed twice, once to Chambers and the other to Conway and U Mass. was on NU's 34 yard line. Three fumbles set the Eckmen back on their own 42, where Northeastern took over. Early in the second quarter, U Mass. had another scoring chance. A bad pass from center on an attempted fourth down punt, gave Mass. the ball on the Northeastern 38. The Redmen moved the ball to the 11, but a fumble gave the ball back to the Huskies. Another UMass. fumble late in the quarter set up Northeastern's final TD. A Connolly to Culverwell pass was good for 12 yards and the score, and at the half Northeastern led 20-0.

The second half was entirely Massachusetts. The Redmen moved the ball over both ground and air, and they forced Northeastern to punt every time they got the ball. The Eckmen moved the ball from their own 17 to the Huskies 23 early in the third quarter, but the drive was stopped when a UMass. pass was intercepted. Feature of the drive was a Reebenacker to Chambers pass good for 31 yards. After forcing Northeastern to punt, Massachusetts scored their only touchdown of the game. A 70 yard scoring march was highlighted by the running of Ted Piers. Piers took the ball 9 times on the drive and racked up 48 yards, one run being good for 20 yards. On the opening play of the final quarter Piers scored from the one yard line. The Redmen controlled the ball for the remainder of the game, but fumbles and the punting of NU's Connolly kept Captain Jack Benoit and company away from the goal line.

Frosh Gridsters Beaten By H.C.

The U. Mass. freshmen lost their first game of the season, 19-12, to the Holy Cross JV's at Alumni Field. It was a rough, wide-open game featured by the passing of Joe Buderwitz and Frank McDermett. The affair included two H. C. injuries, numerous penalties, fumbles, five or six pass interceptions, three blocked punts, and two abortive fistfights.

The little Redmen got off to a fast start, racking up 12 points in the first period; but after that were stopped by a much heavier and more experienced Crusader eleven.

The Redmen scored quickly, after recovering a fumble on the H. C. 36 on the first play from scrimmage. A line plunge netted 3 yards, then Frank McDermett unlimbered his pitching arm and tossed a t.d. strike to Dick Mallon.

H. C. picked up one first down after the ensuing kickoff, then fumbled again on their 44. A line buck picked up a yard for the Redmen, then McDermett faked a pass and raced to the 23 for a first down. On the next play he shot through tackle to go all the way, making the score read 12 to 0.

Following the next kickoff, Jack Hamilton raced 69 yards on a pitch-out to score for H. C.; but the play was nullified by an offside penalty. The Redmen then blocked a punt on their 41, but lost the ball on a wild pitchout on the 31. After one running play, Joe Buderwitz tossed a pass to Jay Shapely on the 15, then tossed him another for the touchdown. The extra point attempt was wide.

In the second period the Crusaders blocked a Mass. punt on the Redmen's 32. Hamilton got a first down on the 13, Buderwitz was knocked down on the 20; then he pitched a touchdown pass to Hamilton. Ed Ney booted the extra point to give H. C. a 13-12 lead.

The Redmen staged two marches in the third quarter to the H. C. 18 and to the 15. The first was halted by a clipping penalty and the second by a pass intereception.

Play became rougher in the last period with two personal fouls being called.

The Crusaders clinched the game after partially blocking a Mass. punt on the Redmen 18. The passing combination of Buderwitz to Shapely gave them a first down on the five. Then Hamilton bulled over from the one after 3 cracks at the line.

Score by periods:	1	2	3	4
Holy Cross	6	7	0	6	19
Mass.	12	0	0	0	12

H. C. scoring: Shapely, Hamilton 2. Extra point, Ney.

Mass. scoring: Mallon, McDermett.

Harriers Win Beat B.C. 15-53

The varsity cross country team won its sixth straight victory last Saturday by defeating Boston College 15-53. The four and a quarter mile course at Franklin Park was won by the trio of Harry Aldrich, Burt Lancaster, and Hank Knapp with a winning time of 22:32. About a minute later, Halsey Allen and George McMullin finished with a tie for fourth place, which completed the five necessary scoring positions and gave Coach Derby's team their second perfect score of the season. Sapienza—who a week ago had set a new record on another course—finished sixth, but was quickly followed by George Goding.

This Saturday, the cross country team will have its last dual meet at the athletic field as they face a powerful MIT squad. The race will start here at 2 P.M. and will give the Redmen their first chance at an undefeated season since 1947.

Pledge Chapel To Be At OC Auditorium

Pledge Chapel will be held at Old Chapel Auditorium tonight at 7. Freshmen will be given cards on which they will write the fraternity of their first, second, and third choices. The fraternities have already submitted a list of the freshmen they desire to Bob Livingston, rushing chairman of the IFC.

If a freshman's name is included in the fraternity list of his first choice, he will then officially become a pledge of that fraternity. If he is not on the list of the fraternity of his first choice but is on that of his second choice, he will then become a pledge of the fraternity of his second choice. The same holds true if his name is not included on the lists of either his first or second choice but is included on that of his third choice.

It is not necessary that a man fill in three choices; he may fill in only one or two if he so desires. Freshmen may be assured that these cards are strictly confidential.

The vote, which was 21 to 13 in favor of Pehrson and 20 to 13 in favor of Audette, brought to a close a highly controversial debate which was held over from the previous meeting.

New Teacher Starts Campus Spanish Club

A new Spanish Club is being organized this semester under the direction of Miss Zina Tillona who joined the Spanish department in September.

Inactive in recent years, the club is being started again because of the many requests of interested students in the department of Romance Languages.

According to Alice Georgantas and Marlene Wolk, co-chairmen of the organizational committee, the club will present speakers of interest at its monthly meetings. Pending approval, these meetings will take place the first Wednesday of every month in Farley Clubhouse or Bowditch Lodge. Spanish singing and dancing will be features of the meetings; the presentation of a Spanish play is a future possibility.

Anyone interested in speaking Spanish or learning the customs and culture of Spain and in having fun at the same time will be cordially invited to attend.

13 Foot World Globe Featured at Hort Show

Highlighting the thirty-ninth annual Horticulture Show in the Cage on November 2, 3, and 4 will be a thirteen-foot globe of the world in color. Constructed entirely by students, the large globe is composed of plastic strips on which the countries are painted and stretched over a wooden frame.

Flags from the United Nations will be displayed, together with the plants, in the central section of the show. The flags will be arranged in alphabetical order and at equal height from the ground, according to United Nations rules. The many types of flowers and shrubs were chosen from the countries in which they originated.

On one side of the cage, student displays will be located. On the other side, the various departmental exhibits from Stockbridge and Landscape Architecture will be on display. As usual, there will be a colorful commercial exhibition by the Holyoke and Northampton Florists and Gardeners Club. The Flower Store, run by the Floriculture Department, will again have corsages on sale, the proceeds from which will be used to help finance next year's show.

The Queen will be crowned tonight at 8 in the garden opposite the globe. Chosen entirely by the students in the various departments, concerned with the show, the Queen will have a court composed of the two girls running second and third in the competition.

The entire show is under the direction of Prof. W. Bradford Johnson, assisted by Prof. Lyle Blundell from the Horticulture Department, and Ass't. Prof. Paul Procopio from the Landscape Architecture Department.

"Over two hundred students, working on a committee system, will put in from twenty-five hundred to three thousand hours on the show," Ass't. Prof. Procopio announced. He estimated that the attendance would be well over twenty-one thousand for the three day period.

Judging the student exhibits this year are Mrs. Lucien B. Taylor, Dover, Mass., president of the N. E. Wildflower Preservation Society; William J. P. Campbell, gardener at Smith College, and Prof. Charles E. Rogers, member of the Fine Arts staff at Amherst College.

The show will be open today until 9 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m., and Sunday from 9 a.m. until 8 p.m.

A Tribute

Charles N. DuBois, late professor at the University of Massachusetts and yearbook adviser to the Western Massachusetts League of School Publications for the last three years, succumbed to a heart attack this summer. In the death of Professor DuBois the league has lost a valuable member of the advisory board. He gave hours of his time to the judging of the yearbooks and his constructive criticism of the essay and art work in the books and his interest in young people stimulated the league members to higher achievement. Professor DuBois crowded into his short career more than many men accomplish in the biblical three score years and ten.

Collegians For Commuters

The problem of providing copies of the Collegian for commuters is not a new one. It comes up at least once a year.

Copies of every edition of this newspaper are left in Memorial Hall for the exclusive use of the commuters. However, no matter how often we remind them, the students who live on campus persist in taking the papers from Mem. Hall. As a result of this action on the part of these campus residents, the commuters do not get the Collegian, but the Collegian gets complaints.

The entire matter, in our opinion, is one of personal integrity. Campus residents should realize that they are not to take the papers which are provided for the commuters. There are enough copies left at the dorms and houses on campus so that everyone can obtain one for himself.

In all fairness to the commuters, we suggest that campus residents wait those extra few minutes until they get back to their dorms to read the Collegian. YOU can always find a copy in the dorm, but some commuter will be left without his only way of learning what is taking place on campus.

Let's consider the commuters. They are as much a part of the campus as any of us. They pay for the Collegian and are entitled to receive it. The co-operation of every student on campus is the only solution to this problem.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Something should be done about the distribution of the Collegian to all the commuters. We commuters never receive the papers which we have paid for. We feel it is important to us as commuters to obtain this paper as we don't have much contact with the students in the dorms who can learn all the news through bulletin boards. The Collegian is the one source by which we learn what events are on campus and the news events which take place.

We realize any solution would probably mean more work for either the Collegian staff or some of the commuters. We suggest that some solution be reached by both parties that will enable just the commuters to receive their Collegians in Mem. Hall and put a stop to the students living on campus taking them since they have their own at the dorms.

Dear Editor:

Have you ever been to Chicago, to the cattle purchasing in the stockyards? Here is what occurs. The livestock is led about in a large pen, the buyers appraising them, and are finally sold, their physical attributes being their sole claim to monetary merit. I saw a similar occurance at Bowker Tuesday morning, October 30, when our sex-starved ROTC boys assembled to project their repressed accretions of erotic imagery upon a group of girls who happened to have been born with potentially attractive bodies. The large pen was exchanged for a stage, the money for ballots, but the livestock was led out the "buyers" appraised their physical attributes (sometimes quite volubly) and the blue ribbons were awarded.

These young men, apparently suffering from an acute lack of wild-oat sowing, attach an undue amount of importance to the physical appearance of a young lady; this despite the fact that said appearance, however pleasant, will in most cases vanish within the short span of ten or fifteen years, and that all that will remain will be the permanent qualities of charm, friendliness, poise, and other things we do not even give a second thought. Naturally, I am not naive enough to believe that within 150 years we may evolve into a mature system of selecting an Honorary Colonel who can be held up as an example to all women, not just those who chance has made pleasing to the eye.

Cordially yours,
Abe Newman '53

THIS EXCHANGING WORLD

by Selma Garbowit

Having heard many upperclassmen say, "If only I had joined activities when I was a freshman," I thought it might be interesting to quote an article found in the Boston College Heights.

"Towards the end of the year, students will begin to bemoan the fact that they did not join any extra-curricular activities. The hours spent sitting around the 'caf', chewing over already well-chewed topics; unfairness of teachers, unfairness of teachers, unfairness of teachers, etc., will flash before their eyes. Naturally all of us enjoy relaxing in a bit of idle conversation over a cup of coffee now and then, but some people carry it to an extreme. These are the characters who, at the end of the year, ask why no one 'dragged' them to an activity.

"Again, now is the time to begin making 1951-52 a successful school year by joining and actively participating in some clubs. The clubs offer many benefits to members. The friendships and self-expression developed in the clubs are permanent things, remembered long after verbs and generals are forgotten."

Tufts Weekly—"The high cost of living has caught up with sex at Hanover, New Hampshire. Dartmouth men who entertain women in their room after the regular hour will now have to undergo a stiff $3 fine compared to the previous tariff of half that amount.

"The reason for the increase which puts sex in the same price range as possessing prohibited electrical appliances, is that wearers of the Big Green thought added time with a woman was worth a $5 fine.

"As Theodore W. Frankenbach '52 Chairman of the Dartmouth Judiciary Committee, explained, "A calculated risk theory has become prevalent in regard to these offenses. The Committee believes that Dartmouth men will give up for $10 what they gloried in for $5."

The lane bright,
She turned to me

And time went by.
The moon was yellow
. . . and so was I."

SPORTS

Redmen Face Vermont; Seek Third Win of Season

The University of Massachusetts Redmen travel to Burlington, Vermont, tomorrow, to meet Vermont in a Yankee Conference game. Vermont is having one of its worst seasons in its 50 year history. They have not won a ball game all season, and they have scored but two touchdowns. Half of the Vermont team has never played varsity ball prior to this season, and it looks like the Redmen will have an easy time tomorrow.

The Redmen will take the field without the services of defensive halfback Billy Rex. Rex received a fractured cheekbone in the Northeastern game and he is through for the season. Much time has been spent in practice this week seeking a replacement for Rex. In the opinion of the coaching staff, Rex has played some of the best defensive work at halfback that has been seen here in years. The search for his replacement has centered around Don Junkins, Bob Equi, and Frank Jacques.

A new addition to the varsity squad is freshman Frank McDermott. McDermott has played great ball for the freshmen, and Coach Tommy Eck has moved him up to the varsity in an effort to bolster the passing attack of the Redmen. Passing has been the keynote of the practice sessions this week. In the past four games the Redmen have completed only 31 passes in 75 attempts.

Tomorrow's game with Vermont will be the last for some time to come. Vermont is dropping UMass. from its schedule, and it is reported that Vermont is dropping out of the Yankee Conference. Let's give the boys from the Green Mountain State something to remember us by.

The intramural football teams moved into their final week of play with a full schedule planned. Only one team in both leagues has gone through this season so far without a defeat. SAE, in League A, has rolled up 174 points to 52 for the opposition while collecting an 8-0 record.

In League B, Middlesex and Berkshire B are once again battling it out for the lead. Each has suffered one loss, Middlesex losing to Brooks A, and Berkshire B losing to Middlesex.

Varsity Hoopsters Called Out

Led by Captain Bill Prevey, the varsity basketball team has been practicing for two weeks in anticipation of their forthcoming 22 game schedule, which opens December 8 with Northeastern. The team is out to improve last year's 6-15 record and the prospects are high for a successful season.

Captain Prevey is the main cog in the team. Other men who will be playing prominent parts in this year's team are Ed White and Henry Mosychuk at forwards, and Bernie Kaminski and Malcolm Macleod at guards. This appears to be the starting five: Bill Stevens, Chippy Morgan, Ray Gunn, and Art Barrett will be counted on for the reserve strength. 25 candidates are out for the squad and Coach Ball will have a tough time cutting.

HALLOWEEN MEMORIES

Isn't it strange how a holiday that used to mean so much to us as children slips by almost unnoticed when we pass the "trick or treat" stage? Remember how much fun it used to be to ring the neighbor's doorbells on Halloween and run?

Did you ever wait till the unsuspecting occupants answered the ring and then saucily heave a handful of flour at them? Or were you one who tried to get revenge on the little demons who cut your clothesline, emptied your garbage can, and soaped your windows? Somehow or other they always managed to avoid any trap set for them.

Remember when, laughing fiendishly to yourself, you attached the garden hose to the kitchen faucet and sat up to wait for the clothesline cutter who had visited your back yard for the past five years? No doubt you found yourself sitting up all night without even so much as a trace of a victim. But lo and behold, the clothesline was in two pieces the next morning!

Yes, Halloween is fun, but it seems to be a holiday that is celebrated only by the younger generation. From all reports, the attempt a group of freshmen girls made to revive the "ghost and goblins" when they draped themselves in sheets and they descended upon an unsuspecting house mother was not appreciated. Perhaps the reason was that it was after lights out!

justice of the Women's Judiciary Board interrupted the proceedings to present a ruling making the two senators from Knowlton illegally in Office.

The ruling stated that Roberta Mitchell and Rosemary Quinn could not hold office in the senate because they were still officers of their class. As it turned out, the vote margins which Pehrson and Audette had over Alintuck and Walters, were enough to dispel any doubts about the results.

Senator Hardy brought up the question of by-laws. He was informed that the where-abouts of the by-laws were unknown and that an effort would be made to uncover them.

Traffic Fines ...

According to Mr. Van Meter's notice, the Board of Trustees of the University has authorized the schedule of fines, and Treasurer Hawley reported that the money will go into the General Fund of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The only way the money can be returned to the University is by a legislative appropriation, according to Mr. Hawley.

Mr. Van Meter expressed the thought, "It is our sincere hope that no student will have to pay such a fine at any time. The University of Massachusetts does not want to inflict upon you an undue hardship."

Alpha Phi Omega

Scout Executive E. G. Warner was the speaker at a meeting of Alpha Phi Omega, Scout Fraternity. His talk listed possible service projects that the newly formed local chapter could use to aid the Hampshire-Franklin Council. Among his suggestions were demonstration teams and leadership aid in nearby troops where several members are already active.

Mr. Warner stressed the fact that the student's college duties should not be neglected.

No. 25
THE SEA HORSE

This little gee-gee was all at sea. It was enough to upset his equine-imity. He'd been reading about those rush-rush cigarette tests —the quick sniff, the fast puff. "Hardly the scientific approach." he said in his confusion. But then he realized that one test is an equine of a different pigmentation—a thorough, conclusive test of cigarette mildness.

It's the sensible test...the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke—on a day-after-day basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

21,556 Attend Horticulture Show; Phila. Woman Interested in Globe

More than 21,500 persons attended the Horticulture Show in the cage last week-end, it was announced by Prof. W. Bradford Johnson of the Floriculture department, general chairman of events for the show. Mary Granfield, senior from Pittsfield, was crowned queen by Pres. Van Meter, Freddie Dole and Jeanne Stringer were her attendants.

Professor Johnson disclosed that the woman in charge of the Suburban Flower Show of Philadelphia was impressed with the globe as the centerpiece of the U. N. theme and is thinking of purchasing it for use in the Philadelphia show. The approximate price will be 250 dollars.

This year's Horticulture Show had more publicity than others, Prof. Johnson stated. Twenty-seven releases were sent out to radio personalities. Such announcers as Marjorie Mills of Boston and Bob Steel of Hartford gave mention to the show.

Eleven student displays, from each department of the school of horticulture, were on one side of the Cage, and various commercial florists were on the other side.

FAUX PAS

by Bruce Fox

Sam and I went down to the Cage to play a little basketball last Sunday, but the only way we could do it was to use a carnation as a pivot man. Yup, the Hort Show, the exhibition of all the flowers—blooms like apples, pears, bread, and easy chairs, was there.

Since we were there, we decided to walk around, admiring the "Hildegard" flower girls embarassing all the guys who stopped by with girls on their way to the libe; high-pressure salesmanship, that's what it is.

We liked the students' exhibitions, but we wondered why they used pseudonyms similar to "Hymie's Flower Shop," and "The Aspidastera Garden Club." Looking for more education, we kept on walking and admiring the final products, and soon stopped at the bread booth. Even the fibs were realistic. Of course they must have been flowers in disguise.

On and on we walked, around the globe in fact, until we reached the outside for a breath of air. Sam then spotted what he termed as the best booth in the exhibit. Later he told me what he saw in the show. He liked the cider, the roses, the cider, the trees, the cider, the flags, the cider, the grass, the cider, the girls, the cider, etc.

The music was thoroughly invigorating, almost as soothing as the harmony aired at convocations. The recorded artists were intimitantly joined by the local poultry, who in turn vocalized with the quadrupeds down by the grazing fields. Everything blended together—modern architecture, rustic settings, and bird calls. How did that sneak in?

That isn't the only thing that snuck in, however. Some of the kids that attended looked like they were putting on a paper drive. One of the floriculture exhibitions had stacks of literature free for nothing for the public, and if the "public" composed of the younger generation reads half of the stuff they pocketed,

New Rating System Used By Chorales: Concert Tour Arranged For Spring

The University Chorale, directed by Doric Alviani, has recently established a rating system which is intended to encourage the members to retain their present rating while striving to reach the next highest. Used in many chorale groups, the rating is based on range, potential dynamics, character of vocal tone, ability to sing an individual part without assistance, knowledge of the repertoire, attitude, promptness, attendance, and interest and concentration during rehearsal and performance.

The group is now under the co-managership of Dorothy Swift and Jim Patterson. It is expected that because of the need for frequent coordination between men and women, such a move will insure smoother functioning within the organization.

Plans for a very active year are now in the making. The Chorale will appear at the First Church in Northampton, Nov. 20. For the first time they will present a Chorale ballet, "Story of a Princess", based on Oscar Wilde's, "Spanish Infanta". The ballet will be somewhat theatrical including stage, lights, costumes with the Chorale singing in the background as Bob Boland and Mary Lowry dance the story. The Chorale will appear on the Monsanto Series, "Songs from New England Colleges", Dec. 9.

A concert tour is being arranged for early spring during which the Chorale will travel to New York, Springfield, Worcester, and Boston. They may also appear at several Eastern Massachusetts cities.

Their repertoire consists of show tunes, hymns, folksongs, spirituals, and college selections and so carry a great deal of appeal to all the music lovers.

At present the Chorale consists of thirty mixed voices: Mary J. Baird, Carolyn Billings, Janet Bolles, Betsy Campbell, Miriam Carlstrom, Barbara Hill, Carol Hinds, Eunice Johnson,

Cross Country Team Has Perfect Season

The Varsity Cross-Country team successfully overtook its last single opponent by conquering previously undefeated MIT 25-31 in a cold windy meet last Saturday. This completed the Redmen Harriers dual meets with a perfect record.

The race was won by Harry Aldrich and Burt Lancaster, who clipped 40 seconds off the old record. Although Nicholson of MIT came in third, Hank Knapp, who also broke the old record, finished for a strong fourth place. Halsey Allen finished seventh, George McMullin completed the scoring positions by finishing eleventh.

The race was very close all the way until the last big hill on the Hadley Road—where Aldrich and Lancaster waved good-bye to Nicholson; Knapp pulled away from Vickers and Allen passed Farquhar.

The victory celebration in the locker room was high-lighted by the team throwing Manager Ed Clapp into the showers with his clothes on.

Today the Varsity and Frosh teams are competing for the Connecticut Valley Championship at the Coast Guard Academy in New London. The other teams competing will be the Univ. of Vermont, the Univ. of Conn. and Springfield College.

Tickets on Sale Wed. Nov. 7 For 'Light up the Sky'

Tickets will be placed on sale Wed., Nov. 7 at the University box office for the Roister Doister production of Light Up The Sky.

Centering its attention on the hopes, fears, and clashing temperaments that show business has learned to take in its stride, Light Up The Sky is the fable of the before and after reactions of those implicated in the expectant failure of a play being tried out in Boston.

Marino Grimaldi will be seen as the producer and Mary Lowry as the self affectionate actress in the presentation, while other leading roles have been assigned to Marguerite Follett, Carole Cassidy, Bob Boland, and Roy Kennan.

UM Press Club Re-Established

The Press Club of student correspondents was re-established at a meeting held last Thursday as a branch of the Collegian.

Philip Sardo, correspondent for The Springfield Union and Collegian reporter was named president of the Press Club. Miss Georgie Tyler, correspondent for the Berkshire Eagle was named secretary.

Other students at the meeting were George Delaney, Sports Publicity Director; Miss Judy Bowler, editor of the Collegian; Larry Lawack, correspondent of the Boston Globe; Joan Wrightson, correspondent of the Springfield Daily News; Eddie Herberg, photography correspondent for the Berkshire Eagle, Springfield Union and the Collegian.

At the meeting it was voted that no person who holds a major correspondency job may hold an executive position on the Collegian. The major correspondency jobs, such as those for the two Springfield newspapers and two of the Boston newspapers, are those in which students earn approximately $30 a month on a space rate basis.

The meeting held in the Collegian office, also decided that carbons of all stories written or telephoned by correspondents shall be filed in the Collegian office for use by other correspondents or the News Editor, that whoever holds the positions on and Managing Editor shall be member of the Collegian of Executive Editors of the Press Club along with the students who work for the Home Town News Bureau in the Office of Publications, and the students who work in the news office of the Physical Education department.

Plans for the year's program include talks by editors of newspapers published in the area.

Prof. Arthur Musgrave is adviser to the Press Club.

Orchids To You

Congratulations are in order for the excellent work done by the students on the Horticulture show. More than twenty-one thousand spectators viewed the mammoth exhibition in spite of rain, snow, and sleet.

The students who put on this annual show do more to gain publicity for the University than any other similar student organization on campus. Each year the show draws an increasing number of visitors. It should be appreciated that this is what the University needs, thousands of people being interested in what is going on at our campus.

Several hundred students with faculty assistance pool their efforts and talents to present to the public one of the largest and most successful shows of its kind in the country. It is one of the major campus events which is open to the public free of charge.

Using the theme of the United Nations, the students were able to add even more color to the show than that furnished by the beautifully displayed flowers and plants. This was done by displaying the multi-colored flags of the members of the UN, and by constructing a huge colorful world globe. Besides the main exhibition, were the usual small exhibitions of the students. They ranged from "The World Of Fantasy", to very formal ideas.

Perhaps one of the most difficult things for the students to accomplish is to put together a show which will compare favorably with the shows of other years. Most people come with high expectations.

We may well be proud of our Horticulture Show, and of the many students who have worked so hard to make it the success that it has become.

Hold That Line

We almost felt that we should put this editorial on page one since page one editorials are the only ones which seem to arouse much enthusiasm and interest around here. Thinking better of it, however, we decided that perhaps our words of wisdom could serve the purpose on page two and left them here.

The editor of the Collegian has been called upon in Letters to the Editor, to solve all sorts of problems from arranging a new system for fraternity and sorority rushing to devising a satisfactory method of presenting queens to the ROTC. A problem was presented to us some weeks back concerning the excessive "cutting in" in the lines at Draper. We hesitated to make any editorial comment at the time, feeling that the students who read the letter would be moved to the proper action. This was not the case.

The mature and responsible students here at the University are apparently addicted to finding the easiest way out, regardless of whom they are hurting. We are all eager to get our meals. "We" includes every person in the line—the one who got there an hour early and waited patiently for the line to begin, as well as the one who got there in the middle of the meal. It may be true that a friend in need is a friend indeed, and what better chance to prove this friendship than when your buddy is dying of starvation? But why not stop to think of the fellow in back of you?

Those who have any personal integrity do not need this advice. We urge the others not to put their friends on a "spot" by asking them to open up the line.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

During the past weeks, I have given some serious thought to what I consider a serious problem on this campus. I am referring to fraternity and sorority rushing. Most of you who are reading this letter are already familiar with the present setup; but for the benefit of those who are not, I'll run over it briefly.

No freshman can be approached regarding fraternities or sororities until the official rushing period has begun. This usually occurs, as it did this year, around the end of October. At that time, Round Robins are conducted by the I. F. and Pan-hell Councils to acquaint the freshmen with the location and appearance of the different houses. Fraternity rushing then officially begins and "open season" is declared on the freshmen. The fraternities are given a period of about two weeks to meet the freshmen, and get to know them, usually accomplished by smokers and inviting the freshmen to avail themselves of all the advantages of the fraternity houses, such as meals, dances, etc. The freshmen are then given a 24 hour period of silence by the fraternities; a "breather spell" in which to make their choices. At the end of this time, Pledge Chapel is held, wherein the frosh receive their bids and are pledged to the houses of their choice.

After their Round Robins are held, the sororities still have to wait about a week before they get a chance to rush the freshmen girls. At this time they run a series of teas for the same purpose as the fraternities' smokers. They too, have a Pledge Chapel at the close of rushing. This is the present Rushing set up—one designed to handle the small number of freshmen who entered in previous years. However, with the advent of the so-called "bigger and better" freshmen classes, this system just doesn't seem to function properly.

There are several very valid arguments that have presented themselves to me against this system. First of all—the length of the rushing period. In the case of the fraternities, it is only 12 days long; sororities get a mere 4 days to make their choices. It seems scarcely possible, to me that the Greeks can meet all the freshmen, and get to know them intimately enough to decide upon their qualifications for membership in that short time. Conversely, it is equally impossible for a freshman to visit all the houses he would like to, and acquaint himself with them well enough to make his decision. I don't think that it is possible for anyone to know a person intimately enough to pass judgment on him in so short a period of time.

Moreover, it seems to me, although I may be mistaken, that the rushing period for some strange reason always seems to coincide with the period chosen by the faculty for the first hour exams of the semester. I know that I, personally, had four exams during rushing this year, and some of my fraternity brothers had seven. This in itself presents no small problem, since attendance is usually required at rushing smokers and other functions. But exams also require time for study; there just isn't enough time available for both. One or the other must suffer. It isn't fair from the freshman's point of view either. He wants to attend these functions, for they aid him in making his decision; yet, he too, has to study, often much more than an upperclassman, for his exams.

Also, many false impressions are given and received, both to the freshmen and the Greeks, because of the hectic atmosphere of the rushing period. Many a worthy freshman has been passed by because he was too shy or too afraid to assert himself during rushing. Also, many mistakes, faux-pas and blunders are made which, in the heat and excitement of rushing, can, and have, led to inter- and intra- house dissensions and arguments. Many feuds and rivalries have begun because someone with perfectly honorable and earnest intentions, said or did the wrong thing; and the situation wasn't rectified in time.

However, all these faults can be done away with very easily. I am not about to propose a hare-brained scheme which I dreamed up in a moment of weakness. The plan I am going to propose is one which is in use today on many campuses all over the country, with freshman classes even larger than ours. It is simply this: Wide Open Rushing. By that term I mean this: "open season" is declared on freshmen as soon as they get on campus, instead of five weeks later; and Pledge Chapel is held in December, preferably just before Christmas vacation, instead of in the last week of October or the first week of November. This is the entire answer to the problem, for it rectifies the three faults I have cited.

First of all, since the rushing period is four months long, both the frosh and the Greeks have plenty of time to get to know each other—well enough to judge one another fairly and open-mindedly. Secondly, since the rushing period is four months long, exams needn't interfere with rushing in the least. Last, but by no means least, since the rushing period is four months long, there is plenty of time to correct any false impressions, mistakes, faux-pas or blunders which may occur. Also, since there would be no rushing rules and regulations to be observed, the duties of the Judiciary Board of the Interfraternity Council would be minimized, and penalties such as the one recently imposed on the house on Chestnut Street would be necessary.

I also have a couple of suggestions which, although not essential to the if they adopt my proposed plan, the I.F.C. might care to incorporate. Round Robins could be held earlier in the semester, say around the second or third week after registration. They would serve the same purpose but would possibly be doubly effective then. Also, the period of silence could be extended to 48 hours to give the freshmen more time to make what might conceivably be the most important decision of their college careers.

Sincerely,
Martin A. Sidman '53

ED. NOTE: This is a matter for the Inter-fraternity and Panhellenic Councils, but we felt that it would be advisable to present it to the campus. In this way perhaps other ideas on the subject will come to light and be of service to the Greek Councils.

Redmen Beat Vermont 6-0; Second Conference Victory

The University of Massachusetts Redmen defeated Vermont 6-0 in a snow swept game at Vermont last Saturday. Only 200 people braved the elements to see Dick Conway score for the Redmen with five minutes remaining in the ball game. The day was anything but ideal for football, and the two teams battled on a frozen gridiron.

Vermont twice stopped the Redmen near the goal line in the second period, once on the one yard line and again on the two yard line. Noel Reebenacker ran back a Vermont punt 50 yards only to be stopped on the Vermont one yard line. Midway through the fourth quarter Vermont fumbled on their own 11 yard line. Dick Conway, the days best runner, bucked to the eight and then went over for the score. Vermont made no scoring gestures throughout the game.

The day was not suited for football, and it could easily be seen that Massachusetts was a vastly superior team although the margin of victory was only one TD.

Frosh Harriers Win Over MIT

The Freshmen completed their final dual meet last Saturday when they romped over MIT 24-34. The Redmen Harriers took five out of the first eight positions headed by winner Pete Tripp.

A brief glance at the Frosh record will show only one defeat, which was to Northeastern's Junior Varsity Team at the very beginning of the season.

spirits were considerably livened by some strong cheering, as we passed Knowlton, Hamlin and the Abbey. The cheering was not a plain "come on team, let's go", but that of INDIVIDUAL NAME CALLING. HoelzelScores4; RedmenBooters Beat Clark 8-1

Playing on a rain-soaked field, up to their knees in mud, the varsity soccer team played the perfect host to Clark by defeating them 8-1.

The Briggsmen gave a preview of the outcome of the game in the first quarter by scoring three goals before the contest was fifteen minutes old. Clark's play was decidedly inferior to that of the Redmen who played spectacular offensive and defensive ball in spite of the elements.

The main scoring threat for Massachusetts was provided by sophomore sensation Al Hoelzel who racked up four goals. Hunter tallied twice, while O'Donnell and Simpson each accounted for one goal.

Hoelzel's scoring spree moved him into the lead in the New England Intercollegiate Soccer League by a margin of one goal over Eames of Amherst, his nearest rival. Al's eleven goals seem to place him well on the way to setting a new scoring record for the school as well as taking the scoring championship of the league.

Aggies Win Third Beat Leicester 27-0

Scoring two touchdowns in the first two periods and two more in the third quarter, the School of Stockbridge gridsters took their third straight game from Leicester by a score of 27-0 last Friday.

A Fred Gummow to Frank Martines pass scored the first period touchdown. A long 40-yard pass from Paul McGraph to Austin Smith coordinated for the second quarter TD, and the half time score read 14-0.

A 12 yard off tackle run by Roger Durgin in the third period added six more points to the Aggies' steadily increasing score. A series of long runs and a tally by Red Priest found the Stockbridge team ahead 27-0. Joe Freitas was able to kick every point except the last which was blocked by the Leicester defense.

The Aggies again did not appear at full strength. Captain Fred Kelly, who did not play for the second straight week, was replaced at fullback by Dick Cluff. Although this was the first game for both Stan Priest and Roger Durgin, both scored a touchdown apiece.

Varsity&FroshHarriersCombine, Win Conn. Valley Championship

The Varsity Cross-country team, after a perfect record in their dual meets, continued their winning streak as they won the Connecticut Valley Championship at New London, Conn., last Tuesday.

The Freshman team, after an almost perfect season, also won, thus making a double victory possible for Coach Derby. The other colleges competing were: Springfield, University of Vermont, University of Connecticut and Coast Guard.

The four and one tenth mile Varsity course was won by freshman Burt Lancaster, who clipped a minute and half off the old record. Grimm of Connecticut just beat Hank Knapp by one second for second place, quickly followed by Harry Aldrich. Halsey Allen and George McMullin came in seventh and fifteenth respectively. Lancaster led the race after the two mile mark. Knapp held second, while Aldrich, who was bothered with side pains, held third. About 300 yards from the finish, Grimm made a desperate sprint and passed them.

Bill Conlin, who tripped at the very start, and Pete Tripp were the winners of the three and one tenth mile Freshman race. Twenty-five seconds behind them was Dick Quigley, who finished seventh. Dino Equi and "Teddy-bear" Bruneau finished thirteenth and seventeenth respectively.

The realization of a double victory was celebrated most noticeably when the teams carried Coach Derby off the field on their shoulders. The prizes, inspiring to both teams, were two beautiful plaques, five gold medals, four gold shoes, and three silver shoes.

The cross-country teams will compete in the combined New England Intercollegiate and Yankee Conference Meet, at Franklin Park in Boston, next Monday.

Rats Star In Film Made by 2 Profs Here

Two University professors have produced a film with a cast of laboratory rats who show how frustration leads to neurotic and catatonic behavior.

The film, "Frustration and Fixation" is the work of Prof. Rollin Barrett, film producer, and Dr. Robert S. Feldman, psychologist who conducted the experiments. The motion picture is now being distributed by Pennsylvania State College.

Based on the graduate work of Paul Ellen, former student here who is now a research fellow at the University of Michigan, the experiments employed a metal platform from which the rats were taught to jump a short distance to an open door

Football Coach Doubles As Varsity M Club Adviser

Tommy Eck of the Physical Education Department is best known on campus as football coach, but he is also faculty adviser to the Varsity M club and member of the small high school basketball tournament committee.

He was born on March 29, 1914 in Allentown, Pa. He attended an Allentown High and Prep school and received his A.B. degree in 1938 from Colgate. In 1944 he got his M.S. degree from what was then Mass. State College.

His first job after graduating from college was at Northampton High where he was physical education director and football and track coach. He also taught biology which was his major in college. After 4 years he came here, serving as line coach. In 1945 he was acting head coach for the first football team after a two year lapse due to the war. In 1947 he became head coach for the team.

When at Colgate, "Tommy" was president of his junior class and of his fraternity, Lambda Chi Alpha. He was also a member of the Interfraternity Council, freshman baseball and basketball teams. He was a member of the varsity football squad and was voted all-Eastern center. As a member of the Eastern College All Star team, he played the N. Y. Giants in 1938.

Mr. Eck is a happily married family man with two boys and three girls. The youngest daughter was born this fall before the Williams game. His hobbies are golf and studying the techniques of motion pictures. However, during the fall he does not have much time for anything but football.

He feels that he has a good group of boys on the team this year; most of them will be back next fall as only four on the squad are seniors. He feels that the freshmen have helped a great deal in forming a good defensive team. He believes, however, that freshman boys playing varsity football face a difficult academic situation.

Arts, Sciences College To Be Formed At UM

The school of Liberal Arts and the school of Science will be merged into a College of Arts and Sciences, it was announced recently by William Machmer, Dean of the University.

Date of the merger of the two schools is, according to Dean Machmer, dependent upon the appointment of the new dean for this college. It is expected, said Dean Machmer, that a person, other than from the University, will be procured for the position.

The duty of the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences will be to insure the smooth administration of the college. Present deans of the separate schools of Arts and Sciences will continue to serve as heads of their respective departments.

More than half of the undergraduate body will be enrolled in this new college. Students entering the University, under this plan, will be registered for the first two years as members of the College of Arts and Sciences. At the beginning of the third year they will enter their major field of work.

The schools of Agriculture and Horticulture, Business Administration, Engineering, and Home Economics will not be affected by the new merger.

Mrs. Co-ed Likes Cornflakes. Does Mr.?

Men, Have you ever had the urge to pop the big question to that sweet co-ed on whom you spend all your spare time and money? Having had several months experience tied by the sacred bonds of matrimony, I feel qualified to write and advise as an expert on this subject. I feel it my duty to present to you the facts which will help answer that controversial question "Should I get married while still in school?"

My first and main point is strictly in favor of such action. By means of a little planning, we have proven that two can live cheaper than one. So we do have Cornflakes for breakfast, Cornflakes for dinner and Cornflakes for supper. Already next week we change to Rice Krispies. And if you're a vet and get GI subsistence you've got it made. You can even afford milk with your Cornflakes.

Being a home ec major, fortunately, I know how to plan a balanced diet, so on the seventh day we have a change to balance the rest of the week. You know, horse meat isn't so bad; it tastes just like roast beef if you can keep your mind occupied with other thoughts.

Another means of saving materializes in frequent week-end visits to the folks. They are always flattered when their married offspring comes home for mother's cooking. These trips cut down tremendously on the Cornflake bill.

We happen to be two of the more fortunate University dwellers who reside at Federal Circle. You've perhaps heard whisperings about the adverse conditions down there, but its not so bad as rumor has it. Besides, it only costs $28 a month for rent, fuel, electricity, water and linen. At $28 we should complain!

The apartment consists of one room and a bath. It's quite convenient. You can plug in the electric coffee percolater and pour out the

Doister Show In Rehearsal; Opens Nov. 16

Want to see a good show? Want to sit in as the 1951-52 dramatic season is unfurled in Bowker? Then come to the opening of "Light Up The Sky", the Roister Doister comedy that left audiences in Boston and New York rolling in the aisles when it was first presented three years ago.

Tickets are now on sale at the Bowker box office for what promises to be the funniest show to hit Bowker in many a year. After sitting in on several of the rehearsals, your reporter can safely state that this show will be well worth seeing. The freshmen especially should not miss this show. It will be the first chance that they have had to see a college dramatic production. It is their chance to see a really professional group at work.

The show, inaugurating the activities of Tufts weekend, is already approaching the sellout mark. The faculty and students on this campus

Where Are You Walking?

Have you ever noticed where you walk as you amble from class to class in those ten minute intervals allowed between lectures? This may not seem to be a very profound question as you con it superficially. Your first reaction will probably be, what do you think I do, walk around with my eyes closed? Of course I notice where I'm going.

Our question was meant to provoke more than a superficial thought, however. We are not concerned with the degree to which your eyes are open (or closed) as you cross the campus, nor are we concerned with whether you go from Room B to Room C in Old Chapel or from the Math Building to Liberal Arts Annex in those ten short minutes. Our consideration is the path upon which your feet tread.

You have probably noticed that the grassy areas of the campus are designed with paved footpaths, which you may or may not use. For those of you who have jumped to the premature conclusion that this is a "keep off the grass" editorial, we advise getting your exercise in some other way. You guessed wrong. As a matter of fact, if we were not reluctant to be accused of plotting to overthrow the government of the state of Massachusetts, we might urge those who use the picturesque pathways to abandon them in favor of the grass. We do not wish to be quite so drastic.

Our interest is with the student body. We aim to help solve problems by putting them in print for the "proper authorities" (whoever they may be) to see. Many students find that the paths which were planned with geometric precision lead nowhere, and that the only way to get to class on time is to initiate their own paths or to follow one which evidently was similarly initiated by some student in similarly urgent circumstances.

It seems to be the students' obligation to rectify another problem. We have ten minutes to get to and from classes (sometimes less if a lecture runs overtime). We do not like to wear muddy tracks across the grass. We think that the paths were designed and laid out in a most picturesque way. But we cannot both preserve the beauty of the campus and get to class on time.

The suggestion that we allow more time between classes is not feasible. If we had less class time, we would not be getting what we are paying for in the way of education. The only solution seems to be a drive for more paved paths. The students are the ones to start the campaign as they are the ones who will benefit by it.

It may be necessary to sacrifice a little of the beauty of our campus green by constructing some new walks, but surely the walks will be more attractive than the ungainly footprints which we now see.

know a good show when they see it of it and the ticket sales show the reaction.

The show revolves around a motley crew of hypocritical actors who are opening a new show in Boston. When the first critical review pans the show, the actors turn on the somewhat naive playwright. He gets insulted and walks out. Then, when the pans change to raves in the morning editions of the papers, the actors do everything but crawl to make the playwright reconsider and come back to them. The resulting scenes are among the funniest ever to be seen on this campus.

Heading the cast are two veterans of Roister Doister and Operetta Guild productions, Bob Boland and Mary Lowry. In addition, nine of the fifteen members of the cast will make their first appearances on the stage of Bowker as the Roister Doisters accent their youth movement and build for the future. Prof. Nordeck, director of the show, has been holding rehearsals for over a month now, and the show is reaching the stage of perfection. The result will be presented next Friday night on the stage of Bowker.

Anyone who is looking for a surefire method of relaxation is invited to attend. Your reporter feels safe in forecasting gales of laughter ensuing from the doors of Bowker when the curtains open. Don't miss it.

into a feeding station. A second door, representing incorrect choice, was locked. When the rats had learned which door was open and therefore correct, the order was reversed. The rats, making a correct choice, jumped nevertheless against a locked door and fell into a net producing frustration and punishment.

After a time, the frustrated rats persisted in making the wrong choice of door even when presented with knowledge that the correct choice is the opposite door. When confronted with insoluble problems they likewise demonstrated typical neurotic responses: refusal to try, escape by jumping to a shelf above the platform, and stereotyped choice.

Seems as though the human race should forget its jitters and profit from some of this frustration-fixation business. To get down to smooth and easy living, all you've got to do is jump to the right conclusion the first time—all the time!

SAE Beats Middlesex 18-0 For Intramural Crown

SAE Romps To Win

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, champion of the fraternity league in intramural football, broke a five year jinx on Tuesday night as they defeated the champions of the dormitory league 18-0. The game, played in freezing weather, saw the boys from Sunset Ave. score early and then hold onto their lead. Scoring for the unbeaten frat champs were Coparanis, Guarnotta, and Pappas. The two former men were the two high scorers for the Greeks during the year.

The win marked the first time in the history of the intramural playoffs that the fraternity champion was able to beat the dormitory champion. An interesting thing to be noted is that some of the men playing for SAE were on the team that played under the colors of Berkshire B last fall.

SAE, KS, AEPi, LCA,

In the fraternity league, SAE racked up a perfect record of 9-0 to annex the crown. Kappa Sigma and Alpha Epsilon Pi were tied going into the final game which saw Kappa Sig win a thriller in the last minute of play 12-7 to take second place.

New plays have been set up by the UMass coaching staff to counteract the Maroon defensive alignments. A lot of time has also been spent setting up defenses against the Springfield offensive set up. A victory over the Maroons from Springfield will make the Redmen's record 4-3. For the first time in many years the Redmen will be slight favorites to bring home the game ball from Springfield.

Middlesex, Berkshire, Chadbourne B on Top

In League B, Middlesex upset preseason favored Berkshire B 14-13, and then hung on to win the league crown. In second place was a dark horse freshman team from Chadbourne that surprised everyone by racking up an 8-1 record against tough competition. Third place, one half game behind, found the defending champions, Berkshire B, with an 8-2 record.

Frosh Soccer Split In Two

The frosh soccer team whipped Smith's School 4-2, in a recent game, to break its losing streak and get into the win column.

Beaudry and Babineau each booted in a pair of goals to pace the Redmen assault. Rajter starred for Smith's School getting its only two goals.

Lineup: Cornelius, Pattern, Cronin, Sioux, Sully, Beaudry, Bready, Center, Kline, Dean, Baum and Babineau.

Williston scored one goal in the first period. After that they were held in check by the frosh until the final period when Williston scored another goal which came from a penalty kick. The frosh played their best game of the season and with a few breaks could have won the game.

The loss brought the frosh record to 1 and 4. They play Monson Academy this week for their final game of the season and hope to end the season on a good note by coming home on the long end of the score.

Redmen Meet Sp'field; Seek To Break Jinx

The University of Massachusetts Redmen oppose Springfield College tomorrow at Springfield. The Eckmen will be out to better their .500 record which features victories over Bates, Rhode Island, and Vermont. Springfield has a wide edge over UMass. in the series to date.

The UMass coaching staff had some praise for some individual members of the team for their work in last Saturday's victory over Vermont. Head Coach Tommy Eck was pleased with the final performance of full back Dick Conway, who showed that he could run even with the wet field and cold temperature. Conway's running should add a lot of versatility to the backfield when his running is combined with that of the Redmen's shifty crew of halfbacks. Also picked out again for its outstanding work was the defensive line, which has consistently done excellent work in holding enemy runners from chalking up large gains. The defensive line consists of: Sophomore ends Tony Chambers and Jack Casey; Tackles Nobby Nolan, who is playing great ball, and Al Gilmore; Guards Chubby Bicknell and Verne Adams; and center Bob Driscoll. Driscoll acts as quarterback for this group giving out the defensive signals.

Cornflakes before you even get out of bed in the morning.

Last week we had twelve guests. When they insisted on leaving the kitchen and visiting the rest of the apartment, I had to convince them that interior decorators were working the other rooms. Just yesterday we found one of the guests who was still caught behind the refrigerator where he had been pushed by the crowd. Guess maybe it was a little crowded.

One of the main problems is electricity. The lights in our apartment go out periodically. Since most of the cooking, what little we do, is done on electrical appliances this can become quite annoying. While cooking our seventh day meal last week (chicken at .45 per lb.) a fuse blew out and four sections were in complete darkness. No one had a fuse for replacement and all the stores were closed. But there was one consolation. In total darkness half-raw chicken doesn't taste half as bad as you would expect.

After presenting you with one of the phases of married life on the U. M. campus you should now be better informed to arrive at your own conclusions.

Will Bradley To Play For Military Ball

"America's Foremost Trombonist", Will Bradley, will supply the music at the Military Ball on Friday, Dec. 7, at the Amherst College Gymnasium.

Bradley, a favorite throughout colleges in America, has played at many college balls. Mr. Bradley's appearance in Amherst will be his second recent engagement in the East.

Bradley is known for the melodic music that he features. "People coming to a dance should get dance music, not novelty tunes or progressive tempos", says Bradley.

Senate Report:

Senate Will Hear Judiciary Bidder

The election of the Men's Judiciary Board was postponed by the Men's Affairs Committee until next week. The senators request all sophomore, junior, and senior men interested in running for the Judiciary to come to the meeting next Tuesday evening at 7 in room 4, Skinner Hall, and speak briefly on their qualifications.

Art Alintuck introduced a bill for selling class rings whereby a committee of the junior class officers and 10 other juniors will choose the actual ring committee. The bill, which also provided for a written contract with the company and a financial statement from the committee, was referred to the finance committee.

Dick Jones requested that the curriculum committee investigate the funds paid by the freshmen to the history department for outside reading books. He reported that only four books had been placed in the library from $250 collected.

Snappy Routine Planned For UM-Tufts Game

The University Marching Band and Drill Team will complete their season tomorrow with what promises to be the snappiest routine of the season, according to Director Joe Contino.

With a view toward constant improvement and emphasis on individual performance, the Band has gradually adopted the system used by most large bands throughout the country whereby letters and formations are made with greater speed and precision, each bandaman moving quietly at the signal to a designated spot. Having memorized the entire program, bandsmen will use no music on the field tomorrow.

With juniors Bill McBane as Drum Major and Art Groves as Manager, the Band has captured a team spirit this year that is typical of the famous Mid-western bands. They rehearse intensely five days per week, one hour each day.

Rally Tonight In Cage At 7

The Cage will be the setting for the last football rally of the season beginning tonight at 7. Since Saturday's game with Tufts will see the U. of M. facing its traditional rival as the final game is always played against Tufts, it is hoped that the turnout for this rally, the most important of the year, will be the biggest and most enthusiastic yet seen.

The tanks, band, cheerleaders, and Drill Team will start the parade at 7 on Butterfield Hill by Chadbourne, proceed down the hill to the Math Building, turn right, continue past French Hall to the blinkers by the Abbey, cross the highway, pass by Goessman, Draper, and Mem Hall, and wind up at the north entrance of the Cage.

One half of the Cage will be utilized, the other half being blocked off. Shelley Saltman, '53, who was largely responsible for the success of the last rally in Bowker, will again be the M. C. Band members and cheerleaders will be seated in front of the two wagons serving as the platform; everyone else will stand. The Cage will be in complete darkness except for two spotlights shining down on the platform, which will be decorated by a staff headed by Gerry Tober of TEP and including Dick Tibert of Lambda Chi and Tony Pacheco and Paul Maciolek of Alpha Gam. Students are asked to use only the north entrance of the Cage in entering and leaving.

According to Adelphia and Isogon, sponsors of the rally, the program will be over by 8 to allow time for students to get to Bowker for the 8:15 performance of Light Up the Sky or to Drill Hall for the commuters' rally dance.

Redmen Harriers Top Conference

The varsity cross country team scored their second championship win within a week as they annexed the Yankee Conference title in Boston last Saturday. The New Englands, which saw the Derbymen running without the services of Burt Lancaster, frosh star, found the Redmen finishing in the number six slot behind Boston University, MIT, Providence, New Hampshire, and Maine. The varsity were handicapped in the New Englands due to the fact that Lancaster was ineligible to compete due to the freshman rule. However, Lancaster's finish was counted toward the Conference crown.

The varsity race found Lancaster finishing in the number 2 position behind Johnny Kelly of BU. Hank Knapp was second in for the Redmen as he finished in the number 11 slot. The rest of the squad were much farther back. Harry Aldrich finished 31st, Halsey Allen finished 32nd, and George McMullin finished

First Nighters To See RD Players At 8:15 PM

Tonight's the night! The Roister Doisters will unfurl their latest show on the stage of Bowker Auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

"Light Up The Sky," the group's latest production, is a sparkling comedy by that master of show business Moss Hart. From all reports of people who have seen rehearsals, the show promises to be the best put on by the group since their memorable "Joan of Lorraine" and "I Remember Mama." According to a report from the box office, there are still some tickets available for the show being produced tonight and tomorrow night. Due to the abolition of the amusement tax, tickets are now being sold at the reduced rate of $.50, $.75, $1.00.

Heading a star studded cast will be Mary Lowry and Bob Boland. Both actors have had considerable experience in campus productions. These two will be ably supported by a cast composed of veterans and newcomers to Bowker, including Phil Johnson, Marino Grimaldi, Carole Cassady, Marguerite Follette, and Mario Bruni.

Staging will be in the charge of Howard Galley, and the show is directed by Professor Arthur Niedeck of the English department.

The play is a comedy based on the inside of show business. The plot revolves around the hypercritical actions of a cast of a new show who turn on the playwright when they think his show is a flop, but do a complete about face when the show becomes a success. The comedy is sharp and good, which is evidenced by the show's long run on Broadway.

"Light Up The Sky" is the first production of the year to be staged at Bowker. It promises to be one of the best of the year. The play is guaranteed to leave you roaring with laughter at the clever humor and dialogue of the cast. There is never a dull moment in show business. This production takes you behind the scenes and proves it.

Robert Frost Speaks At Amherst Chapel

Robert Frost, noted American poet, spoke to a capacity audience that filled Johnson Chapel at Amherst College last Wed. evening, Nov. 7.

Mr. Frost, who won four Pulitzer prizes, has been awarded 20 honorary degrees, and has, for a number of years, taught at many schools including Amherst College. He began his talk with the statement that "there is nothing I want more for America than the arts." He then went on to read several of his poems which have done so much toward promoting those self-same arts.

Towards the close of his talk Mr. Frost told a completely enraptured audience, "I don't expect anybody to take any stock in me. Poems are different." But when the evening was over and Mr. Frost rose to leave the chapel, the whole-hearted applause of the audience followed him as he walked from the room.

Pardon Our Faux Pas

We seem to have committed a faux pas in letting Mr. Fox's "Faux Pas" pass on November 6. Perhaps a bit of explanation is due here.

Mr. Fox's column was added to the Collegian in answer to a request for more humorous material in the newspaper. On the whole Mr. Fox has done his best to limit his column to humor, and we feel that he has done a fine job to date.

In his satirical approach to the Horticulture Show, Mr. Fox had no intention of stepping on anyone's toes or of discrediting the show or its participants. He merely took the humorous aspects of the show and played them up for the purpose of his column.

We feel that the Collegian showed, by its straight news stories and by the editorial which appeared in the same issue with Mr. Fox's column, that we thought that the Horticulture Show was an excellent exhibit. We are certainly the first to admit that by shows of this type the University gains untold prestige for which we, as loyal students, are ever grateful.

We sincerely hope that those people who wrote letters criticizing Mr. Fox realize that there was no malice intended in his column, nor was there any intention of criticizing the Horticulture Show. Mr. Fox will continue to write a humorous column in the Collegian. His material will come from various sources on campus, that is, from any event which has humorous aspects. There is humor in many events which seem extremely serious to us. It is Mr. Fox's job to find this humor wherever he can and to report it in his column.

We have tried to clarify this situation for those who were dissatisfied. In this explanation, we hope that we have assuaged any feelings which were hurt by the Collegian's last "Faux Pas".

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

While reading the Tuesday issue of the Collegian I found a very sarcastic take-off on the Horticulture Show by one Mr. Fox. It was quite a contrast to the excellent editorial on the second page and I was surprised that you would publish such an article.

I only wish that Mr. Fox could have gone with us and helped haul trees down Mt. Toby and bring in wet sod in freezing weather. I am sure that if he had done anything at all in helping put on the Hort. Show, he would have enjoyed it and would feel the same way I do about such an article. There are several hundred other students who spent long hours both in and out of the Cage who will back me up. Possibly Mr. Fox thinks we put on the Hort. Show just for laughs, but after hearing all the wonderful comments I know that most of the 21,000 people who saw the show really appreciated it and thought it was worth using the Cage for a few days.

As for the music which he also criticized it was very welcome, especially at 2 o'clock in the morning. All in all, Mr. Fox certainly showed lack of discretion in his column, Tuesday. I hope this is not the opinion of many students at the University of Mass. as this show greatly benefits the University.

Sincerely,
Roland B. Shaw, SSA '53

To the Editor:

I am specifically aiming this letter to a certain individual who writes the column "Faux Pas" for the Collegian. It's too bad that he and his friends can't forego one Sunday afternoon of basketball while the U. of M. builds its reputation and increases its popularity by staging its annual Horticulture Show.

If the author, Mr. Fox, had been one of the participating workers I am sure he would have appreciated the results which some 20,000 people seemed to enjoy. The workers of all departments of Horticulture including instructors and students put in many hours of work, both on the main exhibit and student exhibits.

I am sure he would not have written such an unappreciative take-off if he had been among the workers who cut down trees, built the globe, loaded turf in mud and freezing rain, made hedges, carted sawdust in freezing weather.

Mr. Fox is definitely among the minority of people who are critical of the work of beauty from a non-horticulturist standpoint, especially just to get a column in the Collegian! I am sure he could have found something better to write about.

It certainly does nothing for Mr. Fox's reputation among the students who worked on the show and those who enjoyed it. If he didn't like the show just because it kept him from playing basketball or because it did not interest him, he could have kept it to himself as it does no credit to the students of this University, most of whom are here to broaden their education, but with narrow-minded individuals such as he they won't get very far.

Sincerely,
Richard M. Bushnell, SSA '52

Adelphia and Isogon To Sponsor All-Campus Dance Tues. Nov. 26

For the first time in many years, an all-campus dance will be held on a night before a half-holiday. The dance, sponsored by Adelphia and Isogon, is part of their drive for greater campus spirit and is intended to provide students with at least one social event for Tuesday, Nov. 20, and to raise funds for the events sponsored by the two service organizations.

The dance will be held in Drill Hall from 8-11. Contributions will be accepted for the hospital shows to be put on for the veterans later in the year. Music will be provided by Dave Baker, '53; refreshments will be on hand; decorations will probably feature balloons in keeping with the gay spirit that anticipates vacation.

The slide is put in a viewing box and is mixed by tilting the box. The results are read and placed on a blood identification card.

Everyone is urged to have his blood typed as a pre-disaster defense measure. The card should be carried by the person at all times in case of an emergency.

Mr. Hendry wishes the students to note the fact that the blood mobile will visit the University in December. As blood is greatly needed for our soldiers in Korea each student should try to give a donation.

38th to complete the Redmen scoring. The final totals saw the Redmen finish with 169 points in the New Englands compared with BU's winning 55.

The Yankee Conference totals were decidedly different as Lancaster's second place finish counted. The final totals gave the Redmen 56 points, ten points ahead of Rhode Island, their nearest competitor.

The freshman cross country team led by Conlin and Tripp finished in a better spot than the varsity. The freshman totals found the Little Indians with 107 points in third place behind Tufts and Providence. If Lancaster had run in the freshman race, the Little Indians would probably have romped.

The win set a record for the harriers that will be hard to beat. Prior to this year, the best that the Derbymen had been able to do was a second in the Connecticut Valley meet, and two seconds in the Yankee Conference meet. Thus in one week, the team wiped out the records of the 1947 squad by winning both the Conn. Valley and the Yankee Conference.

Next week, the varsity and freshmen run their final race of the year as they travel to New York to compete in the IC4A meet. Last year, Harry Aldrich finished second in the freshman race. This year, the varsity should be able to present a much stronger team due to the addition of freshman star Burt Lancaster. If Aldrich, Knapp, McMullin, and Captain Allen have good days, there is a good chance that the Redmen may bring home the bacon once more.

Redmen Wind Up Season Meet Tufts Tomorrow

by Jerry Goldman

The Tufts Jumbo is the opposition tomorrow at Alumni field as the U. of Mass. Redmen close out their 1951 season. The Redmen will be out to end the season on a happy note with a victory over Tufts which will give the Eckmen a .500 record. The Redmen are licking their wounds as a result of last Saturday's defeat at the hands of Springfield, and a win over arch rival Tufts will help the Redmen forget a rather dismal season.

Last year at Boston, a strong Tufts eleven defeated UMass. 7-6. This year, Tufts has had a very poor season and they do not have one win to show for their efforts. Last Saturday New Hampshire massacred Tufts 60-0. The nearest thing that the Jumbos can show for a victory is an early season tie with Bates. Northeastern and Rhode Island both ran up large totals against the men from Medford.

Captain Jack Benoit will be leading the Redmen on to the field for the final time tomorrow. At times during the year, Jack has showed signs of excellence as he has directed the ball club from the quarterback slot. Other men who have played excellent ball for the Redmen this year are: Buster DiVincenzo, Gigi Howland, Dick Conway, Noel Reebenacker, and Ted Piers in the backfield, while in the line Nobby Nolan, Chubby Bicknell, Lou Prokopowich, Bob Vafides, and Tony Chambers have been giving their best every Saturday. It is interesting to note, that all these boys will be back next year.

A capacity crowd is expected at Alumni field tomorrow and a repeat performance of the Rhode Island game would be a fitting climax to the season which has seen the team have both its ups and downs.

Aggies Win 27-0 Beat Monson; Close Season

The Stockbridge varsity football team finished out one of their most successful seasons in years by whipping Monson Academy 27-0 on Wednesday afternoon. The win gave the Aggies a season's record of four wins and one loss, their only loss coming last Saturday at the hands of Williston Academy 25-12.

Scoring in every period, the Aggies proved to be too potent for the visitors. Touchdowns were scored by Captain Fred Kelly, Joe Freitas, Paul McGrath, and Fred Gummow, while Gummow kicked two extra points and McGrath added one.

The Aggie backfield was outstanding throughout the afternoon as Kelly and Gummow repeatedly crashed through for long gains.

Springfield Stampedes Trounce Redmen 42-14

In a game marked by long runs, the Redmen suffered their fourth defeat of the current campaign as they received their worst beating in years at the hands of Springfield College last Saturday 42-14.

Springfield jumped off to a 16-0 lead in the first half before the Redmen finally struck pay dirt. The Gymnasts first score was set up by a Mass fumble deep in their own territory. Leading 13-0, the Indians tried to insure an early win by a 20 yard field goal from a 40 degree angle by Hoffman. The Redmen struck back on a 40 yard pass from Reebenacher to Pyne who stepped out on the 10. Three plays later, Reeb swept to the right and threw a pass in the end zone to Charlie Redman for the score. Buster DiVincenzo made the extra point good as the half read 16-7 Springfield in front.

Mainly on the running of Insalace (a 57 and a 60 yard run) and the passing of Captain Don Teel, the host club scored twice in the third period and twice more in the fourth before throwing in the subs. With the score reading 42-7, Springfield kicked off. Reebenacher took the ball two yards behind the goal line, and made a beautiful twisting run of 102 yards for the Redmen to make the final score read 42-14. The defeat marked the 36th straight year that the Redmen have been unable to beat Springfield. Although the defeat was the worst ever inflicted on an Eck coached eleven, at least the team had the satisfaction of scoring against a team that had shut them out for three straight years.

Outstanding stars in the game were Noel Reebenacher and Buster DiVincenzo in the backfield and veteran Nobby Nolan in the line. The team missed their injured players which include Lou Prokopowich, Gigi Howland, Billy Rex, Ted Piers —all men who have proved their worth to the club. The Summary:

Little Indians Beaten In Final Quarter by Spfld

The Springfield freshmen came from behind to defeat the U of M freshmen in the final minutes of play, 21 to 6.

The Redmen, pinned in their own territory for the greater part of the game, held off Springfield until a series of breaks enabled them to cash in three touchdowns and a safety in the last 5 minutes of play.

Springfield took the opening kickoff and ran it back to the Redmen's five; however, they were stopped by the stubborn Mass. defense, giving up posession of the ball on the 10. The Redmen were unable to move the ball at all in the first half, never getting beyond their own 35.

The little Indians scored in the third period on a pass from Kowaleski to Mallon. The extra point try just missed.

Springfield rallied in the last period. They got 2 points when a Mass. back fumbled a punt in his end zone. After the ensuing kickoff, they marched to another score. The Redmen, fighting desperately to get back in the game, had two passes intercepted and returned for touchdowns by the alert Springfield defense.

Briggsmen Bow Win In Two Games

The varsity soccer team defeated Boston University last Saturday 4-0 in Boston. Most of the action centered around the BU goal from the very start. The Redmen surpassed their opponents both defensively and offensively throughout the contest.

Al Hoelzel, center forward for the Redmen, and the league's high scorer, added to his point totals by tallying three of the four Massachusetts points. Brad McGrath scored the fourth goal for the Briggsmen.

The victory gave the Redmen a needed boost after their 5-2 loss to Springfield College last week. In this contest, Hoelzel accounted for both of the UMass tallies.

Next Saturday at 10:30 A.M., the team will close its 1951 schedule against Tufts College on Alumni Field. The game will be featured by the play of Hoelzel versus Tomasso and Bennett of Tufts. The latter two are tied for third in the league scoring race.

MOOSE CALLS

by

The Little Moose

The Cross Country team made a very creditable showing in Boston last Monday at the New Englands. The team won the Yankee Conference championship with freshman Burt Lancaster taking individual honors in the race by copping first place. The varsity team finished fifth in the New England championships, and the freshman team finished third in the freshman race. Coach Derby can be proud of his team, which also went undefeated in regular dual meet competition and won the Connecticut Valley Championships.

The South end of Alumni Field will be the scene of a very interesting soccer game tomorrow morning when the Briggsmen meet Tufts. The game will have no bearing on the league standings, but Al Hoelzel will be attempting to sew up individual scoring honors. At this writing Hoelzel has an unofficial five goal lead. In third place in the scoring race are Bennett and Tomasso of Tufts, who will be on the field tomorrow. Al has carried the U of M team on his shoulders throughout the season with his fine play.

Last Friday's Collegian stated that Tyke Coparanis of S.A.E. was the leading scorer in the Inter-Fraternity touch football league. This was an error as Herb Baniel of A. E. Pi. was leading scorer, tallying 84 points. It will be interesting to see if S.A.E. can continue their winning ways and successfully defend their basketball championship.

Tomorrow afternoon four members of the football team will be playing the final game of their intercollegiate days. Captain Jack Benoit, Bob Driscoll, Jack Pyne, and Don Smith are the four seniors on this year's squad. They have all done good jobs for Coach Tommy Eck, and they will be missed when another football season rolls around.

The entire student body, 3500 strong, should be at the rally tonight and the game tomorrow. Tufts is our arch rival, and a win over the Jumbos will help heal the wounds caused by the other defeats throughout the season.

Yankee Conference

Results of the Yankee conference football season were released today by the Conference Director of Atletics. The standings show Massachusetts safely established in second place behind Maine, who has already clinched the crown by defeating three Conference rivals. The Redmen scored two wins in Conference play by defeating Rhode Island and Vermont. However, the Redmen were ineligible for the crown due to the Conference rule that a participating team must play at least three Conference teams to be eligible.

THE DU PONT DIGEST

M.E.'s AT DU PONT [2]

Challenging variety of problems solved by research and development engineers

As a student of mechanical engineering, do you look forward to a future in research, development, plant engineering or production supervision?

In the Digest this month, we'd like to discuss the ample outlet Du Pont offers your talents in these fields.

Let's talk about research and development together because they often overlap indistinguishably. Both these fields deal with mechanisms for making products. In some cases, original equipment is designed for a new product. In others, machinery used in making existing products is improved to provide better quality at lower cost.

This design and development work may call for studies of the vibration of machine elements, equipment, structural members and structures. Or there may be need for application of electronics, instrumentation, operation of test equipment and testing of experimental machines. In much of this activity there is close cooperation with other engineers, participation in group conferences, joint analysis of data, and issuance of recommendations.

Du Pont research and development engineers keep informed of developments through technical, trade and patent literature, seminars and lectures. Exceptional facilities for these are provided.

Here are some examples, specific and general, of the problems that confront Du Pont research and development engineers:

1. Develop and design high-speed slitting equipment for thin films. Involved are unwind and wind-up tension regulation, alignment of web travel and cutting-knife selection, combined in a machine easy to service.

2. Design equipment to operate at pressures up to 45,000 p.s.i. This is insurance against the time when processes may be developed that will operate in this range.

As pressures are increased, design problems for moderate pressures are magnified. Typical are stress-fatigue of metals, design of vessel closures and line joints, valves and packing for reciprocating compressors and centrifugal pumps, packing glands for stirred autoclaves, etc.

3. Design, installation and testing of large air-conditioning systems necessary in the manufacture of certain products. In one plant, water is used at the rate of 50 million gallons daily, current at 25,000 kw. per hour, and air at 5.5 million C.F.M.

These three examples, selected from literally hundreds, can only hint at the breadth and variety of the problems that are constantly arising.

One of the strongest pieces of evidence that mechanical engineering is of major significance in the Du Pont Company is the existence of the Wilmington Shops. They represent an investment of over $3,500,000 and cover an area of 300,000 sq. ft., including a foundry and pattern shop. They employ over 800 men and have a potential output in volume of work in excess of $6,000,000 a year.

The size and diversity of this operation are justified only because the work of mechanical engineers is an important factor in Du Pont operations.

NEXT MONTH—Opportunities in plant engineering and product supervision will be discussed in the third article in this series, "M.E.'s at Du Pont." Watch for it!

The first meeting of the freshmas inter-dorm council was held Thursday, Nov. 8. Each freshman dorm was represented by two members of its social committee. At that time, the organization of the council was discussed and approved by the representatives.

The council, which was formed last spring by Al Good, past freshman class president, John Heintz, and Joe Powers, all of the class of '54, is to unify the large class of '55 and succeeding freshman classes under sophomore guidance, thus stimulating more social functions within the freshman class.

Future development of tthe council depends on its success this year.

No. 27...THE LYNX

This sporty student really teed off on a long tirade when he found himself stymied on the "single puff" and "one sniff" cigarette tests. "They're strictly for the birdies!" said he. He realized that cigarette mildness requires more deliberation than a cursory inhale or exhale. Millions of smokers concur — there's only one true test of mildness and flavor in a cigarette.

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

Roister Doisters Begin Season With Top Play and Perfect Cast

by Judy Broder

The Roister Doisters scored another hit this week-end! Moss Hart supplied the play with its hilarious dialogue and Prof. Niedeck found the perfect cast to perform it.

The setting, theater-wise, was a simple one, well-planned and designed for smooth action and effective portrayal of the scene. This is the place for applause to the men behind the scenes, Mr. Jerry Pierce, advisor to the crew and Paul Goldberg, stage manager, as well as the many workers who helped to stage the show.

As for the acting, it reached a peak achieved in only a few productions in the past three years. No better cast could have been chosen, in my humble opinion. Mary Lowry as Irene Livingston was her usual dynamic self. Showing her versatility, she went from melodramatic to absolutely down-to-earth at a moment's notice. Marino Grimaldi played Sidney Black with conviction and energy. I am looking forward to seeing this newcomer to campus dramatics in the future as he has a great deal of talent in that line. Carleton Fitzgerald, portrayed by Bob Boland made one want to cry. He was over-dramatic to perfection, adding another feather to his bonnet for dramatic performances. There was never a moment without a laugh when Carole Cassady and Marguerite Follett were on stage. Miss Cassady played the coarse old mother most convincingly, showing true theatrical ability. From all sides of Bowker, came whispers of "Judy Holliday" after Miss Follett's first few speeches. Her portrayal of the dizzy ice-skating wife of producer Black was brilliant and effective. Although he uttered no more than a dozen syllables for the entire first act, Ralph Hall, another Roister Doister newcomer, showed his ability in the last two acts by becoming truly violent and sincerely tender at the appropriate times.

Holiday Vespers To Be At Bowker

The Christmas Vespers will be held in Bowker Auditorium this year for the first time, according to plans made at the Chaplain's Council recently. Representatives of all the denominational clubs, the dormitories, Greek letter houses, and the commuters' organization are joining with the S.C.A. in the planning of this annual affair, scheduled for 7 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 9.

Committees have already begun arrangements to make the Yuletide vesper service a high point of the pre-Christmas activities of the campus. The service of music and scripture will be planned by the Worship Committee, composed of Howard Galley, Nancy Barrows, Cornelius Bella, Shirley Nichols, all '52; Pat Menzies, Grace Dresser, Anna Grant, Annette White, '53; Paul Harling, Shirley Crooks, Marion Felton, '54; and Clyde Woodworth, '55.

The Auditorium decorations committee includes Prescott Kimball, Priscilla Ainsworth, '52; Milly Vander Pol, '53; Stephanie Holmes, Jerry Whitten, '54; Jane Allen, Sally Raymond, Karen Gustavsen, Lloyd Lapham, Don Cameron, and Paul Nelson, all of '55.

Publicity is to be handled by Judy Davenport, Don Stevens, '52; Billie Harvey, Miriam Carleston, Pamela Tuttle, Jean Ryder, Fredrica Dole, Joe Coppola, Art Steigleder, '53; Shirley Mitchell, Barbara Underhill, George Hanna, and Donald Cheater, '54; and Arnold Wheaton, David Fogg, Dick Robbins, '55.

FAUX PAS

by Bruce Fox

Another institution finally seems to have gained recognition on the U of M campus, after three and a half hilarious years.

At almost all of the football games, many of the basketball exhibitions, and other athletic contests, the appearance of a tan coat, a maple cane, and a black derby hat has taken the spectators' minds from the gruelling battles and lightened up the show. Smiles, jeers, hoots, and screams follow the man in the tan coat and his aggregation of undertakers, sportsmen, and referees, who gleefully tickle the ribs of sportsfans in their playful game of follow the leader.

The leader, an underpaid, hard-working senior has given a lift to the fans, confusion to many umpires, and at the Northeastern game, aggravation to the guardians of the peace. Having filled up on what he described as "clam juice" to keep him warm, he proceeded to lead unheard of cheers, tantalize a youngster with a peanut, and divert the attention of most of the stadium when he played hide-and-go-seek with the men in blue. The tan coat and derby made wild gestures in imitation of traffic cops in action. The mimicry ceased as one cop turned sharply about, only to be met with a mild gentleman quietly waving to some friends in the stands. When the policeman returned to his patrol of the sidelines, the cane, coat, and chapeau returned to the hilarious antics. This time, however, the long arm of the law reached out and mercilessly dragged the innocent bystander down the field. By this time, thousands of eyes were turned on Saturday's Hero and a big hand greeted his return a few short minutes later. This time, he was escorted by his associates in frivolity.

At the Tufts game, the tan coat was seated on a bicycle, and was seen prancing down the sidelines with a hotdog half out of its bread basket. This same hotdog is reported to have been seen flipping from a cocker spaniel's nose into its mouth; a perfect catch. Then there was the time that Ed became a member ex officio of the Drill Team at last year's finale with these same Jumbos, with his group parading at half time, keeping the fans laughing.

But football isn't the only sport to which this versatile personality and his followers have given their talents. At one basketball exhibition last year, a crew of unappointed referees was seen performing on the bench. Precision of movement is the best way to describe their antics. Every move, from a writhing wiggle to a called foul was executed in perfect coordination. So too was the basketball passing show put on by the same group. If ever a show was to get its true name, "Campus Varieties" belongs to them.

The leader should graduate this year, but here's hoping the group will continue to carry on in the same spirit. At rallies and at ball games, Ed Jasinski has played an important part in keeping the U.M. rooting section strong.

Spanish Club Elect Officers For '51-'52

Officers of the Spanish Club for the coming year were elected at the first meeting, held recently, as follows: president, Marlene Wolk; vice-president and program chairman, Alice Georgantas; secretary, Catherine Rouillard; treasurer, Rocco Petrillo; and publicity chairman, Antonio Santori.

The club will meet on the first Wednesday of each month. Meetings will be conducted in Spanish and will feature speakers, group singing, Spanish films, and the learning of Spanish dances under the direction of Antonio Santori of Puerto Rico, whom the club is fortunate in having as one of its members.

Approximately 30 students attended this first organizational meeting. The entire Spanish department, who are honorary members of the club, were also present.

COLLEGIAN COMPETITORS & MEMBERS

There will be a talk by Mr. Warren Craig of the Northampton Daily Hampshire Gazette this afternoon at 5 in Memorial Hall Auditorium. Collegian staff members and competitors are requested to attend.

Pre-Holiday Dance To Be Held Tonight

Adelphia and Isogon will hold an all-campus dance tonight at the Drill Hall from 8-11 in conjunction with their campus spirit program.

This campus spirit program concerns the task of improving campus spirit which will be taken up soon by prominent organizations on campus with Adelphia and Isogon spearheading the drive.

It is hoped that the dance will be well attended, for it marks the first time in many years that the Student Life Committee has allowed a dance on a night before a half-holiday. If the dance is successful, other organizations may be able to hold dances on similar nights later in the year.

No admission will be charged, but contributions will be accepted for the hospital tours which are annually sponsored by the two organizations for veterans of World War II.

Social chairmen, Betsy Marshman of Isogon and Larry Litwack of Adelphia, announced that music for the dance will be provided by Dave Baker, '53, and refreshments will be sold. Faculty guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ricci and their guests.

Many Candidates Vie For Various Class Offices

Final voting for class officers will take place soon after Thanksgiving vacation, it was announced by Robert Reagan, chairman of the Senate election committee.

Nomination papers for class office were filed Thursday by those who obtained the signatures of 20 students. The only other qualification was that each student be in good standing in his own class.

Primaries were held last night in all dormitories and student residences. For the senior class, candidates for the presidency were George Delaney, Raymond Holmes, and Jack Benoit; Milton Crane, Raymond Gunn, James Patterson, and Nancy Galas for vice-president; Jean Hazelton, Barbara Konopka, and Helen Woloshyn for secretary; Halsey Allen, Allen Manchester, William Manley, and Arthur Mintz for treasurer.

The junior class actually had no need of the primaries: William Bakey is automatically president as he ran unopposed; Nancy Gilley and Robert Nolan are candidates for vice-president; Mary Lester and Norma Regis for secretary; Michael Marcinkowski and Larry Marshall for treasurer.

For the class of '54, the candidates were Anthony Chambers, Allen Good, and George McMullin for president; Roberta Mitchell is vice-president; Bobbie Jean Elliot, Mary Harding, and Nancy Montgomery were candidates for secretary; Frances Conroy, Louis Falconieri, and Robert Smith for treasurer.

Freshman class candidates are William Boyle, Richard Larson, Ira Nottonson, and Arthur Pearley for president; John George, Carol Hartley, Jordan Liner, and Joseph McDaniel for vice-president; Bernice Rall and Ellen Conroy for secretary; Leonard Barber and Sally Sargeant for treasurer.

French House To Hold Annual Coffee Hour

The French House will hold their annual Coffee Hour Tuesday, Nov. 27 from 7-8 at Butterfield in honor of the new members of the Romance Language department. The guests will be Miss Zina Tillona, instructor in Italian and Spanish, and Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Greenfield. Mr. Greenfield is an instructor in Spanish and Latin. Should Freshmen Vote?

Last Thursday Adelphia and Isogon went to the trouble of holding a rally for freshmen to enable them to get acquainted with those members of their class who are running for class officers. To call the meeting a fiasco would be gross understatement. The fault lay entirely with the frosh and not with the sponsors who organized the rally as effectively as they could. Posters were located in all freshman dorms and in vital places on campus. The co-chairmen, Ray Gunn and Marie Jacobs, contacted all aspirants for offices and told them how much time was alloted for their speeches. Everything was figured out to perfection. What more was there to do? Perhaps taxis should have been sent to chauffeur the indolent and indifferent students down to Bowker.

It seems that we have about 800 freshman men and women who feel that they know every member of their class well enough to decide which of them should be officers for the coming year. Well, we heartily congratulate you. We upperclassmen are still dubious as to whether or not we know every member of our classes.

Not all of the meager 200 (about one-fifth of the class) who attended the rally showed the proper spirit either. Perhaps it would have been better if they had remained in the dorms or spent the hour in the C-store, too. Most of us, by the time we reach what is more commonly known as "the college level", have become at least superficially acquainted with the term "respect". The word as we know it has a deeper meaning than giving old ladies seats in crowded busses or standing when the president of the University enters an assembly. One is not required to pass middle age to merit a little common courtesy. Yes, we owe some respect to those who are in our own age group. When a class convenes, and this does not happen very often, the members of said class would do well to be polite enough to listen attentively while speeches are being made. Time for cheering and noisemaking is allowed, and should be used appropriately.

Apparently our hopes for freshman class spirit were unfounded.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to point out the bad conditions of some of the paths here on the school grounds during rainy weather. Not that I mind getting my feet wet, but I think it is a disgrace the way some of the lawns are getting chewed up because of oozy paths.

Two of these paths can be directly seen. One around the front of the Cage and the other between the Cage and Berkshire House.

There are also several others, one across campus towards Hasbrouck; another from Draper to the Engineering Building.

It seems to me that as long as we chose this school to be our Alma Mater, we should at least strive to keep it a respectable looking place.

I realize there are alternative routes to take on the way to classes but who takes them? No one that I know of; I know I don't, do you?

Therefore, as a suggestion, I feel the maintenance crew should look over some of the paths and either place some asphalt over them or planks to keep the people on the paths instead of all over the lawn.

Cordially,
Randy Englund, '53
Engineering

Ed. Note: We have discussed this problem in an editorial. Perhaps a few more letters like this may start the ball rolling in the right direction.

To the Editor:

It's been nearly five months since I left school at the University of Massachusetts and enlisted in the Marine Corps. During this time I've had a chance to look back on the overall picture of life and education at the University. The faults and merits of the system as well as of the attitudes of the student body are gradually defining themselves in clear cut terms. Rather than dealing a volley of criticism, I prefer to take this opportunity to express my deepest appreciation to the Executive Board of the Concert Association for the really fine job it is doing.

The purpose of the Association is to bring to the school not only the best in the musical world, but also the added prestige which accompanies a famous name. There is no question in my mind but that the aim is being accomplished. The world is sadly lacking in an appreciation of the refinements of great music and the University is no exception to the rule. If it were not for the efforts of the Concert Association, the musical outlook at the University would be sad indeed. But the Association is functioning and doing a first rate job of it. It has made all the difference in the world to hundreds of music lovers and interested many others. To just mention the artists on any of the Association's series impressed those who are unfamiliar with activities at the University. But it is doing even more, its accomplishments are a consolation to those of us who want the University to be known for the best and the highest standards. It is an encouragement for other groups to further their efforts to make the University a place where culture predominates.

I'm sure that many of the present student body will feel the same way as I when they are thinking back on school life. I'm sure many will agree with me now that the Association Executive Board are setting a great example for other groups to follow.

Sincerely,
Robert O. Clapp, Pfc. USMC

Ed. Note: It is gratifying to receive such a thoughtful letter from one who is occupied in the serious business of defending our country. This is a good sign that war has not destroyed completely the feelings of Americans for the finer things of life.

He was so convincing that he was moved to ask how long and when he had been drinking in preparation for the show.

Favored Redmen Held To Tie As Tufts' Passes Click

The University of Massachusetts ended their 1951 season last Saturday by playing to a 6-6 tie with Tufts. The Redmen were heavily favored, but they could not stop the passing of Tom Cassell who completed 24 out of 42 passes thrown from a double wing formation. Tufts had used the "T" in all their previous games, but they switched to the double wing for this game.

Cassell kept the Redmen in trouble throughout the game with his pitches to Dave Harrison, Dave Fenton, and Bill Burns. Late in the third quarter, Tufts recovered a UMass fumble on the Mass 16 yard line. A Cassell to Harrison pass was good for 15 yards, and then Bob Meehan went over from the one, for the tying score.

The Redmen scored early in the second period. Taking the ball on their own 33, they marched the length of the field. Ted Piers and Charley Redman carried the ball most of the time, and Redman scored on a 22 yard run. Poor punting on the part of Jack Benoit kept Tufts near midfield for the majority of the game.

One of the best runs of the game, was Ted Piers' return of a Tufts kickoff. He took the ball on the 3 and was finally pulled to the ground on the 45. UMass could not move as fumbles stopped the Redmen attack. Tufts moved the ball to a TD midway through the fourth quarter, but the touchdown was called back because of a clipping penalty.

A fighting Tufts eleven outplayed UMass throughout the game and the final record for Massachusetts reads three wins, four losses, and one tie.

MOOSE CALLS

by
The Little Moose

It seems that spirit on this campus has hit a new low. Only 200 were in attendance at the rally last Friday night. The committee worked hard on this rally, and it's too bad that more students weren't there.

With the completion of last Saturday's games, the Fall sports schedule came to an end. The football team had a poor season, highlight of which was the 40-6 win over Rhodes Island. After that game, it was believed that the Eckmen would have good record, but the team fell off after reaching its peak for the Rhody game.

Al Hoelzel scored one goal in the final soccer game with Tufts. Al should be a unanimous choice for the All New England team, and it would not be too much of a surprise if he made honorable mention on the All American team. Hoelzel broke the league scoring record this year with 18 goals.

The Cross Country team ran in New York yesterday at the IC4A meet. With mostly freshmen and sophomores on this years' team, next year's record should be better than this year's, which saw Coach Derby's boys go undefeated in dual meet competition, and win the Connecticut Valley and Yankee Conference championships.

The basketball team is rapidly rounding into shape for its coming season. The squad will have to be in top shape, because it plays four games in its opening week of play. Scrimmages have been held with Amherst, Springfield, and Westover Field, and the team has looked fairly good. Captain Bill Prevey will be out to break his scoring record which he set two years ago. Henry Mosychuk, Malcolm Macleod, and Bernie Kaminski appear to have won starting berths on this years five. The other starter is in doubt with Ed Concesisian, Bill Stephens, Tom Harlow, and Art Barrett fighting for the berth. The remainder of the squad is made up of Ray Gunn, Shell Saltman, Jack Delahunt, John Snaido, Dick Norman, Frank Barous, and Charley Tilton.

Frosh Eleven Whitewash Trinity

The U of Mass. freshman squad finished its football season with a record of 3 and 2, defeating Trinity College 13 to 0 at Hartford, Thursday.

The Redmen played their best game of the year, dominating the play and never allowing Trinity to penetrate beyond the Mass. 40.

The Redmen scored in the second period following a drive of 50 yards. Kowaleski made the score on a 20 yard end sweep. Fistori booted the extra point to make it 7-0. The other Redmen tally came in the third quarter after another 50 yard march. The touchdown was set up by DiBiaso on a 40 yard dash. DiBiaso then scored on a 2 yard buck. The extra point was good, but a holding penalty nullified it and the second try fell short.

Briggsmen Tie Tufts

The University of Massachusetts soccer squad played its last game of the season last Saturday as they tied a potent Tufts outfit 3-3. Playing on Alumni Field before the largest crowd of the year, the Briggsmen had to come from behind to tie up the game.

Going into the fourth period, the Redmen managed to move within one goal of a tie on two tallies by Hunter which made the score read 3-2. In the waning minutes of the game, record-breaking high-scoring center-forward Al Hoelzel took advantage of a scoring opportunity to notch the tying goal.

The tie brought the season's record for the Redmen up to 3-6-2. Although the record was not too impressive, Coach Larry Briggs stated that this team was potentially one of the greatest he has ever coached.

His mother wrote back: "Even a dull-lard like you should know enough to borrow his roommate's Wildroot Cream-Oil! It's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test. Makes your hair look neat and well-groomed." That was the pig-me-up Sheedy needed. Now he's importkant . . . hogs and kisses all the girls. Old Homestead Home Management House reopens as Miss Oreana Merriam welcomes Barbara Galletly, Alice Levanthal, and Ann Westcott.

Activities Many and Lively For Home Ec Majors at Apartments

by Evelyn Yeutter

Bring your suitcase to dinner tonight; we're eating Bohemian style!

No, you're not being invited to Greenwich Village but to a dinner at the Home Management Apartments on the top floor of the Faculty Apartment building. There for six week periods Home Economics majors practice their homemaking skills under the direction of Miss Alice Davey.

The apartments were first used as the home management house last year when the Homestead, the white house to the left of the Abbey, was closed for repairs. The double apartment enables the students to get first hand knowledge of managing a modern home. Each girl in the group is given the chance to cook, plan menus, keep the family accounts, shop, make table decorations, and plan entertainment functions.

All work and no play makes dull girls, so plans for social events were continually buzz-in. One evening the house resounded with the merriment of spooks, goblins, devils, and witches as members of the Home Economics faculty were honored guests at a Halloween costume party, complete with ducking for apples and ghost stories.

Dates were frequently invited up to sample the culinary efforts of their favorite cook. In turn they were sometimes pressed into service as errand boys when supplies mysteriously ran out. At times like that men are handy things to have around the house!

Always on the lookout for new and better ways to do things around the house, the girls experimented with many different ways to eat meals. Have you ever tried a living room picnic or a Bohemian dinner where everyone sits crosslegged around a table of suitcases pushed into the middle of the floor and covered with a cloth? Common everyday food is guranteed to take on new appeal when areved in these different seating arrangements.

The apartments have been completely redecorated. Painters bathed the walls in the newest chartreuse color as a fitting background for the modern blondwood furniture. The rooms are in the modern trend of interior decoration in direct contrast to the Homestead house, to be furnished in the Early American style.

No. 28...

THE OVENBIRD

Past Grand Master of the Royal Order of Gourmets and Raconteurs—our outspoken friend knows how to find the proof of the pudding. Especially such a thing as cigarette mildness! A "quick puff" and a "single sniff" left him hungry for facts. Smokers everywhere have tried the same tests and discovered the one true test of cigarette mildness!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke, on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments. Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

Robert Pollack and Jean Murdock Head Cast For "Student Prince"

The Operetta Guild took another big stride forward toward their production of "The Student Prince" today when Director Doric Alviani released the names of the principals in the show.

Playing the part of the Prince will be a newcomer to the Guild, Robert Pollack, a sophomore. Pollack's only appearance on the stage of Bowker has been in Campus Varieties last spring.

Playing opposite him in the female lead will be Jean Murdock in the role of Kathie, the servant girl with whom the prince falls in love. Miss Murdock will be well remembered for her starring role in last year's production of "Brigadoon."

Playing the role of the princess, the girl whom the prince marries for the sake of duty rather than love will be Lorna Wildon. Miss Wildon is a well known personality having starred in several Guild productions. Opposite Miss Wildon will be Jim Chapman in the role of Tarnitz, the man with whom the princess is in love. Chapman scored a great success in the supporting role in "Brigadoon" last spring.

In the role of Dr. Engel, the prince's advisor, will be Ray Frenier. Ray will long be remembered for his role as Tommy Albright last year. Jim Patterson will be seen as Lucas in the show, and Ernest Nelson will make his appearance in the part of Von Asterburg. Bert Hubley, a freshman, will make his first appearance of the year in the role of Detleff.

Barbara Hill will be seen as the Duchess, and Janet Bolles will take the role of the countess, Mary Lowry, veteran of both comic and serious roles, and most recently seen in the Roister Doister production of "Light Up The Sky" will take the part of Gretchen, while Dorothy Swift will be in the part of Gertrude.

Burt Richter will portray Lutz, with Howard Galley playing the part of Hubert. Galley did an excellent job as stage manager for the show last year. Bob Riley will be seen in the role of Ruder, and Mel Tucker will be seen as Toni. Bob Boland, another veteran, will take the role of Von Mark. Boland

by Bruce Fox

Things can happen on and around campus that everyone hears about, but come vacation time, the transportation problem is one that vexes many a student.

Ebeneezer Twinbottom puts up an ad on the C-store bulletin board, only to have three others post their rides for sale on the same tack. Industrious students, however, dig underneath what's on the surface, spy the reduced rates, and swamp Ebi-eezer with calls. Dreams of a new crankshaft decorated with metal connecting rods instead of the string he's now using, Mr. Twinbottom is rudely awakened the day before he is to leave, when four of his five riders notify him that they've gotten another ride.

Frantically he places another notice on the board, and asks more questions than the Kefauver Committee on a good day. Pantingly, he hangs up the phone, having filled up the space.

Packing the three suitcases apiece, four tennis racquets, and one seven foot pair of skis that his customers have brought into his two cubic inch trunk, Eb cranks 'er up, and chugs down Route 9, laying a smoke-screen that the Army would be proud of.

What a smooth ride! It's just like the time we rode over the Badlands in a Rolls Royce. It rides like a Greyhound—one that stops at every telephone pole!

But it couldn't be as bad as the guys inside the car. One joker lighted his cigarette but apparently had a bacon sandwich for lunch before he left, "cause he kept dropping the darn thing behind the cushion and starting small fires."

Then came the interesting discussions. Do we really need the heater on, or should we enjoy nature with the window open?

By this time we're about ten or fifteen miles on the way, and as we pass the bridge with the sign "not safe for more than 15 tons," someone is bound to make the usual crack. There's quite an emotional letdown as we slowly chug by at eighty m.p.h. and see a stranded hitch-hiker on the road; someone we know from school. The letdown dies out after we've passed him as everyone sadistically begins to roar with laughter.

The elements seem to be against us, as a slight thunderstorm brings drops from heaven in a solid stream against our unfunctioning windshield wipers. Soon the driver informs us that we're running low on fuel, and would everyone please chip in a little something to get us home."

Morley and Gearhart Concert To Feature Variety in Program

When the talented young duo-pianists, Virginia Morley and Livingston Gearhart, appear here Wednesday, November 28, concert goers will discover amazing variety in the program they will play.

American-born, the two pianists received their early instruction in the U.S. and finished study in Europe before making a debut in this country. Since that time, in addition to annual coast-to-coast tours, they have appeared regularly on the Fred Waring show and in some of New York's best night clubs. Recently they won a host of new admirers through their Columbia Masterworks album, "Night Life On Two Pianos".

Virginia Morley and Livingston Gearhart, duo-pianists, will be appearing at the Cage tomorrow night at 8:00 p.m.

Livingston Gearhart, a composer in his own right, has made numerous additions to two-piano literature through his transcriptions ranging from the classics through works.

Three noted composers of today, Darius Milhaud, David Diamond and Norman Dello Joio, have written music especially for Morley and Gearhart.

Because they believed that all good music is worth playing, whatever the period, Morely and Gearhart usually include examples of every style from Bach to concert arrangements of jazz and boogie.

The program for the concert will include:

Chorale: "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" By J. S. Bach
"Prelude and Fugue in C Minor" Bach-Bauer
Eight Waltzes for Four Hands Brahms
Can-Can Offenbach
Piece en forme de Habanera Ravel
An American in Paris Gershuun
Variations on a Theme of Beethoven Saint-Saens
Prelude in G Minor Rachmaninoff-Gearhart
Rosenkavalier Waltzes Strauss-Gearhart

Musical comments will be made in the course of the program by Mr. Gearhart.

The forthcoming concert is the second in the current series here. It is open to the general public and the tickets may be secured by calling Amherst 900, extension 351 on weekdays.

Prof. Alviani Gives First F.A.C. Program

Mr. Doric Alviani, director of music, presented a program of song interpretations at the first of the Fine Arts Council programs on Thursday afternoon in the Old Chapel.

The program included a group of English songs interpreting different types of people under varying circumstances. Since song achieves its highest degree of artistry in fullness of expression, Mr. Alviani explained that there was as much art in these songs as in the so-called classical art songs.

Included in the program were: "Dedication" by Franz; "Take My Mother Home" by Johnson; "Sing a Song" by Malotte; "Sail Away" arranged by Guidon; "Big Brown Bear" by Mana-Zucca; "Lord, I Want To Be" arranged by Wille; "Lindy Lou" by Strickland; "How Lovely Is the Hand of God" by Loughboro; "Sailormen" by Wolfe; "My Lady Walks in Loveliness" by Charles; "Time to Rise" by Elliott; "Land of the Sky Blue Water" by Cadman; "Gwine to Hebben" by Wolfe.

Mr. Alviani was accompanied by Mrs. Jocelyn Johnson.

After-Dinner Thoughts

Having just returned from Thanksgiving Recess, we feel that it would be profitable to consider just what we have to be thankful for in this time of chaos.

Although many sections of the world have suffered invasions in our lifetime, few, if any of us, have felt or seen any personal destruction. Our homes have not been bombed or invaded by enemy forces and our democratic rights have not been suppressed.

One of the primary factors of our civilazation, our educational opportunity, has remained intact. Unlike instances in many foreign countries, our libraries have not been destroyed, nor have our professors been tortured or killed because of their ideas.

Here we sit, complaining about the lengthy assignments which our professors will pile upon us as we play "just one more hand", never considering that we are fortunate to have these learned men among us and that we are able to reap the benefits of their educations. It would be a pleasure to many young men and women to exchange places with us, in spite of our numerous "burdens". We ought to realize this fact and say "thanks".

We are free. Sometimes we wonder how true this statement is. How free can we be grinding out term papers, spending hours of research in the library, meeting due dates for assignments, taking exams? We can be, and are, free to express our own opinions in these papers without fear of being executed for so doing. We are free to disagree with those professors with whose opinions we are in opposition. The freedom to express our opinions can never be over-emphasized as one of our liberties and blessings. We are free to go to school and to take examinations. Yes, we do have much more freedom than we give ourselves credit for.

We have a great deal to be thankful for. Even that turkey dinner in which we indulged, or over-indulged as the case may be, is one of our blessings. How many persons of our age are not so fortunate as we? This is a question which we may not be able to answer statistically, but which we know has an answer—and a large one.

THIS EXCHANGING WORLD

by Selma Garbowit

The Rensselaer Polytechnic:

I think the one point at which all students show themselves for the men they are is immediately after a quiz. Each man has his own definite attitude, and they can be divided up into several categories.

"First there is the Worry Wart. He has never taken an easy quiz. He comes out of the room, and greets you with a sad face exclaiming, "Boy, did I louse that one up. I doubt if I got better than a 2.0 and I might as well have stayed in bed." He usually has a "B" average for the term. He explains this by saying, "You could have knocked me over with a feather when I got my paper back and I saw that "B" on it. They must have graded on a curve."

"Second, and most obnoxious of all, is the Killjoy. His standard opening after a quiz, "What did you get for problem number two?" And when you tell him what you got for problem number two he counters with, "That's all wrong. You forgot to square the second derivative and you didn't convert the pounds per year to centimeters per second. The answer should be 69.69." The trouble is that he usually is right. His term average is about 3.9 and he takes it as his just due.

"Third, we have the Martyr. He is laboring under the delusion that the whole quiz system was set up to give the instructors a chance to work off their sadistic tendencies on him personally. He comes out of the quiz as mad as Hades and says, "Boy, what a shaft job that was. Why they didn't have a single thing on it that we covered in class. They must have made that one up while smoking reefers. I guess they got orders to flunk more guys." Naturally, his term average is "F".

"Next we have the Optimist. Supremely confident in his ability he comes out of the quiz saying, "I think I creamed this one. All the answers fell right into place. It really was a snap. I guess I got a 4.0." This type is happy until he gets his paper back or runs into the Killjoy. However, he does manage a "B" or a "C" for the year. He is represented most in the Frosh class and is nearly extinct among seniors.

"The type that is most likeable and truly representative of a student at his best, is not definable by name. He takes the quiz and does not comment at all. When asked about it, he usually says, "I guess the quiz was all right—I'll wait till I get it back."

YOUR STUDENT GOVERNMENT

by John Heintz

At the present time there are six boards or committees which control and service our ninety activities and regulate our social life. These six groups; the Senate Activities Committee, Academic Activities Board, Student Life Committee, Calendar Coordinating Committee, Informal Dance Committee, and the University Social Committee, are all working for the same goal: better activities. However, they are all working independently, without liaison, overlapping membership or any other scheme that would insure working closely together. Their functions are somewhat different but their object and goal are the same. None of the six has such a great amount of work that it could not all be done by one group.

Let's look at the duties of these committees. The Senate Activities Committee studies and recommends action on Constitutions of new clubs and it makes general policy concerning scheduling. In addition, it stands ready to assist any club or organization with any problem.

The Academic Activities Board supervises the finances of the Academic Activities and makes general policy concerning these groups. The systems used by this board is excellent and is run by capable persons, but it is completely separated from the other groups. Furthermore, the finances are handled by one individual when there should be several working on such an important job.

The Student Life Committee makes policy concerning social life at the University and enforces this policy. I will go into this committee in more detail in the next of this series.

The Calendar Co-ordinating committee coordinates the time, date and place of all campus events. The Informal Dance Committee holds informal dances and the University Social Committee doesn't even bother to function.

I do not criticize the job done by any one of these groups. They are all working as well and as efficiently as possible under this present system. There is some overlapping of duties and a general duplication in gathering information. A club will get one questionnaire from a committee one week and one, asking essentially the same questions, from a different committee the next week. Effective control over our organizations is now lacking. The Finance committee has considerable trouble in collecting information for making out the budget because of this confusion. One has to wade through red tape for weeks to get any information about an organization. There are examples of this lack of control and confusion cropping up every day. The only way to end the overlapping and wasting of effort is by consolidation.

If a department of activities were set up within the student government organization it could easily coordinate the duties of these six committees. A joint student-faculty board of sixteen would make all policy concerning activities. Policy made by this board would be subject to approval of the President of the University and to review by the Student Senate. Under this board there would be sections to study constitutions, control finances, schedule events and meetings and to gather and disperse information. Members of the policy board would head the sections and other students and faculty members would work with the sections.

This department would also be ready and more able to provide assistance to campus groups. It could aid organizations in planning programs and clubs in running social events. In short, this department would handle any matter concerning activities.

In this way there would be one group to make policy; not six, one group to handle information: not six, and one group to co-ordinate and service extra-curricular activities: not six. If this plan is adopted, it would end the present confusion and overlapping duties, and it would provide better and quicker service to our campus organizations. It would also bring all student groups directly within the student government.

If we do nothing to improve our present system, we will continue in the present anarchy, still lack effective control over our campus groups and be unable to assist them properly. The real purpose of the Student Government is service. This Department of Activities would really be a big step towards unity in the student government.

Yale To End Spring Training; Discussion Wide

Wide spread confusion and disagreement seem to have been the only result of the recent premature announcements that Yale and Williams would discontinue spring training in football as a means of de-emphasis.

The first inkling of such a move came when the Yale Daily News learned that the Board of Athletic Control had decided Sept. 15 to eliminate football practice next year, and broke the story in the Nov. 13 issue. Meanwhile, Pres. James Phinney Baxter III of Williams had announced Nov. 9 that Williams had decided to eliminate spring practice "regardless of what opponents do."

Yale President A. Whitney Griswold confirmed the Daily News' report "with regret" the following day, emphasizing that he had planned to "defer public announcement pending consideration, and, it was hoped, joint action with other members of the Ivy group."

Redmen Quintet Near Peak, Open 21 Game Schedule Dec. 8

The U. of Mass. basketball team is rapidly rounding into shape for its coming 21 game schedule which opens December 8 with Northeastern at the cage. Other games in the opening week of play include Boston College, AIC, and Providence College.

The Redmen's attack this year will be centered around the fast break type of offense. Captain Bill Prevey will be the only veteran on this year's starting five, and he will be counted upon to do most of the scoring from his center position. Sophomores Bernie Kaminski and Malcolm Macleod appear to have the guard positions wrapped up. Henry Mosychuk, with his great one hand set shot, will be at one of the forward posts, and Ed Conceisian, Bill Stephens, and Tom Harlow are battling it out for the other starting berth.

Ray Gunn, Frank Barous, Shelly Saltman and Dick Norman will see service at the guard position, while Jack Delahunt and Charley Tilton will be ready to take over for Captain Prevey. Paul Bourdeau and John Snaido round out the squad at the forward posts.

The main weakness of this year's team will be lack of height. The average height of the squad is close to 6 feet but there is a lack of big men. The shooting of Prevey, Mosychuk, and Kaminski should make up for this lack of height.

Coach "Red" Ball has been working the team hard and he is optimistic over the chances for a successful season. Next Tuesday, the Redmen will stage a preview of the coming season when New Britain State Teachers College comes to Amherst to meet the Ballmen in a game scrimmage, with a freshman game starting at 6:30.

Redmen Harriers Finish Nineteenth In IC4A Nat'l Meet

The Varsity Cross Country team finished 19th in the IC4A Championship held at Van Courtland Park, New York. Although 37 schools entered teams—out of an eligible 64—the competition encountered there was the keenest yet met by the Redmen Harriers. Coach Derby's hopes for a better score were shattered when Freshman Burt Lancaster was forced to drop out of the race due to an ankle injury he received just two days before the race.

Harry Aldrich was the first Redman to cross the line for Massachusetts when he finished 56th, out of 250 who started. The other positions earned by the Redmen were: Hank Knapp 83rd; Halsey Allen 99th; George McMullin 122nd; George Goding 170th, and Bob Steere 188th. It is interesting to note that had Lancaster finished where he was expected, the Massachusetts team score would have been eleventh.

This was the Redmen's last meet. The school can be proud of their outstanding record and fine display. The prospects for next year look excellent and the loss of Captain Allen will be made up for when the Freshman team, led by Bill Conlin, joins the Varsity Squad—that is if Uncle Sam doesn't step in first.

There will be a meeting of all Intramural Representatives today at 5:00 p.m. in room 10 of the Physical Education Building. The purpose of this meeting will be to discuss the coming Intramural Basketball season.

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

Well, now that the treadmill is going around again, let's take a look at a couple of things that have attracted my attention in the past week or so. First of all, what a difference a break makes!

Burt Lancaster, star of the varsity cross country team, was out practicing on the Friday before the IC4A meet in New York. On his way in from practice, Burt spied a soccer ball lying on the ground. Despite the fact that he is not a soccer player, he started to kick the ball. Unfortunately, he slipped and his foot hit the ground instead. This temporarily sidelined the Redmen ace, but he was still able to start the race on Monday.

Going through a woody and rocky stretch of the course during the race, Lancaster completed his circle of bad breaks as he was thrown off balance by the man next to him and hit his bad leg on a rock and was thrown to the ground. He got up, continued out of the woods, and then dropped out of the race at about the two mile point just as the rest of the pack were up ahead getting ready for Cemetery Hill.

The ironic part about the whole thing was the fact that the man who threw Lancaster off balance was a member of his own team. If Lancaster had finished where he probably would have on the basis of usual past performances, the Redmen might have finished eleventh instead of nineteenth. This really shows what a difference a break makes!

The second point that aroused my interest was the winter sports schedule which was just released. Notable for its absence on the schedule was varsity hockey. Upon asking around among informed sources, I found that the University is not going to have a varsity hockey team this year.

It is a rather sad commentary on the state of athletics here at the University when hockey is cut out as a varsity sport. According to these sources, there is no money to pay for hockey. However, if that is the case, may I ask the very pertinent question as to where the $20 appropriation that each student gives to the athletic department is going.

Let's go into the situation a little more carefully. First of all, the school cannot have a varsity hockey team until the school builds an indoor rink for them to practice on. Last year, the squad had to travel to Springfield in order to practice. This they were seldom able to do. Result—Tufts 14, Mass. 1. We cannot expect to compete with the schools around Boston, Springfield, or any other area which have sufficient space to practice on. The team must have a permanent place where it can get enough practice to give a creditable showing. Despite the fact that the team lost every game last year, the men still deserve another chance to make good.

Secondly, the school cannot expect to have a decent hockey team until they hire a decent coach. By decent, I mean one that is trained to coach hockey. This is not an attack against last year's coach; it is merely an obvious statement about the coach of any varsity sport.

Perhaps the athletic department is right in putting the emphasis on the major sports of football, basketball, and baseball. However, in every other school of major size, varsity hockey is also considered to be a major sport. From what I understand, there are enough men here at the University to form a hockey team. These men deserve a chance to play just as well as the rest of the sports here. Let's give them the chance they deserve.

Conlin Leads Frosh Into 7th in IC4A's

The Freshman Cross-country team led by Bill Conlin, who finished eighth, came in seventh in the IC 4A Championship held at Van Courtland Park, New York. The 75 course represented 14 colleges. The other Redmen to finish were: Dino Equi 33rd, Dick Quigley, 38th, "Casey" Stengle, 43rd, Vern Bruneau, 56th, Pete Tripp, 57th, and Paul MacInnis, 64th.

Landy, Center Score; Frosh Soccer Ties 2-2

In a recent game, the Frosh soccer team tied Monson Academy in a hard fought game 2-2. The game was marked by tight defensive play, with neither team getting many shots at the goal.

Joe Landy scored early in the game to give the Little Indians a lead. Monson came back quickly to tie the game with Dick LaFerriere getting the score. Soon afterwards, Dick Center booter in a goal to put the frosh ahead. There was no more scoring until LaFerriere booted in the tying marker in the closing minutes of the fray.

The lineup: Cornelius, Ferrier, Cronin, Patton, Suleski, Beaudry, Dean, Landy, Center, Bready, Babineau.

Little Briggsmen Lose Finale 2-1

The frosh lost their final game of the season to the Tufts frosh 2-1.

The little Indians played one of their best games of the season, but it wasn't enough to stop the hard fighting visitors.

The game was predominantly that of tight defensive play. Dick Center booted in the only goal for the frosh.

In the won and lost column, the little Indians had a relatively poor season this year. Their record was one win, five losses, and one tie. However, all but one game was very close and could have gone either way. Many of the frosh also have gained valuable experience which should help them in their try for the varsity next fall.

Among his many other activities Dr. Hardy is directing and supervising the advertising campaigns of a large cigarette company and a shampoo concern in connection with the business departments of the U of M and Amherst College. Speaking about his new position Dr. Hardy expressed the opinion that a closer contact between the School of Business Administration and the business staff of the Collegian would be an ideal situation for training students for the publishing field and he hoped that he could help in accomplishing this goal.

Freedom Drive Starts Today On UM Campus

The Crusade for Freedom campaign will launch its drive on campus today, a drive chiefly for signatures rather than funds. These signatures will be another proof to the enslaved behind the Iron Curtain that millions of Americans who believe in personal liberty have not forgotten them. The student senate will distribute the signature sheets throughout the college.

This is the second Crusade for Freedom drive. Last year the support of 16 million Americans made possible the World Freedom Bell, and gave to Radio Free Europe the most powerful transmitter in the free world—a transmitter so powerful that it cannot be jammed by the Russians. Now, the 1951 Crusade for Freedom wants to provide at least two more powerful transmitters for Radio Free Europe and to establish

It's For You!!

The faculty will invade the dormitories on campus in the very near future!

Meeting on Wednesday night with the heads of residence and with men and women student representatives from the dormitories, the Committee on Student-Faculty Relationships unanimously approved a program providing for a number of informal get-togethers for students and faculty to take place soon in each dormitory. Approximately $200 is to be divided up among the 14 dormitories for use as they see fit in affairs such as smokers for the betterment of student-faculty relationships.

The committee needs the full support of the students in each house in carrying out this proposed program which is for them. It is requested that all students be thinking of new ideas in their specific dorms for these student-faculty groups so that formal evenings will be avoided. These ideas should be communicated to the house proctors who will then take action on them.

The best essays to date of the freshman class will be chosen by the freshman English teachers. A prize of $25 will be awarded for the winning essay.

Tom Bishko Honored By Football Team

by Stephanie Holmes

Tom Bishko, the man who has functioned tirelessly and unacclaimed for nearly 5 years behind the campus athletic scenes—football, soccer, basketball, and track—is being thanked for the first time for his efforts by a spontaneous gift from the football team.

The men of the team this year in appreciation for Tom's cheerful and efficient service, each contributed to a gift certificate for Tom from an Amherst clothier.

Tom is essentially the proverbial "man behind the scenes" for the athletic department. As well as issuing and collecting the gear and making minor repairs, he cooperates with the coaches to see that all necessary equipment is at hand. His position frequently involves working at night, and Sunday morning often finds him still collecting materials from the Saturday game. This in itself is neither a small nor an insignificant responsibility. But Tom also helps out with additional duties not required of him, appreciated by both coaches and players. If a player breaks a cleat, on the field, Tom repairs it so that he can return to the game.

Tom's good disposition makes him popular with all the men. His interest in the teams centers not only on their supplies, but follows their progress closely throughout the year.

Mr. Ben Ricci of the athletic department has nothing but the deepest appreciation for the interest and efficiency Tom displays. Let's add our thanks to the man who prepares the machinery that makes possible our Saturday afternoons at the football field, our basketball, soccer, and track viewing pleasures.

WMUA Will Install FM Radio Station

Plans for the installation of an FM radio station on campus were announced recently, following a WMUA Policy Board meeting.

A 10 watt Educational FM transmitter, part of new electrical engineering equipment, is now being installed in the station's South College Studios. The transmitter is expected to be in operation by next semester.

Conversion units will be placed in each of the dorms to enable students not now owning FM receivers to get the station on existing AM sets.

"FM broadcasting will provide higher quality programs through elimination of static and interference," asserted Gene Ryan, Station Manager of WMUA. "At the same time," he continued, "we will reach many new listeners in this part of the state. High-quality, non-commercial programming, combined with a large listening audience will give the Univ. of Mass. much favorable publicity," he concluded.

Young Duo-Pianists Captures Audience

by Judy Broder

Backed by a luxurious, theatrical setting consisting of a basketball floor and backboards, sat two charming and talented young American musicians faced by more than 2,300 music lovers seated on bleachers and hard wooden chairs. The piano magic of Virginia Morley and Livingston Gearhart transformed that basketball floor and the entire Cage into a concert hall and put cushions and backs on the bleachers.

Carillon Recital To Be Held Here

Church steeples are not the only place where one will find carillon bells, it seems.

A portable carillon will be found at the University of Massachusetts on Dec. 6, when Arthur L. Bigelow, bell-master of Princeton University, illustrates the skill behind the ancient art at recital.

At a free lecture-recital sponsored by the Fine Arts Council of the University of Mass., Prof. Bigelow will present his program in Old Chapel Auditorium at 4 p.m.

Crusade For Freedom

The Crusade for Freedom has started its local drive today. The Collegian wishes to point out, to the best of its ability, the significance of this campaign and to urge all-out support of this most worthy organization.

For those who do not know just what the Crusade for Freedom is, we shall endeavor to give a brief explanation of it. It is a challenge to world Communism, an activity to break down Communist propaganda, a means of presenting Truth to a deceived world. The tool of the Crusade for Freedom is Radio Free Europe, a 135,000-watt, medium-wave broadcasting station, which is beamed to countries behind the Iron Curtain. These countries, under the control of Communism, are the ones which most need to understand the true facts of democratic living.

It is important in these chaotic times, when the Communists are so busily permeating the western world with lies, that the voice of freedom and democracy get through to clarify and to rectify these false conceptions. Radio Free Europe has a program which aims at such an outcome. This station is supported by the Crusade for Freedom.

We shall be asked to support the Crusade for Freedom on our campus during the next week. As peace-loving citizens of a free world, it is our duty to aid this program in any possible way. In supporting the Crusade for Freedom we are helping to disseminate ideas of a free society and helping to stop the germ of Communism from penetrating any farther than it has so far.

The Collegian, as an organ of public opinion, is giving its all-out support to the Crusade for Freedom in hopes that it may lead others to undertake what it considers a duty of all loyal Americans. We must persuade people in Communist-oppressed lands that our way of life is the better way. We can do this by presenting the truth and invalidating the lies of the Reds.

As General Clay asks in seeking support for the 1951 campaign: "Shall our children and grandchildren be crushed by Communist tyranny, or shall we pass on to them their rightful heritage of freedom?"

THIS EXCHANGING WORLD

by Selma Garbowit

The Wesleyan Argus:

"Many students, although they have attended classes for several years, do not realize the importance that a Professor places on oral class participation. Or, if they do, they find themselves stymied as to what to say.

"First of all, it is a help if the assignment has been read. This is not necessary, however, as you will see. In participating in a discussion though, it is important to be recognized by the instructor in charge. This is usually accomplished by firmly and defiantly raising the hand. If the Professor ignores you, do not falter! Your arm may grow tired, but this is easily remedied by alternating the left and right arms. The instructor cannot ignore you forever. Sometimes a slightly pleading look can be utilized. It is best to practice this beforehand in front of a mirror in the privacy of your room in order to achieve the right effect. Otherwise the professor might interpret the expression as an onrush of nausea or something. Sometimes a loud cough will bring his gaze inadvertently in your direction. If this happens, don't wait for him to call upon you. Seize upon the glance as a sign of recognition, and leap into your spiel. By all means, do not fidget about in your chair. This is considered bad taste by all concerned.

"Once you have been called upon, speak at length and with great vagueness. Be sure to have several quotations at hand, however irrelevant, by such standbys as Santayana, Hyakawa, Korzybsky, and Whitehead. These men can be applied to practically any subject. Be abstract, otherwise you may find yourself pinned down to facts or in other embarrassing situations.

"You will find that if you volunteer information often enough, the instructor will seldom ever pop a surprise question at you, unless you are caught dozing. If he should, however, do not be phased. Say something. The word "well" is usually sufficient. Another standard is, "I don't quite understand the question, sir." There will come the moment, however, when you must speak up. Then be sure to have the essence of your statement consist of an accumulation of agreements with what the instructor has just been saying. This method rarely fails. Some professors do like originality, or at least profess that they do. Don't count on it, though. Be sure to sound as if you know what you are talking about. Look him straight in the eye. Hesitancy is fatal. Remember, you are essentially on the defensive. Prepare yourself to be able to reverse your argument at the slightest indication of a frown.

"Above all, don't admit defeat. Even if you are proven wrong in your answers, maintain a stubborn look for the rest of the period. Sulk, sigh, and stare out of the window. Then when the bell rings, slam your book shut and stomp out of the room. This will prove to the professor that you have great strength in your convictions."

The musical comments of the artists put the audience at ease to enjoy the performance.

Anticipating the possible lack of urbanity of the listeners, Mr. Gearhart warned them that there was a place in the middle of the Bach Prelude and Fugue in C Minor which sounded like the end but wasn't. He must have heard about the Rubenstein Concert last year. However, as eager as the audience was to applaud it waited until the pianists removed their fingers from the keyboards before bursting forth their acclaim.

I enjoyed visualizing the American in Paris. I saw him dodging taxis drinking at sidewalk cafes, meandering from the Left Bank to the Right Bank, from the Latin Quarter to the Champs Elysees.

Between slamming doors and falling benches, Morley and Gearhart rendered Saint-Saens' Variations on a Theme of Beethoven and Rachmaninoff's Prelude in G Minor with deep feeling and emotion. With the latter the concert reached its climax, in my opinion. True artistry was displayed in the expert interpretation of this difficult arrangement.

With the flowing Strauss Waltz came visions of a lightly dancing chorus of courtiers.

The audience had to have more of Morley and Gearhart, and the artists were willing to comply. They took the Three Blind Mice through all of the stages from little Mickey to the big, fat rat and back. The Bumblebee literally glided with the able assistance of their nimble fingers, and our favorite nursery rhymes took on a new look as they closed their well-planned, well-executed, and well-received program.

Springfield Gymnasts Here For Exhibition Monday Nite

The Springfield College Exhibition Team, will stage its show "Physical Panorama" at the Cage on Monday night, Dec. 3.

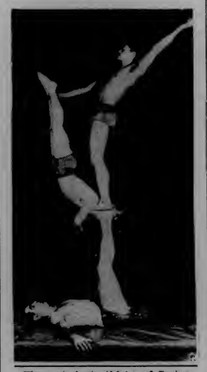
The group, in operation for twenty-eight years, will be presenting two hours of gymnastic entertainment.

Features of the program are the gymnastic dance, a new modern dance routine, individual and team demonstrations on the apparatus, a judo demonstration, a sensational triple balancing trio, and the traditional and awe-inspiring living statuary tableaux.

One new feature of the show will be the use of the trampoline. A spring-mat device, it allows the gymnasts to bounce through the air in all manners of somersaults and twists.

The Springfield College Exhibition team trademark is the famous living statuary. The men freeze into statuesque immobility to present living proof of the control of mind over reflexes.

The show will be presented for one night only at the University. Free tickets may be obtained from Professor Kaufman in the Physical Education Building.



Three student athletes of Springfield College display amazing coolness, skill, and strength in this feature number of the Exhibition Team gymnastic show "Physical Panorama."

a freedom-station in Asia in order to reach Communist China.

The Crusade for Freedom reaches the people behind the Iron Curtain in still another way. Pamphlets, dropped by controlled balloon flights over specific points, are reminders to those people that Americans are supporting them in their fight against Communism.

The sound of the Freedom Bell, a replica of our Liberty Bell, which now hangs in West Berlin City Hall, has become the distinctive symbol for Radio Free Europe. At the end of each program four notes of the bell are heard with the words "This was the Freedom Bell to remind you that you are listening to Radio Free Europe." In addition, each day at noon the Freedom Bell sends its voice across the Soviet zone.

UM Statesmen Increase Size

The Statesmen, the University double quartet, is to increase its personnel to 12 members, it was announced by Dave Tarr, director of the group.

Aiming at the best in close-harmony vocalizing, the Statesmen have established themselves as a tradition on campus with a repertoire typically including barbershop, spiritual, novelty, college, and popular songs.

The present members of the group are: Dave Tarr, '53, director; Rick Wilson, '52, business manager; Bill Cody, '53; Jack Cody, '51 (grad student); Bill Massidda, '52; Al Good, '54; and Chris Thatcher, '54.

The four additional men will serve as a reserve for the present members and will participate in campus performances. They will also be eligible for advancement by competition and will aid the group in its efforts to achieve greater success.

Off-campus performances are frequent due to the increasing demand by alumni groups, men's and women's organizations, and nearby college functions. Last year's performances were highlighted by a very successful program given at a Governor's luncheon in Boston.

Those interested in close-harmony singing are urged to attend the scheduled tryouts Wednesday, Dec. 5, at 5 p.m. and Thursday, Dec. 6, at 2 p.m. in the music office at Mem Hall.

The evening to be set aside is up to the discretion of the dorm; several dorms may have their programs on the same night if so desired. Each dorm may invite either one or two departments in their entirety or a mixed group from various departments. The committee will attempt to satisfy these requests and act as the organizing unit.

A total of $300 has been set aside by the University and the Hazen Foundation for student-faculty relationships. The remainder not given to the dorms is tentatively allotted to a student-faculty sports day in the spring.

Music will be provided by the Delta Five of Amherst College tonight at the dance being held in Drill Hall from 8-11. Chairman Julie Balicki, '53, announced that the admission is $.40 and that coke will be sold. The chaperons will be Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Perriello.

Open House Teas Start Rush Season

With the dreaded Dean's Saturday approaching, campus chatter centers mainly about sorority rushing and who can participate. The answer is that all freshmen girls and transfers who attain at least a 70 average, cannot afford to miss the thrill of rushing.

Even if you have definitely decided that sorority is not for you, take advantage of the informal sorority open house on Sunday night, December 2. This will be your opportunity to meet the girls and see the different houses. If you missed Round Robins, be sure to get to as many houses as possible Sunday night, and if you selected a few favorites at Round Robins, drop in at those houses so that you can get to know the girls better.

The dorms and sorority houses will be open Monday afternoon from 3 to 5:30. Sorority members will be around to visit with you, and they will expect you to feel free to drop in at your favorite houses.

Tuesday night the sororities will go all out for costume parties. They are loads of fun and everybody has a wonderful time. Try to make it. The invitations usually give you a hint as to the theme of the party.

The Silence Period starts at 12 noon, December 5 and extends to 7:00, December 6, with the exception of Closed Date. Invitations for Closed Date will be delivered to the dorms and Mem Hall at 12:15. Replies will be collected at 2:00.

On Thursday, December 6, preferential bidding will take place at Mem Hall. Invitations to pledging will be delivered to the dorms and Mem Hall at 4:00.

That's the rushing schedule. Just five short days, but they are packed with so much excitement and suspense, and so many good times, that you'll remember them for a long time. Plan to join in rushing. You'll be glad you did!

Bob Crosby, Fred Hardy, Herb Simmons, Al Wakstein, and Dick Cantor are the new appointees to the Constitution Committee, announced President Pehrson. When Dean Curtis pointed out that there are no women on the committee, the Senate accepted the appointments of President Pehrson with the provision that women be considered for appointment to the committee.

President Pehrson suggested that a proposal contained in a Collegian article entitled "Your Student Government" be referred to the Constitution Committee. The proposal deals with the service and control of student activities. The matter was referred to the Constitution Committee for farther study.

Also referred to the Constitional Committee, after a motion by Art Alintuck, were the amendments proposed to the student body in a referendum last year. If these amendments are again passed they will be presented to the students a second time for their approval.

The new representative for the married students, Don Ware, was introduced to the Senate.

Art Alintuck motioned that the Senate request permission to see the minutes of the Board of Trustees meetings. The Senate voted to send a letter to the President requesting that this privilege be granted to the solons.

New Fraternity At University Will Be Established By IFC

Realizing that there is a definite need for more fraternities on campus, the Interfraternity Council has, once again, undertaken the project of establishing a new fraternity. A year ago last spring a similar move resulted in the establishment of Zeta Zeta Zeta.

Glenn Barber, a charter member of ZZZ, has been named by the Council as chairman of the committee in charge of this project, which has the support of the adminlstration, the Student-Life Committee, and all the fraternities on campus.

All non-fraternity men, freshmen and upperclassmen, who think they might be interested in joining a new fraternity are urged to attend meetings to be held in the near future. Watch the Collegian and the bulletin boards in your dormitories and the C-Store for the time and place of these meetings.

FAUX PAS

by Bruce Fox

While looking through some dated Collegians, I came across some interesting facts and ads that might bring back a few memories.

All this talk about the need for a new dining hall will be forgotten for a while when you get a load of these headlines from one 1910 edition: $3,224 ACTUAL COST OF BOARD PER WEEK. The story went on to say "The vote of the student body that the price of board be dropped to $3.50 per week, and a charge of 5c be made for a second order of meats and desserts has been put into action and the system started off this week successfully at the dining hall."

The good old days had lots more than the high prices. The dining hall lived up to its reputation of serving something new each week—don't get too long, the menus were changed often by providing a four piece orchestra at dinner Monday evenings. Dec. 26, 1929. The boarders were pretty surprised to find a first class jazz band playing when they came in for supper. "The management will supply music every few days this for the enjoyment of the regular patrons." Chopin was for pork chops, sir?

The years continued to unfold as the pages of the Collegians were filled to such ads as: "Don't sweat over your fountain pen if it sweats and goes by jerks. Don't cry if you get your hands all dirty cleaning it with that medicine dropper. Get the CROCKER FOUN-

Stickers Available For Freedom Drive

As a part of this year's Crusade For Freedom Drive, automobile stickers will be available for those wishing to help advertise the cause, it was announced by Dr. Eliot Allen.

Faculty buildings and student residences will be canvassed starting Wednesday to obtain signatures and contributions.

Members of the Freedom Drive are: students Bob Pehrson and Bob Kroek; faculty members, Eliot Allen, James Ferrigno, Harry Lindquist, and Hall Buzzell.

WMUA To Broadcast Election Results

Continuing its policy of public service broadcasts, WMUA will bring the final class elections to its listeners tomorrow night from 8 to 12 p.m.

All fraternities, dormitories, and sororities are asked to co-operate by phoning in the totals of their houses as soon as possible to facilitate up to the minute results in the race between the candidates for class office. The telephone number is Amherst 1544.

TAIN PEN. You blow it to fill. Guaranteed to give complete satisfaction."

The College Barber Shop was selling hair cuts at 25c per, and shaves at 10c a beard.

Wrigley's was a big advertiser in those days with such gems as "After a hearty meal, you'll avoid that stuffy feeling if you chew a stick of Wrigley's. Other benefits: to teeth, breath, appetite, and nerves. That's a good deal to get for five cents."

COLLEGIAN MEETING

There will be an important Collegian meeting Wednesday, Dec. 5 at 5:00 in the Collegian office. Competitors for the staff will be elected. All members must attend.

Cadet Dress For Mili Ball At Libe Exhibit

Girls, if you are wondering what your dream boy will be wearing when he escorts you to Military Ball on Friday, you may have a preview of your date's attire by viewing an exhibit at the libe this week. Exactly what will be worn for formal occasion by the modern air and ground force cadet will be on display.

If your date is a member of the air force officer group, the shoulder you may be leaning on will be displaying newly designed shoulder boards, also at the exhibit.

The exhibit at the libe is the first of its kind at the University. The idea was originated and set up by Albert Tomlinson, '53.

LES ELGART

Les Elgart and his Quintet will alternate with Will Bradley's Orchestra to provide continuous dancing at Mili Ball Friday night.

—OFFICIAL NOTICE—

All sophomores, juniors, and seniors must report to major advisers before Dec. 14. There is a $5 fine for failure to pre-register.

The Harvard Studio representative will be at the Index Office, Mem Hall, on Friday of this week from 1-5 p.m. with senior portrait orders. Pick up your portraits during these hours. Seniors who have not yet returned proofs must return them at this time.

Student Prince To Be Romberg Memorial

The Operetta Guild relieved some of the tension around campus today as they practically completed their production committees and cast for their production of the "Student Prince" to take place on March 18-22.

The production will have a rather unusual feature this year as it will be designated the "Sigmund Romberg Memorial Production" of the "Student Prince". One night of the five scheduled performances will be set aside as a memorial performance of the show. Plans are being made to invite Mrs. Romberg, the widow of the composer, to be the guest of the Operetta Guild at the memorial production.

Director Doric Alviani announced that the Chorale would take an active role in the production. Singing for the Chorale will be Mary J. Baird, Carolyn Billings, Betsy Campbell, Miriam Carlstrom, Carol Hinds, Eunice Johnson, Barbara Prager, Priscilla Ruder, and Betty Woodman. Men will include George Chandler, Donald Dalrymple, Clifford Falby, William Jahn, William Spencer, and Charles Gaetz.

Joseph Contino, head of the marching and concert band, will lead the orchestra during the performance. His group, with the addition of townspeople and faculty will be comprised of Connie Campbell, Norman Barbeau, and Jean Whitten on the violins, Mike Bullock on the flute, Betty Woodward on the oboe, Bob Cutler and Alfred Lovejoy on clarinets, George Nickles on the French horn, Edward Wilson on the trumpet, and Art Groves on the trombone.

The ballet, who will perform some original choreographic work for the production, will be comprised of Ruth Brehaut, Helen Breault, Janet Ireland, Christine Platsis, Nancy Gilley, Susan Elliot, Georgie Tyler, Barbara Summers, Mario Bruni, Allan Clarke, John Dana-Bashian, David Tatham, Arthur Mahoney, and James Stewart.

The ensemble, created especially for the show, will be made up of Helen Viera, Anna Grant, Stephanie Holmes, Norma Wylie, Ann Hoof, Jane Hartman, Mary Panzica, Neil Fitch, Arnold Freener, Bruce MacLachlan, Richard Stromgren, Donald Davenport, Robert Deans, and Donald Stevens.

Several additions to the cast were also made during the past week. Helen Breault will be understudying the role of Gretchen, Mario Bruni will portray both the Baron and Nicolas, as well as being an understudy for the part of Ruder.

Music 62 Course To Be Given 2nd Semester

The Fine Arts Department Music Section has announced a new three-credit course for the second semester.

It is titled "Music 62—Music in the Elementary Grades" and bears the following description: "The principles of musical development are studied with particular emphasis on presentation in the classroom situation." Mr. Contino, instructor of the new course, has pointed out that although the course was designed primarily for those preparing to teach elementary school, anyone may elect the course upon approval of the instructor.

The course itself explores ways of bringing music to the child of elementary school age, both in the classroom and in the home.

Christmas Vespers To Be Held Dec. 9 AtBowkerAuditorium

An evergreen-decorated Bowker Auditorium will become a chapel for the evening of Sunday, Dec. 9, at 7 o'clock, when the 29th annual Christmas Vespers will be held. Plans for the service are being made by the Chaplain's Council and the S.C.A.

The Christmas Vespers were initated by President Butterfield in 1922 and for many years were held in Old Chapel until it was converted into a building for classes. In recent years the service has been held in the auditorium at Mem Hall. However, to accommodate the larger student body, the program will, for the first time, be held in Bowker.

SENIOR CLASS RINGS

Members of the class of '52 may order class rings in Mem Hall on Wednesday, Dec. 5, from 2-5. Ring orders may also be given to Bob Kroeck, Mills; Milt Crane, TEP; and Lennie. Woloshyn, Hamlin.

BAKER HOUSE, a new dormitory to accommodate 360 men, will be completed for occupancy March 1, 1952.

Help Truth Fight Communism

The Christmas Spirit is almost upon us again now that snow has fallen and the pond is frozen over. We can do our little bit to make this a merrier Chritmas, or at least one closer to that "peace on earth" for which mankind has been seeking throughout the centuries by joining the Crusade for Freedom.

As we have stated here before, the purpose of the Crusade for Freedom is to put an end to Communism by disseminating Truth through the countries behind the Iron Curtain. By Radio Free Europe and Radio Free Asia, two broadcasting systems which tell the truth about Democracy, our allies may influence the opinions of oppressed people across the seas.

The Crusade for Freedom campaign is now in effect on our campus. Students and faculty members will be approached to support this worthwhile drive during the next few days. We can only repeat the words of the campaign slogan: Join the Crusade for Freedom and help Truth fight Communism.

What a time those "ole-time" columnists had! One of them continually harped on the ever intriguing subject of sex, and told his managing editor what he really thought of him right there in print. Words were not spared in the student column.

This description of one of the main characters of Mr. Forrest's column of April 11, 1940 should give you an idea: Mrs. Cynthia Applethwaite, M.S.U. 1840, very attractive lady, 6 ft., 4 in., 95 pounds, straight grizzled grey hair, one eye, and an adams apple where her chin should be. She carries her years well, and is self-confessedly widely experienced in affairs of the heart."

Some of the other stuff that got into print made the columns look like the newspaper version of "Voodoo." In answer to the annual disease of senioritis one columnist wrote, "A senior stood on a railroad track, the train was coming fast. The train got off the railroad track to let the senior pass."

A tribute to a faculty member was paid in a 1938 edition of the Collegian when columnist Joe Bart wrote: "Talking in the reading rooms has reached the point it seems, where the students themselves are protesting. Thank God for Basil B. Wood."

That about brings us briefly up to the present, but for future years, if you have any ideas that could be explored and recorded for posterity, send it along.

Interclass Play Notice

All students interested in directing the class play for the one-act interclass play competition during Winter Carnival Week in February are asked to leave their names and school addresses in Mr. Neidleck's office in Old Chapel by Friday of this week. The students chosen will be informed before Christmas vacation so that they may select a play before recess.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

A few days ago we found a 1948 Collegian with the enclosed cartoon. Since our courageous women students now live at Butterfield instead of men, a reprint now might be timely. The lovely occupants of Butterfield House may want to see they too are training for a profession that may lead them to greater heights.

The newly-formed University Camera Club today announced the rules for their first Campus-Wide Photography Contest to be held in conjunction with the Winter Carnival. Here are the official rules:

I. ENTRIES

The contest is open to all undergraduate, graduate, Stockbridge, and part-time students of the U. of M. Full-time University employees, judges, and their relatives may not enter. Any number of entries of any type—black and white, color prints, and transparencies—may be submitted to the classification rules and all entries must be received between Nov. 29 and Feb. 29. Entries need not have been taken this year, except for 1952 Winter Carnival entries, and must be related to the subjects: Winter and / or Winter Carnival. An entry form or copy must accompany each entry. For fairness in judging DO NOT HAVE NAME ON ENTRY, if possible. Instead, place an identification number on the entry and the entry form.

II. CLASSIFICATION

Each contestant must classify himself as beginner or advanced, the latter status depending upon whether black or white entries are processed by the contestant. The contestant must submit all his black and white entries in that classification. Color entries will be a separate classification.

III. JUDGING

Judging will be on the following basis: content, composition, interest, originality, and appropriateness. Dark-room skill will not be considered, so the pictures can be processed anywhere, including the C-store. Mounting, size, toning, or retouching will not be judged. One judge each will be selected from the faculty, Winter Carnival committee, UM Camera Club, and two guest judges from off campus. Their decisions will be final.

IV. AWARDS

1st prize Black and White

1st prize Color: publication in the Collegian and special award to be announced later.

2nd and 3rd prizes in this class

Black and White and Color: awards to be announced later.

Special Award—Best 1952 Winter Carnival entry.

Awards will be made on or about March 15. In case of tie, duplicate awards will be made.

V. PROCEDURE

Submit all entries in suitable envelopes with completed entry form for each entry to: Ralph Levitt, 414 North Pleasant St.; Lee Crowell, Butterfield; Professor George Alderman, Hasbrouck Laboratory; Collegian, Art department, Mem Hall.

Be sure to mark all envelopes "For UMCC Photo Contest." All entries will be handled with due care and returned promptly after judging, if desired, but responsibility is not assumed in case of loss or damage.

Winning entries become the property of the UMCC and will not be returned. The UMCC will have the right to publish any entry without the consent of the contestant, unless otherwise agreed. Submit as many entries as you wish but black and white only in one classification, i.e.; advanced or beginner. You can make up additional entry forms if needed.

This contest aims to promote a more active interest in the art of photography among the students and is specially designed to bring out the best from the many, "weekend photographers" as well as the dormant "professionals" on the campus. The UMCC hopes enough enthusiasm is shown so that the contest may become an annual event and perhaps a tradition.

If any questions arise, the members of the club will be glad to answer them for you and give you helpful tips. The next meeting of the group will be on Thursday, Dec. 13 at 7 in Old Chapel. Make it a point to come—it may mean a valuable prize for you next March.

LOST—RED CAP

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

POOR PAUL was eggzasperated because every chick on campus gave him the bird. They told him: "We're all cooped up!" Then one day his roommate said: "The hens avoid you beak-cause your hair's messy, you dumb cluck! I don't know feather you've heard of Wildroot Cream-Oil or not, but you better fry it—er, try it! Contains soothing Lanolin. Relieves dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test." Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil—and now the gals think he's a good egg! Better lay down a few poultry cents on the nearest drug or toilet goods counter for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. And ask for it on your hair at your favorite barber shop. Then the girls'll take off their hatch to you!

U.M. Scrimmage New Britian In Preparation For Opener

The University of Massachusetts basketball team opens its season tonight with a game scrimmage against New Britain Teachers College. This game will be played under regular game conditions, but it will not count in the records.

The Ballmen have been rapidly rounding into shape, and tonight's scrimmage should be a good test for the team. The regular season begins Saturday with Northeastern meeting the Redmen at the cage. The UMass freshman club will play tonight meeting the New Britain Jayvees starting at 6:30.

Coach "Red" Ball was pleased with the performance of the team in practice last week. Outside scrimmages were held with two western Mass. colleges and Captain Bill Prevey and company looked impressive. The shooting of Bernie Kaminski, and the rebound work of Ed Conceison and Bill Stephens were features of the practice sessions.

Tonight's starting lineup will be a predominantly sophomore quintet. Four sophomores will share starting honors with Bill Prevey, who is the only returning starter from last year's club. Bill will hold down the all important center position. At forwards Coach Ball plans to start Henry Mosychuk and Ed Conceison. Starting guards will be Malcolm Macleod and Bernie Kaminski. Bill Stephens will see plenty of service at the forward post. Ray Gunn and Frank Barous will be capable substitutes for Kaminski and Macleod.

The club is in good physical shape and the boys are optimistic over the chances for a highly successful season. Tonight it's New Britain with the varsity game starting at 8:15.

Mermen Meet B U

The U. M. swimming team is rapidly trying to round themselves into shape for their first meet against B. U. next Friday.

The swimming team has had more than their share of bad luck with colds and other sicknesses hampering their practice and conditioning.

Coach Joe Rogers has the nucleus of last year's team, which had a 4-4 record with two narrow losses.

For free-stylers, Coach Rogers has Bartlett, Jacque, Prokopowich, Warren, Buster Campbell, and Joe Rogers. The latter is a promising sophomore who performed excellently in a practice meet against Springfield College last Friday night in which the Redmen lost by only a close margin.

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

Someone might draw the impression from reading this column that I did not particularly like the Physical Education department. That theory is entirely wrong. All criticisms offered herein are strictly constructive. With that out of the way, here we go!

Number one—the varsity hockey team that is operating in the mists of the never-never land. It is a sad commentary on the state of athletics here at the University when an athletic department can't even keep a varsity sport going because of lack of funds. All right, so our other varsity teams are the best equipped in the area. That still doesn't make them winning teams, and it still does not compensate for the lack of a hockey team.

There are men in the University who want to play intercollegiate hockey. There is equipment available for them. There is ice available for them either on the college pond or Cranberry Pond at the foot of the Mt. Toby range. The next step is up to our Director of Athletics.

He has said that interested men can use the name of the University, and can have all available equipment if they have a manager to be responsible for it. However, he has said nothing about money. It is practically impossible to run a varsity sport without money. There could be no trips to other schools, and there could be no practices in the Springfield Coliseum without the necessary funds. There would probably be someone in the school with the necessary experience to be a coach. Unless money is made available for them, it is rather futile to form a team.

It is not too late to work out at least an unofficial schedule. The men deserve the chance to play. It is bad enough that athletics at the University are ten years behind the times as it is. If we are trying to de-emphasize sports, let's start with the minor ones, rather than one which is a recognized varsity sport at most colleges in the New England region. So far, nothing has been done about providing for a team. Until something is done, or there is a public statement explaining the reasons for cutting the team out, my typewriter keeps rolling.

Number two—the basketball schedule. I didn't know our basketball team was superhuman. Yet they play four games within the space of their opening week. This just starts them off on the right foot. Then they play five out of seven Saturday night games away. This is so the home crowd can study on Saturday nights, I presume. Also they play four Monday games following Saturday night appearances. The team doesn't really need time to set up defenses for the teams they meet in such a way. After all, a five minute briefing should be enough.

For the above reasons, and many more that have been brought to my attention, it seems to me that whoever is responsible for scheduling the basketball team this year merely picked the dates out of a hat. Then they wonder why the team loses or has no spirit.

Dina and datta or some idle chatta. Unofficial reports have it that next year's varsity football captain will be George Bicknell. It should be a close decision over Bob Nolan however.

The basketball team may be playing two more game scrimmages this year besides New Britain tonight. Rumor has it that the two teams will be Brandeis and Norwich.

Al Hoelzel really proved the Good neighbor policy works when he came over from England to break the school soccer scoring record.

Rumors that Coach Tommy Eck was on his way out have been emphatically denied by people who should be in the know. Let's hope so. Tommy is one of the finest men I personally have ever met. And anyone who wants to question his football coaching ability better not mention it in front of any members of the football team.

It's too bad that we were not in the Yankee Conference this year. Bob Nolan and Buster DiVincenzo were good enough to make the Williams College all-opponent team, and should have been a shoo-in for the Conference squad. But, as usual, we are slightly behind the times.

Additions to the production committees were Emilie Moxon to the properties committee, Russell Taylor on scenery, Carleton Smith on staging, and Philip Sardo, Joan Wrightson, Lila Broude, and Richard Woolf on publicity.

These additions raised to 150 the number of students working with the show. These people are split up among production committees, ballet, ensemble, chorale, cast, and understudies—all working together to bring the campus what promises to be the Operetta Guild's outstanding show in history.

A rehearsal for the Dixieland Jazz Band is scheduled for today in Stockbridge, room 102.

Religion Courses Will Be Given For Interested Students

Religion courses will be given for the first time this spring announced Assistant Registrar Cadigan. The courses, developed too late to be included in the schedule of courses for the spring, are Religion 20, Religious Foundations of Western Culture, and Religion 30, Elements of Christianity.

The religion courses carry no credits, but the fact that the student has registered for the course, together with the instructor's evaluation, will be recorded on the back of the permanent card in the registrar's office. Any student wishing to take a religion course should enter the name of the course on his or her card. Each adviser has a copy of the announcement and details will be printed in the next Collegian issue.

MILI BALL 9-1 AMHERST CAGE

VOL. LXII—NO. 20 PUBLISHED TWICE WEEKLY UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FRIDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1951

Sharp Dress To Contrast Smooth Music At Mili Ball

Tonight is the Military Ball!

Almost 600 couples are expected to attend the Ball tonight at the Amherst Gym, where they will hear the featured music of Will Bradley and his band.

The new Air Force uniforms, coupled with one of the largest attendances in the history of the Ball, should make it a highlight of the social season at the University.

The judges will be ROTC cadets chosen by the Honorary Colonel Committee. These students, though already chosen, are not yet aware that they are judges, not until the Ball itself will they be notified of this. They will then be told to observe the five candidates, to decide who they think is the prettiest, and to hand in their decisions for the final counting. No one judge will know who the others are.

In addition, the music should be just about the sweetest and smoothest that has been heard at a Ball for a long time.

Will Bradley has one of the few bands that specialize in this kind of danceable music. He believes that "people who pay their way to hear me should get danceable music and not novelty tunes or progressive tempos."

While Will and his boys are resting, Les Elgart, the "trumpeters' trumpeter" will keep everyone dancing with music supplied by his fine quintet. Les is well known for his rich, dreamy arrangements of popular melodies.

The only interruption of the dancing, for a few short minutes, will be the presentation of the cloak to this year's winner of the title of Honorary Colonel by last year's colonel, Joan Hobart.

Also at this time, the gifts will be presented to the five competing girls, and the colonel will take two tickets out of the ticket box. The couple to whom these tickets belong will receive the two handsome door prizes.

The dancing will then continue on until 1:00 a.m.

Chorale Will Present Broadcast Concert Dec. 9

The U. of M. Chorale will be featured in a half hour broadcast next Sunday when the Monsanto Co. presents "Songs From New England Colleges" at 1:30 p.m. over local stations of the N. C. Regional Network of NBC.

Under the direction of Doric Alviani, the 30-voice Chorale will sing a program featuring folk songs, religious music, spirituals, and novelty tunes. "Old Chapel Bells", a new U. of M. song, will be presented for the first time.

The Monsanto broadcast on Dec. 9 will be a highlight in a busy holiday month for the chorale. On Tuesday, Dec. 4, they sang at North Hadley, sponsored by the P.T.A. On Sunday, Dec. 9, the group will take part in the Annual Christmas Vesper service in Bowker auditorium at 7 p.m.

On December 11, the Chorale will record a half-hour national network show for the Mutual Broadcasting System's College Choir series. Their program will be heard on 600 U. S. radio stations and overseas via the Armed Forces Radio network on Dec. 30.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Monsanto broadcast next Sunday. There is no admission charge. Doors will be closed to visitors at 1:15 p.m., however, so that the broadcast may proceed without interruption.

Nineteen competitors for the editorial staff of the Collegian were elected at a meeting of the editorial board Wednesday afternoon.

These competitors have gone through a training program this semester which included several practice news stories, an interview of a faculty member, and tests on the Collegian style book and copy editing.

Two competed for positions in the art department.

New Fraternity Move Needs Upperclassmen

The move started by the Interfraternity Council to establish a new fraternity on campus has advanced rapidly this week. Approximately 30 men have expressed an interest in the new organization. Since most of these men are freshmen, however, there is a great need for upperclassmen.

The next meeting has been scheduled for next Monday, Dec. 10, 7 p.m. in Greenough cafeteria. At that time, temporary officers will be elected and committees will be appointed. Any non-fraternity men interested in joining this new fraternity are urged to attend.

ClassElections Put Off to Mon.

The election of class officers was postponed for the second time by the Student Senate at its meeting this week. The elections will now be on Monday evening, Hank Walters, new election chairman, said that this action was necessary "because of the mess that the election is now in." When he asked for volunteers from the senate to help prepare the ballots for Wednesday, only five senators could find time to do their duty. The election was originally scheduled for over a week ago.

Mr. Ben Ricci of the Phys. Ed. department spoke to the senators in an effort to get suggestions for the running of the traditional rope pull. He pointed out the dangers of an

Holiday Pageant TraditionDec.12

The annual "Nativity Scene", combining pantomine and legend and attempting to create the same effect as a religious painting, will be presented next Wednesday night from 8:8:45 in Old Chapel Auditorium. The Christmas pageant, under the sponsorship of the French Club, has been a tradition on campus since before the war.

Historically, the pageant represents one of the most important developments in the evolution of the early stage. Nearly 1000 years ago during the middle ages, the medieval theater consisted of just such pageants offered during the church service.

Culturally, the scene tries to create the same feeling as that derived from primitive paintings of the nativity, such as those by Giotto. The pageant, beginning in darkness, tells the Christmas story from the coming of the angels announcing the nativ-

The officers you pick to lead your class represent you. The amount that they do for the class and their efficiency in office is your responsibility. It is up to you to make sure that the right persons are elected and the only way to do this is to get out and vote.

Class elections have been postponed until next Monday night. At this time we will all have the opportunity to vote on those we want to see in office. It is important that each one of us carefully considers the candidates in light of their qualifications for leadership and their character. We must disregard the superficial characteristics which are not pertinent to the issue at hand. We should also try not to be influenced by friendship or organizational bonds.

Class elections may seem trite and unimportant to many of us but it is no doubt because we have failed to think about the real meaning behind them. Now more than ever before we should train ourselves to take an interest in the matters of our community. It is just as essential a part of our education as learning to read or write, and it is essential for our own protection. To maintain the methods of democracy which we have inherited, we must exercise them and the present is the time for us to begin.

A marked degree of apathy among the students has been evident in previous class elections and other college affairs which demand voting. Let's change this by exerting just a little extra effort and taking a few minutes to cast our ballots. It's for our own good.

THIS EXCHANGING WORLD

by Selma Garbowit

The Kilkitik:

Dear Mom,

"It's getting rather difficult to write you now that I'm a sophisticated sophomore and have left behind all the peculiar ideas of an insignificant freshman. But since I have so much time on my hands I shall try to make my weekly letter interesting. Of course that threat of no letter, no allowance is also influencing me more than you realize.

"Life as a sophomore is very complicated and serious and often I wish that I too might be as carefree and gay as those lucky seniors who never seem to have anything to do. Senior men seem to be so very happy now knowing they can all accept positions with Uncle Sam's stimulating business venture.

"Things have changed around here. I don't believe I told you that I eat at the Commons this year instead of France Hall. Don't get excited about my safety because they have my address and have promised faithfully to ship my body home free of charge in case of—shall we say—"an accident?"

"I'll tell you our Homecoming scheme if you don't breathe it to a soul. We plan to have the theme "Founders Flounders In Its Fabulous Felicitation To The Faithful Fighters of Far-famed Football." We like it because it's so short and peppy.

Improvements around here have been terrific. In the first place there have been only two rainy days since I've arrived, which goes to show that if you complain loud enough and long enough, the administration will come through. I've also noticed how quickly the freshman women are learning about the "High Ideals" of this campus. It isn't every class who tries to be their counselors and the dean of women in their rooms during the first month of the first semester.

"You have asked about my classes. The most fascinating is "An Introduction to the Ways and Means of Making Life Interesting," commonly known as folk dancing plus canine conversation with a little psychology thrown in. There are some truly heart throbbing characters connected with the course.

This year the college certainly reached its ideal of "A bigger and better outhouse burning" with most of the attention drawn to the "Enclosure Movement," involving City Hall and three male students.

In attempting to answer your question of what did I do with last week's allowance, I shall enumerate my expenses: 75c went to the General Relief of A Starving Student on Sunday Night and the other $2.25 was donated to the Society for Providing Entertainment for Preventing Sophomore Students from Becoming Too Involved in the Science of Learning.

Really, mother, this is every bit of knowledge I know.

Your suffering sophomore,
Molly Mulligan

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Tuesday night the freshman basket-ball team played a scrimmage game against the New Britain Jayvees. The spectators were expecting frequent substitutions in order that the coaches could see how players new to the University would react under game conditions. Instead we saw the coaches satisfied to sit back and let six or seven men play a game which was certainly no credit to the University.

These men are going to be the future varsity squad, and yet they do not have a chance to play even in a Freshman scrimmage game. Did the coaches think that this was a championship game in which unseasoned players could not be used? The brand of basketball that we saw certainly did not indicate that it was. The players are all new to the University and college basketball, and the blame certainly cannot be placed upon them.

Sincerely,
Richard Smith

Dan Davies Heads WMUA Policy Board

Dan Davies, '53, WMUA production director, took over the chairmanship of the Policy Board at the Nov. 26 meeting. He succeeds Eugene Ryan in this position which alternates between the students and faculty members of the Board each semester.

UM Drops Thriller In O'ertime

The U. of M. basketball opens its 1951-52 season tomorrow night with a game against Northeastern at the cage. Monday night the Redmen travel to Boston to meet Boston College who have been ranked by a national magazine as the 20th ranking team in the nation.

Last Tuesday, the Redmen were defeated by New Britain, 59-54, in at overtime game. This exhibition contest was a thriller all the way. U.M. got off to an early lead only to have New Britain come right back. At halftime the Redmen led 29-25. In the second half, the lead changed hands several times. With 10 seconds left to play, Bill Prevey put in a set shot from the corner to send the game into overtime. New Britain had the edge in the overtime and came out on the long end of the score. Prevey was high man for Massachusetts with 21 points. If all the games are as exciting as Tuesday night's, the fans are in for a great season of basketball.

Although Northeastern will bring a strong club to Amherst tomorrow night, Coach Ball is optimistic over his team's chances to start the season with a win. He was pleased with the shooting of Prevey and Mosychuk in Tuesday's game, the rebound work of Conceison and Stephens, and the floor play of McLeod and Kaminski.

The same starting quintet will take the field tomorrow night. Bill Prevey, recovered from his muscle cramp, will start at center. Mosychuk and Conceison will be at forwards and Kaminski and McLeod will start at guards.

accident during the event as it is presently run. He also spoke of the consequences resulting from the poor physical condition of a man entering the event. It was the opinion of the senate that the pull should be run by the Maroon Key and that the freshmen should be allowed to volunteer to enter it. Mr. Ricci stated that the rules would be submitted to the senators for their consideration when the final draft was completed.

In an effort to assist the Crusade for Freedom drive, the senators were given petitions for their constituents to sign stating that they supported this movement. Your student senator has the petition for the dormitory you live in. See him and support this worthy drive. The petitions must be completed by next week.

In other routine business at the meeting, Professor Dickinson, Mr. Skillings and Dr. Ross were appointed to the joint student-faculty Finance Committee. Rita Katz was added to the constitution committee. Such perennial matters as hour exams after major social functions and the condition of the infirmary were referred to committees for investigation.

Major Facts Withheld In Mettawampe Theft

Due to the lack of complete information these are the facts as the Collegian has them.

People throughout the campus were buzzing and chattering last Saturday morning when the grapevine passed along the news that Mettawampe had disappeared!

The painted statue of the campus Indian, dedicated only last spring, was mysteriously taken from his rock pedestal sometime Friday night. Nothing has been heard since, or so most students thought.

The statue was evidently taken from his place of repose and thrown directly into the campus pond, for according to Dean of Men Robert S. Hopkins, Mettawampe was recovered from his watery grave by unnamed campus authorities before daybreak Saturday morning.

The Dean said that he was first informed of the theft of the gift of the class of '50 by Officer George Woynar, a campus policeman on duty.

Fr. Club Holds Pageant Wed.

The annual French Club pageant, the Nativity Scene, will be held Wed., Dec. 12 at 8 p.m. in Old Chapel Aud. The pageant, to which the public is invited is under the direction of Alida Mixson, Gerry Vanasse, and Dr. Stowell Goding, faculty adviser.

FAUX PAS

by Bruce Fox

"With every revolving year I am struck with the strange inconsistency of the words "Christmas Examination,'" wrote Stephen Leacock in College Days. "Here on the one hand is Christmas, good glad, old season with its little children dancing in a world of magic round a glittering tree, and such a crisp gladness in the air that even the angular faces of University professors are softened out into something approaching human kindliness.

Here, on the one hand is Christmas. And here, on the other hand, are exams with their sleepless nights, crazy questions and crooked answers, set with the calculating cruelty of the inquisitor. Examinations with their hideous percentages, their insulting distinctions of rank, and paid for in cold fees.

Here is Christmas and here are the Examinations. And the two don't go together. We can't alter Christmas. We've had it nearly two thousand years now. Christmas we cannot alter; but the examinations we can? Why not? Can we not break down something of these rigid regulations that every candidate reads, shuddering, in the printed instructions on his examination book?

I reached out and drew to me the hideous code of the examination regulations. I read it over with a shudder. I saw at once how, not only the regulations, but the very examination papers themselves ought to be so altered that the old malicious spirit might be driven right out of them and Christmas come to its own again even in an examination hall. Here is the way it is done:

REGULATIONS FOR CHRISTMAS EXAMINATIONS:

1. Candidates are permitted—nay they are encouraged to enter the examination hall half an hour after the examination has begun, and to leave it, re-enter it, walk across the room, jump across it, roll around in it, lie down on it, tear their clothes, mutilate their books, and, generally, to make themselves thoroughly and completely at home at the expense of the University.

—OFFICIAL NOTICE—

A six-week Summer Session will be offered at the U. of M. beginning July 1 and closing Aug. 13, 1952.

Students who expect to attend should file an application (tentative) in the Dean's Office before the Christmas recess.

Six Students Suspended For VandalismAct

Six students have been indefinitely suspended from the University for vandalization of cigarette machines, Dean Robert S. Hopkins reported yesterday.

When questioned regarding the offense, Dean Hopkins said that, "Those responsible for the action have been apprehended and necessary disciplinary action has been taken."

The problem of restitution was answered by the Dean of Men when he replied that, "The University is not subjected to more than normal responsibility. Direct restitution is being made to the cigarette company by the six students involved," according to Mr. Hopkins.

The names of the six men have been withheld, and the immediate loss to the University Scholarship Fund has not as yet been determined.

Tommy Eck Resigns As UM Head Coach

In a surprise move early yesterday, Head Coach Tommy Eck announced his resignation as varsity football coach. The resignation was submitted to President Van Meter early Monday morning and was released to the public at 11:15 a.m. yesterday morning over the wire services.

Coach Eck announced that he had no immediate future plans after leaving the University. His retirement will go into effect August 31 of this year. There was no reason given for his retirement.

Director of Athletics Warren McGuirk stated that he "regrets his (Eck's) leaving" and "that he has the greatest admiration for Tommy as a worker."

According to Mr. McGuirk, a committee will be formed, consisting of three faculty members, to act as a screening committee for applicants for the position as head coach. The news release inserted a time limit of about one week.

As far as is known at the present time, Mr. Eck's resignation will have no effect on the status of the two assistant coaches, Earl Lorden and Joe Masi, according to Warren McGuirk.

Coach Eck came to the University in 1946 as head coach. In his first year, his team had a record of 2-1-1. In 1946 he became assistant coach under Walter Hargeshimer, who left at the end of the year to go to Oklahoma. In 1947, Eck racked up a 3-4-1 record. This was matched in 1948.

1949 saw the Eck coached eleven finish with a 3-5 record that was also matched in 1950. This fall, the team finished with a 3-4-1 record to bring Eck's total record up to 18-23-4 for five years of coaching.

Phi Kappa Phi plans Scholarship Convo

The Phi Kappa Phi Scholarship Convocation, held annually until 1941 and discontinued since the war because of inadequate auditorium space to accommodate the entire student body, will be revived this week.

The principal address at the Convocation, which will be held in Bowker Auditorium, at 11 a.m., Thursday, Dec. 13, will be given by Dr. Harlow Shapley. A world famous astronomer, and director of the Harvard College Observatory since 1921, Dr. Shapley will speak on "Reaching For The Stars".

Printed programs containing the list of Phi Kappa Phi initiates will be distributed at the convocation. The list will also include all students on Dean's Scholarship lists and those working on departmental honors projects.

Mary Granfield Wins Hon. Colonel Cloak

From a field of five finalists, Mary Granfield was chosen Honorary Colonel at the annual Military Ball last Friday evening, and was honored with the presentation of the customary cloak and "chickens."

The sale of more than 536 tickets represents a sizeable profit to the Military Department's Scholarship fund, the beneficiary of the profits.

Will Bradley and his band supplied smooth, danceable music, along with Les Elgart's Quintet.

The only sour note of the entire evening was the removal of a NO PARKING sign from in front of the Amherst Gymn. Such an action could result in the discontinuance of such "intercollegiate cooperation" as the loaning of their gymnasium by Amherst College. The Military department would appreciate the immediate return of the sign in any manner the confiscator sees fit. No questions will be asked, and the sign may be the key to future functions.

No Room For Opinion

Once in a while a week comes along when you don't have to bang your head against the wall dreaming up a subject for an editorial. It happened this week. There is enough news to comment on to fill six columns. So what happens? There is so much news that our four meager pages will not accommodate all the news as well as our humble opinions.

Our sports columnist has put into adequate words our tribute to Tommy Eck. Two feature writers have expounded on the disappearance of Mettawampe. Our news stories will have to suffice as far as the stories on the cigarette machine thefts and the again-postponed elections of class officers. Unfortunately, we were not able to get enough authoritative information from primary sources to report our stories adequately, much less to put forth any opinions.

With apologies for the lack of editorial opinion, we refer you to other columns for the material which could be presented in a larger paper. It is our hope that such apologies will not be necessary in future issues of the Collegian.

Students Speculate On Disappearance Of Ch. Mettawampe

When the sun's rays spread over the campus last Saturday morning, they revealed a significant change in the fitness of things—Mettawampe was missing! Since it is doubtful that the little fellow made another reservation of his own volition, his absence can be imputed to a distorted sense of humor and a twisted sense of values on the part of those involved.

Mettawampe has been painted twice since his arrival on campus, and although it could be regarded as a college prank, he suffered no ill effects. But stealing as vandalism, not a prank. The class of 1950 gave the statue to the University as a gift. Why anyone should want to steal Mettawampe is beyond comprehension. Stealing is not justified, even if the object has utilization, but in this case, the booty can neither be concealed nor used. Mettawampe is too big for a paperweight, and having no counterpart, would make a poor bookend.

Mettawampe may be a relatively small and seemingly insignificant piece of statuary, hardly one of the seven wonders of the world, but it's about time that we realized that theft is no joke. The statue deserves the deference with which it was given—a class gift to the Alma Mater. Whoever the mentally constipated individuals may be, let it suffice to say that the least they can do is to return Mettawampe, wherever he may be. Both students and faculty look upon the deed as a breach of ethics, a disparagement against their own institution, and an example of immature, childish behavior.

Whether or not the perpetrators of this outlandish act can be definitely ascertained is a question of doubt. Neither can Mettawampe's location at present be determined. Perhaps Mettawampe's companions will capture up a little honor and moral righteousness upon discovering the lack of principle which they display—let's bang it back, gentlemen!

An early Christmas was celebrated by TEP brothers and their 14 guests from Heightside and Mt. St. Vincent Orphanage.

Co-chairmen Stan Glick and Paul Goldberg claim that both the games and the refreshments were as greatly appreciated by the brothers as by the younger boys and girls for whom they were planned.

The girls from Mt. St. Vincent performed for the assembled group, while the boys competed against the girls' song and dance routines by leading group singing. The party was a great success despite the fact that one little girl noticed and was disturbed by a pillow where Santa Claus' stomach should have been.

wore an expression, even more than usual. "Look!," he said, "the Injun's gone."

I looked and it was absolutely true. Where once had reposed the noble Redman, guardian spirit of U.M., was nothing but open space. All that remained was the fine specimen of New England rock which had formed the pedestal on which Chief Mettawampe had stood while Sensing the fact that we were on the ground floor of something that would live for ages in the college annals, we went and examined the hallowed spot. Several other people, some in blue coats, were inspecting the stone pedestal. One, obviously conducting the investigation, removed his cap and scratched a thatch of red hair.

"Somebody, persons unknown, has taken the statue," he stated weightily.

He looked more closely at the spot where Mettawampe's shins had once connected to his ankles, as if hoping to find several fingerprints to reveal the culprits.

Arch and I watched the people milling around the spot for a while and then repaired to our gaite Rivers House. —Dusty Eve

Redmen Drop Thriller As Prevey Scores 24

Staging a great comeback, the University of Massachusetts basketball team bowed to Northeastern 65-64 in a double overtime game at the cage last Saturday night. At the end of three periods the Redmen trailed 42-31. In the fourth quarter the team made up the 11 point deficit with the score tied 52 all.

With Northeastern leading 52-50 Captain Bill Prevey put in a [illegible] in regulation time. In the [illegible] overtime Bill Stephens tied the [illegible] 62 all with 40 seconds remaining. Bill Prevey put up a set shot from twenty feet out with twenty seconds left. The ball hit the rim and bounced off as the buzzer sounded.

In the second overtime, Bill Prevey put UMass ahead 64 to 63 with a minute and a half remaining. Northeastern took the ball and Costello of the Huskies ahead to stay with a set from about 25 feet out. Northeastern held on and the final score had NU 65, UMass. 64.

The Redmen trailed 27 to 21 at the half. They were outscored 15-10 in the third quarter but the Redmen came back strong in the fourth period. Bill Prevey was high for the game club with 24 points. Malcolm Macleod scored 13 for the Redmen. Joe Nevs was high for the visitors with 20 points. The fans at the game saw a fighting UMass club never willing to give up only to bow in the final seconds of the second overtime.

Last night the Redmen traveled to Boston to meet powerful Boston College. Tomorrow night the team goes to Springfield to meet AIC.

Mermen Defeat B U-

The Redmen swimming team defeated Boston University, 52-36, in the University Club pool. The UM mermen took an early lead by winning the first three events. After that, the meet was up for grabs until Mitch Jacque won the 440-yard free style race which clinched the win for the Redmen.

Two new pool records were established in the meet. Bud Brief of BU set a 100 yard free style mark of

Tribute to a Gentleman

The athletic department has reached the passing of an era with the resignation of Tommy Eck. Tommy first came to the University as head coach of the varsity football team in 1945. Since then, every minute of his waking time has been concerned with fulfilling his job to the best of his ability.

Few people realize the strain that a football coach has to go through. Many have the mistaken impression that his job ends with the final gun of the final game of the year. It seems to be a soft job, coaching. But did you ever stop to consider what a strain you are under.

You spend your entire summer visiting other colleges in an effort to improve your own team by picking up new plays and formations. You get back in late August just in time to start pre season practice with your full squad. The team thinks that they are worked hard, but how about the coach who spends twice as much time as they do in planning plays, practices, and scrimmages.

Then the season starts. You have the opposition completely scouted and your team is prepared. All you can do is sit on the sidelines and pray. It seems easy to do, but how do you think a coach feels when his team fumbles, or someone fails to carry out his assignment? How do you think a coach feels when his team loses and he loses with it all the backing of the student body? It isn't easy or pretty to picture.

All you hear around you is criticism. Your wife hears it wherever she goes. Your children hear it in school. The men you work with in your department and the men under whom you work criticize you and your methods either openly or behind your back. It isn't a pretty picture just as the pressure on the coach and its effects aren't pretty either.

When the season ends, you have to start scouting to get better men into the school. By that time, spring practice is here and the whole vicious circle starts over again.

For the past couple of decades, the University has been way behind the times in athletics. Now that everyone is retrenching and de-emphasizing sports, the University seems to be bucking the tide and trying to emphasize athletics. Perhaps we should, whom am I to judge?

Tommy has given every thing he has to this school. He has spared no effort to make his teams winning ones. His health has suffered and his pride has gone. It seems that little is left for a man unless he can produce winning teams.

Few people have the ability to judge a man's capacity to coach a team. Far be it from me to attempt this. However, his Tommy been responsible for many of the losses suffered by his teams? Four games during the past four years have been lost by one point. Many games have been lost because of fumbles, missed assignments, and find passes. The coach isn't out on the field playing. He has to stay on the sidelines and watch. Every team loses its share of games. The Redmen are no exception.

Are we free from blame as students? Everyone is an armchair quarterback, free to criticize, but never to cheer. The lack of student support means the difference between a winning and a losing team. Maybe we are partly at fault for the team's poor record in the past.

I hope that I speak for the student body when I say that I regret Tom-

THE DU PONT DIGEST

M.E.'s AT DU PONT [3]

Plant engineering and production supervision offer interesting careers for science graduates

In the past two issues of the Digest you've read of the broad opportunities that are offered mechanical engineers in research and development work at Du Pont.

This month let's look at opportunities for men interested in any of the branches of plant engineering—such as maintenance, power, design and construction—or in production supervision.

Efficient maintenance is an important cost factor in the continuous processes of a modern chemical industry. The M.E. is called upon to diagnose troubles, work out corrective measures, and supervise repairs.

Frequently he increases production by developing preventive maintenance measures. So vital is this work that in one division of the Company, 500 men of all crafts, along with a routine maintenance group, spend almost all their time on it.

One example of the problems facing Du Pont engineers is the maintenance of pumps made to tolerances of 0.0001" and operating at pressures up to 6000 p.s.i.

In power work, also, problems requiring application of mechanical engineering principles arise. For instance, a metal required in one chemical process is melted at 800°F. by immersion heaters fired by butane, which is expensive. Conversion to fuel oil presented the problem of complete combustion in the immersion chamber. Du Pont M.E.'s redesigned the heaters so combustion could be complete and the hot gases recycled in water to use all the available heat.

In design and construction of chemical plants, mechanical engineering again is of major importance because of the wide variety of plants built and intricacy of their equipment. Engineers collect basic data, design and select equipment. They also supervise many steps of construction until the plant is operating.

A FIREMAN adjusts louvers for the proper combustion of pulverized coal. Blown into furnace through pipes, it burns at 2500°F.

MAINTENANCE TEAM making a speedy change of a methanol valve to minimize production loss.

Sometimes students of mechanical engineering feel that in a chemical company they will be overshadowed by chemical personnel. This is not the case at Du Pont. Here, hundreds of administrators and supervisors, up to the rank of vice-president, started as M.E.'s.

Opportunities for men and women with many types of training are described in the 40-page brochure "The Du Pont Company and the College Graduate." For your free copy, address 2521 Nemours Bldg., Wilmington, Del.

of cast bells, at least two octaves arranged chromatically, so tuned that when sounded together they produce perfect harmony." He compared the tones of several bells which he had brought with him, and explained the differences between carillon and chime bells.

The first selection which Mr. Bigelow played on his carillon included a group of Christmas carols from different lands. France's "Il est Né, Le Petit Enfant"; England's "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen"; Flanders' "Hers He Is Born"; and America's "O Little Town of Bethlehem".

Next the Bell Master traced the historical development of the bell from the primitive rattle to the carillon and chime bells as we know them today. It was interesting to note that our bells in the Old Chapel tower are of the English chime variety.

Mr. Bigelow demonstrated the versatility of the carillon by playing Schuman's "Traumerei" and he concluded with a rendition of "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee."

The recital was sponsored by the Fine Arts Council.

Camera Club Moves

Growing pains are making it necessary for the new University Camera Club to move to larger quarters in Old Chapel C, rather than room D, for its regular meeting Thurs., Dec. 13 at 7 p.m. The recently announced Photo Contest (Collegian Dec. 4) will be discussed as well as helpful tips in taking the contest pictures.

Statistics blanks may be obtained either at the Index office or at the Alumni office—both in Mem Hall. Those juniors who do not turn in statistics material by Friday of this week will find only their name appearing in the '52 yearbook.

No. 30...THE SQUIRREL

This nimble-minded nutcracker almost tumbled for those tricky cigarette mildness tests. But he worked himself out of a tight spot when he suddenly realized that cigarette mildness just can't be judged by a mere puff or one single sniff. Smokers everywhere have reached this conclusion—there's just one real way to prove the flavor and mildness of a cigarette.

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke—on a pack-after-pack, day-after-day basis. No snap judgments. Once you've enjoyed Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

After all the Mildness Tests . . .
Camel leads all other brands by billions

The Editors.

Arrom Romm, Collegian Editor and Managing Editor in 1947, is on the Springfield Union, and is also a member of the Collegian Publishing Board. He joined The Union in May, 1949, after getting an M.A. in Government at Columbia University. He is a general reporter, and frequently talks to the journalism classes.

Edward Cynarski, also a Collegian Editor in 1948, is also on The Springfield Union. He also holds an M.A. from Columbia — in history — and started on The Union in May, 1951.

Dario Politella, Editor in 1946-47, also was awarded a New York State Publishers fellowship to the Syracuse University Journalism School is now an assistant professor of Journalism at Kent State University in Ohio. After finishing at Syracuse, Mr. Politella was a reporter for the Geneva (N.Y.) Daily Times until Sept. 1950. He started the Collegian campaign for a University of Massachusetts with a column that appeared in Nov 1946, and was Editor when The Collegian adopted the motto: A Free and Responsible Press.

Robert W. Burke, Collegian Copy Editor, who was graduated with Mr. Politella in 1947 is a reporter on the Providence Journal. Like his classmate he holds a master's degree in Journalism, except it's from Columbia. He joined the Journal staff in June 1948 and has been on a leave of absence recently for military service.

Another alumnus who holds a master's degree from a journalism school (Missouri), William Manchester, is working on the Baltimore Sun. He received an honorary academics medal last June.

Robie Maynard, Collegian Editor in 1949 and Editor of the Amherst Journal from June, 1950 to last September, is now working for the Berkshire Evening Eagle. He replaced Henry Colton, who was Managing Editor of the Collegian—Mr. Colton having resigned from the Eagle to take a public relations job in Springfield.

Also on the Berkshire Eagle now is William Tague, our noted photographer in 1950, who is a police reporter; Milton Bass, who is a copy editor, and Paul Perry, Collegian Editor in 1948. Mr. Perry is night news editor for the Eagle's radio station, WBEC, and is married to Ruth Bemis.

Carroll Robbins, former managing editor of the Collegian, has been a reporter on the Holyoke Transcript since June, 1948.

James Curtin, Collegian Editor in 1949, is on the Greenfield Recorder-Gazette. Edward Fulton, '49, who was on the Recorder-Gazette for a year is now working for the Springfield News Company.

Elizabeth Krieger, Collegian Editor in 1950, is on the Worcester Telegram. One of her classmates, John McAuliffe, our former Chief Justice, is working in the business side of the Lawrence Bee. His father is the editor and publisher.

GIFTS OF THE MAGI

There is little news for a student newspaper published on the day before a two-week holiday. Hence, we have planned this issue as a kind of gift from THE COLLEGIAN staff to the students—and if you take the issue home, to your parents. It comes not from the East but from Amherst, in the heart of the Commonwealth. If we had more space it would be better. In any case, Merry Christmas to you everyone.

Budget Facts

Out of a total state appropriation of $4,677,000 for general maintenance of the U. of M., $1,509,105 was returned to the state treasury from tuition, sales, and services in the past fiscal year.

This was revealed in a report issued this week by Treasurer Robert D. Hawley covering the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1951.

The report also showed that the total funds for the University in the past fiscal year was $9,499,057. Included in this amount were federal appropriations of $511,084, a $415,000 appropriation for capital outlay, $427,138 for self-supporting student financed activities, and $61,065 in special gifts for current use in research and scholarship.

Senate Report:

Trouble In Politics

The official results of the class elections will not be announced until after vacation, since some men who live in private homes off campus did not receive their ballots, and thus did not vote. Hank Walters, reported the present election results, and then resigned as election chairman. He said he needed more cooperation from the senators.

John Miller was appointed as the third election chairman since the class elections began. He said he will attempt to correct the injustice done to the students who were not allowed to vote. After vacation, he plans to have a final election for the president of the class of 1955.

The Activities Committee announced that the Roister Doisters constitution is illegal until it is approved by the committee. After vacation, the committee will discuss this constitution and those of the Freshman Inter-dormitory Council

Tidings on New Dorm

It is hoped that the new $800,000 Baker Dormitory will be finished by Feb. 1, according to Mr. G. C. Brehm, Supt. of Buildings.

It has been expected that the dormitory would be ready for use at the beginning of the second semester. However, because of the problem of getting materials, it appears doubtful that it will be ready by then.

The new dormitory which will hold 360 men is being built in the center of the Mills-Brooks-Greenough-Chadbourne Quadrangle. All of these have been built in the past few years.

When this new dorm is completed it will do much to ease the crowded dorm conditions. At the present time, many rooms built for one occupant have become double rooms and many double rooms have become triples.

The increased enrollment and the lack of housing have made it necessary for the U. of M. authorities to utilize the available facilities to the fullest degree.

Student Panel Notes

Four student speakers—Dan Porter, Bob Davies, Dick Lettis, and George Delaney—discussed the question "Paths to Peace, a military or moral problem" at a meeting of the International Relations Club on Tuesday, Dec. 11.

Dan Porter opened the discussion by declaring that our present foreign policy "is aimed directly at provoking war."

Bob Davies, the next speaker, advocated our remaining in the Atlantic pact, having the U. N. recognize all the nations of the world, and helping Europe economically only if we intended to attach no strings to our aid.

Dick Lettis, speaking next, questioned the fact that it was possible to obtain peace. For in examining the history of the past 2000 years it is quite evident that peace has been impossible to keep, he said, adding that it is man on whom peace is dependent and man is essentially "petty, selfish, and weak." Mr. Lettis offered no concrete solution for peace but in-

Letter from President

President's Office
University of Massachusetts
Amherst, Massachusetts

To Parents of Students at the University:

It is a pleasure to accept the invitation of The Collegian to write you through its columns on behalf of the entire University and to express to you, the parents of our students, sincere holiday greetings from all of us here at your State University. I wish I could write a personal letter to each family in which I could tell of the work and play of the particular student in which each is interested, but with 3600 students in the University, I am sure you will realize how difficult this would be, and will accept instead this message which bears our heartiest Christmas greeting.

Most of our students are making fine progress this year. The Deans tell me that there is an atmosphere of seriousness pervading the dormitories and classrooms. Our young people are developing an earnest attitude toward their work which is encouraging to us all. They seem to be making their adjustments speedily and effectively. We expect few real failures this year because the young men and women who are now with us are showing that they thoroughly appreciate the real objectives of their education.

While creditable scholarship is, of course, the primary purpose of the University, our students have not been idle in other important spheres of activity. In our physical education program, and in academic activities, such as dramatics, musical organizations, clubs, and the Collegian, they have been busy and remarkable successful.

The University of Massachusetts, as a State-supported institution, really belongs to all of us, to its students, to all the citizens of the State, but particularly to the parents who have entrusted the education of their children to its care for this crucial period of their lives. We take this responsibility seriously. As a State supported institution, we are eager to serve you and particularly eager for your interest and support in the work we are doing in giving our students a well-rounded general education and training for the professions.

I want to extend this invitation to all of the parents of our students to write me concerning any problems your children may be facing which may not have come to our attention, or to give me any information you feel that we here at the University ought to have in order to make the University of Massachusetts a more useful institution of higher learning for the young people of our Commonwealth. Perhaps I shall not be able to answer all of your letters in person, but I can and I certainly shall forward your letters to the appropriate member of our faculty and staff for personal reply. I want to extend to you a sincere invitation to visit our teachers and our administrative officials when you come to the campus in person.

Your sons and daughters are coming home to you for Christmas, and with them we send our sincere greeting.

Merry Christmas

Our Christmas Present

It's here at last, that long-awaited Christmas vacation. The trials and tribulations of putting out two newspapers a week added to those classes which are a requisite activity previous to the receipt of a degree, have put us into a state of complete exhaustion.

Before we retire for two weeks of rest and relaxation, we have for you this Christmas present in the form of a special issue of the Collegian. This is a present for all students to take home to show to their friends and families.

In this issue we have embodied our usual campus news as well as a letter from the President of the University, a story about the Collegian alumni who have succeeded in the newspaper business, and some special Christmas pictures showing pre-holiday celebrations and scenes around the campus.

We hope that our readers will take the Collegian home with them. This issue has been compiled for the purpose of introducing and better acquainting parents and friends of our students with the University.

With this gift we wish you all the merriest Christmas and the happiest New Year possible. May we all pass the holidays in the traditional spirit of peace and goodwill.

Roister Doisters

There will be a regular meeting of Roister Doisters Thursday, Jan. 3, at 7:30 p.m. in Old Chapel Aud. Election of officers will be held and all members are urged to attend.

Theta Chi

Theta Chi entertained eleven orphans from Brightside and St. Vincent's at a Christmas party Saturday, Dec. 8. Games, prizes, and refreshments highlighted an afternoon which was enjoyed by the members and their dates as well as the orphans.

Theta Chi will hold its annual buffet supper and Christmas party Friday, Dec. 14, with Bob Gunter in charge of arrangements.

Bill Mosidda and Al Leavitt have taken over the duties of social chairmen. Al Garner and Sonny Miller are to be congratulated on their fine performance as social chairmen in the past.

Roister Doister Associate Group

The first meeting of the Roister Doister Associate Group, which was held Tuesday, Dec. 11, was a notable example of the enthusiasm the Freshman class has for Dramatics. Of the forty members present, 36 were freshmen.

The associate group, which is an apprenticeship organization to the active Roister Doister group which put on "Light Up the S. ," a few weeks ago, has plans for the presentation of three one act plays on Thursday evening, March 27, in Bowker Auditorium. The titles of the plays were not revealed, but it was announced that a comedy, drama, and melo-drama were scheduled for that evening.

Those who attended the meeting, after hearing a reading by Shirley Hastings and Mario Bruni, and a speech on back stage work, by Paul Goldberg, were asked to demonstrate their own dramatic ability by giving readings of selected scenes from various well-known shows.

Francine Freedman conducted the meeting, explaining the aims of the organization, which are to give newcomers to Roister Doisters an opportunity to produce their own shows and to gain experience in all phases of dramatic undertaking. A constitution committee, under the chairmanship of Richard Cairns, was appointed.

As it is believed that many people still do not know about this organization, all those present were asked to publicize the next meeting which will be on Thursday, Jan. 10 in Old Chapel Auditorium. Anyone interested in any phase of theatrical activity is urged to attend the next meeting. The highlight of the evening will be a make-up demonstration by Henry Peirce of the English Department.

Ski Team

All persons interested in forming a ski team are invited to a meeting at 7 p.m., Friday, Dec. 14, in the lobby of the Phys. Ed. building.

Another member of the class of 1950, Robert Beaulieu, is a reporter for the Fitchburg Sentinel in Leominster. Still another member, George Doyle, Manager of WMUA, is working as a radio news reporter for the New Bedford Standard-Times station. Sol Schwartz, our News Editor in 1950, is a sports reporter on the New Bedford Standard-Times.

Leonard Zahn, Collegian Copy Editor in 1948, resigned his job on December 1 as night desk editor of the United Press in Boston to take a job with a public relations company of Carl Byoir & Associates, Inc., 10 E. 49th St., New York.

Also in New York is Faye Hammel, Associate Editor of the Collegian in 1949. She is writing publicity for Farrar-Straus, a book publishing company.

Agnes McDonough, Editor of the Collegian last semester is a home economics journalist on a magazine in Connecticut. Her address is: 29 Farnham Road, West Hartford.

Edward Young, a sports reporter in 1948, is now in the Market News Service of the Department of Interior, at 10 Commanwealth Pier, Boston.

Bill Dunn, Sports Editor in 1950, is working in the promotion department of Life Magazine at 22 South Highland Street, West Hartford, Conn.

While putting together this data on journalism alumni, we should report that the former University Editor, Norman Myrick, is Editor of the American Milk Review. His successor, Robert McCartney, may be claimed as a Collegian alumnus in that he was Editor of the Collegian's offspring, The Quarterly.

We should also report that Lloyd Sinclair, our first Executive Editor, has deserted journalism to study Landscape Architecture at Harvard. He recently loaned The Collegian his Academic cup, and it is being used as an office decoration and a prop for Index pictures.

A Merry Christmas to you all—and all other Collegian alumni—from this free and responsible press.

PEACE ON EARTH NOTE: As a light touch in our Merry Christmas issue we have dug out of our office files the drawing above by the noted cartoonist Francis Dahl of the Boston Herald. In February 1947 our campus, like most, was so flooded with veterans of World War II that the COLLEGIAN, in its usual helpful way, ran a feature article explaining to co-eds how to tell a married veteran from a single man. The article provoked Mr. Dahl into a cartoon on the subject. Its humor is still good, and it is also a reminder that this Christmas is the last in which a significant number of World War II veterans will be in college. Most of the homes in the married veterans housing project on our campus have been torn down, and the remainder are due to go this year. The article was written by Avrom Romm, with the aid of Dario Politella and Polly Tanguay. Back in 1947, incidentally, the entering class totaled 375. This year the entering class was 1000. And this should just about fill up this space.

stood said that "first and foremost we must build man—when that is done we may then think of peace."

George Delaney, the last speaker, declared that communism was the main thing standing in the way of peace. Communism has gradually encroached upon more and more territory until it has become a threat to all those nations which advocate freedom of thought, he pointed out, urging that with this in mind we should prepare ourselves militarily and continue to aid foreign countries. He argued that we should not withdraw from the North Atlantic Treaty but should aid all nations who are attempting to fight Communism, such as Turkey and India. He also said that we should participate more actively in our government, beware of McCarthyism which tends to suppress our privilege of thinking, and finally, not despair, for although things may seem hopeless, we are infinitely better qualified than our parents and we will, if we persist, be able to conquer our problems.

R.D. To Start RadioProgram

A weekly half-hour dramatic program may be the solution to WMUA's recent plea for more radio shows and Roister Doister's need for more activities. Mr. Stelkowitz of the English department has offered his assistance to the new phase of Roister Doister dramatic entertainment.

The exact date of the premier performance will not be announced until the group has several shows ready for presentation. Both the active and associate groups of Roister Doisters will be taking part in this activity. New Roister Doister members go under the heading of associate members, while those who have been members in the past are called the active group.

All those R.D.'s who are interested in radio work are urged to attend associate group meetings on Jan. 10 and Feb. 14, and actives will gather on Feb. 7.

FAUX PAS

OOoh—what a New Year's Eve; what a vacation; what a future! Nothing to look forward to except finals. Ouch!

Instead of looking forward to this year's finals, let's peek back into those of the past that some shy students have hidden in the depths of those iron monsters, the files! Better yet, let's try and find out about those that aren't there. Let's see; there are (or rather there aren't) the mili finals, the psych finals, the zoo finals, and least we forget, we're missing the phys ed finals.

Dig deep into that past, boy, and see what kind of a memory you have. Gee, as I recall, those questions were of the old-fashioned rugged variety. You must remember some of them like, "what book are we following?" Brother, was that ever a stumper. They wanted to know how deep the pool was at the deepest end, and how long the foolish thing was. A real stopper was the question asking who the head of the Phys Ed department was; that was one time when even instructors got promotions via student demand than seems possible.

But last year was the best so far. The boys in charge of the musicle-ing (or breaking) apparatus decided it was about time to cut out all of the foolish questions and have a real exam that would separate the men from the boys. Oh yeh! They selected a nation-wide exam that was a honey. The atmosphere in Bowker grew tense and taut as the starting time grew near. Answer sheets were distributed, special, so-

Songs & Cheers Worth Money

Two campus-wide contests, open to all students and faculty members, are now underway to attempt to fill two obvious needs of the University. One is for a catchy, spirited college song, preferably a march, along the same lines as the University of Maine's "Stein Song". It should be suitable for both football games and University Convos; in short, fit for every occasion. Two people may collaborate on words and music .

A prize of $25 will be awarded by Adelphia and Isogon, sponsors of the contest, if a suitable song is found. There is no closing date: entries will be judged as they come in and the prize will not be awarded until a satisfactory entry is submitted.

The second contest is for a football cheer. It may be either a series of letters such as are used now; a one-word cheer, often thought more effective, such as the Bulldog cheer used by Yale; or a completely new idea. The prize here is also $25 and will be awarded only if an entry is judged satisfactory.

The judging committee is composed of Doric Alviani, Professor Arthur Niedeck, Bob Kroeck, president of Adelphia, and Barb Flaherty, Isogon president. Entries may be submitted to Bob at Mills House or Barb at Butterfield.

Freedom Drive Nets $155 From Campus

The Crusade for Freedom campaign, launched on Nov. 15, netted a total of 1049 signatures and contributions amounting to $155.

Funds collected for the Crusade will be used to fight Communism in Iron Curtain countries by opening branch stations of Radio Free Europe.

The drive was a cooperative effort of students and faculty. Student committee members were seniors Bob Kroeck and Bob Pehrson. Faculty members included James Ferrigno, Harry Lindquist, Hall Buzzell, and Eliot D. Allen, chairman.

TO PERFORM HERE THURSDAY

Guild Dedicates Performances to S. Romberg

The spring presentation of The Student Prince will be dedicated to the memory of its composer, Sigmund Romberg, the Operetta Guild announced recently.

Originally, the Guild had planned to invite the celebrated Romberg for the performance. He was known to enjoy this sort of thing and probably would have come. After his sudden death in November, however, it was decided to make the March event a memorial production. An invitation has been extended to the composer's widow.

For two successive years the Operetta Guild has had an unusual feature about its productions. Last year's performance of Brigadoon was the New England collegiate premiere. (Its four performances ran to "standing room only.") This year's Student Prince marks a farewell performance of another well-known operetta. It will be given five stagings, the first to be especially for high school students although others will be admitted to the remaining seats.

Former UM Prof. Of English Dies

Death came to Prof. Walter Everett Prince, 71, of Northampton, distinguished English instructor at the U. of M. for many years, on Dec. 22, 1951, following a shock suffered shortly before his passing.

Dr. Prince came to the University in 1912, and retired two years ago. While here, he instituted the department of American literature, and was known as an Elizabethan and Chaucerian scholar.

He did much research in military history, and was a member of the U. S. Infantry Association and the American Military Institute. During the last war, he was instructor in military strategy in the air corps cadet training school at the University. He lectured at Mary A. Burnham School in Northampton, where his wife is head of the English department.

Dr. Ralph A. Van Meter, president, Dr. William I. Machmer, dean of the University, and other colleagues were honorary pall bearers at the services on December 24 at the Douglass Funeral Home. Active bearers, all members of the UM English department were Prof. F. P. Rand, Prof. M. H. Goldberg, Prof. F. S. Troy, Prof. V. G. O'Donnell, Dr. V. P. Helming and Prof. H. L. Valley. Burial was in Wildwood Cemetary.

Tropicana Features Drums and Dancers

A program ranging from voodoo rites to the frenzied celebration of an Afro-Brazilian festival will be presented Thursday night when the Concert Association brings "Tropicana" into the Physical Education Building.

Now in its third season, "Tropicana" featuring Talley Beatty and his company, has been reported to hold its audience spellbound. This is due in a large part to the ever present drum rhythms, at times throbbing relentlessly, at times teasing in their syncopation. The drums are a veritable orchestra, pointing up the shifting patterns of movement that sweep "Tropicana" from beginning to end. The central effects, however, are created by the dancers themselves.

Behind the success of "Tropicana" lie years of hard work by Talley Beatty, its acclaimed composer and star performer. For years he planned this review and his entire career has been devoted to its preparation.

A combination of intensive study of the dance with an equally intensive study of the folk sources used has resulted in an authentic expression of Negro folk lore and dancing. "Tropicana", taken as a whole is a depiction of the Negro at work and at play. All the primitive dance rhythms of the Negro race find expression in this work.

In locale, it ranges through the West Indies to the shores of South America and back to the Southland of the United States.

Critical comments of the show include "a stunning exhibition", an "evening of unusual wizardry" and a "crescendo of motion and emotion."

The performance will be held in the cage at 8 p.m. First semester concert series tickets will admit UM students. The public is cordially invited to attend. Tickets may be secured by calling Amherst 900, Ext. 351.

Briggs To Start Varsity Ski Team

Plans are now well formulated for the organization of a varsity ski team here on campus. Under the able direction of Larry Briggs, the prospects for the future look bright. Mr. Briggs, a member of the Physical Education Department, and president of the Eastern Ski Association, has been looking forward for many years to an organized varsity team. With the growing enthusiasm of the students, his hopes are becoming a reality.

Tentative arrangements are being made with Amherst, Williams, and Colby for varsity meets along with meets with several New England prep schools. Plans are being made for the use of Tinker Hill for daily practice, with hopes of going North to better snow over the weekends.

The next meeting of the team will be tomorrow night at 7 in the Cove. All interested are cordially invited to attend. For any other information, please contact Bob Sniller at Amherst 8962 or Larry Briggs in the Phys. Ed. building.

In Memoriam

WALTER EVERETT PRINCE

During the holidays the University lost a great teacher and a distinguished scholar in the passing of Walter Everett Prince, emeritus professor of English. He had retired in 1949 after teaching Chaucer, Elizabethan literature and American literature for more than three decades.

Prof. Prince met students with contagious enthusiasm and an inspired gift of eloquence that made his lectures legend. His classes kept to the edge of their chairs waiting for the next pealing phrase. In a sense he never taught literature to his students, but transported them instead into the past where they lived it.

Mr. Prince had fierce contempt for trivia, duplicity and double dealing. He sought truth relentlessly and was its champion, not only as a scholar, but as a man.

Yes, here was a man—his feet planted squarely on earth, his keen mind racing to stars; at home in the four-letter earthiness of Chaucer, master of the most esoteric doctrines of Emersonian Transcendentalism.

Then there was the everyday Prof. Prince who made Old Chapel ring with hearty peals of laughter—the lover of children and dumb animals—the very human Mr. Prince who met sheer living with passionate zest, and who had courage to seek out Life.

Prof. Prince was, above all, a man of courage—in living and in thinking. His courage was not raw and blind, but the greater courage of an informed mind seeking bravely to resist the known and relentless powers of Night.

His end of days came upon a shallow time, already in the twilight and needing sorely the sure, steely Light for which he stood. Prof. Prince died within a few hours of the Winter Solstice. These lines were found in his wallet:

Winter Solstice

Rejoice! The turning sphere that bears
Us into the light has circled by
Its southern bounds and made us heirs
To greater length of daylight sky.

The winter settles in; the night
Clings to the morning hours; but one
By one the days win back the light.
Rejoice! We move to meet the sun!

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

I am a little dismayed that there is some possibility that the U. of Mass. will have no hockey team this year. What on earth is the matter with the University that it cannot support ice hockey. I am fully aware that the college pond is not the best place to play. However, in 1914-1916 we played on it. Also played in Boston at the Arena; New Haven at the Arena; out door games with West Point. Wonder what great hockey players like Huchinson, Ross, Wooley, Butrick, and others would think of this turn of events. I played too, but must admit I was not in the same class as these boys. But the team as a whole came out very well, especially with Amherst and Williams. Greater Boston gave us a lot of fine hockey players. And I certainly regret if this major game is going to pass out at the University where for years it has meant so much to players and students alike. It is my sincere wish that it WON'T happen at the University of Massachusetts now.

Sincerely yours,
Everett S. Sanderson, M.D.

The Student Prince has long been a favorite with students because of the nature of its story and setting in "dear old Heidelberg." Romberg may have gleaned his material for this operetta during his days at the University of Vienna, although he did not compose it until 1924 after he had come to this country. Such hit tunes as "The Drinking Song", "Serenade", "Come Boys" and "Golden Days" have given the operetta a vital charm especially appealing to college students.

Dear Editor:

I thought your special Christmas issue in green ink with the President's letter to parents was a fine job, and I am sure will be appreciated by parents and so be a real service to the University.

Redmen Bow To Terriers 71-63; Prevey (27); MacLeod (14) Star

The varsity basketball team traveled to Boston Saturday night for their second appearance there as they faced a Boston University quintet. The Redmen went down to defeat before their hosts as the Terriers came out on top 71-63.

The Ballmen jumped off to an early 7-6 lead, but the Terriers came charging back to tie up the ball game late in the first quarter. The lead changed back and forth with most of the Redmen scoring coming by Bill Prevey and Jack MacLeod. However, the Bostonians gradually opened up the gap and asserted a 36-28 halftime lead on the basis of a seven point surge about five minutes before the half.

The second half saw the Redmen try to fight back to no avail as the Terriers moved away to as much as a 12 point lead at several stages of the game.

Bill Prevey and Jack MacLeod proved to be the sparkplugs of the Redmen offense with the Redmen accounting 27 and MacLeod scoring 14. On defense, Ray Gunn proved to be more than a match for the BU speedster Nunziato. The summary:

Redmen Hoopsters Lose To BC. AIC. Prov., Beat Clark

The varsity basketball team traveled to Boston College to meet an undefeated Eagle quintet before vacation. The Eagles were flying high that night as they romped to an easy 76-52 victory. High scorer for Massachusetts was Captain Bill Prevey who hit a total of 23 points.

In their third appearance of the year, the Redmen suffered their second one-point loss as they were nosed out, 48-47, by the Aces of A.I.C. Jack MacLeod was high scorer for the Redmen as he hit for 16 points. Prevey scored 14.

In their final appearance of 1951, the Maroon and White went down to defeat before a potent Providence club, 86-66. The Redmen managed to stay close to their hosts until the second half when their opponents started to pull away for the win. Prevey hit the highest total of his career, 33 points, while Bill Stephens hit for 16.

Opening up after a long vacation layoff, the Redmen romped to their first win of the year, 55-52, as they stayed off a last ditch Clark threat to win. The Redmen, leading by as much as 17 points at one stage of the game, fell off as Clark crept up to within one point of a tie. However, the Ballmen were not to be denied as they clinched the win with two quick baskets after the Clark high scorer, Saunders, fouled out of the game. Bill Prevey maintained his phenomenal average as he racked up another 21 points.

Prevey, Gagnon Hold Records

The athletic department recently drew up the basketball records for the University. After reading them over, there was nothing really surprising in them. Out of 10 individual records, Captain Bill Prevey of the Redmen holds six of them at the present time and is threatening the other four.

The records that Prevey holds at the present time include the following: Most points scored in a single season individual—265 points in season of '49-'50; Most points one game—individual—33 points against Providence College 12 15 51; Most foul shots made one game—individual—13—Providence College 12 15 51; Most field goals one season—individual—101—'49-'50; Best average one year—individual—15.7 '49-'50.

The records held by Ray Gagnon, captain of last year's basketball team, are: Most points scored in three years—630 (48-49; 187 points, 49-50; 187 points, 50-51; 256 points); Most foul shots made in one season—72 ('50-'51); Most foul shots made in three years—160; '48-'49, '49-'50, '50-'51; Most field goals in three years—235.

Last year's team also set two team records during the season—Most points scored one year—team 1111; Most fouls scored one year—team—283.

For the four records he is missing up to date, Prevey's progress up to this year was: Total points—362; Total field goals—137; and Total fouls—88.

Since Prevey has 13 games left in the season and has already made rapid progress this year, he seems certain to break all of Gagnon's records as well as many of his own.

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

Now that a new year is upon us, it behooves me to take a quick glance over the winter sports going on now, as well as several interesting sidelights.

To start with past things first, let's look at the vacancy in the position of head football coach at the University. To date, there has been no official release announcing a successor to Tommy Eck. The Boston papers have been busily predicting the advent of Charlie O'Rourke, a former star of the Boston College Sugar Bowl team, who played under Athletic Director McGuirk at Malden High and is now assistant coach at Holy Cross. His qualifications are unquestioned, but there has been no mention of him by the parties involved.

The screening committee, comprised of McGuirk, Professor Ellert, Registrar Lanphear, and Don Allan are now in the process of screening candidates for the position. McGuirk will be away next week for the NCAA convention so that the final announcement is not expected until on or around Jan. 17.

The second point to strike my attention was the release of the All-New England Soccer team. Notable for their absence were Al Hoelzel and Monk Wattanayagorn of the Briggsmen. Monk was one of the outstanding players on the team during the entire season. Al Hoelzel finished five goals ahead of his nearest competitor for top scoring honors in the NEISL. However, something went wrong somewhere since neither man even made the fourth team honorable mention. Once again the University has slipped up someplace in the matter of recognition and publicity.

Now back to the present. Some of the fans are beginning to give up on the basketball team because of their rather dismal record. However, I personnally can not see staying away from the games. Captain Bill Prevey is one of the leading scorers in the country and is threatening all existing University records.

The team already has displayed the best quality on any team—guts. The team has proved that it can get up off the floor and come back swinging as it did in the Northeastern game, where despite the loss, the team was solidly supported by the fans. The team is like that. There is no one man trying to steal all the glory. The team as a group has more team spirit than any similar group in my experience. These men deserve the support of the fans. It is up to us to give them this support.

It is pretty bad when a handful of Clark supporters can cheer more than 1000 students from the home team. Yet that is just what happened last Thursday at the Clark game.

The varsity swimming team will make its third appearance of the year this week seeking their second win. The team opened with a win over Boston University, and then was sunk by their cross-town rivals at Amherst College. The Redmen have the stuff and should start to open up in their coming meets under the expert tutelage of Coach Joe Rogers.

Faux Pas . . .

cret design pencils were all but chained to the chair after the student had just about signed out for them, and then it happened.

One of the lovable variety of instructors got up on the platform to give words of instruction, words of encouragement to the doomed men seated before him. With shaking voice he requested the proctors (supervisors of our infamous Honor System) to distribute the question sheets. The manuscripts (six pages of multiple choice) were delivered almost at gun-point into our shaking hands, and the starting signal was given by the towering proctor-in-chief—too late to stop half the class from going on to the second page.

The silence was tremendous; you could hear a bar-bell drop. What was that? Methinks I heard a titter from the far corner. Yes, for there's another, and another. The cause of the excitement? Well, take question N5 for example. That one caused actual debate on the floor. Tell me, is the color of a blood corpuscle determined by drinking tomato juice or orange juice? Will playing basketball really give you lumpy toenails? Will the human heart stop if you run up three stairs backwards in ten seconds.

Amherst Sinks UM Mermen

The U. of M. swimming team was submerged by a powerful Amherst College swimming team to the tune of 54-21 at Pratt pool.

The only firsts that the Redmen captured were the diving won by Art Belanger and the 200-yard backstroke won by the reliable Dick Cornfoot.

About the only thing they left out was the proper use of that perennial favorite cure for everything but pregnancy, "Hadacold." Yes, fellow students, that is the impression that a tough final leaves you with. Just think, you stay up and study the sports statistics, review the racing form, memorize the benefits of the steam bath, and then realize that it's no use anyhow, 'cause you have'nt gone to one phys ed period since faking your PFR.

Chin up, old boy, the dartboard system may net you a passing grade. Just pray that your instructor is a good marksman.

Note: Some instructors have successfully changed the actual course program in their classes, but look out for those exams!

Boland Designs 'Prince' Posters; Printed By Silk Screen Process

The posters for The Student Prince, designed by Bob Boland, will be produced by the silk screen process, one of the most ambitious projects to be undertaken on campus. The cost of printing will be reduced by more than half and the posters will appear to be done by hand.

Any poster can be reproduced by the silk screen method. The process, originally invented 15 years ago, has become fine artisite media for printing fabrics, scarfs, and draperies.

The Student Prince poster has a black background with a grey Greek column on one edge. Its center motif is a red shield with a yellow cross. The emblazons on the shield are rows of beer steins and a book—an interesting tribute to college life. The shield is topped by a crown symbolizing royalty.

Using the silk screen process, each color in the poster will have a plastic stencil cut by hand. This is placed under a wooden frame covered with silk. Chemicals are then applied to the plastic so that it will adhere to the silk. A "squeegee" is used to draw the paint over the silk forcing the paint through the silk wherever there is a cut, and paint adheres to the cardboard. The stencil is removed with chemicals, and the process is repeated with another stencil for each color needed in the poster.

The Student Prince poster has six colors on a black poster. There will be about 100 posters produced involving nearly 750 operations on the silk screen.

Nancy Gilley, '53, is currently learning the steps involved. The Operetta Guild is looking for another student, preferably one with artistic interests, to help in the procedure. Anyone interested should contact Bob Boland, Mills House.

Frosh Pres. Election To Take Place Jan. 14

The final election for the president of the freshman class will take place on Monday, January 14, it was announced this week by John Miller, Senate election chairman. Miller stated that the time of the election will be announced in each of the freshmen dorms.

The results in the elections for the vice-presidents of the freshman and sophomore classes and the treasurer of the sophomore class are being held this week. The results will be announced as soon as the tally is completed.

Senate Report:

Men's Dorm Rules To Be Enforced

Allen Wakstein, chief justice of the General Court of Justice, announced that the Men's Judiciary will follow a policy of cooperation with proctors in the men's dormitories in an attempt to improve cleanliness conditions and to enforce the dorm regulations. The judiciary will be responsible for handling all cases referred to it by the head proctors. These cases, formerly handled by Dean Hopkins, will be referred directly to the court. The Chief Justice of the Men's Judiciary is Donald Clifford.

President Van Meter, in a letter to the solons, refused the request of the senate to see the minutes of the meetings of the Board of Trustees. The President explained that "the meetings of the board are confidential and that any attempt to scrutinize these meetings could be misconstrued." He considered it necessary to refuse the request.

New System Elects Carnival Royalty

This year's Winter Carnival Queen will truly represent the choice of the student body at the University because of an innovation in the method of selection. For the first time, the students will elect the queen.

Five candidates will be chosen from the group submitted by the dormitories, fraternities, and sororities. The judges will be three newspaper photographers representing Boston, Springfield, and Worcester newspapers.

The five finalists will receive as much publicity as possible so that the student body will be better able to make their selection. Moreover, on Saturday, Feb. 9, they will take part in a float parade sponsored by the Queen's Committee. Each girl will ride in a float decorated by the house that nominated her. After the parade, the candidates will be presented at the ski dance. They will also be presented at the skating exhibition on Sunday afternoon.

Ballots will be distributed on Monday to all houses. The princesses will appear at all outdoor events during Carnival Week. During the Ball, on Friday, Feb. 15, the selection for Queen will be announced and the coronation will take place.

The candidates announced to date are: Jackie McCarty, Hamlin; Elinor Nelson, Knowlton; Marcia Thompkins, Thatcher, Phi Sigma Kappa; Jean Malin, Butterfield; Sue Brosseau, Abbey; June Shank, Lewis; Carol Sullivan, Mills, Draper Hall, Chi Omega; Tilly McQuire, Middlesex; Barbara Brown, Greenough; Judy Sanders, Alpha Epsilon Pi; Eunice Diamond, Lambda Chi Alpha; Sue Moynahan, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Ruth Brehaut, Tri Zeta; Virginia Stewart, Theta Chi; Betsy Robinson, Kappa Alpha Theta; Bobbie Mitchell, Kappa Sigma; Patricia Glennon, Sigma Kappa; Carol Murphy, Pi Beta Phi; Donna Colieo, Sigma Delta Tau; Carol Hartley, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Anna Grant, Phi Delta Nu; Paula Tattlebaum, Tau Epsilon Phi.

Faculty Couple To Give Recital

A U. M. faculty couple will present a joint piano-clarinet recital in Old Chapel Auditorium on Sunday, Jan. 13, at 8 p.m. The concert, for which there is no admission charge, is sponsored by the department of music.

Participating will be Joseph Contino, clarinetist, and his wife, Fiora, pianist. Both are graduates of Oberlin Conservatory of Music and Mr. Contino holds an M.A. degree from Teacher's College at Columbia University.

Mr. Contino is director of instrumental music at the U. of M., and is Massachusetts' state chairman of the College Band Directors National Association.

Guest Editorial

Last year, the Student Senate sanctioned the formation of the University of Massachusetts Improvement Committee. This committee was to dedicate itself to the improvement of all campus facilities. Its strength was to be drawn from the support of the student body as a whole. The principles of this proposed organization were good but its founders discounted one element—student apathy. How are we going to conquer this multi-fanged monster which has plagued college campuses all over the country?

Being a hardy soul, this reporter is going to hazard a plan by which improvements may be instituted effectively and still have the active support of students. Why not have a central council to which all campus organizations will send representatives? The benefits of such a plan can be numerous. First, this council will have as its foundation groups which are already in existence. It will not have to depend on participation by students as individuals. It is much easier to influence groups than it is to influence many individuals who may or may not have an active interest in any organization. Second, those who already belong to organizations have proved by the fact of membership in an organization that they are actively interested in some phase of University life and will make an excellent nucleus for the formation of the council. Third, communication of ideas and plans of action will be easier to disseminate when dealing with groups.

This idea is not new. On April 28, 1947, the Massachusetts State College became the University of Massachusetts through such a concerted effort on the part of the existing groups on campus. But unfortunately, this was a temporary unification and depended on the issue concerned for its existence. Once this issue was resolved, the unity dissolved.

If made known, the issues now confronting us are just as important as that of 1947. Two things must be made clear. One, that we do have important issues; and two, that such an organization will have the force to accomplish its aims. This second point is extremely important in that it is necessary to eradicate the idea that no matter what is attemped the results are doomed to failure.

We call upon all those who profess to have an interest in the well-being of the University to do something in the line of what we have proposed. This plan may have problems attached to it and may not be suitable. However, something should and can be done.

U. M. News Service

by Stephanie Holmes

Crushed on a dark corridor at the top of one of the back staircases in South College—the News Service our connection with the outside world.

An average of eight releases weekly, stories about occurrences and persons on our campus, are sent from the office reaching as many as 150 news outlets, press wires and newspapers outside our area.

Not a publicity office, the News Service is a sub-department of the Office of Publications, the mother of our school bulletins and catalogue. Through director Bob McCarthey's uninterrupted toil, the office fulfils its purpose of providing the taxpayers who finance our University with information about activities here. Publicity may be a by-product if the news is of that type, but publicity that is not news is not our work.

Have you ever looked with surprise at your hometown newspaper to find a story of unidentified origin about your school activities? The magician was the Hometown News Bureau, a student run branch of the News Service, headed for the past three years by Barbara Bowman, present senior, assisted by Georgie Tyler in the secretarial line and by Joan Wrightson who keeps the clipping board at North College.

"Half a secretary," one student assistant, and two rooms must suffice for the enormous amount of material that passes through this office. 15,000 different outlets receive news of our campus during the year from this department.

In addition to writing and editing releases, the office maintains a file of pictures privately donated, of cuts for programs and announcements.

Your Student Government

by John Heintz

There has been a considerable amount of justified criticism directed toward the Student Senate as a result of the class elections. There is no question but what the Senate, or at least some of the members, have been responsible for the way in which these elections were mismanaged. However, it is all over now. There is, now at least, an efficient chairman of the election committee who has done all in his power to correct the election situation. The whole affair is just about straightened out. Let's proceed to forget this happened and just draw a lesson from it.

To date, 15 major items have been referred to various senate committees. Out of these only four have been reported back. Two others have been reported and recommitted for further study. What has happened to the other items?

The greatest amount of the work of the student senate takes place in committee. Are any of these committees functioning? The constitution committee alone has three pending items which, after being referred, seem to have been forgotten. First they were supposed to have compiled all past laws of the senate and recommended changes in the constitution. This in itself is a long job. If they never get started it stands to reason they will never finish. It was suggested that they resubmit the constitutional amendments defeated last year. To date: nothing. A proposal contained in this column that activities control be consolidated into one Activities Department has also been pigeon-holed by the committee, through no action.

This is only one of the committees of the senate. Several of the others have done just as little to settle their business. Two constitutions have been before the Activities committee for approval since last spring. Item after item may be cited.

This is what is really making the senate ineffective this year. The senators are just not doing their committee work. The whole body cannot take up each individual item that comes up. It has nine committees to which matters may be referred so that it can have a sound, concrete proposal to work on when a matter is again taken up by the senate. As long as the committees fail to do their part, the senate will do nothing.

If the senators are really interested in their jobs, and I believe most of them are, and if they are interested in making the senate a strong, working body they will clear all these items out of the committees. The time has come when the senate can prove its usefulness. If it fails to take care of the matters before it now and to use adequately the power it has, how can the administration be expected to give it more power? Let's face it, they have fallen down, but it is not too late to change the situation. It can be remedied in a short time and the senate can prove itself to be more than a debating society.

Previews of Coming Attractions

Tonight the Redmen meet their first Yankee conference opponent as the Black Bears of Maine invade Amherst for a game with starting time scheduled for 8:15. Coach "Red" Ball will once again count heavily on Bill Prevey to lead the Redmen to their first conference victory of the season. At last reports, Bill was among the leading ten scorers in the nation, Henry Mosychuk and Bill Stephens will hold down the forward positions, while Malcolm MacLeod and either Bernie Kaminski or Ray Gunn will be the starting guards. Ed Concieson and Jack Delahunt will also see service at forward and center.

Tomorrow night the hoopsters will take to the road again and play their fourth game in six nights as they travel to Durham to meet the New Hampshire quintet in another Yankee Conference ball game.

The main attraction of this game should be a scoring battle between the own Bill Prevey and the Wildcats captain Bob Gordon who averaged 19.9 points per game last year for UNH.

tonight's preliminary game the varsity reserves will meet the Stockbridge School of Agriculture with the tapoff at 6:30.

BILL STEPHENS GOES UP HIGH TO TAP IN TWO POINTS.

Hilltoppers Top Redmen, 72-63

A fighting University of Massachusetts basketball team went down to defeat at the hands of the Trinity Hilltoppers 72-63 at the Cage last Monday night. The Redmen were behind 49-29 midway through the third quarter, but paced by the sharp shooting of Henry Mosychuk the Redmen pulled to within four points of a tie in the opening minutes of the final quarter. However, Mosychuk and guard Malcolm MacLeod fouled out of the ball game and Trinity pulled away to wrap up the decision.

Captain Bill Prevey was high scorer for the night with 21 points. Bill has now scored 163 points in seven games not counting last Wednesday's game with Worcester Tech. Henry Mosychuk threw in 18 points on 8 baskets and two fouls. His eight baskets came on only twelve shots from the floor. Bill Stephens also hit double figures with ten points. Bill's great rebound work was the key to the Redmen's third period drive. Wrinn, Novak and Smith were the high men for Trinity.

Norwich Outshoots UMass

The UMass Varsity Rifle Team dropped its first match in the New England College Rifle League, but there were a few nice things going on in the range. The team and small gallery saw a very excellent Norwich team in action. They saw a preview of one of New England's strongest teams this year, and they saw Cadet First Sergeant Thomas Atwood of Norwich fire a 291 of a possible 300. Nor was there anything surprising in this since Atwood is one of last year's ten all American riflemen of the National Rifle Association.

As a team Norwich fired a "high-five" (five highest men of the ten man team) of 1413 points against 1348 for the Redmen. For individual scoring All-American Atwood was crowded somewhat by his teammate Stephen Bearsley as follows (all out of a possible 100):

Standing:	Atwood 99	Beardsley 100
Kneeling:	Atwood 95	Beardsley 99
Standing:	Atwood 97	Beardsley 88
Totals	291	287

Stanley, Durkee, and Kelley were scheduled for UMass. with a respectful 273, 271 and 269. The other two of the "five-high" were Williams and Bartels with a 268 and a 267.

As another sidelight to the match, the Norwich team was coached by Major George Hamel a 1941 Military Grad of U. of Mass.

SPORTS

Redmen Wreck Tech; Prevey, Kaminski Star

The varsity basketball team proved they had the stuff on Wednesday night as they rolled up a 69-42 victory over their arch rivals from Worcester Tech. The Redmen, scoring early and often, scored eight points before the Engineers could even find the range.

Leading the Redmen attack was Captain Bill Prevey who scored 21 points to maintain his eight game scoring average at 23 points per game. Second high for the squad was Bernie Kaminski who hit his highest total of the year in gathering 17 points.

The entire squad saw action as Coach Ball cleared the bench of subs in an effort to keep the score down. However, the Redmen, thirsty for the kill, ran up a half-time lead of 35-12 as the visitors seemed unable to find the basket let alone the range. In the second half, the Redmen widened the margin to better than thirty points as the massacre threatened to continue. However, Coach Ball mercifully threw in the subs to prevent the score from mounting. However, even the subs were able to score tonight. Henry Mosychuk hit for nine, and Frank Barous attracted considerable attention as he scored six points after coming into the game late in the third quarter.

In the closing minutes of the game, the rest of the squad saw action as Coach Ball gave all his reserves an ample opportunity to see action. The win was the second for the Redmen as against six losses. The loss gave the visitors their second loss in six games.

The Redmen will face their next opponent tonight as they open their fight for the Yankee Conference crown against the University of Maine at 8:15 p.m. The preliminary game should prove interesting as Stockbridge plays the University J.V.'s and freshmen.

and of information about University events. It channels requests for broadcasting time to commercial stations for campus departments and edits the material to be presented to the broadcasting director.

Feeling that the University is in need of real publicity in addition to that received through the News Service, Bob McCartney in the time that remains after his day with the Service, has been helping to cultivate such projects as "Candid UM," a color-sound movie about life here, soon to be released. Other projects are the calendar, network broadcasts, and work toward eventual publication of a view book of the University.

No. 31...THE MOUNTAIN GOAT

He thought they were trying to make him the butt-end of a joke when he was asked to judge cigarette mildness with a mere puff of one brand and a quick sniff of another. The fancy foot-work didn't dazzle him! He knew that the pinnacle of pleasure comes from steady smoking . . . and that there is only one test that gives you enough time to permit conclusive proof. Smokers throughout America have made the same decision!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

by Larry Litwack

Ho Hum! Another column rolls around. Well let's see what we have or the docket for today.

First, the Winter Sports Banquet to be held Monday night at Greenough. At this banquet, letter awards will be made. However, the feature of the evening will be the presentation of two football awards and a soccer award. In addition, the captains of next year's varsity football, cross country, and soccer teams will be announced. Should be a great evening. Since I know the recipients of the awards, I won't make any predictions.

Next, the preliminary to tonight's game against Maine should be an interesting one. The fans will see Steve Kosakowski send his Stockbridge basketball team with a 2-1 record against a University team made up of the three best men on the freshman club as well as the varsity J.V.'s. Steve will be out to repeat his last year's win over the freshmen. Coach Ball will be out to reestablish the supremacy of the University. Come early 'cause it should be a good game.

Once again against Trinity, the varsity basketball team proved that it could fight its way back into contention no matter how great the deficit is. Trailing by 20 points, they roared back to within four points of a tie with a 13 point splurge late in the third quarter One of these days Lady Luck will smile on the Redmen and reward them with some well earned wins.

Meanwhile, Captain Bill Prevey continues to roll along. Going into the W.P.I. game, it was 23.3 points per game. He is gradually approaching the records that he is missing and should bust them all wide open within four games. Hank Mosychuk reached his peak on Monday as he hooped 18 points. Once the team starts really clicking they should be able to hold their own against all comers.

The news that Larry Briggs is going to start a ski team is welcome news to many on the campus. It is about time that the University expanded its operations to include sports. As for hockey, the letter in Tuesday's Collegian covered the matter quite nicely.

According to reports around the Cage, the varsity basketball team is going big time next year as they open up against Holy Cross. It's so much easier just to commit suicide.

It looks as if the intramural season is going to be a long hard pull. Art Mintz, the head of the intramural program, is in the midst of attempting to schedule better than three hundred games before June rolls around. Should be interesting to watch. Meanwhile, the Collegian donates one box of aspirins to Art for his work.

The varsity track team will make its first appearance of the year tomorrow as they travel to the Boston Garden to compete in the Boston YMCA meet. Captained by Blitz Walters, the Redmen will be out to better last year's record. One win will do that. With the incoming freshmen and the graduates of last year's freshman club the team should provide plenty of excitement during the season.

Well, since everything else around here is slowing up for the finals, I might as well shut up and go home. So saying, I do so.

Frosh Downed by W.P.I.

The University frosh went down to defeat Wednesday night 38-37 in a low scoring game as the visitors from Worcester Tech salvaged part of the night's activities by squeaking out a narrow win. The frosh will make their next appearance in conjunction with the varsity J'V's Tonight as a preliminary to the varsity game against the University of Maine.

second half with Joe Freitas the only one to foul out, leaving the game with about four minutes to play.

Pete Elliot helped to close the gap in the first half with some fine shots by Moe Lavalle who proved that he had the stuff as he scored 24 points for the night. Freitas did an outstanding job on the boards with Joe Hayden and Bob White (the latter just back from Korea) staging a great exhibition of passing. White had 18 points for the night and continually set up his team mates.

The Aggies will make their next appearance tonight as they face a combined freshman and junior varsity as a prelim to the varsity game. The team, under the expert leadership of Coach Steve Kosakowski, will go into the game as decided underdogs against the stacked forces against them. However, the Blue and White will be out to upset the dope by proving that last year's win over the freshmen was no fluke.

THE DU PONT DIGEST

CHEMICAL engineers supervise preparation of larger-than-laboratory batches of chemicals in Du Pont's Special Service Laboratory.

Ch. E's at Du Pont [FIRST OF A SERIES]

New products mean new opportunities for chemical engineers

CHARGING experimental polymers to spinning machine: O. C. Wetmore, Ph.D.Phys.Ch., New York U. '44; D. A. Smith, B.S.M.E., Purdue '40; and C. O. King, Sc.D.Ch.E., Michigan '43.

To you as a student chemical engineer, what does this statement bring to mind:

Nearly two-thirds of Du Pont's current sales are in products entirely or virtually unknown in 1930.

Likely it suggests years of solving intriguing engineering problems, the designing of unique equipment, the carrying out of reactions under extraordinary conditions.

But it should also suggest the opportunities that will come to chemical engineers in the future. For at Du Pont, new and better products are continually being developed. From today's extended program of fundamental research you can expect more neoprenes, more nylons, more plastics like "Teflon" tetrafluoroethylene resin.

As these products come out of the laboratory, they will bring with them a succession of interesting and challenging problems for the chemical engineer. Problems that will arise out of their very newness.

For instance, take nylon, the first wholly synthetic organic fiber. In working out techniques for its commercial manufacture, there was practically nothing to go on. The compounds of which it was made, hexamethylenediamine and adipic acid, were essentially laboratory chemicals. Processes had to be devised to make them from cheap raw materials—benzene, hydrogen, air and ammonia. Large-scale preparation of nylon salt from amine and acid required going beyond the classical unit operations.

Here for the first time it was proposed to extrude a fiber with extreme accuracy from a melted polymer at 290°C. At this temperature the polymer decomposes slowly. It had to be melted, pumped at 5000 p.s.i. pressure through microscopic holes and cooled in a hurry. Otherwise the fiber would emerge discolored.

The Du Pont chemical and mechanical engineers and other men and women who worked with them ran into one difficulty after another. More than once they thought that the project would have to be abandoned.

However, it is basic in Du Pont people's philosophy not only to take on difficult pioneering problems, but to see them through. With nylon, this persistence paid off handsomely.

Is this the kind of problem you'd like to attack, the kind of people you'd like to work with?

NEXT MONTH — Opportunities for chemical engineers in research and development will be discussed in the second article in this series. Watch for it!

Senate Report ...

Fred Hardy presented his resignation due to his recent appointment as a proctor at Greenough. Dean Curtis questioned the necessity of his resignation. President Pehrson explained that as a proctor, one becomes a member of the administration and therefore is not eligible to represent the students. Hardy agreed with Pehrson and the resignation was "accepted with regrets." Henry Walters also presented his resignation "for personal reasons."

Sophie Sowyrda made a motion that the senate help sponsor a guest speaker on foreign policy. This request was unanimously rejected after a heated debate. Although the solons agreed that such a lecture would be beneficial to the students, they realized that such lectures attract too small a percentage of the students to merit expenditures of student funds. Pehrson explained that this could set an expensive and embarassing precedent.

Dean Curtis suggested that the replacements for the resigning senators by the runner up in the earlier senate elections.

The constitution of the Camera Club was approved by the senate.

variety show of the vaudeville type. As soon as the acts have been auditioned, a general theme will be set up so that all of the numbers will fit into it.

Talent of every description is being sought for the show. This is the only show on campus which is entirely run by the students. Many of the stars of Operetta Guild and Roister Doisters shows had their first parts in "Campus Varieties".

Singers, dancers, musicians, single or groups, dramatic arts, any arranged skits, magicians, in fact anything that goes in a vaudeville show, will go for this year's "Varieties". There will be books of reading selections available for the use of anyone who wishes to audition for a part in a skit.

If you have any talent, no matter how little you may think it is, it will be welcomed in the "Varieties". Stage fright will be taken into consideration, so come on down, there are no classes next Friday afternoon. This may be your start to a road of musical and dramatic successes.

UM Chorale To Make 3-Day E. State Tour

A full concert schedule lies ahead of the University Chorale, and with the exception of a radio and possible television broadcast in Boston, the unit will bring UM publicity to small communities.

Because he believes that "interest in the University mushrooms up from the high school level," Prof. Alviani takes the Chorale to the smaller towns not usually included in concert bookings. The idea of selling the U of M by music has encouraged many potential students to investigate the advantages of the University.

The University Chorale under the direction of Prof. Dorie Alviani is making a three day concert tour of eastern Massachusetts between semesters. The trip includes engagements in Ware, Marlboro and Salem on Thursday, Jan. 31; in Salem and Lexington on Friday, Feb. 1; a radio or television program in Boston on Saturday, Feb. 2, and a concert in Leominster the same evening.

Wherever the Chorale has appeared, audiences have been sur-

JUNIOR NOTICE

In view of the prospect of having a junior class spring function, there are suggestion boxes now posted in Mem Hall, the C-store, and the library. They will be there until the completion of finals. Your cooperation is necessary in order to make this proposed plan materialize, so please don't wait.

Class rings for the class of 1953 will be on sale at the C-store this week from Monday to Thursday, from 9-11 a.m. and from 2-4 p.m. A $5 deposit is necessary with each order.

Carny Program Ready For '52 King Winter

The state university's annual salute to King Winter, Winter Carnival at the U of M, will give emphasis to cold weather sports, with the addition of several new events this year, including extra sessions of competitive skiing and skating and an intra-mural co-ed hockey game.

Other highlights of the week of Feb. 9 to Feb. 16 include twenty-five snow sculptures which annually attract thousands to this college town, a float parade, and the crowning of the Winter Carnival Queen, night skating, and a fireworks display.

Indoor events will include costume parties at fraternities, a concert by the University Chorale, inter-class plays, a jazz concert, and a performance by the Naiads, the co-ed water ballet group.

James Patterson and Jean Hezelton co-chairmen the week-long program, while the committee chairmen for the affair include the following: Clifton Mudge and Barbara Stevens, queen's committee; Henry Walter and Richard Casey, ball committee; Philip Johnson, awards; Barbara Bowman, program; Eleanor Zamarchi, refreshments; John G. Early and John MacDonald, events committee. The publicity committee is headed by Judith Broder, David Curran is general secretary, and Bruce Cooley is treasurer.

Variety Title Is 'Well Seasoned'

Co-directors of Campus Varieties, Francine Freedman and Mario Bruni, have entitled the forthcoming show, "Well Seasoned." The theme and the reason for the choice of the title are still a secret. Maybe this is some sort of spicy show?

Try-outs for Varieties will be held on Friday, Jan. 18 in Mem. Hall Auditorium from 1:30 to 5 p.m. Anyone interested and with any semblance of talent in singing, dancing, or acting in skits is urged to be at the try-outs.

Faux Pas

by Bruce Fox

Even the freshman looks back on his early collegiate days with a slight smile on his countenance. Yes, with almost a full semester under his belt he reminisces about the days when he didn't know all the tricks of the student trade.

How foolish he imagines himself to have looked to the classroom vets when he came to school last year for his interview about this same time. The old boys were trudging through the snow to their next class all bundled in their warm dungarees, ski boots, and parkas, at the time he was nervously asking the way to the registrar's "interview" office. Mother had made sure he looked prim in his graduation suit, had a smart press in his pants, and a sparkle on the new suede shoes. The camel's hair overcoat kept the winter winds from biting through him as he passed cadets in short coats on their way to drill.

He remembers the days he spent going over those vocabulary books; the days his high school advisor explained the horror he would suffer with the Scholastic Aptitude exams. (Those who have relatives in the state house probably won't have such delicate memories.)

Mother was buzzing to all the family and her friends when the glorious day of acceptance came, (but she said not a word when Haaarrrvard rejected her Alouiscous). The family wadel through all the men's magazines in the inevitable search for the clothes the "hep" college man was wearing, and dad's bankroll took a beating when shopping for those clothes became the daily routine.

The new clothes were packed in the new suitcase, and Aunt Mary brought over a cake for her favorite nephew to share with his new roommate; (she doubtless didn't know of the homey three-in-a-shack arrangement). The car zoomed off as Al took one last look at the home he was really leaving for the first time. Mother kept checking in the back seat to make sure her little boy was comfy as he rode what seemed to her to be "the last mile."

"Signs, signs; where are those blasted signs?" dad kept mumbling alternately checking his maps, charts, the mileage gauge, and the scenery. (With an E-6B he could have navi-

Ripley Takes First In Flint Contest

Winners of the 71st annual Flint Public Speaking contest held in Old Chapel Auditorium last Thursday were: first place, Tom Ripley, graduate student, who spoke on an honor system at UM; second place, Astrid Hanson '52, who spoke on the blood bank; and a tie for third place between Mrs. Erma De Boer, a special student, and James Chapman '52. Mrs. De Boer's subject was prejudice here on campus and in India, and Chapman spoke on how to overcome individual corruption.

Awards of $30, $20 and $5 were given to the first, second, and third place winners respectively.

How About Lacrosse

Do you want to play a sport? Well, here is a good suggestion.

Right now in conjunction with the Athletic department, Reed Mellor and Ed Moiselle are forming a Lacrosse team. A number of applicants have already signed up: here is your chance to take part in a sport that benefits its players.

Experience is not necessary; one can learn to play in just two weeks. If interested, contact Reed Mellor at 110 Middlesex or Ed Moiselle at 212 Greenough or call WMUA (Amherst 1544).

Primitive Dances, Drums In Tropicana

by Beverly Newberg

The air of the Cage was heavy with suppressed excitement. Suddenly the audience, pushed and crushed against each other, quieted. The lights dimmed and the drum took up its pulsating beat. Thus Tropicana began.

It was during the second selection, "Fire in the Hills," that Talley Beatty and his company received their first ovation. The dance told the story of a peaceful group of villagers who, suddenly pounced on by the enemy, their crops and homes destroyed, retreated to the woods.

Here it was, that the audience chose to respond. A low murmur of giggles and tittering swept the hall, then soft laughter and finally wave after wave of unrestrained guffawing.

Needless to say the audience was unprepared, confused and unappreciative as to the meaning of the dances. Although the story of many of the dances was outlined on the program, a much more elaborate explanation was necessary.

Talley Beatty and his company, working under tremendous disadvantages—poor setting, lack of proper accousties, impromptu exits and entrances—nevertheless managed to convey the very primitive and realistic emotions which characterize their dancing.

R.D. Announce Spring Show

Amherst, Massachusetts will be the setting for the next attraction to be presented by the Roister Doisters. "Eastward in Eden", concerning the love story of poet Emily Dickinson, will be presented at Bowker Auditorium in early May.

Although the play by Dorothy Gardner was an artistic success on Broadway in 1947 with Beatrice Straight in the role of Emily, it has never been presented in its own locale. Here once again we will return to the middle 1800's and the reasons why Emily became known as the mysterious recluse of Amherst.

According to Edwin F. Melvin of the Christian Science Monitor, the tenuous hypothesis of Emily's love for Dr. Charles Wadsworth, the Philadelphia minister whom she met on one of her rare journeys into the outer world, makes "a dramatically persuasive and emotionally moving play".

Senate Recognizes U.M. Camera Club

Now that the student University Camera Club has received official recognition by the Student Senate, they will be able to make definite plans for some interesting and worth-while activities.

By arrangement with the Eastman Kodak Co., the club will sponsor a series of slide-illustrating lectures covering such points as: Kodachrome and Koda-color, the use of filters, flash photography, and subject matter.

Next meet is scheduled for Thurs., Jan. 17 at 7 p.m. in Old Chapel, room C.

Spanish Club To Show Slides

Color slides of Puerto Rico will be the highlight of the Spanish Club meeting at 7:30 Thursday evening in the Farley Clubhouse. The slides will be shown by Mr. G. O. Oleson of the University Extension Service. Refreshments will be on hand.

Editorial

A recent issue of the Collegian carried a front page story on former Collegian members who have found employment in newspaper, magazine and public relations work. More than twenty have found positions in these fields. Considering that we have only one course offered each semester and that most students may only take two of these, this appears to be a remarkable achievement. It is apparent from reading the article that most of these persons held editorial positions at one time or another on the Collegian which proves that this responsible press is a good training ground for that type of work.

Can such courses in Journalism joined with work on the Collegian supply enough training for enough students? We believe that our facilities for preparation in the field of Mass Communications are at present inadequate. We also believe that a start now in expanding our facilities to include classes in Radio, Television and more Journalism courses will go a long way in filling a void which has become apparent in recent years.

The ideal situation would be to have a school of Mass Communications under which we would have courses to meet all requirements in this field. However, this would be too much to ask since there are so many other pressing needs. We truly believe, however, that it would not be too much of an effort by those responsible to supply the seeds for the ground which has already lain fallow too long.

Philip J. Sardo

"Stop gripin', we got out of the finals, didn't we?"

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

To all members of the Senior Class:

On behalf of my fellow class officers and myself, I gratefully acknowledge at this time the wholehearted support you rendered in the election of class officers.

Although the campaigning was somewhat more blatant this year than in previous years, we have felt all along that the clean spirit which attended the campaigning lent much to the occasion. It is our earnest desire that you will cooperate with us during our term of service in order to make the social season an unprecedented success.

Ray Holmes,
President of the senior class

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor of the Collegian:

For a presumably "hot attraction", Tropicana left me about as cold as the weather outside. I am no aesthete and neither do I think were the other fifteen-hundred students who were there—at least up to the first intermission. So, seriously, why not have something in the way of conventional—and guaranteed enjoyable—concerts, even when they are extras.

Merely as an afterthought, may I ask whose hot flash of inspiration brought this tropic aggregation to our frigid clime?

Sincerely,
George Delaney '52

gated a B-36.) "An hour to get through that city," mused dad. "And the sign said 'take Route 9 and avoid the traffic.'" Ashamed of the old Chevy, dad sped by Amherst College and headed toward the "other" side of town. When they got to Mike's, they asked the way to that dorm on the "mountain", turned around, and soon arrived at the mansion. The eyes of the sadistic floor proctors gave away their "helping hand" speeches as Al and the folks trudged the six crates of clothes to the fifth floor where, as you can well imagine, it was quite cold.)

None of Al's roommates was there, so Mrs. Whoozis politely filled all the drawers of the lone bureau with sonny boy's wardrobe, put his socks in the lower desk drawer, and ripped up the Esquire pictures Al had hidden in the closet when she wasn't looking.

After the lecture, the tear-spilling, the fatherly handshake, and the fifty dollar (emergency only) check, Al was alone to face cold, heartless U-Mass. He soon got used to his sloppy roommates, soon grew to know the booze joints, and soon learned his limit of 2.6 beers. The only thing he never learned was that his proctor had a private booth into which no one should dare to trespass—No offense, meant, Harry.

Classes, hour exams, profs, round robbins, rushing, pledging; all followed hazing week. Collegiate sports, intramural competitions, extracurricular activities galore, house parties, ten minutes to take a fifteen minute trot between classes (and getting accused of stopping in the C-store for coffee), are but a few of the things that have thus far molded our veteran. Now let's sit back and watch finals tear the expert (and us) apart. (It's still a great place, though, it says here on page 55 in small print and le'go my arm, editor! I said it.)

QUARTERLY COMPETITIONS

All students interested in being elected to the business staff of the Quarterly should write a letter of application to the editors by Jan. 16.

The positions open on the business staff are: Assistant Business Editor, Exchange Editor, Circulation Manager, members of the business staff.

Competitions are already under way for positions on the literary staff.

THIS EXCHANGING WORLD

by Selma Garbowit

Rensselaer Polytechnic:

Among a group as large as this one, there are nearly as many attitudes toward the feminine sex as there are men on the campus. Nevertheless, certain types are distinct and can be classified.

The first, of course, is the Lover. He is convinced that he is God's gift to womanhood, and acts accordingly. In true 'Downwind' fashion, he keeps a little book of telephone numbers, most of which are usually as out of date as Jack Benny's car. Because he does not want his reputation to suffer, he makes his dates from a drugstore phone booth instead of the fraternity house. This saves him from having his brothers know that it takes him an average of 6.9 calls to get results.

In the second place is Smitten Smitty. He is immediately, deeply, and completely in love with each and every girl he meets. His fraternity pin has been on more sweaters than Gimbels sells in a year, and yet he still tries to convince one and all that this time it's the real thing. He also is a very difficult person to put up with because when he is in love he does not know what he is doing and when he is out of love he does not care. His sub-classification depends upon the frequency of his infatuations, which usually range from nine days to nine months.

Also on the list is Helpless Harry. He is the boy who seems to be constitutionally unable to get a date of his own. He is always trying to get someone to fix him up with a date, and spends more time and effort on this than it would take him to get a date on his own hook. He has been or more blind dates than a Seeing Eye dog, but is not as successful. He is a very handy fellow to have around if you get stuck with getting a date for your girl-friend's roommate, not only because he will take the extra girl off your hands, but because he will cure her of asking you to fix her girl friend up. A particularly loathsome sub-species in this genus is the guy who begs you to get him a date and then tells you afterwards that he could have done better for himself at a dairy farm. The only thing to tell him is, "Ha!"

Prevey Breaks Two Records As Redmen Drop Two Games

by Jerry Goldman

The University of Massachusetts basketball team met defeat twice this past weekend at the hands of Maine and New Hampshire, two Yankee Conference rivals. As usual Captain Bill Prevey was the star for the Redmen as he threw in 24 points against Maine and 22 against New Hampshire.

A near capacity crowd at the cage last Friday night saw a very hot Maine team build up a large first half lead and go on to defeat the Redmen 80-59. Maine hit on 21 out of 49 shots from the floor in the first half as they built up a commanding 47-18 lead. The Redmen came back strong in the second half, but the obstacle was too great to overcome. Prevey, Bill Stephens and Henry Mosychuk all played fine games for the Redmen. One of the greatest ovations ever heard in the cage was given Bill Prevey when he left the game late in the final quarter.

A poor third period gave New Hampshire the ball game Saturday night at Durham, 67-58. The Redmen were leading at half time 34-29, but the Wildcats outscored the Redmen 20-5 in the third quarter and that was the ball game. Prevey was high man for the Redmen with 22 points coming on 5 baskets and 12 fouls.

This game saw Bill Prevey break two scoring records. He broke the three year total for four shots converted, and the one year total. Bill now holds 8 out of 10 basketball records in the school.

Tonight the Redmen travel to Williams for their last game before finals. The team will be out to avenge last year's lose, and also to annex their third victory of the season. The Redmen are slight underdogs in this game but anything can happen when these two rivals get together.

Belanger In Clutch But Mermen Still Lose

The University of Massachusetts swimmers went down to their second defeat in three starts by losing 45-39 to a strong Wesleyan team.

Outstanding for the Redmen were Dick Cornfoot, as usual winning the backstroke event with plenty of yardage between him and the second and third place men, Don Bell, who had a good workout by participating in three events, and Art Belanger who won the diving event.

The highlight of the meet occurred when Art Belanger came through in the clutch to make an excellent last dive to win that event by .5 of a point. Belanger had a final point total of 70 while Meyer of Wesleyan had 69.5.

The next meet for the Redgermen will be on January 16 when they will entertain a highly regarded Worcester Tech squad. Summary:

300 yd. medley relay—won by Mass. (Cornfoot, Bell, Prokopowich) T. 3:11.5.

Frosh Drop Thriller; Daly High Scorer

The U of Mass. freshmen basketball team lost a tough one point decision to W.P.I. 38 to 37 at the cage Wed. night.

The contest was nip and tuck all the way. Worcester led 18 to 17 at the half, 28 to 25 at the third period mark, and increased their lead to 34 to 28 midway through the last period. Then the Redmen fought back, tying the score 36 all on a one hand push by Carr.

With less than 2 minutes remaining Worcester broke the deadlock and then stalled until the 9:35 mark. Then, Daly, attempting to tie the score for Mass., was fouled. However, he was able to convert only one of his foul tries and Worcester won 38 to 37.

Daly was top scorer for the Redmen with 13 points followed by Carr with 8.

One fault, however, must be mentioned, that of the lack of integration between the modern and Negro dance steps. This was especially apparent in selections 7 and 8, "The Passionate Powder St. Claire" and "Southern Landscape."

The costuming was very colorful and effective in all of its varying amounts.

Dr. William F. Field Is New UM Guidance Dir.

by Rosemary Quinn

Dr. William F. Field is the new Director of Guidance here at the University. His background is one of wide variety, which qualifies him perfectly for work of this type.

Dr. Field was born in Los Angeles, California. He received a BS degree from West Chester State Teachers College in Pennsylvania, and his Master of Education degree at Temple University. He then attended the University of Maryland, where he received his Ph.D. From 1942-1944, Dr. Field was employed as a Mechanical Engineer for the United States Navy, in the Bureau of Aeronautics. In 1944, he left the Navy and entered the Army, where he remained for two years.

As his first post-war job, Dr. Field returned to Pennsylvania, where he spent a year as a High School teacher. He spent the year 1947-1948, in guidance counselling at Camden, New Jersey Psychological Clinic, and at the Psychological Clinic at Temple University. At this time, Dr. Field made a second return, this time to the University of Maryland. Here he remained as assistant to the Dean

SOMETHING NEW!

A new publication soon to be released on the UM campus is looking for a name.

An Air Force Newsletter under the auspices of the AFROTC Unit here at the University will make its first appearance during the second week of next semester. Any suggestions for a name will be gladly received at Lt. Cole's office on the third floor of the Drill Hall.

The letter will be distributed to all Air Science cadets, contain information of news to them, and be produced by them. A first meeting has already been held, and another is planned. Any interested personnel should watch the bulletin board for the announcement of the next meeting.

How To Build A Carny Snowman

One of the main attractions of Winter Carnival Week will be the snow sculpture contest on Sunday, Feb. 10. Since this event was not possible last year because of inadequate snow, an accumulation of ideas should enable the participants to make this year's sculptures surpass those of any other year.

The rules for the contest are as follows:

1. Any four year or two year graduate or faculty organization may compete in the snow sculpture contest. Sculpturing must be done by people within the organization.

2. Theme: Must be based on the words or idea: "Winter Carnival."

3. The entry blanks must be filled out and returned to John Raynor, Alpha Tau Gamma, 375 N. Pleasant St. on or before Jan. 21. Any organization wishing to enter may obtain blanks from John.

4. No sizeable amount of money is to be spent on the contruction of these snow sculptures by the group. However, props, lights, ice and color may be used.

5. Points of Judging: A. originality of idea 30%; B. Execution (skill) 30%; C. Design and composition 40%.

Our Operetta Guild

by Jean Mangrum

The Operetta Guild, originally, was a combined effort of the men and women glee clubs, and the orchestra which combined once a year to present a Gilbert and Sullivan Operetta. In the ensuing eight years, this group specialized in those productions not frequently presented on stage. Gradually, the students gained greater knowledge in various fields of lighting, scenery, staging, etc. This development of skills became a basis for our present day selection of musicals.

Following the last war, the Guild made plans to produce musicals in the royalty field. In 1947, the Guild made further strides in their decision to stage newer operettas and comedies to supplement their Gilbert and Sullivan productions. "Anything Goes", "Sweethearts", "Hit the Deck", "Girl Crazy" to list a few, were among the favorites of their audiences.

By this time the Guild wanted to add to their hits the latest musical form—the musical play. This type of production presented a great challenge to the group. The world collegiate premiere of Brigadoon was presented last year and met with tremendous success.

Audience opinion was a very important factor in the selection of the Student Prince. Following composer Sigmond Romberg's death, the movie industry bought the rights of the "Prince", thereby making this a restricted play. This meant that the play could be produced by professional groups only. Several weeks ago, however, the Guild sought and successfully received the rights to present the play as an amateur group, and plans and rehearsal were begun immediately.

There is an ever-increasing growth of spirit in the Operetta Guild. This group is not just a glee club, but an organization to interpret great plays to the best of their ability. Historically, too, the Guild has matured, with the growth most noticeable in the fields of scenaric properties and instrumental work. Audiences have added much to the success of this organization both by their overwhelming attendance and their helpful comments.

Stockbridge School Has New Glee Club

After a lapse of a year, Stockbridge Glee Club made a comeback with the presentation of their annual Christmas concert under the direction of Jim Champlin on Dec. 15 in Bowker Auditorium. Piano accompanist was Jim Rumrill.

Don Davenport and Charles Dinsmore were soloists with the group. The program was completed with community singing.

Future plans of the Glee Club call for the presentation of two spring concerts in Bowker on or about Feb. 20 and April 26.

And Now, Exams

As the most powerful newspaper on campus concludes another semester of disseminating the news of local affairs and citizens to the members of our little community, it is a weary staff which faces the ordeal of another set of final examinations, as they are called in circles of higher learning. Yes, this is the last issue of the Collegian for this fall semester.

The calendar appearing in this issue runs through the exam period and will have to supply the news for the next two weeks so that we of the Collegian staff may pass our courses and return to keep you informed next semester.

We should like to take this opportunity to say that we have enjoyed working for you in the past and hope to continue our activity with your support through the spring. Your constructive criticism has been most valuable to us. And now, like the Arab, we fold up our typewriters and silently steal away.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

This letter may be considered both a protest against the uniformed and unfair (see below) review your critic gave to the Tropicana performance of last Thursday and an answer to George Delaney's letter in the same issue of the paper.

I choose the word unfair in reference to Miss Newberg's description of "waves of unrestrained guffawing." Had Miss Newberg been concentrating on the dance she would know that there was ample provocation for the audience's reaction. And it might also be stated that the choreography for that particular number some of the weakest and most incoherent of the entire evening. I do not believe that the students were either confused or unappreciative but rather that the dance lacked meaning and was extremely poorly performed.

Miss Newberg neglects to mention perhaps the only great achievement of the evening which was selection Number 9, "Region of the Sun". It was in this performance that both Talley Beatty and Eddy Clay demonstrated the ability through which they have become famous. It was evident that your "unprepared" audience appreciated throughout the evening the exceptional artistry displayed by both Mr. Beatty and Mr. Clay.

Question: What is the delineating factor between Modern and Negro dance steps?

The "Passionate Powder St. Clair" looked more like "Slaughter on Eighth Avenue" depending, obviously upon inference rather than artistry. The tremendous disadvantages you mention were not as apparent to me. A little ingenuity and cooperation, as well as a group prepared for a concert tour, could easily have turned the evening's performance into as entertaining a concert as was Iva Kitchell's of last year.

It is true that the facilities of the Cage are not the very best, however, everyone; the personnel of the building and the lighting crew would have used every method to provide whatever was needed to enhance the concert.

The Concert Association, George, had the "hot flash" that brought Tropicana to our "frigid clime." And the Association like any other buyer can only depend upon past performance and publicity in selecting any artist for a concert. Just as you buy Tooth Paste guaranteed "not to corrode" so the Association buys a concert attraction. Tropicana had the highest recommendations from all parts of the country and from those like myself that had witnessed them before. No one, least of all, myself, expected a half-trained group of performers, three quarters of whom had been with the company a few weeks. And even if it were anticipated who could expect such sloppy . . . dancing on the part of the company. So you see George, even the Concert Association (of which I am not a member) is at the mercy of the commercial-minded agents.

It is hoped that this performance will not dissuade our campus from attending the Pearl Primus' Group that will be in the Cage on March 12th. The students may be assured that Miss Primus and her Company will be prepared and will undoubtedly present an evening's entertainment and an hour or two of intensely artistic dancing.

Stephens, Prevey Brilliant But Ephmen Top Redmen 58-57

The Varsity basketball team went down to their third one point loss of the season as they were defeated by Williams College 58-57. It marked the second straight win for the Ephmen over the Redmen.

Williams pulled away to a slight 15-12 lead at the end of the first quarter and widened the margin to 33-25 at half-time. The Redmen tightened up the race in the third quarter as they pulled to within five points of a tie 46-41. However, the game really opened up in the fourth quarter.

Williams opened up a ten point lead as the Redmen attack stalled. Trailing by nine points with 3 minutes and twenty seconds to go, Conveison sunk a shot from the corner, Kaminski sank a free try, and Stephens stole the ball in mid-court to sink a layup to make the score read 57-53.

With a minute to go, Gunn missed a shot but Stephens pushed in the rebound to move the Redmen within two points of their hosts. Williams clinched the game on Wyn Shutt's free shot as they froze the ball after Bill Stephens' intercepted pass moved the Redmen to within one point of a tie in the final seconds.

High scorer for the Redmen was Captain Bill Prevey with 21 points closely followed by Bill Stephens who played his best game of the year while hooping 17 points for the night. The loss was the ninth of the season for the Redmen. They have two wins.

6th Scorer in Nation

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

With finals rolling around, let's take a last look about us and see what's new.

The awards at the banquet last Monday weren't too much of a surprise, Bicknell and Nolan were definitely the outstanding men on a not too outstanding squad. The announcement that George would lead the Redmen football squad next fall was not unexpected except in the case of those people who expected to see Bicknell and Nolan made co-captains.

The soccer award couldn't have gone to a better person. Monk was one of the two outstanding men on the soccer squad all fall. It was natural to see the election of Lapton and Goding to lead the soccer and cross country teams next year. We should give Goding credit. It isn't everyone who can fight nine months in Korea and then start training immediately for the cross country team upon his return to school. George really deserves the honor given him.

Round and about! Bill Prevey is now ranking fifth in the country in small schools individual scoring. The only man from New England ahead of him is Schutts of Springfield. By the time Bill reaches the Springfield game, this should change as he moves closer to the top. As an interesting sidenote, the leader has about a 27.1 average. Really gives Bill a target to shoot for.

Well, two more records fell last week to our own 'All-American' as his team mates and fellow students call him. Bill now holds eight out of 10 University records with the other two due to fall within the next two games. It looks like Bill will break many of his own records as well.

No word yet on the new coach. The latest official word was that it would not be announced until next Tuesday or Wednesday due to last minute complications. It was originally supposed to be announced yesterday.

Steve Kosakowski is still muttering under his breath at his tough loss

Lavallee High Scorer In Stockbridge-JV Tilt

The Stockbridge basketball team under the coaching of Steve Kosakowski went down before the superior guns of the University J. V.'s and the University freshmen combined under the coaching of varsity coach Red Ball 64-53.

The Blue and White kept close to the Little Redmen as they trailed 9-8 at the end of the first quarter. The second quarter saw the Maroon and White pull away to a 35-25 lead. Stockbridge came fighting back but the Ball and Bush coached team held on to win going away.

High scorer for the night was Lavallee for the losers with 18 points followed by White with 15 and Kasperson (who never played basketball before) with 11.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 32...THE YAK

He's far too sophisticated to be amused by slap-stick comedy! From the minute the curtain went up, he knew that you just can't judge cigarette mildness by one fast puff or a single, swift sniff. Those capers may fool a frosh — but he's been around and he knows! From coast-to-coast, millions of smokers agree: There's but one true test of cigarette mildness!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke, on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

to the surprisingly unfamiliar University "freshmen". (At least that was what the schedule said.) Maybe next year they will let him play the varsity. After all, never give a guy an even break.

At the Boston YMCA meet last Saturday, watchers saw a rare display of courage. Dave Lamkin, sophomore speedster, was racing in the semi-finals of the 50-yard lash when he pulled a muscle. Nevertheless, he managed to place second. Taping up his leg, he entered the finals. He raced 35 yards on a bad leg before it gave way under him. It's men like this who are willing to stay in there and fight that means the difference between a mediocre and a great team.

The freshman basketball team will add one game to their schedule as they play New Britain Teachers College on Feb. 9. The varsity will open the second half of their schedule against Amherst College across town on the first night of second semester. Should be a great game. Let's have a good showing down there to cheer the team on.

Theta Chi

Over 50 couples danced to the music of Nunzi Maio's orchestra as Theta Chi held its annual Carnation Ball. Co-chairmen Al Good and Dave Cave turned the living room, halls and dining room into an indoor garden. Highlight of the decorations was a huge Theta Chi emblem, made with 200 white carnations by Fred Williams. Mr. and Mrs. Doric Alviani, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCartney, and campus alumni were faculty guests.

Theta Chi's basketball team got off to a flying start as Giff Stutzman paced the team to a 53-19 romp over Alpha Gam. Rob Watts led in scoring as the team downed Phi Sig, 37-15.

Surely the man who has been responsible for the successful interpretations of this group is Doric Alviani. "A month after he landed on the Univ. of Mass. campus, Alviani was labeled the "Musical bombshell". That was 13 years ago. Chain reaction might better describe the musical explosion he set off, for over the years he has made music fun for hundreds of students.

Before he came to head our musical department, Doric studied in Boston and New York. He joined the "Rangers", a professional quartet including such now-famous stars as Eugene Connally and John Herrick. Finally Doric made the chorus of the New York Metropolitan for performances of the opera "Rigoletto". It was then that Doric decided to drop the whole idea of professional success, and to enter Boston Univ. to fashion a career as a music educator. Why? To pursue a way of life. That is about as good a key as any to understanding Doric and his contagious enthusiasm that has done so much to advance the cause of music among students.

The purpose of this memorandum is to re-acquaint the members of the University community with those basic requirments and to request that each individual do everything within his or her power to see to it that the library continues to be a place in which students may study without interruption or interference—that it is able to serve students only if and when they observe the rules of the buildings.

Members of the library staff have full right to exercise their authority within the bounds of their own good judgment.

Students are reminded particularly of the NO SMOKING rule which applies in the entire building—including the entrance foyer. This is a University rule and has received the support of the Student Senate.

Senate To Sponsor University Calendar

President Pehrson announced several new committee chairmen at the regular senate meeting last Tuesday. The new appointees, made necessary by resignations, are Don Ware, Constitution; Stan Machelick, curriculum committee; and John Dillan, athletics committee.

Chairman Sowyrda, activities com., stated that the committee had been slow in approving constitutions this year because all those submitteed have been incomplete.

John Miller stated that elections are being held this and next week to fill vacancies caused by recent resignations. He stated that Greenough and Chadbourne dormitories are voting this week and the fraternities will vote next Monday.

The solons voted to publish a desk calendar next year similar to the one sold by the University Store last year. They did this despite the fact that they will take an approximate $150 loss on the publication. They decided to publish it for the public relations value of this sort of publication.

Dale Humphriss announced his resignation as treasurer and as a member of the senate. The resignation, which comes after three semesters of faithful service to the senate, was accepted with regret. Tom Bott was elected to fill the post of treasurer.

The Building and Grounds committee had five items referred to it for investigation. These matters were the usual routine complaints about conditions on University grounds.

President Pehrson requested that all committee heads submit reports to the vice president by next week. He stated that, although they are due from every committee once a month, only two reports have been received this year.

Here's To Carnival

How disheartening it is to look out the window on the eve of Winter Carnival and see in the place of the longed-for snow a campus of intermittent green grass and oozy brown mud!

The Winter Carnival Committee has been planning the events for the coming week since October and has a varied program so that a lack of snow will not curtail the entire week's activities. All of the indoor Carnival events will take place as scheduled.

In recalling past Winter Carnivals, we have come to the conclusion that it is not the snow, but the students who make the Carnival the fun-filled week it has always been in the past. We can have a real Winter Carnival this year, snow or no, if every student joins the activities with the Carnival spirit.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the staff of Radio Station WMUA for the splendid job they have done all year and especially during the final exam period. All semester they have given up part of their free time to bring entertainment through this medium to the student body. It is especially praiseworthy that they should do this during exams. From 10 to 12 hours a day they were broadcasting music dedicated to the students suffering through finals.

It takes four persons to operate properly at any one time, and the staff of the station divided up the broadcasting time, each giving up part of the time they would have spent studying or at recreation. This was a noble gesture on their part.

The station has been running well all year, a great improvement over last year. I am eagerly awaiting the day when they change over to FM so more people may receive the benefits of this excellent organization. Again I would like to say Hats off and thanks for a wonderful job. The station is a great service to our college community.

Yours truly,

will be held on the first available snowy week-end whether or not that is during the time of Winter Carnival Week according to John Raynor, chairman of the Sculpture Committee.

Call Her Now If This Is You

It always happens the same way. You see the girl of your dreams walk through the C-store and your heart beats in that certain rhythm it has never before felt. You're sure that this time it's the real thing!

So you sit there spilling your coffee over the side of the cup and all over your books, trousers, and worst of all—your white bucks (oh, well, they were getting greyish already). She walks toward your table, a smile crossing her face, and utters the long awaited word, "Hi!" Then she sits down—at the table next to yours with the girls.

Okay, you figure, she's a little shy. A sweet girl like that would never sit down at a table with a fellow, unchaperoned. So you give her another chance. You leave the C-store and wait in the hallway, reading the bulletin board for an excuse. One of your buddies rushes by, can't stop to talk because he has a class on the fourth floor. . . . An hour later the same buddy rushes by on the way to his next class.

The girl of the hour leaves the C-store at this moment. Same smile. This time maybe it's for you. Same "Hi-" This, too, could be for you. But no, there behind you stand another group of giggling females.

You wait by the phone every night but she never calls. You decide that this Leap Year business is all a publicity gag. Now you know that it is up to you to call her or you won't have a date for the Winter Carnival Ball.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

POOR PAUL was having a fowl time. Even his best gal didn't give a hoot for him. "Wise she hate me so?" he asked his roommate. "Simple, you stuffy old bird—because your hair's always ruffled up! Better try Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic. It's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. And does tree things: Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Grooms hair neatly and naturally all day long. (Even limb-ers up your scalp. And helps you pass the Finger-Nail Nest-er, Test!)" Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now he's a 'owling success. So why don't you take a taxi-dermist to any drug or toilet goods counter to get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. It's your hair's best friend! And ask for it at your barber shop. Then there's no talon how the chicks'll go for you.

YOUR STUDENT SENATE

by John Heintz

One of the least known, most easily misunderstood, yet the hardest working group in our Student Government is the Student Life Committee. This sixteen member faculty-student group is responsible for making rules and regulations regulating our student social life; specifically mixed social events.

The students on this body, appointed by the president of the university are nominated from eight groups; Independent men, Independent women, I.F.C., Pan-Hell., Men's affairs comm., Women's affairs comm. (both senate committees), Stockbridge Student Council (through its president) and the commuters. These eight students are complemented by an equal number of faculty representatives.

The committee was founded in the 1920's as a university faculty committee. When President Van Meter took office, the committee members requested to have students meet with them, with no vote, to advise them about student opinion. This worked out so well the first year that the faculty members unanimously requested that students be made permanent members of the group. The present method of selection was established in 1949 and has been used to date with only one change. This year the Senate decided that since the independent men and women showed so little interest in the elections for this committee that the Men's affairs and Women's affairs committees would pick the independent representatives.

According to Dr. Vernon P. Helming, chairman of the group since 1947, the popular misconcepting that the committee often splits on faculty-student lines is debunked by the voting record of the committee. He states that nintenths of the votes are unanimous and that the remaining tenth has never once split along faculty-student lines. Dr. Helming further pointed out that, except for the chairman, the students take up twice the idiscussion time that the faculty takes up and that most of the information comes from the students.

Earlier in the year Jake Early, president of the I.F.C., came forward with a proposal that the fraternity representation be increased since about eighty percent of the work of the committee concerns fraternities. The committee turned down the request, rightly or wrongly, with the argument that this would increase the committee to eighteen hal to deprive the majority of students of the advantages of this room simply because a small number of students insist upon abusing the privilege.

The full cooperation of all is requested. Robert S. Hopkins, Jr.

The men's affairs representative has always been a fraternity man. The only difference that exists now is that the second fraternity man is picked by the senate rather than the I.F.C. The council feels that this is important since it wants its representatives advised of its policies. No other group represented can possibly deny the position of the council that it deserves more representation.

One of the more interesting points about the committee is the nature of its meetings. They are in themselves social events. The faculty members take turns in playing host to the monthly meeting of the group.

The committee has decided, in an attempt to create better public relations, that it will publish a report of each meeting in the Collegian. This report will be prepared by Sally Davis, commuter representative, Bill Deminoff, independent men, and Judy Rubinoff, independent women.

The other representatives are Mary Glaser, I.F.C.; Larry Haworth, Men's Affairs; Judy Lappin, Pan-Hell; and Rosemary Quinn, Women's Affairs, and Robert Oldfield, Stockbridge. The faculty members are Vernon P. Helming, chairman, Dean Helen Curtis, Dean Robert Hopkins, Dr. Robert S. Feldman, Richard C. Foley, J. Harold Smith, and Dr. H. Leland Varley, and Ruth J. Totman.

Chas. Coburn's Visit To UM Cancelled

A review of Charles Coburn's fall tour throughout colleges in the middle west has shown that his appearance has not been the artistic success that had been hoped. The Roister Doisters are therefore cancelling his performance here on Feb. 18.

The Roister Doisters have for many years brought outstanding men and plays from the theatre world, but all have been unusual programs to merit their sponsorship. Since there is a question as to the merit of this particular tour, the Roister Doisters are not willing to run the risk.

No. 33...THE SHEEP

They tried to fool him with the "quick-trick" cigarette mildness tests—but he wouldn't go astray! We know as well as he there's only one fair way to test cigarette mildness. And millions of smokers agree!

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke, on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments. Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Kaminski Stars, Gunn Dazzles As Redmen Whip Coast Guard

The varsity basketball team racked up their third win of the year and broke a four game losing streak while so doing as they downed a potent Coast Guard quintet 65-54. The Redmen romped to a 21-9 first quarter margin and then rolled away to a 40-32 half time margin.

The Coast Guard tried to fight back in the third quarter to no avail as the Redmen widened the gap to eleven points 54-43. In the last quarter, the Redmen put the ball into deep freeze while matching the sailors point for point to rack up the victory.

High scorer for the night was Mike Boggs of the visitors with 19 points. High for the Redmen was Bernie Kaminski with 15, closely followed by Bill Prevey with 14. Jack Delahunt also hit double figures with eleven points. John MacLeod hit for six points before fouling out early in the fourth quarter.

One of the highlights of the game was the brilliant dribbling exhibition staged by Ray Gunn in the fourth quarter as he ate up valuable time freezing the ball while running rings around the bewildered visitors.

The loss was the third of the year for Coast Guard against five wins.

"Aggies" Win Fourth NosingLeicester,54-51

The Stockbridge varsity basketball team racked up their fourth win of the current campaign as they nosed out a strong Leicester Academy quintet 54-51. In a game that was close all the way, Leicester took an early 13-12 lead at the quarter. The Aggies came back to take a two point half time edge 26-24. In the third quarter the Kosakowskimen widened the gap to 41-37, and then held on to win.

MermenSinkorFloat With Cornfoot

This afternoon, the varsity swimming team will seek their fourth win of the year and their second win in a row as they face a potent Coast Guard squad.

The Redmen, fresh from wins over Worcester Tech and R.P.I. have suffered two defeats this year while winning three.

The Redmen, under the leadership of Coach Joe Rogers, are sparked by record breaker Dick Cornfoot. At the last home meet, Cornfoot shattered the record for the 200 yard backstroke. Another veteran competitor today will be Mitch Jacque, one of the mermen who can always be counted on for at least five points.

PreveyToDuelSchutts At Springfield Sat.

Tommorrow night, the varsity basketball team will travel to Springfield to face traditional rival Springfield College in what should prove to be one of the outstanding games of the year.

Highlight of the game will be the battle between the two high scorers in New England, Captain Bill Prevey and Al Schutts of Springfield. Both men are ranked high in the national standings, with Schutts ranked sixth in the nation and Prevey .9 behind ranked eighth. Since this release however, Prevey's average has risen to 23.2 while Schutts' average has dropped. In Schutts' last three games, he has scored only 57 points, the highlight being a seven point total against AIC.

Completing the starting five for the Redmen will be Henry Mosychuk, second high scorer, at the other forward slot, Ed Conceison or Bill Stephens at the center, and John MacLeod and Bernie Kaminski at the guards.

Ballmen Drop Close Game To Cross - Town Rivals

By Jerry Goldman

The UMass basketball team went down to their fourth one point defeat of the season when Amherst defeated the Redmen 45-44 at Amherst last Monday night. Captain Bill Prevey was again the star for the Redmen as he tallied 27 points to lead the scorers.

Prevey and Henry Mosychuk did all the scoring for the Redmen in the first half to give the quintet a 24-16 lead. Coach Ball had the team using a sliding zone defense which completely bottled up the Amherst attack. Prevey had 16 points in the half and Mosychuk 8.

In the second half, the UMass attack bogged down slightly, and Weaver and Fisher began hitting for Amherst. The Lord Jeffs took over the lead late in the fourth quarter and held on to eke out the victory.

Mosychuk had 10 points for the Redmen and Ed Conceison had 5 points. The loss can be blamed on the fact that the Redmen converted only 8 out of 21 foul shots. Prevey set two new records during this game. He set a new one year record with 278 points and a new three year record with 640 points. With nine games remaining on the schedule, Bill will establish records that will hold for many years to come.

RedmenseekRevenge Against Huskies

The varsity track team closed out their Boston meets on a rather disappointing note as they finished fourth in the Yankee Conference mile relay championships.

The winter track championship rested completely with the mile relay which saw Rhode Island roll to victory. The Redmen squad was hampered by injuries and never really got going despite a tremendous anchor lap by Joe Kelsey, sensational freshman runner.

The Redmen will be out to avenge the loss during the course of their winter track dual meets which start tomorrow when the Redmen meet a potent Northeastern squad, rated one of the best in New England.

Coach Lew Derby will be relying heavily on such veteran performers as Russ Briere in the high jump, Dave Lamkin in the dash, and Fred Law in the pole vault. Briere has cleared 6'2" this year and will prove to be a tough man to beat. Lamkin, the number one dash man, has the experience of the Boston meets behind him and will hold his own against any competition he will meet this year. Law, a freshman, has become the best pole vaulter around as he has cleared eleven feet in practice.

The mile relay team will provide tough competition for any club. Comprised of men like Pete Tripp, Joe Kelsey, and Joe Butler, they came in second in the Boston K of C meet.

Some of the other veterans on the Redmen squad are Art Alintuck, in the shotput, Lee Fink in the high jump and high hurdles, Ira Nottonson in the high hurdles, Billy Karlyn in the pole vault and broad jump, Halsey Allen in the mile and two mile, and Harry Aldrich in the distance events.

The Redmen will miss one of their stars as Burt Lancaster, highlight of the varsity cross country team and the mile relay, has left school.

Tommorow's meet should prove to be exciting all the way as the Redmen seek to open their season with a win.

DICK CORNFOOT BREAKS 200 YD. BACKSTROKE MARK

By winning 7 out of 9 events, the UM mermen completely swamped Worcester Tech, 54-21.

The Redmen medley relay team of Dick Cornfoot, Don Bell, and Capt. Freddie Bartlett won that first event with plenty to spare, and the Rogersmen were never headed after that.

The highlight of the meet was the record breaking performance of Dick Cornfoot. Cornfoot swam the 200 yard backstroke in 2:21.6 breaking the record he set last year by two seconds.

Buster Campbell showed great promise by coming in second in the 220 yard freestyle and winning the 440 yard freestyle event.

Art Belanger and Don Bell came through with their usual sparkling performances by winning the diving and breaststroke events, respectively.

'Prince' Production Is New Version Of Original Show

The Operetta Guild's production of the Student Prince will be a "revised edition" of the original operetta. Due to the growing maturity of the musical theatre in recent years, the 1924 version of the Prince was deemed a "bit stodgy" and dated by the Executive board of the Guild.

Because of the fact that it was dated, it was under consideration for a time as to whether or not The Prince could be presented by the Operetta Guild. Last year's tremendous success with Brigadoon, which fulfilled all requirements for the modern musical play, caused the board to desire the same result again. For weeks they discussed the merits and potentialities of various musicals. And, finally, it was decided that with revisions, The Student Prince could be an even bigger hit than Brigadoon.

Bob McCartney of the News Service has edited the original book by Dorothy Donnelly and changed the ending. Bob Boland has revised the scenery and introduced a form of ballet suited to the setting and characters. Dancing has become increasingly popular with present day musical shows.

The essence of the plot remains unchanged, but plot situations have been altered. Much of the dialogue has been changed to lend more dramatic impact to the story.

Originally the Prince was staged in four acts. Now it has been reshuffled into three acts with more scenes. In some instances music has been eliminated. The revision took about six weeks.

Rewriting the Prince necessitated the introduction of two new roles, Magda, a village maiden; and Nicholas, a waiter at the Inn of the Golden Apple. Formerly the show opened with two lackeys in an anteroom of the royal palace at Karlsburg. The dancing chorus will open the revised production.

Another instance of this rewriting process occurred a few years ago when The Red Mill was revised by Doric Alviani and Bob McCartney. It will be noted that this operetta was from the same period as the Prince.

ife of Local Poet Will Be iven By Roister Doisters 'Eastward In Eden''

The Roister Doisters for their anal spring production will present stward in Eden, a play about ily Dickinson, Amherst's famous st, on May 2 and 3 as a part of Parents Weekend activities. It il be the first play about her to presented in her home area. This y is of great interest, not only to dents but also to everyone in the herst region.

Eastward in Eden was written by rothy Gardner, a graduate of uth College and a poet in her own ht. She has been active in the ater for many years both professionally and non-professionally. She tained the material for her play m a book called This Was A Po- by George Whicher, a member of Amherst College faculty. The ay, which was first produced in 47 with Beatrice Straight cast in e leading role, was classed with A reetcar Named Desire as an outanding play of the season, by a liable reviewer, and it was named y Burns Mantle as one of the ten st plays of the year.

Casting for the fourteen parts the play will be done throughout ext week. This casting presents a ajor problem, since none of the haracters are fictitious, but all are ased on people who have actually ved. So many in this locality have own or read about these people at Roister Doisters must abide by uthoritative descriptions of them, nd the characters on stage must ok like them.

The play chiefly concerns the ickinson family, Emily herself being the main character. The action overs twenty-seven years, 1852-879, and consequently shows quite long period of her life.

Another important person in the ay is Emily's father who was very ctive in civic affairs and Amherst's most outstanding attorney and treasurer of Amherst College. Much has been written about his tyranny in the household. Emily's brother is also present following in his father's footsteps.

Other roles in the cast include: T. W. Higgenson, writer and critic well known in literary circles and editor of the Atlantic Monthly: Helen Hunt Jackson, resident of Amherst who was author of Ramona and other novels; and Martha Dickinson, Emily's niece, who, in later years as Madam Bianchi, was active in publishing Emily's poems.

Previous announcements of the presentation of Eastward in Eden have stirred up great interest in this initial performance of a play about Emily Dickinson in this area.

versity" and drove to my date's home. I rang the buzzer over the name "P. K. Natue." She (what names to the door with coat in hand) can only be politely described as "the cutest, sincere-looking type." Picking up her leash, we trotted to the buggy and had an involved discussion as to where we should go. (No hints at this point, please.)

We argued the point back and forth, upside down, inside and out; we had all seen the show around the corner, by then it was too late to go into town, it seems that no one was house parties around here anymore, my sample of "Georgeous Gussie" refused to go skating, and people I knew were going to the local dance spot.

My buddy was with his best girl and I couldn't afford to be seen with "the thing" by anyone I knew. We finally decided on a caberet of the lower classes where it was really dark.

We drove up to "Seductive Sally's Place," and it fit our specifications perfectly. There were intimate booths where it was dark so that no one saw me, my animal friend, or my buddy and his girl (who didn't want anyone to watch them anyway.)

I bought three drinks, one for her and two for me in hopes that she'd look better to me later on. My buddy seemed perfectly happy in his corner of the dark booth, too.

I lit a cigarette and then blew some smoke in her contorted face so she couldn't peek at the other couple, and also so that I wouldn't have to see her. Some of the other fiendish tricks are pretty rough to put in print, so we'll skip them.

We left rather early, leaving the car for the other couple. You see, her father warned me that it would be wise to take her for a walk about ten o'clock, and that eleven miles home wasn't too bad. When I left her at the door, she warned me that I oughtn't try to kiss her goodnight as she flouted an engagement ring in my astounded countenance, and I ran shrieking madly away, back to my office with the curtains drawn over the windows.

Now the moral to this story, my children, is that every newspaper office should have curtains.

ONE OF NATION'S BEST

'Not my Team, But Students'

Interview by Gerry Goldman

"This is not my team, but the Students' team," said Head Coach Charley O'Rourke in an exclusive interview for the Collegian. O'Rourke stated that he will be happy to discuss football and the team with members of the student body at any time.

O'Rourke comes to the University after a background which includes coaching high school, college and Pro ball. A Malden high graduate, he played on the 1941 championship Boston College eleven. Upon graduation from Boston College, he coached Cardinal Hayes High School in New York before playing Pro ball with the Chicago Bears in 1942. From 1943-46 he was in the Navy and in 1947-48 he played with the Los Angeles Dons of the now defunct All-American Conference. In 48-49 he played for the Baltimore Colts where in 1949 he was also Backfield Coach. In 50-51 he was backfield coach under Dr. Eddie Anderson at Holy Cross where he developed a great backfield.

His plans for the Redmen includes a straight T formation with variations. Passing will be emphasized if he can find a good passer. The quarterback optional play will be completely discarded.

O'Rourke is very pleased with the team's schedule for next season and he is sure that the Redmen will hold their own against all opponents. Spring practice will last at least six weeks with as much time as possible being spent outdoors. Earl Lorden will be end coach and a line coach will be picked in the near future. Last year's captain Jack Benoit will help the coaching staff this spring in acquainting the team with the "T".

O'Rourke is married and has four children. At present he is commuting from his home in Natick until he finds a house in Amherst. At the end of the interview the new coach once again emphasized that this is the students' team and that student support will be a great help in making a winner.

Winter Carnival Snowboat Ball Climaxes Week; Raeburn to Play

All hands are expected to be on deck for the Winter Carnival Snowboat Ball this Friday night in the cage.

Boyd Raeburn and his band, featuring vocalist, Ginny Powell, will play for dancers from the stern of a snow boat. The dance floor of the Cage will symbolize a salon of a boat.

Looking through the windows of the salon, dancers will see winter scenes across the sea of mood and music. To complete the atmosphere of a winter cruise, the snow boat will have ten columns with changing colored lights.

Music will be continuous, it was announced today by Hank Walter, ball chairman. Johnny Mitchell's concert will fill in the gaps when the Raeburn band takes its walks around the deck.

Sue Moynahan, Winter Carnival Queen, will be presented to the crew and cruisers during the Ball by President Ralph A. Van Meter. Her court, Ginny Stewart, Sue Brosseau, Barbara Brown, and Jackie McCarthy, will also be introduced during the evening.

Refreshments will be served on the first floor of the Physical Education Building according to Eleanor Zamarchi, chairman of the Refreshment committee.

Tickets for the Snowboat Ball are now on sale at the C-store and will also be sold at the door on the night of the Ball.

FAUX PAS

by Bruce Fox

Driving back to campus last week, a car stalled on the outskirts of a small rural town. Over in a nearby lot a group of small children were playing in what was left of a snowstorm, when a mother shouted down from a window, "Johnny, did you lose your mittens again? Button that top button."

Remember way back when? Gee, but we wouldn't have given for a nickel in those days. We used to scrounge up a couple of extra pennies and go down to Lakings Variety. We spent hours blocking up his showcase of penny candies over trying to make the big decision; whether to buy the red gumballs at six for a penny, or buy the better quality licorice babies at four for a cent. Oh, how our mouths would drool when we could "be good" three cents each from dad and run down for a

Bagataway Due on Campus; Ben Ricci to Start Team

Has Massachusetts got any Redmen? That seems like a strange question, but it's an important one. The "Redmen", our forefathers, were the inventors of the game of LACROSSE, which has long been absent from the University's sports scene. This year it will cease to be absent.

Ben Ricci To Form Team

Ben Ricci, the athletic trainer who played LACROSSE at Springfield College, is attending the New England Lacrosse Coaches' Meeting at Cambridge, Mass., this coming Sunday with the hope of forming the informal 1952 schedule.

It goes without saying that Mr. Ricci will act as coach. A team,

'Holiday' Is Theme For Naiads Show

Holiday is the theme of the Naiads' Winter Carnival show which will be put on Feb. 16 and 17 from 2 to 3 p.m. at the pool.

Twenty-two girls will participate in unusual portrayals of New Years, Valentine Day, Easter, Fourth of July, Halloween and Christmas.

Although admission is free, this year it will be necessary for all those wishing to attend the show to obtain a ticket. No one will be admitted without one because of the limited seating capacity at the pool. Tickets may be picked up at Drill Hall Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Rankin To Speak On Plastic Films

"Plastic Films and Factors Related to Their Use in Packaging of Produce" will be the subject of a talk by Mr. Duncan Rankin of the I. E. duPont de Nemours Co. when he speaks before five student clubs at the U. of M. on Thursday, Feb. 14, at 7 p.m. in Skinner Hall auditorium.

Host groups include the olericulture, food technology, home economics, poultry and pomology clubs. The subject matter should be of widespread interest in the valley area, and the general public is invited to attend the meeting.

Mr. Rankin has worked on packaged produce since 1930, covering meats, vegetables, flowers, and fruits. He will discuss the why, how, where, and when of produce packaging. There will be audience participation through a question and answer period.

Sue Moynahan Rules As Queen This Week

A slender, blue-eyed brunette was elected queen of the 1952 winter carnival at the U. of M.

Suzanne Moynahan, a native of Lowell, Mass., whose sister has been nominated for a similar honor at the U. of New Hampshire, gained the throne over four other contestants who now become members of her court. She was crowned Monday night by University Dean, William A. Machmer.

Members of the Queen's court include Barbara Brown, and Susanne Brosseau, '55, Virginia Stewart and Jacqueline McCarthy, '54.

The new carnival queen was nominated by two fraternities—Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Miss Moynahan is a freshman planning to major in history for a teaching career. Her reign will continue throughout the week of special carnival events.

Student Senate To Subsidize UM Calendar

The University is making another step in the right direction in the field of public relations by publishing a bigger and better University of Massachusetts Calendar next year.

The Student Senate unanimously voted to subsidize the University Calendar. Last year's Calendar, sponsored by the Administration incurred a loss of $751; the Administration is therefore unwilling to risk another loss. The Senate, however, felt the Calendar was such an excellent publicity measure for the University that it was willing to assume this loss.

Work has already begun under the guidance of Bob McCartney of the News Services. The committee plans to put this revised and improved Calendar on sale by next September.

The Collegian feels the Senate to be highly commended for such a decision, for the University will surely profit from the publicity brought about by means of these Calendars. The University Catalogue could be given a much needed boost also if sufficient funds were available. It might even be available to each student each year, as it should be, rather than once in four years.

Beckley of Simmons To Talk On Retailing

All students, men and women, who are interested in the field of merchandising, are invited to hear Donald K. Beckley, Director of the Simmons College Prince School of Retailing, at 11 a.m. in Skinner Auditorium on Feb. 28.

Mr. Beckley would like to have the meeting open to all students and is quite sincere in being willing to discuss opportunities in retailing both by going directly into stores and by going to a school of retailing.

He will be available after lunch to talk to any student who may wish to speak to him personally regarding their plans.

It is hoped that underclassmen as well as seniors will take advantage of the opportunity to hear Mr. Beckley.

No. 34...THE FERRET

Descended from a long line of distinguished researchers, this studious scholar has burned too many gallons of midnight oil to gloss over a subject lightly. Especially such an important item as cigarette mildness. He burrowed into the matter with his usual resolution and concluded that a "quick puff" or a "fast sniff" doesn't offer much evidence. Millions of smokers agree there's but one true test of cigarette mildness.

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why ...

First Place Goes To Soph Class; Hollis, Stromgren Best Players

The class of '54 took first place in the inter-class plays competition for the second consecutive year, on Monday night at Bowker.

The Sophs, directed by Dick Cantor, presented "The Flattering Word", in which the best actor and second best actress, Dick Stromgren and Fran Jones, also appeared.

The remaining awards went to the Juniors, whose play was "Portrait of an Old Lady". Bettina Hollis, who portrayed the old lady was chosen the best actress of the evening. Mario Bruni, director of the Junior class play, was selected runner-up for the best actor award.

According to Dick Cantor, the six persons who worked most to make the Sophomore play a success were Jan Brox, chairman of make-up; Paul Goldberg, stage manager; Fran Jones, Pete Gorshel, Elaine Beiman, and Ginny Stewart, all members of the cast.

The comedy of the Sophs was in direct contrast to the drama of the Juniors, who came in second.

The other plays presented were "The Valiant" and "The Wonder Hat" by the Seniors and Frosh. Ginny Sullivan directed the class of '52, Pamela Perkins headed the Freshmen.

Paul Goldberg, '52, was stage manager for the entire evening since the committee for the Inter-class plays felt that one stage crew would lead to a smoother running show.

Jeanne Parker, '53, was chairman of the entire program.

The 13th Nets Another Victim

It may not have been Friday, but the thirteenth took its toll once again.

While in the process of readying ye old college pond for the Winter Carnival skating exhibition Wednight, one of the state's ice scrapers went for a dip. Backing up on the south side of the pond, next to the island, the ice gave way 'neath the machine's weight.

When one of the larger trucks failed to be powerful enough to tow her out, the workers had to chop all the way from the island to the shore, and drag the scraper across the freezing water onto the frozen shore.

Four trucks and two hours later, all were high and dry.

Spring Program Announced By Concert Band

The University Concert Band will present the first of three campus concerts on Sunday, Feb. 24, at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium, admission free.

In announcing the spring schedule, which will also include concerts on March 30 with Fiora Contino as piano soloist, and a Mother's Day concert on May 4, Band Manager Art Groves emphasized that the usual formality of band concerts will be missing and that Director Joe Contino will announce each number and give informal comments about the music and the band members.

Continuing the band's policy of presenting varied programs of popular and novelty numbers, as well as standard literature and marches, the Feb. 24 program will include marimba and baritone horn solos as well as other special numbers.

McGrath, Lettis Are Quarterly Editors

Bill McGrath and Dick Lettis are to be co-editors of the Quarterly for the coming semester as a result of their recent elections. Francine Freedman is the new Associate Editor; Ellen Orlen maintains her position as Prose Editor; Wayne Marcotte and Art Berger take over the Poetry and Art departments respectively. New members added to the literary staff were Anne-Marie Lynch, Kay Heintz, and Bernard Fleury.

The staff hopes to present a much larger and more interesting Spring issue. To this end, they urge that students who have hesitated to submit work stop being shy and start typing out their latest brainstorms. The staff also wishes to remind those who have had contributions rejected that even the best authors have had their share of rejection slips, and if one or two such slips caused them to stop submitting material, there would not be any writers today.

RD 'Actives', 'Associates' Plan Spring Show 'Eastward to Eden'

Both the active and associate groups of Roister Doisters are busy this semester. "Eastward in Eden" will be going into rehearsal in the near future, and there is talk of taking "Light Up the Sky" on the road.

Both groups intend to be in full swing with all their plans within the next few weeks. Another major Roi-Dois group, the Roister Doister Radio Guild, is beginning work on a dramatic script entitled "Three Blind Mice." This is hardly the story one generally thinks of when one hears the title. The exact date of presentation has not yet been decided upon.

Roister Doisters Associate Group meets on those Thursday nights on which the active group does not meet. Thus, the "associates" meeting was held on Feb. 14, elections were held, and a Valentine Party followed. This group is also soon to go into rehearsal for its major production of the year, a program of three one-act plays. The plays have been cast but will not be announced until later.

Newly elected officers of the "actives" are: Jody Morton, president; Francine Freedman, secretary. It is Jody's job to appoint all committee chairmen, and it is hoped that all Roi-Dois interested in committee chairmanships will contact Jody so that she can appoint interested people to these positions.

Roi-Dois "actives" next meeting will be Feb. 21, and every other Thursday night from then on. Posters will announce meetings in the future, so postcards no longer will be sent out as reminders of the meeting schedule.

Campus Scene Shop Has Colorful Past

The Operetta Guild's scene shop, located on the fourth floor of Stockbridge Hall, is a windowless attic exuding creative activity. It is a workshop, and as such, there are times when it is "a mess," but nonetheless the finished products of its workers have contributed to the success of the musical theatre on the University campus.

"The Loft", as it is popularly called, has been used since 1941 as a scene shop for Operetta Guild productions. Previous to that, scenery for operettas, such as The Red Mill, Sweethearts and Anything Goes was imported from Boston.

In the fall of '49, Bob Roland came to the Amherst campus from Fort Devens, well equipped for the job of managing the activities of the scene shop, having had previous experience in set designing and advertising. Bob designed the sets for Girl Crazy, Hit The Deck, Pinafore, and Brigadoon. This year his contribution is The Student Prince.

The scene shop contains many nostalgic momentos of previous shows.

Collegian Elects 3 Women Editors

Judy Broder, '52, was elected Executive Editor of the Collegian at a staff meeting Wednesday in the Mem Hall office. Nina Chalk, '53, was named Managing Editor, and Barbara Flaherty, '52, was chosen Editor at the same meeting.

Miss Broder has served the paper in the capacities of reporter, Feature Editor, Associate Editor, and Editor.

Miss Chalk has been a reporter and News Editor.

Miss Flaherty has acted as reporter, Copy Editor, and Campus Editor in charge of publicity for campus organizations.

This is the first time in the history of the Collegian that the three top editorial positions have been filled by women. The 1952 Collegian looks like a real Leap Year edition.

Campus Editor, Pauline Stephan, '54; Asst. News Editor, John Heintz, '54; Asst. The New staff will undertake the production of the paper with the next issue.

At a meeting of the business staff on Tuesday, Alan Shuman, '53, was elected Business Manager; Saul Feingold, '54, Advertising Manager; Evelyn Postman, '52, Subscription Manager; Treasurer, Hayden Tibbetts, '54; and Secretary, Jeanne Lee, '54.

Both meetings were conducted by retiring Executive Editor Dick Hafey.

The Last Word

Another editorial staff will take over the Collegian after this issue goes to press. The present editor wishes to take this opportunity to bid farewell to the campus and to thank the many persons, without whose co-operation there would have been no campus newspaper.

It is not the easiest job in the world to produce two newspapers each week, and to attend classes, pass courses, eat and sleep regularly. However, we have been able to survive this past semester with no casualties. The aid of the men behind the scenes has kept the Collegian in circulation.

This semester the Collegian has made a few advances and has done one or two unprecedented things. Perhaps our most talked-about act was that of taking a stand on campus politics. Although there was some disapproval of our stand by some of our readers, the majority of the people in our community felt that we had moved wisely. The Senate feud certainly popularized the Collegian for the duration of the battle.

One of our greatest advances has been in the photography department. Our rental of the Fairchild Lithographing machine has enabled us to get more pictures, and more timely pictures, at lower costs and with less difficulty. The work of Ralph Leavitt, Howard Mason, and Mike Bullock has been invaluable to us in the production of photographs for the Collegian.

We have maintained two issues every week with the exceptions of vacations and exam periods. Weeks after vacations have often brought only one issue, but it has always been a larger paper than the semi-weekly four pages.

The final editorial seems to be the most difficult to write. After a semester of writing the column which we wonder how many people read, we have to decide how to say our last words. We do not know just how to say them. It has been a wonderful experience being the editor of the Collegian.

The students who work on this paper are probably the most dependable on campus. They have proven to us that they are willing to accept the responsibility of getting the news from all over the campus. Any reporter or editor who cannot fulfill his responsibilities to the Collegian does not remain among us. This is a working organization.

The persons who will take over as editor and managing editor have spent a great deal of time in this office during the past year. Barb Flaherty has been Campus Editor and Nina Chalk, News Editor. Both have the ability to bring you an excellent paper.

We wish them the very best of luck in their new positions on the Collegian.

This Exchanging World

by Selma Garbowit

With many busy seniors typing applications for positions, I thought this editorial entitled "Value of Education" found in the Northeastern News very fitting to include in the column.

Northeastern News:

"Today's college graduate in search of a job is just as insecure as the graduate haunted by his draft board.

"The annual human rat race will begin once again next June when thousands of students graduate from the Boston colleges and begin finding a place for themselves in this fast-moving society.

"No longer are college men a privileged group. As the proverbial statement goes, "They're a dime a dozen." If the graduate is fortunate enough to have "pull" (and many do in spite of what was said at a convocation last term) he will advance without a struggle. But if he has no connections, he will be among the flock.

"It requires a certain amount of courage to be a college graduate. He establishes himself in a particular class status, so he can't accept just any job. If he must settle for factory work he is laughed at and scorned by his friends.

"The student who will be in the army after graduation seems to feel more secure than the student who must find a job. Albeit the security is dangerous and short-lived (for the serviceman may not return, and if he does he will be a job-seeker) at least he knows where he will be after he graduates.

"One person who attended Northeastern and graduated with honors from Boston University several years ago is sweeping floors at a Boston concern. He is the subject of ridicule and raillery. And this is the price of an education!

"Perhaps this frustration and hopelessness is the key inducement to Communism in this country.

"A college education is given too much importance by the older "uneducated" generation. They believe that by possessing an education, today's youngsters easily should attain a comfortable niche in this world.

"Imagine a person earning $30 a week after spending several thousand for an education! Imagine the contemptuous attitude of his uneducated friend earning $75 a week!

"All of which proves the irony of education."

Redmen Jinx Continues As Desperation Shot Scores

A fighting but luckless University of Massachusetts basketball team went down to defeat in the last second of play last Monday as the Panthers of Middlebury defeated the Redmen 65-63. A basket by Killeen was the margin of victory. Mosychuk, Prevey and Kaminski were the main guns in the UMass attack, while Dennis of Middlebury was high man in the ball game with 28 points.

Coach Red Ball's quintet led throughout most of the ball game. Leading 19-17 at the quarter mainly through consistent hitting by Henry Mosychuk from the corner, Bill Prevey from inside, and Bernie Kaminski from his guard post, the Redmen had a commanding 42-27 lead at the end of the half.

The second half saw a complete reversal of the first half's play. Middlebury controlled both backboards, and the shooting of Dennis put Middlebury back in the game. The Panthers had a 6 point lead with a minute and 28 seconds remaining in the ball game. Quick baskets by Prevey, Bill Stephens and Ed Concelson tied up the ball game. Concelson's basket came with 5 seconds to play.

Middlebury brought the ball up the floor and standing at mid court with one second remaining Killeen let loose. The ball was in the air as the buzzer went off ending the ball game. The shot went in and Middlebury had the victory.

Prevey and Kaminski had 18 points for the Redmen while Mosychuk had 16. In their last four losses the Umass quintet has lost by a total of only 7 points. How unlucky can you get?

INTRAMURALS

2 Undefeated Teams In Each League

As the intramural basketball season passed the midway mark, the undefeated teams became a premium as one dropped from each league to narrow the race down to two undefeated teams in each league.

In League A, QTV knocked off previously unbeaten TEP 28-21 to move into a tie with them and Theta Chi for third place. AEPi continued to win by knocking off ATG 60-18 as Sol Feingold hit for 18. SAE maintained its first place tie although they did not play.

In League B, the battle of unbeaten teams saw the East Experiment Station maintain their clean slate as they defeated Chadbourne B in a close one 19-17. The Independents maintained their pace by winning to hold their first place tie.

In League C, last year's champs, the Castoffs, stayed in a first place tie with the Grads by defeating previously unbeaten Berkshire B 3-1.

Law Ties Cage Record; RedmenShowPromise

Although dropping their first meet of the season to a highly touted Northeastern club 71-42 the varsity winter track team showed a great deal of promise for the four meets to come.

The Redmen took a lead in the first event of the day as Fred Law, sensational freshman from Long Island, took a first in the pole vault while tying the cage record of 12'. After clinching his first, Law made three unsuccessful attempts to clear 12'6" in an effort to set a new record. However, on his last vault, he just nicked the bar going over.

From then on the visitors took command. Sweeping the high jump with a three way tie, the Huskies went on to set two new records as Seller set a new Cage mark of 51'5" in the 35 pound weight and Montouri set a new mark of 46'5" in the 16 pound shot.

However, the Redmen were far from through for the day. Harry Aldrich displayed rare form as he snapped the University two mile record while just missing the cage record. The varsity relay team tied the mile relay mark to complete the record scoring for the day.

Dave Lamkin, sophomore speedster, showed tremendous form as he broke the Huskie monopoly on first places by taking a first in the dash. Lamkin, who finished second in his heat, came back stronger than ever to nose out Rose of Northeastern for the victory.

Joe Kelsey, another terrific freshman find, romped to a first in the 440 for the third Redmen win of the day. Kelsey was never in too much trouble as he breezed home.

Other stars for the Redmen were Art Alintuck with a second in the shot, Ira Nottinson with a second and a third in the hurdles, Butler with a third in the dash, Gilmore in the shot, Knapp and Goding with a second and a third in the mile, and the relay team of Butler, Briere, Karlyn and Sullivan.

The summary:

COLLEGE OUTFITTERS

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

Well, with second semester in full swing, the varsity sports schedule is not too far behind. Some interesting sidelights of the season so far.

Fred Law, the great pole vaulter from Long Island, should set a tremendous record at the University. His attempt at the mark of 12' 6" against Northeastern left the crowd gasping. Dave Lamkin, Jim Butler, Joe Kelsey, and Harry Aldrich are maintaining their great scoring pace as they all came through with wins in the meet.

Although the varsity was defeated, they show signs of providing real threats to all comers in the future.

The varsity basketball team continues to drop close ones. The latest one to Middlebury is an example of their hard luck losses.

The varsity swimming team shows signs of racking up their first season in years above the .500 mark. The Rogersmen have hit the .500 mark for the past two or three years in a row.

The physical education building is getting real fancy. New wooden benches in the locker room really shine up the place. Now all we need are the athletes.

Speaking of athletes, the University displayed its traditional form at the end of last semester as they flunked out some of the greatest athletic stars at the University. Among these were Hoelzel and Wattanayagorn of the soccer team, Lancaster of the track and cross country team, and better than half of the freshman basketball squad. Some day maybe the University will realize that only through winning teams will we receive a great amount of consistent publicity. Without athletes, a winning team is pretty tough for a coach to find. Oh well, at least we are living up to our conservative reputation as the Aggie school that plays a little bit of athletics.

Delta Sigma Chi

The members of the new fraternity, Delta Sigma Chi elected the following officers recently: Bob Littlewood, president; John Holmer, vice president; Bob Chalue, secretary; Russ Taylor, treasurer; Russ Falvey, social chairman; Roger Livas, athletic chairman; Dick Andrews and John Holmer, I. F. C. representatives; Tom Sedgwick, publicity chairman.

Through the generosity of Sigma Phi Epsilon, Delta Sigma Chi is planning to hold a party at the Sig Ep house very soon. A celebration dance is planned for March 14 in conjunction with the University Dance Band.

Much of the money that goes into a musical show is spent on lumber, canvas, and paint for effective scenery. Since its beginning in 1949, the scene shop has made rapid strides in acquiring new tools and equipment. Accessory properties, such as the artificial flowers needed for one of the scenes in The Student Prince are manufactured in the loft. Furniture is reupholstered and lighting apparatus stored here. All in all, the little attic room provides a wonderful means for practical self-expression.

The fields of research and development invite ingenuity of the chemical engineer

[SECOND OF A SERIES]

Research and development work in chemical engineering often overlap at Du Pont, except where the research is fundamental.

The chemical engineer occupied with fundamental research is chiefly concerned with basic studies of unit operations and processes involving reaction kinetics, thermodynamic properties of fluids, high-pressure techniques, equilibrium studies, heat transfer and the like. Such studies often lead to lower-cost manufacturing processes. Some recent projects in fundamental research have been:

1. A study of fluidized catalyst reaction units including degree of fluidation, temperature uniformity, catalyst activity and life, and conversion of feed gases.

2. Studies of the fundamental transfer relations between phases, for instance, gas and liquid, in reacting materials.

Apart from the chemical engineers engaged in fundamental research, there are many groups working in applied research and development. In fact, this is the major part of the chemical engineering work done at Du Pont. Here are examples of the literally hundreds of unusual problems they have solved:

1. Designing equipment for producing pure silicon at 1000°C. (Though one of the starting compounds is highly corrosive, only spectroscopic traces of impurities can be tolerated.)

2. Developing a high-pressure liquid-phase process to replace the standard dry method of producing sodium azide formerly employed.

3. Designing a continuous flow, gas-liquid reactor for use in making a fiber intermediate under pressure.

4. Developing, from laboratory research results, a process for large-scale production of complex polymeric materials used in the manufacture of color photographic film.

These examples can only hint the variety and originality of problems constantly arising at Du Pont. They indicate the challenge as well as the broad opportunity awaiting the talents and ingenuity of the young chemical engineer who wants a career in research and development.

NEXT MONTH—The chemical engineer's role in plant operation at Du Pont will be discussed in the third article in this series. Watch for it!

100 State Scholarships Awarded Read This! Were You A Winner?

One hundred Commonwealth scholarships of $250 each are being awarded to University students, according to an announcement released recently by the Board of Trustees.

The release appeared in last Friday's Boston Herald, but the students have not as yet been informed officially because the scholarships have not yet been officially awarded. The Trustees released to Boston and other papers the list of names recommended by the University Scholarship and Student Aid Committee, and this is expected to be official.

In each of the four undergraduate classes, 25 awards have been made. The sum of $250 is given the student each year provided that he maintains his academic record. The scholarships are awarded on the basis of need and scholarship; students must apply in order to be considered by the committee composed of Deans Curtis, Hopkins, and Machmer, and Treasurer Johnson. The Board of Trustees has the final say on the recommendations made by this committee.

The fund for the scholarships comes from a state appropriation.

Recipients of the scholarships were:

Class of 1952: Halsey Allen, Norman Barbeau, Charles Clapp, George Delaney, Bill Deminoff, Ray Gunn, Mike Kestigian, Edwin McCaffrey, Charles Milne, Arthur Mintz, Charles Mosher, Per Nylen, Al Pieropan, Bill Prevey, Barb Flaherty, Jean Ferson, John Pyne, George Stevens, Charles Taylor, Isadore Vivaldi, Ruth Coughlin, Cecilia Machaiek, Jacqueline Messier, Vicki Milandri, and Ann Peterson.

Class of 1953: Thomas Cauley, Rich Conway, Dave Flood, Francis Galasso, Arthur Groves, Donald Heywood, Al Leavitt, Vic Marcotte, Malcolm Nelson, Joe Powers, Charles Ritzi, Dan Rosenfield, Herbert Saunders, Fred Selfridge, John Soltys, Bob Thimot, Jim Vreeland, Sonya Anderson, Jeanette Davis, Alice Georgantas, Alida Nixson, Elaine Norcross, Helen Percy, Margaret Rockwood, and Frances Rogers.

Kimball Named Bus. Ad. Dean

Professor Milo Kimball has been named dean of the School of Business Administration on the recommendation of Professor Philip Gamble and Dean Machmer, it was announced this week by President Van Meter.

Mr. Gamble has been head of the department of economics for many years and has been serving as acting dean of the business school since it was established in 1947.

"The School of Business Administration has been well developed," Mr. Van Meter said, "and we can now separate the administration of economics from business administration.

Mr. Gamble will continue to build a strong department of economics in the enlarged College of Arts and Sciences, which will be officially established next September," the President added. "And we will also continue to have close cooperation between the department of economics and the School of Business Administration."

The President praised Prof. Kimball and Prof. Gamble. "They have

Ideas Needed For '52 Gift

The class of '52 has $700 available for the gift. The senior class gift committee is open to suggestions from any member of the senior class.

The purpose of the class gift is stated as a gift that will be "of as much use to as many students as possible and at the same time perpetuate the name of the class".

Suggestions considered practicable thus far include: a gift of 235 books to the library; a scholarship fund; a painting of a campus scene by a national artist, this painting to be placed at Goodell; a contribution toward the Mt. Toby Recreation Project.

The committee will consider all suggestions, choose those that are most feasible, and then conduct a vote of the entire class at the senior class meeting to determine which one of the final choices is most desired. Suggestions should be placed in the Collegian mail box in Mem Hall. Members will pick them up there.

Independents vs. Frats In Carnival Hockey

Fast, furious and vicious is the game of ice hockey, and so it was last Sat. afternoon as the Independents slammed three goals by the Fraternity Men in one of the windup events of Winter Carnival at the U of M.

Sealy ice with dangerous crevasses confronted the skaters as the intra-mural hockey game got under way. The first two twelve-minute periods slid by with no score on either side, just spills galore. At 1:10 of the third period, Al Gagnon pushed one into the fraternity goal. The independents scored again at 6:30 with a score by Kerr, only to be followed by a third independent goal by Anderson at 10:00 of this hectic third period. Final score: Independents—3; Frat.—1.

UM Engineers Plan Open House, Dance

The annual Engineering weekend, featuring open house displays and concluded by a dance, will be held March 14 and 15.

Last year nearly 2,000 people from all parts of the state took the guided tours through the four engineering buildings on this campus. That they were amused, fascinated, and probably a little baffled by the displays was apparent from their reactions.

This year there will be a new set of displays illustrating the complex knowledge so necessary for modern designing. In addition, it is hoped to have a kiss-meter in operation this year, as well as other "gizzmos" of interest to the ladies.

There will be new features in the displays of electrical and mechanical machinery. A loaded Ford V-8 engine will be put through its paces at a speed of 4,000 rpm (equivalent to about 85 mph for you hot rod fans). In the Chemical Engineering Department it will no longer be a secret that a complicated distillery is in operation.

The dance, to be held Saturday evening, will feature one of the local bands and refreshments.

Van Meter Feels Athletic Teams Should Win Half of Years' Games

Annual Report to Trustees States Academies Suffer by Overemphasis

"It is clear that over a period of years a team should win half of its games."

The Washington Post ran an Associated Press story on Feb. 14 with the headline "COLLEGE PRESIDENT SAYS TEAMS SHOULD LOSE HALF THEIR GAMES."

In his annual report to the Board of Trustees, the president expresses his belief as follows: "If a team continues to win most of its games, it is taking somehow a systematic advantage over its opponents.

"If the team loses most of its games over a long period, it is playing out of its class.

"The team that loses sometimes deserves more credit than the team that wins.

"The success of college athletic teams is an all absorbing interest to many people from whom the academic program receives scant attention. They exert in various ways a pressure toward overemphasis on athletics that sometimes leads to excesses that make headlines in the daily papers.

"But the greatest damage done is less spectacular. It is the denial of a real educational development to thousands of boys who are exploited because of their athletic prowess to the point where athletics absorbs too much of their time in college."

Faculty Women Make Money For Needy Students

by Georgie Tyler

A fund for students in financial emergencies has been set up by the University Faculty Women, it was revealed last week in a letter sent to the members of the organization. The letter, signed by Mrs. Philip L. Gamble, president of the organization, reported the disposition of $216 raised at the Registration Dance last semester.

The project of raising money for student aid was undertaken last fall after a statement to the Faculty Women by Dean Helen Curtis recommending scholarship funds for students.

The fund will be administered by Deans Curtis and Hopkins. According to a member of the Faculty Women, Deans Curtis and Hopkins, as well as Dean Machmer, have frequently given from their own pockets funds for students in emergencies.

Mrs. Maxwell Goldberg was Student Fund Chairman last fall, and Mrs. Donald Allen was chairman of the Registration Dance Committee.

The Faculty Women plan in cooperation with student groups to sponsor the Registration Dance annually and to use the funds for aid to both Captain Bill Prevey, the University's most outstanding athlete in many years, will be feted at ceremonies prior to the Tufts game on Wednesday, Feb. 20. The program will get under way at 7:50 in the Cage.

The principal speaker for the event, which is being supported by the whole campus and by Bill's hometown of North Adams, will be John Bunn head coach at Springfield College and president of Regional NCAA. Other speakers include Warren McGuirk, Red Ball basketball coach, and Bill Nassif, captain of the University's team in 1935. Nassif, along with Prevey's mother, will lead the delegation from North Adams. Several of Bill's teammates will also be on hand to express the thanks of the students for his efforts on behalf of the University.

The University Jazz Band will be another attraction at the festivities. Montgomery Roses will present flowers to Mrs. Prevey.

Included among Prevey's outstanding records are: top scorer for one game, most points in one season, most points for three years; most field goals and fouls in one game, one year and three years; best average for one year; and three records for the Yankee Conference. Bill was ranked seventh in the National Small College Standings at the last rally and has an average of 22.7 points per game at the present time.

Holiday Weekenders Can Dance For UM

Special to students who are staying on campus this holiday weekend: Adelphia and Isogon are sponsoring an all-campus dance in Drill Hall, Thursday, Feb. 21, from 8 11:30 p.m. The University basketball team will play Vermont that night, so be sure to drop over after the game.

WMUA will broadcast three and one-half hours of music for the dance whose purpose is to raise more funds through donations for the "Know Your University" production. Refreshments will be served.

Larry Litwack of Adelphia and Muff Fanteux of Isogon are social chairmen, and chaperones are Mr. and Mrs. Lyle C. Bearden and their guests.

Snow Sculptures Will Decorate Campus Fri.

The snow sculptures are on, with the judging to take place Friday afternoon and night at 3:30 and 7:30.

Before the sculptures were postponed, plans had been made for 20th Century Fox and Paramount Movie News companies to film the sculptures for television releases, according to News Service Director Bob McCartney. New contacts will have to be made for televising the postponed event.

The U of M rates this recognition because this school was one of the first colleges in the nation to have moving snow sculptures.

Athletes: To Flunk or not to Flunk

There has been some sentiment to the effect that athletes should not be flunked out if they do not measure up to the scholastic standards of the University.

Webster defines a university as "an institution organized for teaching and study in the higher branches of learning". Since we are in fact such an institution, we must assume that those who come here do so to study in the higher branches of learning.

No institution can exist very long if its expressed aim is misinterpreted: a university becomes perverted when the standards it sets for itself are lowered to the point where deterioration sets in. If study in the higher branches of learning becomes perverted by ludicrous standards permitted for maintaining such study, then this is no longer a university: it becomes something far less.

It has been said that winning athletic teams bring publicity to a university. Granted they do, but what kind of publicity? Should value of athletic publicity be played up to the extent that it is? What responsible person cares if the University of South Jalopy won every football, basketball, and baseball game on its schedule? What does that say about the adequacy of the university to prepare men who in later life contribute to the betterment of the world in some fundamental way?

We must not forget that we are intelligent college students. Not even a high school student would ever select a college on the basis of its athletic record if he were a thinking individual. If high school students are to come to this university through that attraction only, then we are better off without them.

The consideration of this problem is intensely important for our university today, for the attitude it reflects is but a small part of a distorted scale of values that seems to be shared by many students here and indeed by many outside the university. Just what is our set of values? Is it not good students and good teachers that make a university what it is rather than a high athletic standing? We should grow up enough to realize that students and teachers are the best ambassadors of any university.

The welfare of the individual player should be considered even before the good of the university. Does it help a man in the long run to get by on the skin of his teeth, to know that he is capable of better work but that he is being pulled through only because some faculty member does him the "favor" of fixing his marks with his professors? What a favor! To be forced to take that kind of ° ° ° ° ° (censored) adds nothing to his faith in himself nor does it prepare him for a future job or for his life in a community. No matter how we argue, we cannot truthfully deny the fact that one man's personal integrity is worth more than all the publicity that could come from a Rose Bowl championship.

We are not attacking the value of athletics in any sense. We realize that whether a team wins or loses, the athletics as one of the most important processes of human development, but we do insist that the U. of M. refrain from any approach, however slight, to "bought" athletes. At present the University can point with justified pride to men like Bill Prevey, Noel Reebenacker, Bob Kroeck, Ray Gunn, Rich Conway, and Ed Twardus as men who are not only athletes but also examples of the all-round development that a university should strive to produce in its students.

We will not solve the problem of the atomic bomb or of cancer by attracting athletes for the sake of athletics. We may help to solve these problems by attracting brains—whether they are encased in brawn or not.

Record - Breaker

Tomorrow night the University will turn out en masse for Bill Prevey Night. To say that Bill deserves the tribute, both as a player and as a person, would be gross understatement. One has only to see him play to realize that here is one of America's basketball "greats"—the greatest in the East, one of the greatest in the nation. It is fitting that the University show its appreciation in this way.

It is also fitting to thank the men responsible for Bill Prevey Night—Trainer Ben Ricci; juniors Red Bakey, Shelley Saltman, and Milt Neusner; and Adelphians Bob Kroeck, Larry Litwack, Ray Gunn, and George Delaney. These men are doing the University a service in giving recognition where recognition is due.

No Libel, Please

In accordance with the policy of the Collegian, no unsigned or libelous letters to the editor can be published.

The letter signed "Sonic Disgusted Frosh" does not appear for both these reasons. A policy may be criticized, but we feel the criticism of the individual mentioned in this letter could definitely be construed as libelous. (Editor's Note)

Beware of Classes Bearing Gifts

Looking back at the last two years, seniors can see that money was wasted by class gift committees when it could have been put to good use. To quote Dick Lettis in his "Vocabulary of College Words and Phrases", the class gift is "a method by which each graduating class revenges itself upon the university by defacing the campus with flagpoles, Indians, etc." A similar waste this year would be almost sinful in view of the difficulty of acquiring seven hundred dollars in times like these and in view of the pressing needs of the university.

According to Joe Hilyard of the class of '50, the statue of Metawampe was intended to be twice its size; due to mix-ups with the sculpture, Metawampe turned out to be the butt of jokes and abuses with the ultimate result that only a rock stands on the lawn of Old Chapel in memory of the class of '50. A painting of a campus scene by a national artist is noteworthy, but may we point out that the same type of difficulties could easily be incurred here? Would it not be wiser to have a gift that could not possibly fall through? To mention two for which there is an obvious need: books for the library and a scholarship fund.

The flagpole of the class of '51 is still standing — to what worthy purpose few can say. It does perpetuate the class of '51; it also serves as a constant warning to students to give something of a little more value.

The seniors are urged to give serious thought to this question so that they may choose a gift which will be of use to as many students as possible and at the same time preserve the name of the class of 1952. The committee has made a good start in asking for intelligent suggestions. Let us hope that nothing sidetracks them from making a sensible decision that will adequately reflect the maturity of college seniors.

The entire student body has every right to expect of the senior class a sound choice. They are the leaders of the university. The caliber of their leadership remains to be seen.

Opinion on Facully Women's Gift

Three cheers!!!

Mass. Aggie

In one column of last Friday's Collegian appeared the following: "we are living up to our conservative reputation as the Aggie school that plays a little bit of athletics".

Why the continual belittling of Mass. Aggie? Mass. Aggie was known throughout the world: let no student depreciate Mass. Aggie until the University of Massachusetts matches or excels its reputation!

This viewpoint, held by some students, shows about as much thought as the city slicker who complains about the spring rains because of the inconvenience they cause him, never realizing in his shallowness that were it not for those rains, he would be the first to starve to death.

been important factors in the progress which has marked this school since its inception," he said.

"Mr. Gamble has done a fine job in organizing the School of Business Administration," President Van Meter added. "The University is indebted to him for a tremendous amount of extra work that he has done in building this school while we lacked a deanship position."

The President said that Prof. Kimball had joined the faculty in 1948. He is the author of a textbook on finance that is widely used in colleges.

The University is represented by teams in 10 sports. These squads have 532 student enrollments, ranging from 175 in football to 15 in golf. A few students engage in more than one varsity sport but this is difficult according to Brexy "without serious interference with the academic program" and is therefore discouraged.

In intramural sports the University has had to limit the number of teams and games severely because of a shortage of basketball floors and football and softball fields. Within that limitation, however, 84 teams have played 894 scheduled games involving nearly 1000 students.

Prevey Scores 39 Points; Redmen Drop Two More

Traveling to Rhode Island twice last week, U. of M. basketball team met defeat twice at the hands of the U. of Rhode Island and Brown. Rhode Island defeated the Redmen 96-72 while Brown handed the Redmen a 78-64 setback.

Rams Romp

A superior Rhode Island team handed the Redmen a 96-72 loss last Thursday at Kingston. The Redmen were in the ball game until the final period when the Rams pulled away to victory.

Captain Bill Prevey of the Redmen starred in his best performance of the season as he led the scorers with a total of 39 points. Henry Mosychuk and Bernie Kaminski also hit double figures for the U. of M. quintet. The Redmen slowed down the Rams' fast break but they could not cope with the superior shooting of Baird and Congleton who led the Rams' attack.

Bruins Growl

Saturday night at Providence it was Brown by a score of 78-64.

Spotlights in the game for the Redmen were Bill Prevey with 18 points, Bernie Kaminski with 15, and Jack Belahunt with 14 points. Murgo of Brown was high man in the ball game with 34 points.

Prevey Again

Prevey's high of 39 points broke three records. Most points in one game, most field goals in one game, and most points scored in a Yankee Conference game.

Mermen Meet UConn

The varsity swimming team will close out their dual season on Thursday afternoon as they meet Connecticut in a meet postponed from Monday.

The Redmen will be out to rebound from their one point loss to Tufts College in an effort to finish above the .500 mark for the season.

Expected to star for the Redmen are Dick Cornfoot, Mitch Jacque, Don Bell, Art Steigleder, Dave Belanger, Joe Rogers Jr., and Ed Sexton as the Redmen seek their fifth win of the season.

RedmenMeetVermont

The varsity basketball team will open a three game Yankee Conference home stand on Thursday night that should see Captain Bill Prevey set a couple of new Yankee Conference scoring records.

Prevey, with 85 points in three Conference games so far this year, is well on his way towards the 151 point record set by Vin Yokabaskas of Connecticut. Averaging 28.3 points for the games, he is also threatening the best average for one year set at 21.5 also by Yokabaskas.

39 Points for Prevey

Prevey set the first of his Yankee Conference scoring records last Thursday against Rhode Island as he hit for 13 baskets and 13 fouls for a total of 39 points, also high for his college career.

ALL OUT FOR BILL!

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

Two things strike an otherwise blank mind today.

First, Bill Prevey Night tomorrow. This affair is the first of its kind ever run in the history of the University. This is quite an honor considering that we have had such great athletes as Lou Bush and Marty Anderson here in the past 50 years.

When one looks at the record, it is not too surprising considering the fact that Prevey has been such a bright star. His records go just part of the way in proving what a great man he really is.

One interesting note about the one record which Prevey does not hold: this record, set by Bob Barrows in 1923, is most fouls made in one game with 17. Prevey with 13 holds the modern record. The reason for this is the fact that in 1923, one man shot all the fouls for the team. An interesting sidelight is the fact that Barrows didn't score a field goal all night.

The other thing is a continuation of the idea expressed in last week's column about the University flunking out athletes. Since then, people have disagreed with me by stating that athletes should not be treated any differently than any other student at the University. I disagree for the following reasons:

First of all, we are all agreed on the point that we want to be proud of our University—we want it to be well known for every phase of its activity rather than just for agriculture. Therefore, we are all working to achieve this goal.

In order to build up the name of the University we need publicity. This means good publicity that will bring the name of the University before the people of the Commonwealth and make them realize that their state University is as good as any other college or university in the Commonwealth.

From experience in the field of publicity, I have come to observe that we receive the greatest amount of publicity through sports. This can be seen in the amount of publicity given Prevey. Publicity to sports is given only to winning teams. This has been proven time and again. A paper will not give publicity to a school that consistently loses like the University does.

Therefore, it follows that in order to achieve the end we want, namely a bigger and better University, we should best utilize athletics. Therefore, we need winning athletic teams. We need athletes before we can get winning teams. Sometimes we are lucky enough to get them, but we never seem able to keep them.

I am not advocating lowering the standards of the University to attract athletes and keep them in school. However, I am advocating the change in policy of some of the members of the faculty. It would help considerably if they would realize that members of athletic teams are not getting paid and are out there for the love of the sport. If the professors realized this, they might exert themselves a little bit with some extra help. In other words, they could try to help the men, rather than consider them as inanimate objects filling space in their classroom.

Perhaps I am wrong. But I believe that the end justifies the means. This I believe until I am proven wrong.

For all who disagree, the line forms on the right.

Tufts Trips UMass Mermen For 3rd Loss

The Redmen swimming team was nosed out 38-37 in a close exciting meet with Tufts last Friday.

The deciding events were the 50 and the 100 yard freestyles in which Tufts emerged victorious. The final clincher was the last event, the 400 yard freestyle relay, which was won by the Tufts mermen.

Dick Cornfoot performed in his usual brilliant fashion, winning the 200 yard backstroke with plenty to spare.

Don Bell also swam a good race by winning the breaststroke event in the shortest time he has done it in this season.

The loss puts the Rogersmen record at the 4-3 mark going into their last meet against powerful Connecticut. Summary:

200 yd. medley relay—won by Mass. (Cornfoot, Bell, Prokowpowich) T. 3:19.2; 220 yd. freestyle—won by Haley (T), Bartlett (M), Campbell (M). T. 2:23.4; 50 yd. freestyle—won by Tyler (T), Regan (T), Jacque (M). T. 24.8; Diving—won by Belanger (M), McCundy (T), Sexton (M). Winning points 63.4; 100 yd. freestyle—won by Tyler (T), Regan (T), Jacque (M). T. 55.7; 200 yd. backstroke—won by Cornfoot (M), Harrison (T), Rogers (M). T. 2:24.0; 200 yd. breaststroke—won by Bell (M), Hennessey (T), Steigleder (M). T. 2:36.1; 440 yd. freestyle—won by Campbell (M), Bartlett (M), Duke (T), T. 5:35.5; 400 yd. freestyle relay—won by Tufts (Tyler, Perry, Whyte, Faley) T. 3:51.6.

Derbymen Face N.H. Friday P.M.

The varsity track team, rested after the postponed match with Holy Cross this afternoon, will tangle with the University of New Hampshire on Friday afternoon as they attempt to rack up their first win of the season.

The Redmen, under the leadership of Coach Derby, will be out to avenge last year's defeat at the hands of the Northerners.

Coach Derby will be relying heavily on Fred Law and Dave Lamkin to repeat their wins of the last meet.

Fred Law will be out to snap the University pole vault record of 12'2" which he has cleared several times in practice. Dave Lamkin may surprise by breaking the dash record of 4.2. Harry Aldrich is almost a certainty to unleash a great performance as he breaks the two mile record set by Bruno Giordano of Connecticut.

Russ Briere is expected to regain his great high jumping form along with Lee Fink. Billy Karlyn will be out to improve last week's appearance in the pole vault and broad jump.

If these men and all the others who scored against Northeastern come through as expected, the Redmen should rack up their first win.

Presentation Date Nears For Varieties

Although the reason for the title, "Well Seasoned," and the theme of the show are still secret, rehearsals indicate this will be one of the best "Varieties" ever seen on campus.

Rehearsals for the extravaganza are going well. The dance routine by Bob Boland and Mary Lowry promises to be one of the high spots of the show.

Besides Bob and Mary, the varied talents of the following people will be seen: Marlene Wolk, Charlotte Volk, Ray Boyd, Dick Klingler, Art Rezner, Lila Broude, Peggy Strother, Martha Okun, Carl Gates, Frank Sottile, Mary Lester, Joan Hartley, Ina Hettinger, Carol Smith, Ann Morrill, Phil Johnson, Lorna Wildon, Rita Zarirella, Zelda Goldstein, Burt Hubbley, Bill Massidda, Shirley Hastings, Cindy Taylor, Al Shuman, Chris Platsis, Hugh Connor, Roland Gagnon, Ellie Barnett, Abe Newman, Frances Blank, Margie Kaufman, Faith Fairman, Carolyn Reid, Joan Anderson, Lorraine Lively, Vicki Sikora, Ellie Casavecchia, Jeanne Malin, and Rosemary Quinn.

Co-directors Mario Bruni and Francine Freedman have announced that there is still room for people with talent who have been a little bashful about trying out at the time. Talent of all sorts can be utilized, so if you would like to take part in the fun of putting on "Well Seasoned", contact either Mr. Bruni at 30 North Hadley Road, or Miss Freedman at Knowlton.

men and women students. A group of about 250, the Faculty Women is both a social and a service organization.

Last year the group cooperated in bringing the noted anthropologist, Margaret Mead, to the campus for public lectures. In conjunction with Scrolls, Isogon, the School of Business Administration, and the American Association of University Women, the Faculty Women will sponsor Dr. Vera Dean, director of the Foreign Policy Association, in a lecture open to students at Bowker Auditorium on Tuesday, March 4.

Another service project of the Faculty Women this year has been the organization of a faculty dramatic society. The group took the traditional name of Patterson Players and fell heir to the properties of an earlier Patterson Players group which died out before the war.

The first performance of this group will be a play on Thursday, March 20, at a regular meeting of the Faculty Women for members and their husbands. Future performances, however, may be an additional source of student aid funds.

In addition to the Patterson Players, the Faculty Women have a branch known as The Newcomers Club with Mrs. Edwin Walker as chairman. They also sponsor Red Cross activities, such as University blood donor drives, as they affect our campus.

This little-known organization has the following officers: Mrs. Ralph Van Meter, honorary president; Mrs. Gamble, president; Mrs. Arthur Musgrave, vice president; Mrs. Geoffrey Cornish, secretary; Mrs. John Parsons, treasurer; Mrs. Arnold Rhodes, publicity chairman.

Listed as directors of the organization are Mrs. Dale Seiling, Mrs. Milo Kimball, and Dean Helen Mitchell.

Student Union Building Plans Proposed After Complete Study

by Ann-Marie Lynch

The Alumni Building Corporation has released a 112-page report from a planning consultant on the proposed Student Union Building which will expand the social facilities of Mem Hall. There are two suggested plans concerning the development. One is to incorporate Mem Hall into the project because of its near-ideal site. The other is to construct an entirely new building on the northwest side of the pond area.

The current replacement value of Mem Hall is $331,500. The remodeling of the present structure would cost $100,000, whereas an entirely new Student Union Building would cost $1,000,000. The Alumni have on hand $100,000, so the argument seems strongly in favor of using Mem Hall as a shell around which to construct a new student center.

The University students themselves were a source of information concerning the basic requirements of such a center. Student preferences were tabulated as a result of questionnaires which were distributed according to various population groups on campus—men and women, veterans and non-veterans, class and place of residence. There opinions were taken into consideration when the report was drawn up.

Proposed facilities, whether for a new building or for a remodeling of Mem Hall, include a snack-bar, a browsing library, a ballroom, a book store, an auditorium, a theatre, lounges, meeting rooms for student groups and offices for campus publications.

According to Porter Butts, the Wisconsin planning consultant who drew up the report, Mem Hall satisfies nearly all the standard criteria used in selecting union sites on other campuses. It is on a main path of student traffic, which is vital for casual use of a union in open class hours. However, the northwest side of the pond area would be better for dormitory use and for intercepting traffic to town.

Senators Clash In Verbal Tilt

A heated debate was touched off this week when Herb Simmons proposed that the University be represented at the Regional Conference of the National Student Association to be held at Mt. Holyoke this weekend.

President Pehrson pointed out that the University dropped out of the organization last year. He explained that this action was taken by the solons because the organization was inefficient and was accomplishing practically nothing. Finance Chairman Tibbets also recalled the previous discussions on this group and cited the lack of cooperation the senate had received from them last year.

Simmons pointed out some of the benefits of the organization and stated that since the students did not pass the referendum designed to remove the University from the group we were legally members. Pehrson stated that this was not the case, since the senate refused to appropriate funds for the group for this year. The Solons defeated the proposal to be represeuted at the conference.

The finance committee recommended not to publish a booklet designed to give helpful information to social chairmen, since the information to be presented is already covered in the Handbook. Larry Haworth, Student Life representative, offered to give the committee more information about the booklet if the committee would study it further. The original proposal for the booklet came from the Student Life Committee.

Loans Now Available After Two Year Hallt

A shortage of grad loan funds caused by GI's who were waiting for their government checks to come through has ended after a two year course.

Graduate students may now receive loans from the University once again, it was announced by Emory E. Grayson, chairman of the Student Loan Committee.

Since the number of vets has decreased, the fund has fewer demands and can now supply a limited number of grad students.

There are ,however, certain limitations. The student must be working full time for a degree, have completed one satisfactory semester of work on this campus and repay the loan before he receives the degree.

Do You Know?

The marks that were received the first semester are surprisingly far from a private matter to the individual student.

Besides being sent to the dorms and frats where the student receives them, the marks are also listed in the Dean's office, and copies are sent to the parents and to the deans of the respective University schools. Freshman reports are even sent to the principal of the student's high school.

Solons Vote Down Bill Limiting UM Admission to Mass. Students

Senator says State Would be Branded A Bigot, Discriminating Against Others

A bill calling for limiting admission to the U. of M. to the residents of the state was recently defeated in the Massachusetts Senate by a vote of 19-17. A heated debate saw Senators Ralph C. Mahar and Silvio O. Conte leading the fight against lowering the requirements for admission, according to news reports.

The bill, if passed, would have given preference to Massachusetts residents for admission to classes at the U. of M. and state operated teachers colleges. It would have allowed anyone holding a high school diploma and being a resident of Massachusetts to enter the U of M.

The largest ratio of out-of-state students is 5 per cent. These students, accounting for 120-180 of the student body, pay $400 tuition (as opposed to $100 for state students). These two facts were emphasized by Senator Conte of Pittsfield who pointed out that, if enacted, the legislation would result in Massachusetts being labelled as a bigot, discriminating against students from other states. No such discrimination is practiced by other states in regard to students from Massachusetts. Three hundred Massachusetts residents attend the University of Maine, to cite but one example.

New Policy Bared On Student Refunds

The Board of Trustees recently voted a change in the University policy concerning refunds. The treasurer is now authorized to refund the full amount of payment made, tuition, fees, board and room, to students in attendance who have made payment prior to the opening date of the next semester and then withdraw before the first day of the semester.

The previous policy was to refund 80% of tuition and fees and no room rent. If the student attends classes after the first day of the semester, then the old ruling is back in effect. The decision is effective immediately.

34-Piece Band InSun. Concert

The 34-piece U. M. Concert Band will present the first of three spring campus concerts Sunday evening, Feb. 24, at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium. The Concert Band has been steadily at work preparing a varied program of solos, popular and novelty numbers, and standard band favorites.

Director Joseph Contino announced today that he will depart from the traditional formality of past concerts. Believing the audience desires a more friendly atmosphere, he will preface each number with comments about the music and the band members.

Manager Art Groves pointed out that the concert has been scheduled for 8 p.m. in order to allow any students returning from the long week-end to attend. Admission is free.

Freshmen Continue With LittleIndian

A Frosh paper will make its appearance on campus very soon. The organizational meeting for this proposed magazine was held recently.

After a talk by John Davis, '54, editor of last year's Freshman publication, Little Indian, on the administration of a magazine, the following temporary officers were chosen: Virginia Pannes and Eddie Berberg, Co-editors; Nessa Stahl, Business Manager; Dottie McKenna and Billy Boyle, Sports; Ellie Conroy, Peg Coyle, Shirley Stevens, Nancy Andrews, Ruth Haenisch, Copy Staff; Nobby Rubinstein, Subscription Manager.

Jack George, who presided over the meeting, announced that the second meeting was held Feb. 19, at 11 a.m. in Mem Hall.

Forestry Students Rate Third in Tests

The Forestry Department has been rated third in a group of 26 other departments throughout the country.

The rating is derived from Civil Service statistics, based on an exam given last December, in which sixty-four percent of the UM students taking it, passed the exam. Only two schools surpassed this record and one other equalled it.

According to Professor R. P. Holdsworth, this distinction attests to the high caliber of students in the department.

WMUA Expanding Program Facilities

Three major expansions which have been taking place within the organization of WMUA involve broadcasting time, personnel, and records. With an ever-increasing audience and the prospect of FM broadcasting in the near future, the need to keep the station growing accordingly has been realized—thus the changes.

The increase in broadcasting hours will be perhaps the most obvious to the listener. In the process of rearranging the existing schedule last week, several new programs were added, increasing the broadcasting time from about 40 hours per week to over 55 hours. Beginning next week, WMUA will be on the air during the following hours: Monday and Wednesday, 3:30 PM to 11:00 PM; Tuesday and Thursday, 6:00 PM to 11:00 PM; Friday, 3:30 PM to at least 1:00 AM; Saturday, 1:00 PM to 12:00 midnight; and Sunday, 1:00 PM to 11:00 PM.

CampusNowHas 3 Policemen

Help has come to the campus policemen in the person of Steven Vacula.

The two campus cops, "Red" Blasko and George Woynar now have someone else to assist them in their job of protecting and aiding students; jobs such as protection of girls' dorms, helping student "inebriates" home, directing parents, etc. Such services are continuous, 24 hours a day.

The appointment of Mr. Vacula became effective Feb. 13, according to Treasurer Johnson.

Roi-Dois To Go "On The Road"

The Roister Doisters will take their show "on the road" to Brattleboro, Vermont, on March 1, it was announced by director Arthur Niedeck.

The play Light Up the Sky which was successfully presented on our campus last November will stage, by invitation, an evening performance at the high school in Brattleboro. All expenses will be paid by the high school. The Roister Doisters plan to take all equipment—costumes and sets—except the furniture, with them.

The Brattleboro people have also invited the Roi-Dois to present their play "Eastward in Eden" sometime before Commencement in June.

Class '56 Enrollment Expected to be 1,000

The class of '56 will number much the same as the class of '55 according to Assistant Registrar Cadigan. With all the high school in the state on vacation, the biggest week for interviews is now going on. The anticipated goal for freshmen next semester is 1,000 students: 600 men and 400 women.

In Unity Lies Strength

Opinions such as those expressed in the letters to the editor indicate a consensus that the University has need for more publicity, but not publicity based on athletic standing alone.

We should like to reiterate our belief that the best publicity of a university is the record of the alumni, the academic achievements of the faculty, and the scholastic quality of the student body.

A logical approach to our needs would involve not continual complaints about those things we lack but rather the best use of those that we have.

One of our best assets is an alumni group genuinely interested in the growth and prestige of the University. We have between 8,000 and 10,000 alumni. Some, of course, are dead from the ankles up, but as a group, our alumni have pledged their aid to President Van Meter in support of any building program on which they may be of help. Do we make adequate use of their offer?

To answer that question, we need only look around the campus. Would Liberal Arts Annex—that acme of ugliness erected in 1947 as a temporary structure be still standing if we had accepted their full aid? Would we have crowded classrooms? Would we be without a Student Union building providing the auditoriums and dance floors needed so badly? Or without a medical school?

We are not advocating that our alumni become lobbyists. However, why would not a corps of actively organized alumni chapters working in close co-ordination with a building program on campus be able to inform the legislature accurately and frequently of the needs of the University?

Our Boston and New York chapters are active. We need an active branch like these in each town with one man at the head of the entire organization. He could not of necessity be a man connected with the University as a faculty member or employee. His sole responsibility would be outside action. It seems to us that the ideal man for this position would be Bob Leavitt, president of the class of 1950, who certainly showed in his Class Night address two years ago that he has the necessary ability, understanding, and devotion.

We have staunch friends in the legislature—Mahar, Mirskey, Conte, as well as Putnam who has long been fighting for a medical school here. Would not a strong, unified alumni group be of invaluable assistance in supporting these men?

Our alumni lose contact with us except when Joe Blow of S.Q.U. Fraternity invites them back for a football game. How are they to be informed in an accurate, straightforward manner of the accomplishments and needs of the University?

In most colleges, information is conveyed by the Alumni Bulletin. We have as our Bulletin an eight-page issue published ten times per year. When compared to the Alumni Bulletins of Tufts, Penn. State, or Amherst, our Bulletin is inadequate to say the least. In terms of eight pages, it is well edited; Red Emery does a very fine job with what he has to work with. But our Bulletin cannot tell the story of the University or build the morale of the alumni. Our entire Bulletin forms the back pages of a substantial bulletin. The entire front is missing. The alumni receive news of their former classmates, but far too little well-written, interpretive material on the University.

What can be done? The funds for the Bulletin, which has a circulation of about 5,800 come from contributions of the alumni. There is no set amount: an alumnus may contribute $2, $5, or $25. With so little funds, a substantial issue is hard to finance. With the same amount of money, the Bulletin could appear four times a year and really be of value informatively.

How many of our alumni know that the school budget was cut by $131,863? That students in history dug down into their own pockets to finance reference books because the money allotted to the history department, when divided among the courses offered, left approximately $35 for books for 575 students? Most of the students on this campus work their way through; such outrages as these should never be allowed to pass by in silence. We wager that if the alumni knew facts such as these, they would speedily and indignantly inform the legislature. Whether or not the facts mean open warfare with the legislature, the responsibility of the press is to bring truth to its readers.

To the Sports Editor:

Your skimpy and few write-ups of the track team display an incredible lack of knowledge of the team. Why don't you go to the Cage during a track meet and watch what you write about instead of writing what a few select individuals have to say about the team?

P.S. If you don't write those articles, my apologies, but you should check on your reporters.

Dear Collegian:

In regard to "Treadmill", Litwack's column (??) in this Friday's Collegian, and his remark about the "University's traditional form" in flunking out athletes, I'd like to toss in my own two bits on the subject.

I'm no greasy grind, or intellectual snob; in fact, I'm just one of those lowly Aggie majors that goes to a University (located some place in Western Massachusetts) which plays "a little bit of athletics". Despite the fact that half the politicians in Boston have never been west of Worcester and therefore have never heard of the place, I still feel proud of the fact that I go to a school which treats its athletes as students and human beings rather than hired publicity agents.

I like the idea of being able to go down to the Cage or Alumni Field and watch guys I know compete with the same kind of guys from other colleges.

How would it be if every time the U. of M. had a basketball game the student body had to sit in front of a television set or be crammed in the third balcony down in the Boston Gardens while five hirelings (none of whom could stay in school for one semester if they weren't six foot seven) ran up an undefeated season? Maybe the politicos down in the State House would hear about the school which was hidden in the Connecticut Valley for 50 years and maybe Litwack is looking for that kind of a record; but personally I'd rather see the guys lose close ones right here in our own Cage—even if it means sticking to our traditional form and treating our athletes as if they were part of the student body.

Sincerely,
Ev Hatch

P.S. This letter conforms to the opinion of most of the men in the house. (A. G. R.)

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I don't know who gave Mr. Litwack the six to ten inches of column space to waste every week, but I'm sure they'll agree with me that it is appropriately named.

It seems to me that Mr. Litwack thinks our University is of no value without publicity. He can't seem to understand its "conservative" attitude! He seems to think that he (and the rest of us) will be far better off when we can stick out our chests and point to an undefeated athletic team! He may be right, but he suggests it be accomplished by adopting some sort of system of making sure our "star" athletes remain with us—without meeting the responsibilities the rest of the students must shoulder.

Supposing this were done, who would be impressed by that kind of publicity? Does Mr. Litwack think that most high school graduates (other than athletes) rate one college over another because of athletic reputation? When we tell a prospective employer that we graduated from the U. of M., do you (Mr. Litwack) think he'll check the sports page? (Assuming we aren't looking for a coach's job or a spot in the Boston Celtics' lineup).

Agreed, publicity is still a good thing. Then what about a wonderful group like our Chorale, who certainly put in plenty of time and effort, and yet have to meet scholastic standards? How about the Operetta Guild, the Roister Doisters, and a host of others? Aren't they doing anything to publicize our school? Why not arrange some sort of "system" to make sure none of their "stars" leave us?

The fact is that most of these non-athletic "stars" probably don't need any such special considerations—in fact—some even manage to make the dean's list! Why shouldn't they be made to meet the requirements?

Does Mr. Litwack think that a school's reputation rests on the shoulders of its athletes, or on the accomplishments of its alumni? Everyone of us is a "publicity agent" for our University. It is for all of us to add to or detract from our school's reputation.

I doubt, Mr. Litwack, that it will be the athletes who need "special considerations" that will give the University a higher reputation than that of an "Aggie school that plays a little bit of athletics." They might of course, change "a little" to "a lot"—but I don't think that's much of an improvement, do you?

Signed,
John Soltys, '53

Spanish Club

There will be a meeting of the Spanish Club Monday, Feb. 25, in Farley Club House at 7:30 p.m. with games, skits, and songs.

In my opinion, the editorial page of the Feb. 19 issue of the Collegian was the soundest, most mature, and most encouraging I've read in the paper during my two and one-half years here at the U. of M. To say that Miss Barbara Flaherty, new Lady Editor, has made an auspicious debut, is to utter a gross understatement. I understand that some of the faculty members are still rubbing their eyes in disbelief. This is the first time that I have been moved to express my opinion of the Collegian in print since I am a firm believer that newspapers should not print libelous or muckracking material. Perhaps in the future, thoughtful persons connected with the University will not be embarrassed when the name of the Collegian is mentioned.

Donald I. Morey, '53

(Editor's Note: The staff hopes to continue giving the campus as much fact and truth about the news as we possibly can.)

Dear Editor:

Despite the amount of criticism of Mr. Litwack's column, I for one agree with him up to a certain point.

I think that what he is trying to get across is a proposed three point program as far as athletes are concerned. None of these points means lowering the academic requirements at all.

The first point is that professors should provide every member of their classes with extra help when needed. This would include athletes but would not be primarily for them.

The second point is that all that is asked for is for the members of the faculty to be impartial. Too often it is the case that an athlete has two strikes against him before he even starts a semester simply because some of the more conservative members of the faculty are so violently anti-athletic. All that is necessary is to treat the athlete equally with everyone else and not be biased.

The third point that might solve the problem for both sides would be the establishment of a Bachelor of Science degree in Physical Education. If this were done, then members of the athletic teams would not be competing with other students for degrees. For example, a physical education major minoring in history would not be competing with a history major who intends to teach someday. This would also eliminate much of the ill will between the athletic department, the younger members of the faculty, and the older members of the department who are fighting to maintain the academic standards of the University.

I believe that if these three points were adopted, then the argument would be settled for all time. It may be too much to ask but it is worth considering.

This is the interpretation that I received from Mr. Litwack's column and from talking to some of the more enlightened members of the department of physical education. If I received the wrong interpretation, please correct me.

Joe Kenmore, '55

(Editor's Note: If you can present concrete facts to back up your statements, we will consider your point. However, we doubt that you can give us proof of even one professor who is unwilling to give help to any of his students who may be athletes or who holds two strikes against an athlete the minute he enters the classroom.

In regard to your third point, we already have a bachelor of science degree in Physical Education.)

To the Editor:

Congratulations on the most mature and sensible treatment of one of our chronic problems in your editorial "To Flunk or Not to Flunk".

Signed,
Philip Frankel

Prevey Scores 28 Points; Redmen Trounce Jumbos 70-59

As the crowd roared and showed their appreciation for the outstanding work done by Captain Bill Prevey during the season, Prevey showed his appreciation of their efforts in his traditional way last Wednesday as he poured in 28 points in the varsity's victory over Tufts College 70-59.

The pre-game ceremonies included the presentation of flowers to Mrs. Prevey and the presentation of some tokens of appreciation by the students, the members of the team, the University alumni in North Adams, the fans in North Adams, and a representative from Drury High. The game was aired over WMUA and the North Adams radio station.

The game ceremonies themselves saw three of the Redmen hit double figures as the Redmen racked up their fourth victory of the season. In addition to Prevey's high of 28, Kaminski hit for 12 and Mosychuk scored 10.

For the losers, the Jumbos were sparked by Sussenberger's tap-ins for 23 points and O'Brien's lay-ups for 17 points.

The Redmen took the lead early in the first period and moved away to a 20-14 first quarter margin. Maintaining their edge in the second quarter, Prevey got hot with nine points and the Redmen rolled up a 35-24 half-time margin.

In the third quarter, the Jumbos attempted to fight their way back but the Redmen attack started clicking for a 50-34 third-quarter margin. Early in the fourth quarter, Heneghan left the game for Tufts with 9 points, and the Redmen subs started pouring in as most of the club saw action.

The loss was only the tenth of the year for the visitors but the victory was sweet as the Redmen achieved some revenge for last year's defeat by 30 points at the hands of the Jumbos. Prevey's total gave him an average of 23 points for the 18 games so far this season.

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

"Tribute to an Athlete"

Last Wednesday night, the students of the University payed homage to one of the brightest University athletic stars to blaze his way through the bleak Massachusetts horizon in the past half century of intercollegiate competition.

In keeping with the spirit of the occasion, there are some facts about Captain Bill Prevey that explain part of the reasons why the students chose this unparalleled method of showing their appreciation.

Bill did not really reach his peak of greatness uatil coming to the University. Graduating from Drury High in 1947, he went to Fryeburg Academy where he averaged 22 points per game during the season.

Coming to the University, Bill played freshman football (end) and freshman basketball. However, it was not until his sophomore year that Bill began to hit his stride. Pouring in 265 points during the 17 game schedule, Bill's average of 15.7 was high for the team.

In his junior year, Prevey was sidelined for most of the season due to injuries. However, in his senior year, he proved that his basketball greatness was no fluke as he proceeded to put on the greatest one-man exhibition of basketball ever seen on the University campus.

Coach Ball considers Prevey the greatest player he has ever coached. Director of Athletics Warren P. McGuirk regards Bill as one of the finest sportsmen he has ever met.

But perhaps the ultimate tribute that could be paid Bill was made by well known referee Eddie Boyle, following the New Hampshire game, who said, "Bill is good enough to play for any team in the country".

This could be proved by the fact that Bill is ranked seventh in the country among all small college scorers, is the leading scorer in New England, and ranks well up in the overall college ratings.

On the court Bill is a team player all the way. A win is far more important to him than any personal glory. He is admired and respected by every member of his squad. Off the court he is quiet, friendly but reserved. Well-liked by the entire student body, Bill has become Mr. Basketball for the entire campus.

Whether his records stand or fall in the future will be immaterial, for Captain Bill Prevey will long be remembered as the comet that blazed across the University athletic horizon and left such an indelible mark on the hearts of the fans.

VARSITY "M" CLUB

A membership meeting of the Varsity M Club will be held at Skinner Auditorium on Thursday, Feb. 28, at 7:30 p.m. Guest speaker will be Charlie O'Rourke. Movies of "Sports Highlights of 1951" and a Holy Cross basketball game will be shown and refreshments served.

Frosh Trackmen Drop Third Meet

The freshman track team went down to their third defeat of the year on Tuesday as a powerful Wilbraham Academy squad showed them their heels to the tune of 41-27. The visitors sparked by the 15 point splurge by Bob Sands outscored the Little Indians 26-1 in the first three events of the abbreviated meet.

Senator Mahar of Orange, chairman of the committee on education and head of the commission that recommended the bill providing for Commonwealth scholarships, argued that it would be disadvantageous both to the University and the students allowed to enter it under such a plan. According to Mahar, it would lower the standing of the University and in many cases increase the number of students flunking out. He further pointed out that students not of college caliber should not be admitted when they did not meet the minimum standards of the state university.

Opposing Mahar and Conte were Senator Michael Flanagan of Lawrence and Democratic Majority Leader John Powers of Boston. Senator Flanagan charged that Massachusetts has been a "softie too long" in admitting out-of-state students to educational institutions.

On the question of reconsidering the vote by which the bill had been previously killed, voting "yes" was Senator James Corbett of Somerville and voting "no" was Senator Robert Campbell of Medford.

This change in time has been made possible by the addition of such programs as "Campus Caravan", "Twenty Questions", "Broadway Matinee", and soft music for studying.

A great many new announcers and engineers have been recruited, and are being trained to handle the broadcasting, in accordance with the ruling limiting the number of hours staff members may work each week. Otherwise, some of the more enthusiastic "radio bugs" would spend all of their time at the station, thus neglecting their studies and other activities.

The third increase, that of the record collection, is about the most phenomenal. Not only have they purchased a great many new discs, but the station has made a deal with several of the major record companies, whereby they receive, free of charge, the newest record releases.

The athletic tax of $10, which up to now has appeared on the bill as part of the student activities fee, is being investigated. The finance committee is trying to find out why this tax has not been separated from activities fees as it should have been since 1949.

Five new senators were sworn in by Don Clifford, chief justice of the Men's Judiciary. The new solons are Dick Cary, commuters; George Higgins and Joseph McGrath, Chadbourne; Lou Marshall, fraternities; and Betty Tourville, Thacher.

Rita Katz, constitution committee chairman, reported that work had started on better coordination of all campus activities.

Dick Jones was appointed temporary chairman of the Building and grounds committee.

Campus Caravan, a personal interview program broadcast directly from the C-Store, will be resumed next week by station WMUA. Campus Caravan is an afternoon show which has been presented in past years, and has always been popular both to the participants at the C-Store and listeners at home. It is hoped that Campus Caravan can be started next Monday, but as yet a telephone broadcast line has not been installed to the C-Store. Campus Caravan will be broadcast as soon as this line can be put in, and will be scheduled from 4:00 to 5:00 in the afternoon.

Many other new shows are being programmed by WMUA. A few good examples are Twilight Time, and live music by the Dixieland and Combo groups on Wednesday night from Skinner Auditorium.

Fine Arts Concert

A program of English, Russian, Italian, and American songs will be offered by Clarke A. Paulsen, baritone, at the next recital sponsored by the U. of M. Fine Arts Council on Thursday, Feb. 28, at 4 p.m. in Old Chapel auditorium.

Mr. Paulsen has been leading baritone of the Columbia Light Opera Company of Washington, D.C., where he performed major roles in 12 productions. He is a veteran of the concert stage and oratorio work and has conducted a 15-minute radio program on station WWDC in Washington for 17 months. Open to public, no charge.

UM Ranks 30th. 7th

Handicapped by comparatively small size, the U of M ranked 30th out of 150 colleges and universities according to a survey published by the Office of Scientific Personnel of the National Research Council. UM was outranked in New England only by Harvard, MIT, and Yale.

The survey, covering the years 1936 to 1945, ranked leading science colleges on the total number of graduates in Science who went on to the doctorate degree, regardless of the size of the institution.

In a survey of the American scientists published last May in Science the U of M ranked 5th in the nation and well above all other colleges and universities in New England. The survey covered the period 1924 to 1943 and ranked the colleges and universities on the number of graduates per 1,000 undergraduates who went on to receive the Ph.D. degree from any grad school, not necessarily that of their Alma Mater, and who were listed in American Men of Science.

Finally, in a similar survey covering 1936-1946 in Engineering and Science, the University ranked 5th place in the nation.

Varieties "Well Seasoned" And Ready To Go Thursday

First Post - Carnival Event Presents Old & New Features in Bowker Thurs.

Working on the theory that variety is the spice of life, "Well Seasoned", to be presented this Thursday and Friday evenings in Bowker Auditorium, has a variety of songs, dances, and skits which promise to surprise many of the spectators.

Campus Varieties has tried a new tack for this year's presentation. It no longer is working from a script, nor is it the straight, out-and-out vaudeville type show. The theme and prologue are both intended to supply continuity and interest for the spectator.

It was requested by many of the University students that highlights from previous Campus Variety shows be repeated as part of this year's entertainment. The directors felt this to be a good suggestion and engaged a well-known Varieties star, Frank Settile, to do "Row, Row, Row," his success of a few years back.

Such scenes as the School House number and the picnic scene are main points of the show. Many people familiar to the campus for their work in activities other than dramatics are taking to the stage for the first time in their college careers. Well-known representatives of language and departmental clubs are lending their assistance to help pepper up "Well Seasoned."

Al Shuman's magic number, Lorna Wildon's lovely rendition of "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning," Rollo Gagnon's powerful version of "Stairway to Paradise", and Carol Smith's singing of "Two Silhouettes", accompanied by a dance routine by the silhouettes, all add to the variety

Van Meter Reveals Building Priorities

President Ralph Van Meter has released a list of proposed campus construction in the order the buildings will be erected. The Dining Hall is first, followed by a Public Health building for which funds have already been appropriated. Then follow in order the completion of the Engineering building, a Physical Education building for Women, and addition to the chem lab and a Liberal Arts classroom building.

There is no provision for a Student Union on the list of priorities. Some of the alumni feel the Student Union should be self-liquidating: this would mean approximately $15 being assessed in student taxes for the building. Dr. Van Meter believes the Student Union is a "legitimate expenditure for the state to make."

In the late spring, money is expected to be awarded for the actual construction of the Public Health Building which will add to the prestige of the University by becoming the Public Health Headquarters of New England as well as the State Headquarters for the Department.

Of more pertinent interest to the student body is the news that this building will house the Bacteriology department. The Zoology department can then be moved to Marshall Hall leaving Fernald Hall entirely to the Geology department.

The Women's Physical Education Building will give the coeds on campus room to participate in extra-curricular activities as well as providing a dance floor for informal campus dances and more space for the Military Department.

CORRECTION

The Varsity "M" Club will meet Thursday night, February 28, in Old Chapel, Room C, at 7:30 p.m., instead of at Skinner as previously announced.

South End of Women's Quadrangle to House New Dining Hall Replacing 1903 Draper

A $1,025,000 dining hall has been approved for the U of M by the Mass. Public Building Commission, it was reported yesterday by Treasurer Kenneth Johnson.

The new dining hall will be a two story building with a center section three stories high. Glass and brick will predominate in the construction, and the building will be of a modernistic design and will be decorated with limestone. The new dining hall will be open for use in September, 1953, Treasurer Johnson said.

The ground floor will contain a snack bar off a terrace on the left side of the building. The rest of the floor will be occupied by offices, coat rooms, and storage spaces.

The second floor will contain three dining halls—each of three rooms to have individual serving lines separated from its respective dining hall. The maximum capacity of the dining halls will serve 2300 at one meal, and be one of the most efficient dining halls in New England, according to Mr. Johnson.

The third floor will contain three private dining rooms, the largest of which will seat 75 people.

The construction contract to Bathelt Co., architects' fees, kitchen equipment (all of stainless steel of the latest design costing $177,910) and other expenses come to the total of $1,025,000.

Treasurer Johnson said that to make possible the construction of the building in accordance with University plans, the Massachusetts Public Building Commission had approved a $160,000 transfer of its reserve funds to the University Building Funds. This commission is a state regulatory body which approves all contracts awarded by state institutions. Mr. Hall Nichols is the director and chief engineer of the Commission. Maloney and Tessier are the architects and will supervise construction.

BLOOD DRIVE SLOGANS

Slogans to publicize the Blood Drive which will be held on campus Wednesday and Thursday, March 25 and 26, are being sought by the committee in charge of the drive. Contributions may be submitted to the Collegian office.

"Off Campus" Rumor Killed

The Drake Hotel has not been placed off limits for University women, contrary to popular opinion, according to Dean Helen Curtis. She further stated that no establishment has been declared out of bounds.

This statement completely refuted earlier rumors that the Drake, along with other nearby places, had been declared "Off Campus" for our co-eds.

Miss Curtis also explained that it was the policy of the University to cooperate fully in enforcing the state liquor laws which state that no person under 21 years of age may be served in Massachusetts bars.

She explained that the school relies on the discretion of the girls in regard to choosing places of entertainment.

In the same interview, Miss Curtis announced that sixty percent of the freshman girls had attained their 70 average. This means that the rule that they must be in the dormitory by 7 p.m. is no longer in effect for these girls. Miss Curtis stated that she was very pleased by this fact.

FAUX PAS

Now that we've had a long rest (and gave you one too), it's back to the old typewriter and some of the things that we hope remind you of what makes your world go around.

It looked as though just about every Greek's world went around. TEP, Phi Sig, Theta Chi, Sig Ep, AEPi, all had revolving and moving sculptures, and brother, what they did to traffic! The cars were lined up and down the roads like the old blackout days of the war. Motors hummed, necks craned, horns honked, and people jammed up the views of the visiting tourists.

"My, isn't that beautiful—Congratulations—It's the best of them all" repeated the mimmicks as they stopped to admire the sweat and toil of UM students. We followed one elderly couple to several sculptures along N. Pleasant street, and they gave the exact same compliments in almost the exact same innocent way to all the toiling laborers.

One intelligent group of the grammar school generation, while noticing the sequins sparkling on TEP's dancing couple, were heard to remark, "Ooh look, her dress has got freckles!"

A good majority of the carvings had dancing couples, and it appeared as though all the amateur photographers didn't seem to mind repetition, for they jammed the streets all weekend with their shutters clicking. One enthusiast, a member of our infamous faculty, was almost hit by several cars as he took turns dodging automobiles

World Prayer

The Student Senate, speaking to the entire student body, has requested that a moment of silent prayer for Divine Guidance in these perilous times be observed Friday, Feb. 29, at 11 a.m.

The observation should be completely void of denominationalism so that persons of all faiths may unite in their common endeavor. All colleges and universities have been asked to participate by a national fraternity, Sigma Theta Epsilon.

Chapel chimes will ring five minutes before 11:00; following the striking of the hour, there will be a minute of prayer. Then the bells will ring again to signify the termination of the observance.

It is the hope that all will assist in making this a success.

'Prince' Tickets Now On Sale At Bowker Aud.

Tickets are now on sale for The Student Prince. The campus is urged to make reservations early as the number of seats is limited. There is a maximum of 800 seats per night, and over 1000 tickets have been sold already to the cast and production committees. Doric Alviani, director of the Romberg musical, stated that he has received innumerable letters from the people who last year applauded the Brigadoon performance. This year they're clamoring for seats "anywhere, at any price, and any night."

The Student Prince will be presented in Bowker Auditorium on March 18-22. The showing on March 18 is for high school students only, although whatever seats are left will be available to the public. Tickets for Friday and Saturday night are almost completely sold out.

Too Close For Comfort

The bill providing that the U. of M. be open only to Massachusetts residents was defeated by a margin of two votes. One more affirmative vote would have meant a deadlock; two more would have meant a state law erecting a legal barrier against out-of-state students. We wonder: who is better suited to judge such matters—the Board of Trustees, who are likely to be better informed, or the state legislature? Senators Mahar and Conte, members of the Education Commission, showed good sense. That is more than we can say for 17 senators.

The editor of the Boston American, who felt the decision was wrong, said, "What the majority forgot or did not choose to remember was that the original purpose of the University was to make a college education available to sons and daughters of the Commonwealth whose limited means made it difficult or impossible for them to go to other institutions." The University does give preference to Massachusetts residents: the Board of Trustees sets a limit of five per cent on out-of-state students. According to Dean Machmer, we have never accepted as many as five per cent because of enrollment pressure from Massachusetts men and women.

This same editor tried to place the interests of the people of Massachusetts foremost, but failed to see that a state law setting up such legal barriers would not have their interests at heart. If Massachusetts erects legal barriers, all state universities would likewise bar our students. What good would that do the 260 students from Massachusetts who attend the University of Maine? We would be harming those students we cannot accommodate.

An aim of education is supposedly to develop citizenship. What kind of citizen will impose extra, ridiculous barriers when we already have barriers of religion, color, race, and creed to cope with? Massachusetts is after all a part of the United States; isolationism went out of style years ago.

"The parents of out-of-state students contribute nothing except tuition fees which do not cover the cost of instruction." This is true. But since when is money spent on education and good educational standards wasted? Education is an investment—not a cheap one—but a sound one. With no natural resources such as coal or oil, our state depends more than most on the intelligence and skill of its citizens.

May we further maintain that the taxpayers spend their money on worse things? Unfortunately, we live in a society that places great stress on money and material possessions. Did it ever occur to the editor when he said "nothing except" that an intelligent son or daughter seeking to develop himself to the full extent of his ability in college, or elsewhere, is as fine a contribution as any parents can hope to make?

He ends by saying "The idea of establishing a university to compete with Harvard and Yale and accommodate applicants from all over the country never entered the heads of the founders." Harvard started as a school to train ministers: it has become national in scope because of its excellent academic standards and because its alumni have settled all over the country.

Not one of us was with the founders to be able to say what entered their heads; be that as it may, the idea of competing with Harvard so far as academic standards are concerned has certainly entered the minds of the student body here. These students are not half-cocked individuals but rather idealists with one foot on the ground. Recent statistics show we are ahead of Harvard, Yale, and M.I.T. in the percentage of alumni who have received Ph.D.s in science.

In the interests of our academic standards, it would be absurd to accept every high school graduate as the bill proposed—with the support of 17 legislators. Were we to adopt such a policy, it would be easier to mail the diplomas at $5 apiece.

Harvard, Yale and the U. of M. are together in competing against ignorance, in increasing knowledge and clear thinking. This editor's thinking seems to show the need.

Win At Any Cost?

We believe our position on athletics has been misinterpreted by Mr. Benoit. We should therefore like to clarify it.

Our editorial was written as a commentary on our columnist's suggestion that athletes not be flunked out. We still feel this would definitely lower our standards.

Mr. Benoit is agreeing with us when he says men like Gunn, Reebenacker, etc. should be here. We didn't say they shouldn't. We said we want more like them. If athletes such as these men win a scholarship on their scholastic standing, fine. Call it an athletic scholarship if you will. When the University finds jobs for athletes in Draper or in the C-store, it is doing no more for them than for any other needy students. According to Mr. Benoit, Notre Dame, Cornell, and Penn supply board, tuition, room, and books.

We do not want subsidization for a group of athletes who are hired to play football or any other sport. Mr. Benoit apparently confused himself in reading into our editorial any antipathy to athletics. If he consults our offering, he will find that we were not at all against athletics reasonably maintained. If the University thinks it sound policy to bribe athletes out of high school, to have the alumni pay to keep these athletes in four years of college just because the University is out to win at any cost, then let the University do it, but let it not masquerade these players under the name of students. It should, if this be the case, refer to them as the hired football team.

In other words, we are attacking the entire atmosphere of duplicity that prevades the athletic question at many colleges. One never finds an alumnus admitting openly that he pays $5000 to keep Johnny Jones at Podunk University to win football games for the Alma Mater. Witness what happened to William and Mary College when they tried it. The whole system reeks of foulness all the way from subsidization to asking fraternities to pay the meals of high school guests who are considered prospective athletes. If you can't find an honest system at a university, where are you going to find one?

As for the "blood, sweat, and tears", Mr. Benoit seems to imply that the battle of Waterloo was won on the fields of Eton. We disagree. History proves that brains win most of the battles. Even in the time of the Greeks, the battles of Salamis and Marathon were won by brain power. The exercise of physical muscles is of finite value: the exercise of mental muscles is of infinite value. As for the "paganistic, materialistic contributions"—most of the saints were not athletes.

People like winning teams, naturally. So do we. But we do not want win-at-any-cost athletics.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The Collegian of Tuesday, Feb. 19, literally reeked of the apathetic, irresponsible, and uninformed attitude of this campus toward an attempt at constructive athletic policy; from the testimony of one of "our own" students, the apprehensive editorialist, to that of our President, Dr. Van Meter.

First of all to our editorialist: there is subsidizing and there is subsidizing (defined by Funk and Wagnalls as: "encourage, or partially support by financial assistance.") The University of Notre Dame subsidizes and Boston University subsidizes (I am talking about athletics you understand); Walt Naida, who is here at the U. of M., can testify about the latter type since it is the reason for his transfer, and the men of Notre Dame are testimony themselves of the former. No informed person can justly critiecize Notre Dame in any manner, athletically as we all know, nor academically as perhaps we all don't know. (For those who don't know, the new Notre Dame Inn at South Bend tells the story. Look into it.) The U. of M. is in a marvelous position to follow the Notre Dame formula, that of helping student athletes like those the editor herself commends. There are plenty more Preveys, Gunns, Reebenachers, and Conways and Pynes in this state who belong here—let's help them get here. This type athletic policy does not call for lowered standards and will allow our editor to allay her fears. Furthermore, if there were more here and elsewhere the world over who had contributed the blood, sweat, tears and time of athletes on fields of friendly strife, there would be less of the paganistic, materialistic contributions of your bookworm, brains type.

As to Dr. Van Meter's statement, it is obviously void of any consideration to the contributions of coaching and team spirit (which is a by-product of school spirit). A team like Notre Dame, Michigan, or Pennsylvania, does not win more than its share of games in its league merely because it had better teams man-for-man than its opponents. They are all equal in that respect to begin with. Rather, it is due to superior coaching of Saturday night and that trite old expression "the will to do or die of dear old Podunk". (Witness the Mass. 40—R. I. 7 game of this last fall.) No, that statement of our well-meaning President is too uninformed to be swallowed. The editor and our President should look to their articles and dwell on the contributions they have made toward school spirit here. This institution fosters none of this "do or die" spirit because of these attitudes at the student and administrative levels so fully reflected by the Collegian in these articles.

I suspect that this may be too strong for our editorial staff to publish. However, let me say this was not written on the spur of the moment nor is it a mere reflex from the sting those articles held for me, but was written only after serious consideration and thought.

Most sincerely,
Jack Benoit '52

To the Collegian:

Congratulations on your sane, intelligent view of the Athletic-financial question. Everyone wants a winning team—everyone wants publicity for UM; but at the same time, everyone wants to graduate from a college which sets high standards—and keeps them.

One thing about a statement made in the Treadmill: "we receive the greatest amount of publicity through sports." True, but publicity is a two-edged sword. Several basketball colleges of late have been receiving a great deal of publicity through sports which I am sure they would have been glad to have been without. The idea of "take it easy on the athletes" is, in my opinion, the first step toward that kind of publicity.

Also, it might be pointed out, those athletes who have given us the real publicity have seldom asked for or needed leniency. I don't know Bill Prevey's average, but I don't recall a season in which he was kept off the squad for low marks. The editors of the Index and Collegian, who certainly give up a great deal of their time, never ask for help.

We all want publicity, but let's get it the way it should be gotten—by building up every part of the University.

Dick Letts

Dear Madam Editor:

In the last two issues of the Collegian, various letters have been written commenting on and answering Mr. Litwack's reckless and irresponsible column concerning athletic policy. Some people have been awaiting Mr. Litwack's answer, since apparently he should have much to defend. Where is Mr. Litwack's reply? Rumors have it that he is afraid to answer. Is it because someone has ordered him to be silent concerning the Athletic Department? If this is true, this could be termed censorship. How about it, Larry?

Redmen Drop Season Finale To Huskies

A fighting Redman swimming team was defeated by a heavily favored UConn team by the score of 44-31.

The Huskies took a large early lead, but the Rogersmen came fighting back right up to the final race which the UConn took by a close margin to win the meet.

The highlight of the meet was again Dick Cornfoot. Cornfoot broke the record he set earlier this year by winning the 200 yard backstroke in 2:20.8 to establish a new pool and College record. Cornfoot was undefeated in the complete eight meet slate this season.

Don Bell and Art Belanger both came through with splendid performances to annex a pair of firsts for the Redmen.

Aggies Split; Beat Vermont Lose To Dean

The Stockbridge Aggies under the coaching of Steve Kosakowski split their last two games as they rapidly approached their season's finale. Meeting a Vermont Academy team that had beaten them earlier in the season, the Blue and White gained revenge with a 55-45 verdict.

Comign against a potent Dean Academy quintet, the Aggies suffered their worst defeat of the year 93-49 as four of the Dean starters hit double figures. High for the Aggies in both games were White and Lavallee.

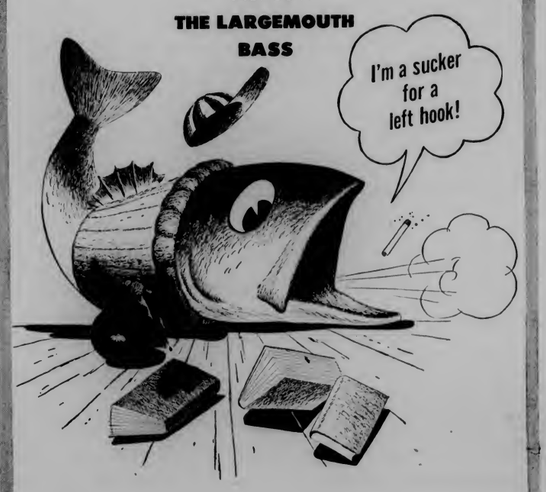
Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 35..

THE LARGEMOUTH BASS



Always a sucker for attractive bait, our aquatic brother went off the deep end and got caught on the quick-trick cigarette hook! But he wormed his way out when he suddenly realized that cigarette mildness can't be tossed off reel lightly. Millions of smokers have found, too, there's only one true test of cigarette mildness.

It's the sensible test—the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

in the street and pedestrians blocking the lens on the sidewalk. The color film industry did a booming business over the holiday weekend, and the exotic lighting effected by the Greeks and independents definitely rated this and much more.

But the interesting part of sculpture time is the period of preparation for those few short minutes of judging. While the male students lug vast garbage pails of mushy, heavy snow, the co-eds bend under wastebaskets of downy fluff, the top layers of the wintry white blanket. "More snow over there, you dope! The wall looks like the coal man aimed his chute at it—cover it up! All right you sidewalk superintendents, get to work! If the damn thing falls apart again, you can build it yourself! Come on, brain-children, fix that motor or the pledges will be harnessed to the wheel!" If we only had a recorder during the building process, would your faces be red!

A bouquet of flowers must be given to Lambda Chi for the way they turned their heartbroken red faces into clean smiles after their near-completed sculpture collapsed. The boys had enough guts and sense of humor to erect a snowman instead, labeling it with the fitting description, FRUSTRATION. They then went ahead for the fun of it and completed a hurried substitute that showed the pluckiness and spirit that fraternity builds.

Congrats are also due to Tri-Zeta for their first sculpture, executed finely enough to be in there fighting with the more experienced houses.

To the winners, the judges have spoken already; to the losers, it's a memory that will ne'er be forgotten.

THE SEVEN DAY SWEATER DIET!

The deadliest poison in a college woman's dress diet, we think, is—sameness! As anybody knows, even if she's not a summa cum laude, every body (the student body, especially) gets tired of wearing the same old thing. And seeing it on someone else.

So because the sweater is as much a fixture on the college campus as a bust of the founder, we'd like to propose a "7-Day Sweater Wardrobe." A sweater a day—with a different color for every day in the week—should really keep the monotony away, as it conversely invites new interest. How about a brilliant "Sweater Septet" of yellow, red, blue, green, white, beige, pink—all made of famous "BOTANY"® BBAND NO-DYE-LOT YARN! Just a few hours of inexpensive knitting per diem with this extra-fluffy, easy-to-handle, 100% virgin wool yarn—and in no time at all you'll be dubbed Sweater Variety Girl of 1952 by some of your classmates . . . and a deadly femme fatale by others.

And you'll never, never run out of yarn with "BOTONY" BRAND NO-DYE-LOT YARN. For whenever you buy it . . . wherever you buy it . . . at school or away . . . you can match any color . . any time . . . anywhere. You can buy "BOTANY" BRAND NO-DYE-LOT YARN at

Student Union Building Policy Continues in Discussion Stage

Van Meter Says Other Buildings Hold Priority Over Student Union

The policy for the eventual construction of the Student Union building has not yet been decided despite recent meetings involving representatives of the Board of Trustees, the Student Life Committee, the Academic Activities Board, and President Van Meter, Treasurer Johnson, and Secretary of the University Burke.

The president said he was in favor of the Student Union building but felt that it should not be a self-liquidating building. If it were erected on a self-liquidating basis, it would mean a student tax of approximately $15 which the President feels the students are in no position to afford.

In the words of the President, the Student Union building is "a legitimate expenditure" for the state to make. He apparently felt, however, that to ask the state legislature for suport of the project would prejudice any efforts made to get buildings which he feels are more important: the dining hall, the women's physical education building, a public health building, additions to the chem laboratories and main engineering building, and a liberal arts building.

Trustee John Deely, according to representatives of the Student Life Committee who were present at the Feb. 7 meeting, was enthusiastic about the Student Union. He could offer no concrete suggestions for procedure but left it to the student body to arrive at a concrete plan. He stated that this should be done only after a policy meeting with the president.

Little Orchestra is World Known; Varied Program Not Cut by Size

The Little Orchestra Society of New York with Thomas Scherman as Conductor will give a concert here in the Curry Hicks Physical Education Building Sunday, March 2, at 8 p.m.

The Little Orchestra plays music especially written for small orchestras by Bach, Mozart, Haydn, Handel, Beethoven, and other masters. A great portion of this music has seldom been heard by American audiences simply because it has never become established in the repertoire of the large symphony orchestras.

Inspired by this idea, Thomas Scherman, a vet of the last war, founded the Little Orchestra Society, an ensemble that contains exactly the same instruments as the large modern orchestras, but being about one-third the size, actually 25 musicians. It is thus a complete symphony and plays works originally composed for an orchestra of this size, not "arrangements."

It is thus a complete symphony orchestra, not a symphonette.

The principal aim was an orchestra that would present the old masters' works in the style, mood, and flavor of their time and to concurrently help the best in contemporary American music find its legitimate place on the concert stage. Director Scherman maintains that he could play new programs for ten more years and not repeat a work, the literature is so vast.

During the 1950-51 season, Mr. Scherman, noting the popularity of theatrical previews and being aware of the limited incomes of so many musically interested people, came up with the idea of "Public Dress Rehearsals". For the price of a neighborhood movie, exactly the same program was to be offered, the only difference being the soloists. In the place of an established star, a carefully selected newcomer was given the opportunity to appear with the society and the audience was thus enabled to hear promising young American talent.

Pointing out that Mozart, Bach, Haydn, and even Beethoven wrote many of their best works for small orchestras, Mr. Scherman discloses that augmented symphonies did not become a pattern until the mid-nineteenth century. Until that time, the personnel of a symphony ranged from 35-50 players. Today most of the top orchestras have more than 100 performers. Although Beethoven tried, it is Berlioz who is credited by most musicologists with reinforcing the en-

No Money For Roads Until Fall

Senator Dick Jones announced that Mr. Brehm, Superintendent of Building and Grounds, has reported that there would be no money for major improvements on the roads this spring. The motion to send a letter to the State Senate concerning the matter was defeated and the problem will go to the Campus Planning Council.

A proposal to reactivate the University Dance Committee which offered financial assistance to any campus organization to run campus-wide dances has been accepted by the senate upon recommendation of Larry Haworth. The committee would take 10 percent of the profit and would be discontinued if the losses exceeded $50 a semester to prevent too much of a drain on the senate treasury. A senator would be chairman of the committee which would include representatives from honorary, academic, departmental and religious groups.

Hayden Tibbetts of the Finance committee reported on rules for the sale of class rings. The following recommendations were accepted:

1. Class rings will be sold only to juniors, seniors and grad students.
2. The junior class officers will comprise the ring committee.
3. The president of the junior class will be chairman of the committee and will sign the contract.
4. The president must make a financial report to the Senate in May before the last Senate meeting. The report must be filed both junior and senior years.
5. Not less than 50 percent of the total commissions earned by the class officers on the rings must be put in the class treasury.

John Dillon of the Athletic Committee found that all bona fide

Lack of Funds Stops Building of Paths

The paved paths from the cage to the cinder block dorms and from the libe to the L. A. annex, which were supposed to be constructed this spring, will probably not be undertaken until fall, according to Mr. George Brehm, Supt. of Buildings and Grounds.

Insufficient funds, the pressing need of other work on campus and preparing for commencement were given as the reasons for the delay.

It is expected that the paths, which have been demanded by student pressure, will be completed by September.

Take Care of My Little Girl

Women students of the classes of '53 and '54 who are interested in applying for positions on dormitory house councils as counselors or house chairmen for next year are invited to apply. Application blanks may be secured from housemothers or from the Office of the Dean of Women. They must be received by Miss Helen Curtis, Dean of Women, by noon Friday, March 14.

Final selections, which will be announced in April, will be made from recommendations by present house councils, dormitory and sorority housemothers and the Senate Committee on Women's Affairs. Financial need is not a consideration. Selections will be made on the basis of personal qualifications of maturity, leadership, dependability, and scholarship.

Stronger Judiciary Looks For Quality

Candidates for the Men's Judiciary will be heard by the Men's Affairs Committee of the senate on Tuesday, March 4, 1952. The committee invites all freshmen, sophomore and junior men interested in serving on this important board to attend the regular committee meeting, at 7 p.m. in Skinner, room 4, to state their qualifications and their reasons for desiring the post. From the group of candidates who apply to the committee next week, they will select five men to serve on the board next year.

The Men's Judiciary, until this year, has had little or no power. It was responsible for punishing traffic violations, until the Dean's office took over that function this fall. At the request of this year's group, the judiciary was given the power to try all cases concerning violations of dormitory regulations. This, along with interpreting the student government constitution, is the major function of the group at present.

Varieties 1st Show A Hit; Ends Tonight

by Joe Crosby

The first showing of the 1952 Campus Varieties showed a great improvement over the productions of previous years. Last night's performance proves that with unusual scenery, sets and better performances, the Varieties can be a first class show.

The talent for the show this year is much better than we have ever had for this completely student written, produced and directed show. Never before has the Varieties been able to gather together such a tremendous cast.

Many students will remember the terrific performance of "Row, row, row" given by Frankie Sottile two years ago. Those who missed this hysterical rendition before will not want to miss out again.

The dialogue between Marlene Wolk and Charlotte Volk, and Carol Smith's rendition of "A Little Girl from Little Rock" are two of the better performances of the show.

The spectacle ends with Rollo Gagnon rendition of "I'll Build a Stairway to Paradise" from "An American

Editors Revamp New Quarterly

If the student body recognizes the Quarterly after the new staff has completed its innovations, the only clue will be the title on the cover. Not only will there be a larger edition than those formerly presented, but there also should be a wide selection of reading matter.

Some of the new feaures will include a letter to the Editor's page. This is a wonderful opportunity for those who have always expressed so many complaints about the magazine to get those views off their chests and on the editors' minds. This column also invites and looks forward to a few letters based on some literary issue of current note, or sonic point brought up by some recent Quarterly publication. The magazine is a literary publication, and as such, hopes to present current trends and views.

The enlarged art department will be employed to illustrate stories and poems. Art contributions from non-staff members will also be used.

To replace the old, stereotyped editorial, Bill McGrath has initiated the idea of a more informal column which shall become a standard feature of the publication. It will be a "news and views" type of thing, intended as much for enjoyment and

France Awards UM For Fifth Time

The Maison Francaise of the University of Massachusetts is the recipient of a French Government award presented by M. Rene de de Messieres of the French Embassy at New York.

The award was divided equally between two members of the French House with each receiving 26,500 ($75) francs. The recipients of the award given in recognition of service were Miss Barbara Flaherty and Miss Yvette Monnet. Miss Monnet is a graduate fellow and teaching assistant in the Department of Romance Languages; Miss Flaherty is a departmental teaching assistant and editor of the Collegian.

With this award, France has honored the U. of M. five times since the end of World War II, despite complications in her intense post-war reconstruction. Miss Monnet and Miss Flaherty received the awards at a special French Club-French House program Feb. 19.

STUDENT PRINCE TICKETS

Tickets for "The Student Prince" are still available at Bowker for $.60, $1.00, and $1.50. There are plenty of good seats for the performances on March 18, 19, and 20, and balcony seats for the 21st and 22nd.

Pearl Primus Brings Negro Dance Poetry

Pearl Primus, young Negro dancer, who went alone into the heart of the African jungle to live and study African dance, will give a concert at the U. of M. in the Hicks Physical Education Cage on March 12 at 8 p.m.

Pearl Primus has been hailed as "outstanding." She has trained her own troupe of dancers, musicians, and singers.

The U. of M. concert is under the sponsorship of the Women's Phys. Ed. Dept. Tickets are now on sale at Drill Hall. Student tickets may be purchased at 90 cents each.

Time Waits For No Man

Before any of us were students at the University, the alumni were thinking of building a Student Union. They have set aside $100,000 for the building. A significant contribution was made last year when $1400 was allotted for a comprehensive report by the nation's foremost expert, Porter Butts. The question now seems to be the financing of such a building.

We feel there should be no problem here at all. The Student Union should be a state expenditure, either a total expenditure or one that will match a sum put up by the alumni and students combined: $900,000 in private funds is a great deal to hope for. The fear that any one of the buildings we request will be denied is not well-founded. The men who compose the Massachusetts Building Commission are intelligent men: when we asked for dormitories first two or three years ago, we got dormitories first. If we request the six buildings already on the priority list and add to it the Student Union, there is no reason to expect the last two or three items will be cut. They know we would not request the buildings unless they were needed. One thing is certain: we will never have money appropriated if we never put the Student Union on the priority list.

We disagree with the president when he says other buildings are of more importance. The need of the campus for a center of social activity is just as acute as any need for classroom space. Mem Hall was built in 1921 with a three-fold purpose in mind: it was to be a memorial to the college boys who had been killed in action in France; it was to be the headquarters of the alumni association; and it was to be the center of student recreation and activities. Of necessity Mem Hall developed into a commuters' building. It has long been outgrown by the quadrupling of the student body and the increase in number of student organizations to 80 at the present time. Thirty-one years later Mem Hall is still a commuters' building. How can we say this is still unavoidable?

The largest auditorium on campus seats one-sixth of the college community. Student dramatic productions are presented under limitations of a small stage in a lecture hall due to lack of a theater. The statement is often made that we suffer from a dearth of lectures and concerts, but each time a group would like to bring a prominent speaker to the campus, it is forced to hold the event in Bowker if a large audience is anticipated. If an informal discussion or coffee hour is desirable afterwards, everyone either walks over to Skinner—in all kinds of weather—or else rugs, furniture, and floor lamps, are moved in by the organization to try to make a decent meeting place out of rooms 113 and 114 in Stockbridge Hall.

Occasionally Mem Hall Lounge is available for speakers. If we are lucky enough to find the hall free, we still have the problem of hiding half the furniture because it is so dilapidated we are ashamed of it.

When we consider dances, we are forced to alternate between borrowing Amherst College's gym and going to Northampton for a hall large enough for the annual Military Ball. For smaller dances, Drill Hall is available, but with its heavy atmosphere and the difficulty of decorating, not even a genius could make it suitable for dances. Mem Hall is usually tied up by orchestra rehearsals. The Cage, of course, is too large.

The Cage should not have to be used for concerts. The chairs or the bleachers are anything but conducive to the enjoyment of a concert, though the music often makes us forget the hardness of the chairs. From $500 to $1000 per year would establish a series of lectures in the Liberal Arts, enabling the University to bring in men like Robert Frost to add leaven to the daily lectures and studies—if we first had a decent hall.

Until we get a Student Union building, the dormitory students have only the facilities available to them at the dorms—in the men's dorms, the facilities are practically nil. There is a noticeable lack of cohesion among the independents for they have no common area in which to get together. Not to be overlooked is the fact that a Student Union would certainly relieve the social burden now placed on Goodell Library, which is too small for those who want to study let alone for those who use the library as a rendezvous for dates.

With the size of our present University in mind, we must realize that there are needs which cannot long go unsatisfied if the University is to remain effective. A certain minimum of physical facilities must be met. How could any legislator in all conscience say that at present those needs have been met? How can a legislator have visited our campus as far back as four years ago, inspected that firetrap, Liberal Arts Annex, and then in all conscience gone back to Boston under the assumption that the University did not need a Liberal Arts building?

Alan W. Bell, editor of the Collegian in 1940, wrote in the May 2 issue that the Math building was a firetrap which "couldn't last much longer". It is still standing, but what are we waiting for—someone to get trapped in a fire before we get all excited? We never learn to walk on the sidewalks until someone we know gets killed for walking on the road.

We are sometimes told by the conservative members of the faculty that 10 years in the life of a University is a short period of time. Ten minutes in the life of a person is a short time too, but who wants a toothache for 10 minutes? We can't afford to wait—some programs such as those of the Lib Arts building have been put off entirely too long.

Unquestionably the president, the treasurer, and the secretary of the University know that time waits for no man. We have need of action—immediate action. Trustee John Deely has put it up to us. The student body was largely responsible for changing the name of Mass. State to the U. of M. What is to prevent us from binding together to get a Student Union building for ourselves?

The next issue will contain a concrete plan for this proposed action.

Ladies, Ladies!

At Tuesday's meeting of the Senate, Miss Stephan suggested that the Senate recommend the Liberal Arts building be moved up to second place on the priority list of the Mass. Building Program. The Senate rejected the proposal largely because of the objections of several women members present. They claimed the Women's Physical Education building was more important.

We have but one comment. U. of M. students take seven courses on the average over their four years in the Liberal Arts building. Physical education for women is required in the first two years with a few girls electing it for their last two. We realize there is a need for both, but which concerns more people? For shame, ladies!

Letters To Editor

Dear Madam Editor:

I noticed that Mr. Delaney in his letter to the editor in the last issue stated, "Rumors have it that he (Mr. Litwack) is afraid to answer. Is it because someone has ordered him to be silent concerning the Athletic Department?"

Is there any truth in this?

It would not be the first time a student has been told to be silent in matters regarding the Athletic Department.

For years the $20 per year athletic fee paid by each student has been considered a part of the Student Tax. The Student Government Constitution in Article II, section 12, gives to the Student Senate Finance Committee the power to review allocations of student tax funds.

Last year the Finance Committee, of which I was chairman, made what was in the light of the aforementioned provision of the Constitution, a legitimate request of the Athletic department for an accounting of the funds collected from the students for this fee.

At first the Athletic department extended its fullest co-operation. However, before the investigation was complete, the Committee, in a special meeting held in the President's Office on March 28, 1951, was informed that the Student Senate had absolutely no jurisdiction in this matter and that the Committee must cease its review of the athletic fee. The explanation was that this money paid for athletics is an administrative fee and not a student tax.

That closed the matter. However, as a result, the Committee never did receive an answer to several questions that we believed were of the utmost interest to the student body and which we believed were the right of the student body to know.

Is the Athletic Department sacred?

Bob Pehrson'52

(Editor's Note: Mr. Pehrson has a valid point. It is of no use to talk about athletics on the one hand if we are to follow a completely different policy on the other. The Collegian of March 30, 1951 carries the complete account of the meeting Mr. Pehrson refers to.)

To Mr. Benoit:

In coming across your letter, I started a slow burn when I realized that you hadn't checked into any facts concerning your editor, Miss Barbara Flaherty.

Would Miss Flaherty, as president of Isogon, have spent time making the dummy for the football rally bonfire; delivering, personally, rally posters to each dorm, fraternity, and sorority; and writing articles for the Collegian urging the student body to support wholeheartedly the football team if she were trying to put a damper on campus spirit? This I and other students have seen—it is not heresay.

The Collegian printed a straight factual news story on page one, and an opinion on page two. I, too, am not in full agreement with Miss Flaherty's views, but to say that "The editor . . . should look to their articles and dwell on the contributions they have made toward school spirit here," was the straw that broke the back of your letter.

Leave us be logical, Mr. Benoit. Get the facts, sir, or the facts will get you!

Informingly yours,
Bruce Fox

After plowing through columns and columns of debate on subsidized athletics and the values of publicity derived therefrom, we were greatly dismayed—no, shocked at the absence of suitable coverage of another one of the University's greatest publicity getters, namely the Snow Sculptures. Granted thousands of residents of this area flocked to see the results of the contest, but we question whether the Collegian adequately and accurately reported the event to the student body. Many students were away from the campus, returning to find only faint resemblances to the exhibitions of craftmanship and spirit which the sculptures were.

Even the small mention which we did find was placed under the dubious heading of "FAUX PAS." To those of us who worked into the wee hours of many mornings to plan and construct the sculptures, they were not "Faux Pas," but carefully preconceived and patiently executed exhibits.

This year we are receiving greater outside publicity than ever before (even from TV), but still the acceptance and recognition of our work by our fellow students, i.e. the Collegian, is of PRIME importance to us.

We hope that by calling your attention to what we feel has been a flagrant omission, you can prevent such occurrences from happening in future issues.

(Editor's Note: We apologize for not having satisfied a large number of the students in this regard. We have but four pages and do the best we can; we considered the athletic question of greater importance.

We assign reporters to regular beats such as the Deans, departments, etc. Publicity for organizations or committees, such as the Winter Carnival, comes in to us from their publicity chairmen. We had no stories turned in to us by the Carnival committee on the awards made.

In the future we will, however, do our best to rectify omissions such as these by assigning special reporters.)

COLLECTOR'S ITEM!

The passion for collecting is one of the most universal urges. Small boys are known to be birds' egg collectors, and little girls have their dolls, grown-ups their sundry variables such as stamps, coins, rare prints, and matchcovers. We even know one person who gathers four-leaf clovers and of course, you're familiar with DeMaupassant's famous character who was obsessed by pieces of string. But our subject for today happens to be college girls—and one of the most useful as well as ornamental objects they collect are sweaters.

For class, "around the campus" or around the sorority house fire-place, you can't have too many soft, fluffy, colorful sweaters in your wardrobe. And you'd be surprised how easily, quickly and inexpensively you can knit yourself a complete selection of pullovers and cardigans . . . one for every day in the week . . . with "BOTANY"* BRAND NO-DYE-LOT YARNS.

Here's yarn spun from a cloud of finest 100% virgin wool—but even more than that, "BOTANY" BRAND NO-DYE-LOT Yarn enables you to finish your sweater with the same color with which you start. (And deliciously bright colors they are, too.) Wherever you buy this yarn . . . YOU CAN MATCH ANY COLOR . . . ANY TIME . . . ANYWHERE. You can buy "BOTANY" BRAND DYE-LOT YARN at

by Beth Hawkes

Last Monday night, as I was scanning WMUA in search of news for today's paper, I received a phone call which completely solved my problem. The call was from our assignment editor who wanted a story about Revolving Bandstand, the oldest continuous program on WMUA's schedule.

The assignment couldn't have come at a more opportune moment, as Revolving Bandstand was on the air at the time.

The exact date of the start of Revolving Bandstand cannot be pinned down, but it may be assumed to have been included in the 1948-1949 programming. A talk with Lanty Higgins, one of the few seen on members of the staff, revealed that the program really got going in the fall of 1949. Then, as now, the show was divided into half-hour segments, with a new disc jockey every thirty minutes.

This semester, the following disc jockeys may be heard on the night-time chapters of Revolving Bandstand: Dick Holm, Bob Factor, Bob Graham, Bob Smith, Ritchie Robertson, and Frank Spear. They all come under the jurisdiction of Frank Donovan, Head Disc Jockey and Dan Davies, Production Director.

Popular music has been the overall theme of the program; however, the aim of the station has always been to let the personality of the individual mold to a large extent the pattern of the program. Thus it is hard to assign any distinct category to the Revolving Bandstand show, beyond that of popular music. The music is usually limited to records less than five years old, but some announcers get a kick out of digging way back into time and pulling out a few songs all covered with cobwebs.

Many of the disc jockeys stress or even build complete programs around certain recording artists, such as Perry Como, Doris Day, or George Shearing. With the great diversity of personal tastes of the "d. j.s", a large variety of music is offered to you, the listening public.

Frank Donovan and Larry Higgins, the popular masters of ceremonies of Friday's Crazy Rhythms and Saturday's Lucky Seven, both got their starts with Revolving Bandstand, which was then broadcast from 4:00-6:00 PM. They were among the real originals, since it wasn't until last year that WMUA undertook to expand and improve its programming. This semester, Revolving Bandstand can be heard from 8:00-9:00 PM on Monday and Friday, and from 8:30-9:00 PM on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The reason for the decrease in time is that the first half hour on those

Redmen Skiers Beat Williston

The newly formed U. of M. ski team, undaunted by the handicap of poor skiing conditions, has already made an impressive record for the University.

In their first meet, a quadrangle contest on Tinker Slope, the Redmen took 3rd and 11th in the Downhill race and 7th, 9th, and 11th, in the jumping contest against the highly trained men from Amherst, Williams, and Harvard.

Competing in outside meets, the Redmen entered Irv Pearson in the jumping meet at Bolton where he placed 9th. In the Eastern jumping meet at Greenfield, Ken Wilde and Whitie Barrows finished 15th and 25th.

The team won a very decisive victory in a three event meet with Williston Academy. Ken Wilde, the outstanding skier of the meet, took a first in the downhill, followed by Barrows in 3rd. Pearson in 5th, and Carney 6th. In the slalom race, Wilde was first, Cotton 2nd, Barrows 4th, and Carney 5th. Wilde came through again to take 1st in the jump followed by Pearson 2nd. Barrows 4th, and Carney 8th.

Entering the Giant Slalom race at A. I. C., the Redmen finished third trailing A. I. C. and B. U. but leading Amherst and Wesleyan. Wilde placed 4th in the slalom runs relaxation as for information.

The idea of a book revue will be continued from the last issue. It is hoped that if the students are interested in some specific book being reviewed, they will call this book to the attention of the staff.

The next change is the enlargement of the staff and the new type of competitions being held. These competitions are now composed of an essay on the theory of literature. Suggested topics were: a comparison of contemporary literature and the literature of some definite period in the past, the trend of modern literature, or a critical analysis of some well-known literary piece. In all of these, it is essential that the writer bear two major points in mind. First, this is not to be merely an opinionated document; literary criteria and a set of standards should definitely be stated. You know what you mean, make sure the staff does, too. Second, all contributions for these staff competitions should be written with an eye towards publication in some future issue of the Quarterly.

The essays should range from 1-2 thousand words in length, and should be typed double space. They should either be given to staff members or left in the Quarterly office. As they will be considered for publication, none shall be returned. The closing date for submission is April 1.

It is through these and other means that the staff hopes to present a more interesting and larger Quarterly, in which every student can take an active part and through which students can learn literary trends and give their opinions on literature and art.

members of the sports teams can attend the Sportsmen's Banquet whether or not they are lettermen. He also reported that the U. of M. now has a publicity man from Boston on campus at least one day a week who is in charge of news releases to Boston papers and radio stations.

The senate accepted the constitutions of the Sociology Club, Chrisostom, formerly the Hellenic Club, and the Interdormitory Council. Sophie Sowyrda announced that unless constitutions were presented from the Modern Music Club, the Spanish Club, and the Air Cadet Squad, their activities would be suspended.

Pauline Stephan's suggestion that a Liberal Arts building project be put before others, such as a Women's Phys. Ed. building, was defeated.

Bob Tuttle from Berkshire was sworn in as senator by Don Clifford, Chief Justice of Men's Judiciary.

AC AC Fee Undivided With Athletic Tax

A division of the athletic tax from the activities fee on the University bill is being looked into by Hayden Tibbetts, finance chairman of the Student Senate. This division was supposed to have started in 1949 but for some unknown reason it has never been done.

Last year, when the finance committee was summoned to a meeting with the president of the University, it was established that the Student Senate had no control over the activities tax since it is a tax and not a fee. Since then it has been established that this tax was to be separated from the regular activities fee, which the senate does control, on the bills that are sent home each semester.

One story has it that a move to clarify this tax was lost in the change of administration from Pres. Baker to Pres. Van Meter.

Camera Club

What makes a photograph better than just a snapshot? What makes it worth a first prize in a photo contest? These questions will be answered at the next meeting of the U. of M Camera Club, Thursday, March 6, at 7 p.m. in Old Chapel, room C, when Prof. John Vondeli will speak on "The Idea in the Picture." The talk will be illustrated by many of Prof. Vondell's prize-winning pictures, illustrations and magazine work. The meeting will be open to the public, especially those interested in achieving better pictures.

The Camera Club held elections at the last meeting and the following officers were chosen for this semester: president, Paul Creen, '54; secretary-treasurer, Natalie Crowell, '54; program committee, Edward Herberg, '54; publicity, Bob Burbank, '55. The group has plans for an active semester and will meet the third and first Thursdays of the month in Old Chapel.

larged orchestra. Liszt and Wagner, aided in the revolution and by 1870 much of the mus. of Bach, Handel, and Mozart was either rearranged to fit the greater number of musicians or dropped completely.

Scherman began delving into the vast amounts of material and came upon composers that people had almost forgotten: Spoor, Pleyel, Gossec, and Stamitz were just a few. Then, scanning the output of contemporary composers he was shocked to find that they were not writing for the smaller orchestra, although such an outlet could be economically fruitful. From then on, his principal aim was an orchestra that would present the old masters' works in the style, mood, and flavor of their time and to concurrently help the best in contemporary American music find its legitimate place on the concert stage. It took Scherman ten years to realize his goal but finally, on Oct. 20, 1947, the Little Orchestra made its debut to a sold out New York Town Hall audience. To both the audience and the critics, it was an instantaneous success and hailed as a "freshening new force in New York's musical life," by Olin Downes.

Just one more item—we have a request from the program department of WMUA. They have asked me to remind you that no requests can be taken on any night other than Friday. Letters to Editor . . .

To the Editor:

According to all publications, including an article in the Collegian, the official theme of Winter Carnival Snow Sculptures was to be Winter Carnival. All competitors, working on this supposition, gave much consideration to planning a sculpture with an original theme pertaining to Winter Carnival. Since it has never been a policy in the past to limit the theme in this manner, many original and superior plans had to be discarded throughout the campus. However, due to postponement of the sculptures, and in the absence of two committeemen, the limitation was lifted after work had been started by the campus groups under the original rules. Official notice of this change, due to possible inefficiency, failed not only to reach competing groups but even one of the co-chairmen of the Winter Carnival. I am sure that I am not alone in wondering who is responsible for this and why the change was not made public.

Sincerely,
Ann Peterson '52

(Editor's Note: We have found thrpugh checking that the publicity chairman of the Carnival was asked to put the notice in the paper. Each person contacted said he had done his share in informing the places he was given to telephone, yet some places did not receive word. Someone slipped up apparently, but no one is willing to say who.)

The report made by the Wisconsin expert sets up the plans for a Student Union building. The alumni have $100,000 toward it now: $900,000 more is needed. The key issue appears to be: should the state be asked to finance the whole project; should the money come from private funds; should the state match the amount contributed by the alumni and the student body if the students are willing?

Division of Athletic - Student Tax Promised, But Not Made!

The athletic activities tax discussed in the last issue of the Collegian was revealed today to be still listed in the 1952-53 issue of the University Catalogue as a part of the student activity tax.

According to the story in the March 30, 1951 issue of the Collegian, it was agreed in a conference in the President's office that the $20 paid annually by every student to the athletic department would be listed as a University fee instead of a student tax.

However, this change was never made with the result that the student body is still paying $20 a year out of a total of $38.50 to defray part of the athletic department expenses.

The last conference in the prexy's office was designed to eliminate the practice of listing the amount under the heading of student tax since the Senate may review all student taxes. However, since that time nothing has been done.

1100 Attend Sun. Concert

by Will Richter

A small but enthusiastic audience of an estimated 1100 persons were present in the Curry Hicks Cage Sunday night to welcome the Little Orchestra Society of New York at their first concert on our campus.

From any point of view, the performance was nearly perfect. The balance between the choirs of the 25-piece orchestra is tonally excellent, although a platform under the woodwinds and brasses might have given them a little more strength to simulate the resonance of a true concert hall. The acoustics were, however, ideal for the string choir.

The program opened with the "Dances from Orfeo and Eurydice," by Gluck featuring a flute soloist on the "Solo of Eurydice." The "Concertino for Trumpet and Strings" by Knudage Riisager which followed presented Robert Nagel as solo trumpeter. The composition was somewhat reminiscent of John Alden Carpenter and Ferde Grofe, and thoroughly enjoyable, and Mr. Nagel, while as yet not a second Levy, displayed real virtuousity on the triple-tonguing and more difficult double-tonguing called for in the Allegro and the Rondo vivace.

The Concerto No. 26 in D major for Piano and Orchestra was next performed with Abba Bogin as solo pianist. Mr. Bogin's touch, phrasing,

RD's Vermont Show Gets Tart Comment

The Roister Doisters initiated the stage of the newly built million dollar high school in Brattleboro, Vt., with their performance of Light Up the Sky.

According to Director Arthur Niedeck, they found the Brattleboro people a very good audience. "People were very cooperative and hospitable," Mr. Niedeck said. "Even the janitor expressed an 'I-hope-you-come-back-again' to the cast."

One highlight of the evening came during the third act. The players found their alchemy to be a success. When Carlton, played by Bob Ballard, announced his characteristic "I could cry!" one little boy's voice was heard above the whole audience: "Hah! I knew he was gonna say that."

'Prince' Production To Cost Over $5,000

The Student Prince production will cost well over $5,000, the Operetta Guild announced today.

The list of expenses is not yet complete, but royalty rates alone will come to $1275.00 for permission to stage the Romberg musical for five nights. Costumes, another big item, will be approximately $1600. Scenery, lighting, props, etc. will cost over $1000.

Production of a play on Broadway costs approximately $50,000 to $75,000. Production of a musical on the "great white way" runs to $250,000. Here on the University campus, a play whose royalty rate is $100.00 for a three-day run, is considered high production. And now that the Operetta Guild has decided to produce musical shows their task is really great.

Last year's production of Bringdown was at least $1,000.00 less than this year's Student Prince.

Is This A Welfare Institution?

In keeping with our editorial comments in the last issue, we would like to suggest that a committee of interested students be set up to work toward a Liberal Arts building and a Student Union building. This committee would be under a steering body such as Adelphia and Isogon or the Campus Cabinet.

The committee could start with two points: (1) a strong recommendation that the Liberal Arts building be moved up to first place on the priority list with Student Union a close second and (2) a presentation of student opinion to the president, treasurer, and secretary regarding the size and cost of the Student Union.

The first need of the committee would be to acquaint itself with all information available on the Student Union. The report by Mr. Butts was submitted to Mr. Emery on August 9, 1951. We assume that there must be a committee somewhere of perhaps five members who should be reading this report, drawing up specific plans, and requesting funds. One task of the committee would be to find who, if anyone, is doing this. Maybe the action is so slow because nobody is doing this. Should the committee find no one doing it, then they might take the proper action for furthering the interests of the Student Union.

Certain basic questions must be answered by the committee. Before a Student Union can be placed on a priority list, those who request it must know how much money to request. This involves knowing the size of the Union we want: is it to contain a theater, for example? If so, how large a theater? Is Mem Hall to be used as a shell around which to construct the Student Union or will we set aside Mem Hall as a fine arts building and start a completely new Student Union elsewhere? Will we request one million or two?

The basic need of the committee, therefore, is information. Once they are in possession of any information they themselves could find, they might ask the president for additional information he might have which could change the situation. The committee could then determine when the Student Union should appear on the budget.

We understand that the president is in favor of the Student Union. The committee, with the president, should ask to appear before the Board of Trustees in full committee to present the reasons why we need the Liberal Arts and Student Union buildings immediately.

This committee should work responsibly with the president. It should also be a committee that will not stop at the first obstacle they encounter but will carry the project through—to the state legislature if necessary.

A particular machine does not run unless all the cogs making up the machine are in place. The Liberal Arts and Student Union Buildings are two cogs without which this University cannot run effectively. Plans that call for the rebuilding of the Women's Physical Education building and other buildings would be outgrown before the construction was completed. Are we a welfare institution that we must continually use the patchwork method of meeting the needs for physical facilities? The attitude that the Liberal Arts and Student Union buildings will not be forthcoming for another 25 years is a weak attitude of compromise, which is dangerous in the case of the Liberal Arts Annex.

The University needs your opinions and ideas. We would like them to be as responsible and concrete as the spirit in which this request is made.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

Once again I feel obliged to send my congratulations upon your fine editorials. The reply to Mr. Benoit was excellent, but I particularly wish to commend you upon the review of the bill which came within two votes of making U.M. a degree-factory for those who scrape through Massachusetts high schools. In a time when racial and religious barriers are being swept away all over the country, only the Massachusetts legislature could find 17 short-sighted politicians who would vote for the restriction of applicants to a university.

In a time when U.M. is fighting to gain a nation-wide reputation, and the respect of the collegiate world (or at least the eastern part of the state), the idea of lowering our entrance standards so that any high school graduate can enter is the most ridiculous thing imaginable. As it is, we are perilously close to the point where a student may, in certain fields, purchase his diploma by paying four years' tuition and living on campus.

Personally, I can think of no better aim for us than to make this university as good an institution as Harvard or Yale. There is no need to "compete;" there are enough good students for all. But if we are to get our share of these good students, we must merit them, by keeping our standards high.

Dick Lettis

Dear Editor,

As an alumnus of the U. of M., I read your recent editorial on our alumni with great interest. Only one point I take issue on. I am not dead from the neck up. I may be slightly groggy on occasion, especially Sunday mornings, but I am definitely not dead.

Sincerely,
Dusty Evski

(Editor's Note: Mr. Evski has misquoted us. We said "dead from the ankles up". We meant just that.)

To the Editor:

I believe that a little more information about bills in the State legislature would be beneficial to the campus. It would seem, by the bill attempting to limit the student body to Massachusetts students, that our solons in Boston have begun again to use this University as a political football. Although this bill must have been on the floor of the legislature for several days, the general public, and especially the student body here, heard nothing about the proposed action until the final vote was taken.

Bills that pertain to the 3500 students here also pertain to the citizens of the Commonwealth. Why, then, weren't these students aware of actions that might seriously have affected them? This bill might not have a direct effect upon us now, but there will be more bills that will. Don't we, the student body, have the right to know what is happening in Boston before it becomes law, to voice our opinions in regard to those laws that affect us? If such matters are decided upon in Boston first and then publicized, what kind of legislation are we paying for?

The newspapers cannot print what they do not know. The trouble lies, I think, with our board of trustees. If they set up and maintain a firm policy regarding the political position of this University, they may be able to put a stop to the adulteration that this state receives at the hands of Beacon Hill. If it were possible to establish some sort of lobby in Boston for the U. of M., if just to inform the public before it was too late as to those matters concerning the UM, this political footballing could be controlled.

I am sure that if many of our Alumni could see the way their elected representatives are treating their Alma Mater and the way the trustees sit back and take it, something could be done. I would also like to ask what the trustees are doing if the legislature is making all the rules? In my opinion, a state university should be supported by the state, not run by it—that is the job of the educators.

Here, then, is a situation that could use some investigation. Just why is our university being kicked around this way and why hasn't something been done about it? This is a question that should be of concern not only to us, the students, and to our parents, who pay our bills, but to the entire Commonwealth. After all, it's their university, not the legislature's.

Redmen Drop Final Game As Kaminski, Prevey Star

Prevey Sets New Record

Scoring his only basket of the night, Bill Pappas of New Hampshire stole the ball with three seconds to play and hooped it to give the Wildcats an uphill win over the Redmen, 72-71, before a rabid audience of 2000 fans.

The Redmen, taking the lead at the opening tapoff, held the lead during the entire game but never by a wide margin. Sparking the U-Mass attack in the first half was the uncanny shooting of Bernie Kaminski with 16 points. In the second half, Kaminski tapered off while Captain Bill Prevey took up the slack to the tune of 18 points for the half.

However, the Wildcats' accuracy on the foul line meant the game as they scored 20 foul shots to wrap up the victory, their tenth in 19 games.

Captain Bill Prevey, shooting for two Yankee Conference records, was forced to settle for a split. Aiming at the record for most points during a Conference season set at 151, he missed his target by five points as he tallied 20 points bringing his total to 146. However, the mark for the best Conference average for a single season set at 21.5 went before the savage onslaught of the North Adams star whose 146 points in six games gave him a new record of 24.3.

High man for the night was Bernie Kaminski with his high for the year, 25 points. Kaminski just missed tying one of Prevey's records for most field goals in one game as he hooped 12, one short of the mark. All the more credit went to Kaminski when he passed off to Prevey under the basket to make the points. Henry Mosychuk was the only other Redmen starter to hit double figures as the Redmen finished the season with a 4-17 mark.

Aldrich Leads Redmen To Win Over Amherst

The varsity track team closed out their winter season on a successful note as they whipped a potent squad from Amherst College, 62-51. The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

Last Saturday night's game saw the finest example of sportsmanship seen on this campus in quite a while. Bernie Kaminski had been hot all night scoring 16 points in the first half. In the second half, Kaminski went racing down the floor with Prevey (who had scored only two points the first half but who was shooting for a Yankee Conference scoring record) on a two man break. Underneath the basket Prevey passed to Kaminski to make the shot, but Bernie passed back to Prevey who scored.

Had Kaminski not passed the shot off, he could have tied Prevey's record for most field goals in one game, but Bernie paid his final tribute to the greatest basketball star of University history who was playing his last collegiate game.

Another example of courage was shown in the Amherst track meet last week when Joe Kelsey injured himself in the second lap of the 440 but hung on to complete another lap and win his heat although in great pain. Harry Aldrich displayed some of the finest track skill seen here as he dropped out of the two mile race after 10 laps to save himself for a winning performance in the 880, the first time he has run that distance this year. Everyone came through in the track team's most coveted victory in years.

The announcement of the new line coach will soon be made. The name of the man has already been sent to Boston and is expected to be approved in about a week. The man is well known to many Greater Boston football fans and should be no surprise to those in the know.

Prevey's selection for the N. E. College All-Stars for Thursday night's game is only fitting considering the fact that he is one of the outstanding players in the New England area.

and pedaling were in the real Mozart tradition, and even during the second movement, a section virtually indistinguishable from any other Mozart second movement, were executed with precision.

The string choir continued with Arensky's "Variations on a Theme of Tchaikovsky for Strings" which suggested Tchaikovsky's "Mozratiana" in some places, Rimsky-Korsakov's "Russian Easter Overture" in others. The concluding selection, Haydn's "Symphonie Concertante for Violin, 'Cello, Bassoon, Oboe and Orchestra" introduced four new soloists who performed with precision this interesting work, although the violin was not, perhaps, quite in tune.

The audience demanded an encore, and Mr. Scherman complied with the Minuet from Beethoven's Septet.

On the whole, it is to be hoped that the Little Orchestra Society will make a second appearance with us soon, with, however, a program of wider appeal. This reviewer enjoyed each selection but would have appreciated more a concert like that given by the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra last year, which, like Eugene Ormandy's programs, was chosen to please everyone with something, and closed more strongly.

There will be a meeting of those interested in the radio production to be given by Roister Doisters on Tuesday evening at 7:30 in Old Chapel Seminar room. Hope to see you there.

SWEATER DANCE
BUTTERFIELD
FRIDAY AT 8

African Culture Expert, Pearl Primus, To Dance

Pearl Primus, who will be the featured artist in Hicks Physical Education Building Cage for one performance only on Wednesday, March 12, at 8 p.m., is a young Negro woman who began her career as a medical student at Hunter College.

Miss Primus and her company of dancers and musicians have just returned from a European tour which included a Command Performance at London's Victoria Palace on Oct. 29, 1951, a series of 30 concerts in Israel, and appearances in France and Italy. Her program here will contain numbers from the programs she presented at the Command Performance and at the Inauguration ceremonies of President William V. Tubman, of Monrovia, Liberia. The agenda includes a melange of the cultural dances of the African natives, the ancient folk-lore dances of the Afro-Cubans, as well as those of the deep south during slavery days, and the hot-cha rhythms of today's Harlem in New York. The concert is sponsored by the Women's Physical Education Department. Student admission is 90 cents.

John Martin of the New York Times has said of Miss Primus, "She has tremendous dramatic power, the zayest kind of comedy lilt, and a technique that fairly bowls you over." He also said, "No other Negro dancer has yet appeared with anything like her artistic range or her innate equipment. Her great gifts are racially rooted, but not bound by any means to mere tropical treatment. While she can do the popular kind of Harlemesque thing to which most Negro dancers are generally forced to confine themselves, she is also a broadly creative artist."

In 1949 Miss Primus was awarded the Star of Africa by President Tubman. This highest honor, heretofore awarded to those of ambassadorial and high military rank, was given to Miss Primus for "her great contribution to the understanding of African culture through the dance."

Miss Primus calls her work Primal Dance technique. But primal does not

Arming West Germany Is Error — Dean

by Joan Wrightson

Dr. Vera Dean stated in her address on foreign policy last Tuesday night in Bowker Auditorium that the great weakness of Russia is that she is not able to provide the need all people possess for freedom. In this statement, she announced, lies the strength of the United States.

Dr. Dean, speaking on the subject, "U.S.A.-U.S.S.R., Balance Sheet of Power," was well received by a capacity audience. Mrs. Dean held their attention throughout her discussion with a keen sense of humor and a candid realization of foreign politics.

She discussed many thought provoking points and based her talk on a so-called balance sheet whereby she discussed the assets of the United States and Russia. In her opinion, Russia has a great manpower advantage over the United States which we are able to counter by superior naval power.

Mrs. Dean doesn't believe that Russia intends to invade Western Europe for she states that they would have done so in 1945 if they had that intention. However, she failed to point out the fact that Russia has been trying to promote depressions in Western Europe or that Russia is fighting the Marshall Plan. She also failed to elaborate on the Russian seizing of Czechoslovakia.

Men's Affairs Elects New Judiciary

A new Men's Judiciary was elected last Tuesday by the Men's Affairs Committee of the Senate. Serving on the Judiciary for the coming year will be John Carrol, '53; Bill Carrol, '54, Alen Waxstein '53, Joe Lucier '54, and John Heintz '54. Waxstein, Lucier and Heintz are now serving on the board. Chief Justice Clifford and Joe Phillips, both of the class of '52, are retiring next week.

The five judges were selected from a group of 12 applicants who appeared before the committee on Tues. The method of selection, which is new this year, is that all interested persons will speak individually before the Senate Men's Affairs Committee. The committee then goes into a closed session and discusses the qualifications of the candidates and finally selects the five who in their opinion are best suited to serve.

Up until this year the Judiciary has been selected by a campus wide election. This practice was discontinued because of the lack of interest shown by the men students in past years.

No '52 Campus Chest; No Explanation Now

by Joe Crosby

The Campus Chest drive has been officially called off this week, according to an announcement released earlier by the Dean's office. It has been cancelled because the usual time to hold it has passed and there has been very little interest shown in the drive this year.

The drive is usually held late in the fall. It takes a great number of people to organize, direct and carry out the plans for this undertaking. Apparently there was little or no organization for the drive this year.

The time for the drive has long since passed without even the slightest whisper about it. There has been absolutely no interest shown in getting it started this year.

The Dean has made a suggestion that the drive in the future be sponsored by Adelphia and Isogon and that it be coordinated with the National Community Chest Drive so that our campus may make use of the nationwide publicity circulated for the drive.

Senate Holds Second Shortest Meeting Yet

At the last Senate meeting Cliff Audette announced that there would be no Campus Chest drive this year because the committee did not start its planning in time and because so little interest was shown.

Milton Crane introduced a motion that the Senators contribute 100% to the blood drive if they were physically able. Despite Rita Katz's stand that it should be voluntary for everyone, the motion was carried by the Senate.

John Miller suggested that the Senate look into the supposed policy of the University that no hour exams be given during big weeks such as Winter Carnival and Hazing Week for fraternities. Senator Alintuck will look into the abuses of this policy which have become more frequent.

Spring Day has not yet been given the official OK by Dean Hopkins and will not get it until the junior class officers present a plan for controlling the activities.

At a meeting of the Women's Affairs Committee with the proctors and the housemothers, the freshman women's request for no lights out was denied and the 11 p.m. ruling still holds.

Announcements and nomination papers for Women's Judiciary will be distributed to the dormitory and sorority housemothers and available at Dean Curtis' office on Friday, March

Rumor False; Health Not Factor In Prevention of Donations By Girls

The student and faculty groups responsible for this year's blood drive launched their program at an organizational meeting last night in Skinner Hall.

A system of "pledging teams" was set, according to Capt. Herman, pledging chairman for the drive. Contact will be made with every segment of the student body through the living quarters rather than the class groups. Under this plan the house proctors, assisted by the Student Senators, will be in charge of the house or floor teams in the dorms. The Interfraternity Council and the Pan-Hellenic Council will coordinate the drive in the fraternity and sorority houses. Even the commuters will be given an opportunity to pledge their pint through a pledging station to be set up in Mem Hall. This station will be operated by the commuter senators.

Check your Bulletin Board to find out when the pledging team will be in action to receive your pledge.

All students are urged to respond early to their immediate team for several reasons. First, not all who

SCA Embassy Set For March 26, 27

Plans for the fifth annual U. of M. Embassy are already under way, it was announced by Reverend Sidney Temple, Protestant chaplain.

Many men from outside our campus limits will spend two days here lecturing about a current problem and discussing its religious implications with the students.

The two-day Embassy, an annual event sponsored by the Student Christian Association, will fall on March 26 and 27.

COLLEGIAN MEETING

All members of the Collegian staff, business and editorial, are required to be present at a meeting in the Collegian office at 5 p.m. on Monday. We have some important business to discuss. The meeting will be brief, but urgent. Those not present will no longer be considered members of the staff.

Two Armored Cadets Visit West Point

Two of the University Armor Cadets travelled to attend the Sesquicentennial Observance at the Military Academy, West Point, N.Y. from February 28 through March 2.

The two Armor Cadet Officers are Alan R. Pehrson and James H. Patterson of Greenfield and Lexington respectively. They joined 112 other ROTC Cadets from other colleges at West Point for the purpose of becoming familiar with the life and formal training of a Cadet at the Military Academy.

While at West Point, Pehrson and Patterson lived as Cadets in cadet barracks, attended classes, toured the post and viewed demonstrations by the 1802nd Special Regiment. Entertainment including movies of the Army-Navy game and the famous "hop" were also in the schedule.

Pehrson, a Cadet Colonel commanding the Armored Regiment, and Patterson, a Lieutenant Colonel (Battalion Commander, will be awarded Commissions as Second Lieutenants in the Armor Branch of the Regular Army upon graduation in June.

Truth or Fiction?

Various and sundry students have expressed their surprise concerning our statement that a Student Union building would relieve the social burden now placed upon the library. We therefore conducted a survey in the lower regions of Goodell, popularly known as the "passion pit", and believe the following expresses adequately what we saw:

"Love hither makes his best retreat."

Proceeding into the depths:

"Had we but world enough, and time
This coyness, lady, were no crime."

Farther on:

"An hundred years should go to praise
Thine eyes, and on thy forehead gaze."

An irate freshman doing a "research paper" snapped at us:

"For God's sake hold your tongue and let me love."

A nonchalant comment:

"Contemplate, what you will approve
So you will let me love."

On observing individual in large horn-rimmed glasses:

"Fair Quiet, have I found thee here
And Innocence, thy sister dear?"

On seeing young lady slam books and leave:

"The saddest words of tongue or pen
Are those before you've counted ten".

Our general comment on all we saw:

"All day, the same our postures were,
And we said nothing, all the day."

We noticed only one deficiency handicapping those who like the desks in back of the magazine shelves. The lighting facilities are inadequate—there's too much light down there!

With an enlightening start such as this, we proceeded to explore the reading rooms where we found utter chaos: coats flung over chairs, tables out of line, chairs in the aisles, and University Rip Van Winkles in odd corners. We guessed that Mr. Wood's successor had not yet been appointed.

Loitering a moment before leaving, we saw one young man carefully selecting books, then tuck two under his arm, and matter-of-factly proceed out the door. About 500 men and women students do this every year. They have good intentions, we suppose, but like old soldiers, the books just fade away.

But this is fiction. Or is it? . . . Let's get serious for a minute because we don't think it fiction. Where is the head librarian? (Mr. Wood retired in December.) If he did nothing else, the new librarian might at least keep order in the library.

Last year we changed the name of Hell Week to that of Character Building Week. Why pretend we are honest even if we are not? What kind of character permits us to walk out of the library without signing out the books we borrow—books that belong to the entire student body of this University? Mr. Wood once stated that two per cent of the student body were criminals. We have never checked on this figure, but Mr. Wood is not far from wrong: not when so many books disappear each year from our library. Is it necessary to put the desk right in front of the main entrance to check on books going out?

Keep the Mardi-Gras

Since there will be no Campus Chest this year, it would seem at first thought that all events connected with it should be automatically dropped.

It is possible, however, that even without a Campus Chest committee the fraternities, sororities, and dormitories together could put on the Mardi Gras. Worthy traditions such as these should not be dropped unless absolutely impracticable. Mardi Gras is one of those events in which the entire campus can participate.

BRAVO!!

Fraternity pledges will split up into three groups this Saturday to participate in constructive projects: painting for the Childrens' Aid Society in Northampton, helping prepare the summer camp of the Holyoke Girls' Club, and painting for the Holyoke Boys' Club.

We wager that the pledges will remember these projects for a longer period of time and with more pride than they will the wearing of pajamas and paper bags. The clearing of the area in front of Baker dorm or work on Mt. Toby are in keeping with the spirit of pledge week and give the pledges as much of a chance for fun as any of the pranks.

Last year one Boston newspaper printed an editorial commenting on the change from Hell Week to Character Building Week. We still have some of the former but actions such as the above show progress toward the latter. This particular newspaper regarded the change as absurd, the attempt of students to accomplish a miracle in one year. Let them now take notice! This commendable step by the fraternities is but another phase in the building up of our University.

Letters To Editor

Dear Editor:

I read with considerable surprise your editorial concerning the immediate need for the Liberal Arts and Student Union buildings. I say surprise because I was under the impression that such delicate subjects were not to be mentioned.

The condition to which the Liberal Arts building has been allowed to come seems to be sufficient proof that the traditional policy—whatever that may be—is not adequately aggressive. To those who will point out our many new buildings, I would like to say that I acknowledge them as a fine start. But to my way of thinking, they do not excuse the existence and use of the Liberal Arts building.

Your suggestion then of moving the Liberal Arts building to top priority is the most sensible thing I have heard in quite a while. However, I would like to know more about your proposed committee. How will it be chosen? Will the students be informed of its activity.?

Since the students themselves are to benefit from the improvement of the University's facilities, it seems a most reasonable suggestion that they start to do something to bring about long needed improvements. And that does not mean 25 years from now either!

A. Romasco

Editor's Note: The following persons are avowedly interested in working toward the Liberal Arts and Student Union buildings: seniors Bill Deminoff, George Delaney, Bob Kroeck, Bob Pehrson, and Barb Flaherty; sophomores Bruce Fox and Ann-Marie Lynch.

These people can give you information about it. They are not the committee, however. The committee will consist of 10 or 12 juniors and sophomores (juniors and sophomores since no bills can be introduced into the legislature until fall) chosen by the Campus Cabinet—people who are hardworking, sincerely interested, and responsible.

The student body will be the important part of the program with the committee (which, as soon as it is formed, should have a policy meeting with the president), serving as guides and asking student support for letters to senators and representatives, for example. The student body will be informed of the actions of the committee through the Collegian. Beginning in the near future, we will try to run articles on the proposed Student Union to acquaint students with the suggestions made by the national expert, Mr. Butts.

Dear Editor;

As a member of the class of 1951 I wish to take exception to your recent editorial in which you poke fun at our class gift.

In the first place our class had only $300 to spend as compared with $1400 for the class of '50 and $700 for the class of '52. How far would $300 go in providing scholarships or buying books?

Our purpose in giving the flagpole was to provide the means by which a flag-raising ceremony could be carried out at the beginning of each football game. If this purpose is not carried out, is it the fault of the class of '51?

The class of '52 will do well if they provide the University with a gift as useful as that of the class of '51.

Very truly yours,
Paul K. Swanson '51

Editor's Note

We know that every class considers its gift worthy and that they must consider the amount of money at hand. In view of the result, however, nearly 100 books could have been bought by the class of '51. The class might have foreseen that plans such as those for a flag-raising ceremony seldom carry through when the people who support them have left. Our challenge is not to provide a gift as good: it is rather to provide one of more use for more of the student body.

Dear Editor:

Through the courtesy of Mr. Dickinson, we are printing this letter from a Ware High School teacher who has taken a block of 35 tickets for the Student Prince.

Dear Professor Dickinson,

Aside from the "operetta" work, I bring a group to most of your University programs whether in Amherst or elsewhere. I find the work is especially high in quality and appeal. It inspires my students to dig. Your activities program is a powerful advertisement for a fine school.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Irving Mattson

Dear Editor:

I should like to call your attention to an article in the Reader's Digest, P. 92 of the September 1951 issue entitled "The Metamorphosis of Hell Week." The transformation took place at Indiana Univ. It was called "Help" week. The idea caught on and several of the Midwestern universities adopted the idea . . . Personally I think it is a fine idea and in the best interests of the Univ. of Massachusetts.

For many years I have been a member of Beta Theta Pi National Fraternity. It has abolished from the ritual of all its local chapters any form of hazing which would tend to injure any of its initiates. At the Univ. of Mississippi some of the initiates were not injured physically but their pride suffered quite a jolt.

pledge a pint of blood can give it; the physical check at Knowlton will eliminate a certain percentage. Also, students under 21 must have on file a letter of consent from their parents. These letters are in the possession of the Pledging Teams along with an addressed, stamped envelope for a quick return from home. The letter must be back on the campus before the perspective donor can be scheduled for his or her donation.

The year's Pledging Card will have on it two choices of the 15-minute intervals during which the donor would like to appear at Knowlton to make his or her donation. The Northampton Chapter of the American Red Cross Bloodmobile unit will be at Knowlton on March 25 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and March 26, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

This year the coeds are going to come under pressure for more donations. Their recourse in a recent blood program was two. This was caused by a widely-circulated but badly-garbled story that women should not give blood for reasons of health. The answer appeared at Smith last week when 475 women donated.

This year's mission: Pledge early, urge your parents to send the consent form back promptly and wait for the card from the Red Cross verifying that you are scheduled for the time you selected.

As was stated at the meeting last night: "What do ya want . . . Blood?" The answer: "Yes . . . and plenty of it!"

Proof to winter sports lovers and any scholars bored by the routine of classes that our campus is in the wrong section of New England is found in Colby's "Echo" of February 22. Lettis Vocabulary of UM Terms and Phrases

by Dick Lettis

It has come to my attention that the large class of freshmen students with which we have been privileged to have with us this year are encountering upon this campus a moat grave difficulty; I mean that of understanding OUR language. These lonely and timid little souls can be seen from time to time wandering about our campus, dazedly attempting to discover the meaning of the realm of terms and phrases, unknown in their hitherto sheltered and unspoiled lives. It is high time some outstanding, intelligent, and public-minded upperclassman compiled a short dictionary of popular terms and phrases in common use on this campus which would be unknown to those just arriving from "outside." I have therefore undertaken the task.

It will be noticed that certain words such as intelligence, ideas, ambitious, thought, etc. have not been included in this essay. This is because these words have no meaning whatsoever on this campus.

Amherst College—a poor school on the other side of town; they don't own a single cow or tractor!

Barsalotti's—laboratory for study of influence of alcohol on sex drive.

Bookstore—a place where students wait three hours to be told that the books they wanted haven't come in yet.

Class Gift—a method by which each graduating class revenges itself upon the University, usually by defacing the campus with flagpoles, Indians, etc.

COED—female students sent to study at the same school at which male students are studying with the result that nobody studies.

Comparative Anatomy—(not what you're thinking)—a gut course.

Draper Hall—an experimental food station where it is determined what types of rubbish, dirt, bones, etc., a subject will eat.

English—a course offered as a diversion for agricultural students and other science majors.

Goodell Library—an edifice on campus in which are to be found all the great works of the English Language (e.g., Cats and All About Them, by Lewis Harold Fairchild, or Corn and Various Amendments as Food for Hogs, by John R. Fain.)

Grind—anyone who passes exams easily.

Home Economics—a pseudo-major which coeds pretend to study while looking for a husband.

Instructor—someone who reads today what he assigns you to read for tomorrow.

Labor—a form of exercise, the threat of which keeps many students in college.

Massachusetts—an eastern state which condescends to give its name (and no money) to this University.

North College—a remarkable edifice, built by the Vikings, first white visitors to those shores. At present, it is mainly inhabited by parrots who are taught to repeat "Supply and demand, supply and demand."

Phi Kappa Phi—a society of students who have spent three uninterrupted years at their desks, taking no notice of art, music, plays, women, drink, etc.—in short, a corps of corpses.

Psychology—a course which teaches one to drive rats insane.

Rope Pull—a device whereby 200 sophomores pull 50 freshmen through the college pond.

Scholarships—payments made to athletes.

Spring—a season; easily recognized on the campus by the odor of fertilizer.

Study—antiquated method of passing exams.

Teacher—one who teaches; a few are to be seen on this campus.

Talk—comment usually made upon leaving Draper Hall, North College, the cowbarns, Mettawampe, or 67% of the coeds.

Veterans—a vanishing race of tough, scarthy, black-bearded drunkards, who often made violent attacks upon girls. Though a definite detriment on the campus their presence is often missed (especially by the coeds.)

Student Life Committee Reports A New Policy

The Student Life Committee, in order to make available to all students information on topics taken up at the regular committee meetings, will prepare a report to be published in the Collegian summarizing each meeting. This action is being taken with the idea of stimulating the students and others to help the committee in its work by offering suggestions.

The Committee met on Jan. 16 to review a series of traditional campus events with class officers in an effort to reallocate the responsibility for particular events and make any recommendations for improvement.

It was recommended to the Associate Alumni that the officers of the junior class assume student responsibility for and carry out the plans for Homecoming in co-operation with the Executive secretary of the Associate Alumni.

Growing out of the discussion of this proposal was a recommendation to the Senate committee on constitution revision that officers of the three upper classes be elected in the spring to serve for the following school year.

The Christmas Carol program was recommended to the sophomore class with the hope that they may continue to receive financial aid from the Senate.

A suggestion that class officers be put in charge of publicity for the class plays was made to the Roister Doisters with more emphasis being placed on applications for directorships, tryouts, roles, and attendance at performances. The technical aspects of the productions would still be managed by the Roister Doisters.

To insure a more successful Soph-Senior Hop, the Committee felt that the sophomore and senior officers need to settle upon a date for the dance and possibly a more attractive place than the Drill Hall in order to assure a financially successful dance.

The Committee heard reports from SLC members on the following issues: an application from Delta Sigma Chi to found a new fraternity; M. Haworth's work on reactivating and re-creating the Senate All-University Informal Dance Committee; a review in some detail of the information to be presented to a Trustee Committee on recognized student activities.

Rod and Gun Club

There will be a meeting of the U. of M. Rod and Gun Club Tuesday, March 11, at 7 p.m. in the Conservation Building, room 109. A colored motion picture entitled "Realm of the Wild" will be shown. Tentative plans for the annual Intercollegiate Fishing Tournament will also be discussed.

FAUX PAS

by Bruce Fox

Giggles, laughs, shrieks, red faces, and inside-out clothing greet all newcomers and students on the UM campus this week. They can call it Character Building Week, Pledge Week, or whatever they will, it remains strictly Hell as far as this reporter is concerned.

Last year the "supply and demand" dept. had its lectures disturbed when a clothesline bearing group of neophites carried unmentionables between their shoulders as a tuba oompahed away at the burlesque special, "Take It Off," at the front of the line.

Basil had quite a rise in blood pressure as a couple of pledges invaded those halls of massive light with a typewriter. That was almost as much of a crime as some of the boys helping the women off with their coats.

What happens to those averages at the outset of the second semester shouldn't happen to the president on a rainy day in Boston We know we're up here to study, books come first, and all that sort of stuff, but the law of averages says that those hour exams scheduled year after year during those same five days just can't continue—or can they? A quarter of the campus stays awake planning and walking the deserted town streets at 4 in the morning, while the other third stays awake planning counter-attacks, hiding silverware, paddles, toilet seats, plaques, cups, awards, pots, doors, and the like.

The elements have no mercy on those naked heads. But if you think that's rough, remember that little boat race in the half-frozen college pond with the pledges paddling along with their hands? And can

University Offers 5 Courses at Westover

Assistant Registrar Cadigan visited Westover Field Tuesday evening in order to advise students there concerning courses that are offered at the field. There are five college level courses given at the field under the direction of the University in cooperation with the State Department of Education.

The Westover project is not the only "extra-curricular" activity of the University. An evening Engineering Degree Program is offered through the Public School system of Pittsfield in cooperation with the University.

Agricultural testing stations are also run by the University at Waltham and Wareham.

Cadigan also stated that a large number of admissions into the class of '56 is expected after May 1st when the results of the College Board Exams will be announced.

[THIRD OF A SERIES]

Work as production supervisors prepares chemical engineers for jobs in management

The last issue of the Digest described the broad opportunities offered chemical engineers in research and development at Du Pont. Now let's look at the opportunities in production supervision.

In this important phase of plant operation, Ch. E.'s and others are responsible for investment in plant facilities, supply of raw materials, supervision of operation and maintenance, cost and shipment of finished products, as well as personnel relations, training and safety.

George S. Bradshaw, Jr., B.S.Ch.E., M.I.T. '40, assistant superintendent, inspects a unit used in ammonia synthesis operation.

Normally, chemical engineers enter production supervision by reason of preference and special abilities. Their first step depends on which of ten operating departments they work in. For example, in one department they follow a training program as student operators. In another, training in a plant laboratory familiarizes the engineers with processes and products.

After the training period, the men are given supervisory responsibilities, usually starting as foreman. At this level they meet problems like these:

1. Occasionally, in a still connected to a sulfonator by a pipe line with a single valve, the product disappeared, and residue increased. The supervisor's study of control data showed that small amounts of gaseous sulfur trioxide were venting into the still causing decomposition of the product. His recommended installation of a positive pressure block in the pipe line eliminated the difficulty.

2. A high temperature batch reaction process was revised to increase production of a critical material. For safety, adjacent reactors had to be shut down as work on each unit proceeded. The supervisor planned maintenance and batch schedules to minimize costly down-time and re-trained personnel for the new process.

In solving such problems, supervisors have an opportunity to use all their knowledge and ingenuity. Equally important, they acquire the background and varied experience that prepare them for advancement to responsible positions in management and administration.

Inspecting nylon filaments during manufacture. They are made by extruding molten polymer through spinnerets under pressure.

NEXT MONTH—The fourth article in this series will deal with process development—to many engineers the most interesting part of plant operation.

Conrad R. Graeber, Jr., B.S.Ch.E., Lehigh '51, control supervisor, examines flow sheets for the manufacture of methacrylates.

mean Pearl Primus. It means root forms, basic conceptions. The word primitive has been given a different color. To the majority of westerners it means simple, childlike, often wild and undisciplined. In truth, so-called primitive or primal dance forms range from fundamental to exceedingly complex. The music of African people defies our most gifted writers today, for its syncopations, tones, half tones, over-tones are more complicated than our formal western patterns. The dance with its complete mastery of muscular control, with its great pageantry of tradition, its splendid costuming, and its fantastic accuracy cannot by any means be called simple.

Dr. Julius Embree, Prsident of the Rosenwald Foundation, saw Miss Primus dance at the Fisk University Festival at Nashville, Tennessee. The impact of her dancing caused Dr. Embree and his colleagues to once more open the books of the Foundation and by their last and largest grant, the lass from Trinidad embarked for a year's study and research within the heart of Africa.

Miss Primus made her dance debut with an appearance at Cafe Society Downtown in 1943 and made her solo concert debut the following year at the auditorium of Hunter College, her alma mater. Her succeeding activities have included nation-wide tours with a supporting company, dance research in the isolated Negro communities of the South, a year's run as featured dancer in Show Boat, starring in her own Broadway revue, co-starring with Lawrence Tibbert in the Chicago Opera presentation of The Emperor Jones, and currently, the preparation of a book on her African experiences, to be published by MacMillan Company.

you ever stop laughing at those two icicles stuck out on the island with no passage home?

It's during this infamous week that the C-store becomes part of the speech department. I can't figure it out; some of those freshmen can't get up in their speech classes and say a word without shaking and looking at the ceiling, but give them a chance to tell coffee drinkers why they think they're handsome, and you can't shut them up.

The Phys. Ed. dept. can't seem to get those guys to even go to classes, but how fifty odd brothers with a sadistic gleam in one eye, and a paddle in the other, can get more knee bends from the pledges, as they measure the distance with coke-bottles from the C-Store to the Firetrap, than the Math 8 majors can count.

You like to hike? The first ten miles aren't so bad, but why do the boys always pick the foggy, misty mornings when you can't see the road signs that they haven't taken away. The alpine boys have nothing on fraternity men.

Oh, before we forget, we have to mention that modern imitation of the draft horse, the 1927 "Old Reliable". She can be counted upon to get those lowly forms of animal life to the nearest Springfield farmyard, and the brothers back in time for their eight o'clocks. The pledges? Who cares?

Before you go off with that impression of just the fun end of it, though, remember what good the fraternity-men-to-be have done. Remember that shoe shine you got? Well the quarter you dropped into the heart fund box has now been transformed into an experiment serum. The IFC sent representatives of all the fraternities on a tour of duty with a town government official, teaching them the intricacies of local government.

Yup, you get serious, and you get silly; both an integrated part of living. This is living—enjoy it while you can.

7, according to Sophie Sowyrda. The papers are due back in the Dean's office on March 13, and election will be held March 17.

Cliff Audette reported that there are no set rules regarding restriction of activities because of low scholastic averages. If a student fails a subject or is placed on probation his case goes before Deans Hopkins and Machmer and each is treated individually.

The Senate voted to accept the Yankee Conference plan under which students would be able to purchase tickets to away games for half price.

Dean Hopkins has promised that the athletic tax will be listed separately next year.

Redmen Varsity Teams Good Despite Disappointing Records

Despite the fact that not one of the winter varsity teams finished their season above .500, the Redmen squads outdid themselves in the matter of breaking University records.

Varsity Basketball

The varsity basketball started off their season with four straight losses, two of them by one point, before smacking their first win of the season over Clark University. Feature of the first five games was the outstanding play of Captain Bill Prevey in the Providence game as he scored half of the Redmen points while totaling 33 for the night.

Dropping to the losing side once again, the Ballmen dropped two straight games to Boston University and Trinity before rebounding with a vengeance over a Worcester Tech quintet that came into the Cage with a 6-2 record. The next four games saw the Maroon and White suffer four losses, two of them to Little Three members Williams and Amherst by one point each.

Score Third Win

Breaking out of the losing column, the Redmen handled a good Coast Guard outfit with ease while scoring their third win of the season. However, the Massachusetts quintet again went into a tail spin while dropping four more games in a row. Two of the four games were lost by a total of five points as the Springfield contest was decided in double overtime. Feature of this losing streak was the greatest individual performance in the history of the University as Captain Bill Prevey scored 39 points in the Rhode Island game to set all sorts of records.

At the Tufts game, Prevey, inspired by the ceremonies of Prevey night preceding the game, led the Redmen to an easy win over a surprisingly inept Tufts combine. The last three games of the season saw the Redmen fall before Vermont and Connecticut before dropping a thriller to New Hampshire by one point in the last three seconds of play.

Records Fall

It was a season of thrills and chills as the Redmen took the title of a hard luck team. Finishing with a record of 4-17, five of the losses were by one point (two in overtime), and seven games were lost by a total of ten points. However, the season had many bright spots as individual and team records were set by the score. The varsity team rolled up the greatest number of points in history as they amassed 1277 points breaking the old record of 1111 points set by last year's quintet. Prevey broke every individual record in the history of the University, set two Yankee Conference marks, and was ranked fourth in the nation and first in New England scoring with a 22.6 average. Four of the Redmen starters, Prevey, Kaminski, Mosychuk, and MacLeod all hit above one hundred points, while two, Prevey and Kaminski, averaged better than ten points a game.

It was a season when squad play rather than individual scoring was the rule. The team went out on the court for every game determined to do their best. This they did throughout the season. Lady Luck just wasn't with them.

Next year's prospects look very good for the Redmen. The entire starting team will be back with the outstanding exception of Captain Bill Prevey. With the experience behind them, the team should hold their own against all opposition.

Varsity Track

The varsity track team finished with their best record in years as they racked up two wins in five meets. Opening their season on a disheartening note, the Redmen lost their first two matches by a wide margin, although improving with each meet. The Holy Cross meet also saw an upset but the relay was taken by the Crusaders and the meet with it.

Amherst Beaten

The Derbymen finally entered the win column as they trounced a hapless Worcester Tech squad as three Redmen hit double wins and a fourth just missed it. Aldrich, Kelsey, and Nottinson each scored two wins while Law won the dash and tied for first in the pole vault. The Amherst meet, closing out the season, was the big one of the year. Everyone on the squad was up for the meet and wanted to win it. Thanks to the alert generalship of Harry Aldrich, win it they did. The Redmen took the lead early on a win by Fred Law. However, things looked black when Kelsey got hurt in the 440 as the field events and the 880 lay ahead. However, the field men led by Frank Bacous, Lee Fink, and Art Alintuck all came through followed by a great win by Harry Aldrich in the 880 to annex the meet, the first track win over our rivals in better than twenty years.

Once again, broken records were the order of the day. Harry Aldrich set a new mark in the two mile and then broke it again in a later meet. His time was a new University and Cage record breaking the old mark set by Bruno Giordano of Connecticut. The varsity relay team tied the cage mark. Fred Law tied the Cage mark for the pole vault twice. Russ Briere set a new record in the high jump. The shot put and hammer records went, but to the opposition.

Despite the fact that the Redmen finished below .500, it was one of the best seasons in years as the Redmen showed promise of becoming a real threat in future years to all comers.

Varsity Swimming

The varsity swimming team finished the season with their identical record of last season 4-4. Opening their season against Boston University, the Redmen scored a resounding victory. Returning home, the Redmen once again fell before two Little Three rivals as Amherst and Wesleyan swamped the Rogersmen. However, the Bay staters were undaunted and roared back to take three straight wins over Worcester Tech (completing the sweep of winter sports), R. P. I., and Coast Guard. Their last two meets of the year saw the Redmen's weak point, the relay, cost them two victories as Tufts and Connecticut took the relay and the meet.

Cornfoot Out Front

Once again, it was the matter of records. This time, Dick Cornfoot broke his own University and pool records for the 200 yard backstroke while scoring eight straight wins in dual competition.

The Treadmill

by Larry Litwack

With winter escaping by the rear door and spring coming in the front, it might be well to pick out the outstanding stars of winter sports.

In basketball, Prevey of course must be placed in the spot of being outstanding athlete of winter sports. However, there are some other men on the basketball team that deserve recognition. Henry Mosychuk has played good ball all season although slackening off in his scoring pace during the last half of the schedule. For his play-making ability, Henry will be a strong candidate for captain of next year's club. The man I'd pick to be the outstanding scorer of the Redmen next year is Bernie Kaminski. During the last half of the season, Kaminski came along like a house afire. In Conference competition he averaged 15 points per game finishing second to Prevey while scoring over 200 points. John MacLeod is a good steady defenseman although the lowest scorer of the starting big four. However with a year of experience behind him, MacLeod should come along well next year. His main trouble seems to be to stay in games. Once he overcomes this, he should be a potent man on offense.

Track brings to mind three men almost instantly. Harry Aldrich, to my mind, was the outstanding man on the club during the season. His ability to run, coupled with his strategy in the Amherst meet, earns him this praise. Fred Law shows signs of becoming one of the all time University track greats. Besides scoring in the dash, Law should develop into a great pole vaulter. Joe Kelsey is another tremendous track prospect. His consistent double wins in the 440 and 880 aided the team immeasurably. Once again, he should develop into an all time great.

The squad has other stars such as Frank Barous who couples basketball with track while taking three straight firsts in the broad jump. There is Art Alintuck who came through with a much needed win in the Amherst meet in the shot put. There is Butler, Allen, Fink, Lamkin, and many others who deserve the highest praises for all went to make the track team the best in years.

The swimming team reated heavily on Dick Cornfoot and Mitch Jacque. Dick was unbeatable in the 200 yard backstroke. Mitch has been a consistent scorer for the Redmen for three years. He has always been counted on for points.

All in all, despite the records, the teams showed signs of really producing next season in line with the new athletic growth of the University.

Several questions have popped into my mind recently. For public thought they are the following:

1. What really is the story on this matter of athletic tax which is remaining so secret?

2. Will we have a new basketball coach next season?

3. Can't something be done for intramural basketball so that the teams didn't have to wait a week before getting out on the floor?

Thought of the week: Wouldn't it be better to abolish the almost extinct Yankee Conference and establish an active and powerful New England Conference such as has been advocated by Springfield College for the past two years?

IS A MAN YOUR PROBLEM CHILD!

When a male wishes to impress a girl, he thinks he knows exactly what to do. He brings her candy, perfume or her favorite flowers. Any of these traditional offerings are sure to be rewarded with a winning smile and a delightful "Thank you"! It's as simple as that!

A girl seeking a gift which will please a male, on the other hand, frequently has to do a bit of brain-cudgeling. A wallet? A lighter? He probably has both. Ties? . . .Wonderful—but how to account for a man's taste? What, then, is the answer?

Something he's certain to especially appreciate because you've knitted it with your own hands! Like a handsome sweater . . . or a pair of manly, colorful, always popular argyle socks . . .or, most ideal, a distinctive combination of the two.

Just make sure you knit these inspirations of "BOTANY"* BRAND NO-DYE-LOT YARNS. Then, whatever you choose to make, you just know it will come out perfectly. For these 100% virgin wool "Botany" Brand Yarns are the most luxurious, brilliant-hued and durable ever made. And so easy to work with . . . because skein after skein . . .YOU CAN MATCH ANY COLOR . . . ANYTIME . . . ANYWHERE! You can buy "BOTANY" BRAND NO-DYE-LOT YARNS at

11 Reporters - to - be Train For Collegian

Eleven competitors turned out for the first competitions meeting of the second semester at the Collegian office on Wednesday night, it was reported by executive editor, Judy Bowder.

Eight of the newcomers have stated that they are interested in the editorial staff, while three prefer to work on the business end of the paper. All of those present have had some experience on high school newspapers and may prove important to the Collegian in the future.

The competitions will consist of a few weeks training in newspaper writing—in effect, a brief journalism course. According to the Constitution of the Collegian, no member may be voted to the staff without this course, and the editorial board intends to carry out this provision.

The competitors are: Janet Harvey, Dick Spencer, '53; Barbara Bayon, Ann Marie Burrell, Joe Cohen, Louise Donovan, Ann English, and Mary-Lou Moriarty, '54; Marilyn Cogen, Lois Lezberg, and Nessa Stahl, '55.

The next competitions meeting will be held next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Collegian office. Since no student may become a member of the staff without going through formal competitions, those who are still interested are urged to attend the next meeting. No experience is necessary just bring the will to be a reporter.

United States, Mrs. Dean states that we should not arm West Germany. Though popular opinion holds to the belief that in arming western Germany lies the whole key to building up a strong federation of Western Powers, Mrs. Dean belongs to the small group who disagree.

Mrs. Dean believes th this global shifting will alter present relationship with Russia.

Engineers At Home; Show New Gadgets

The Chem Engineers' still and the mechanical tick-tack-toe machine, guaranteed unbeatable, will be among the devices and gimicks shown by the School of Engineering during the annual open house on March 14 and 15.

The displays will be open on Friday, March 14, at 3 p.m. and will stay open until 9 p.m. They will also be open on Saturday, March 15, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Hundreds of visitors from every part of the state, especially high school students, are expected to visit our campus to see this second annual event. Students from our campus are also urged by the School of Engineering to see some of the amusing and fascinating displays.

Have you got a friend or relative in Timbuktu? You can call him on the ham radio station, WIPUO. If you have been worrying about your income tax return, the engineers have developed a way to stretch your money. Be very careful as you walk around that you don't step into the quicksand pit.

The electrical engineers have built a radar set for the event. Other interesting features of the show include eye- and egg-shaped gears, Deisel and gas engines, refrigeration units and many others. A Ford V-8 engine will be put through its paces at a speed of 85 miles an hour.

The school of engineering, including the Departments of Electrical, Mechanical, Civil, Industrial, Chemical and Agricultural Engineering, has worked hard to make this an outstanding event on campus. Included on the committee are Jarl Johnson, chairman; Victor Pietkiewicz, publicity chairman; Charles Baily, displays; Donald Burrell and Frank D'Argento.

Blood Torrent Opens With Contest

The 1952 University Blood Program got under way with probably the shortest contest on record—it was all over as soon as it was announced.

The Pledging Group Chairman had just announced to the assemblage of Blood Pledge Campaigners that a fuss would be made over the first University student to pledge his pint—but he did not mention that the pledgers were not eligible. So—before he got clear off the stage, he was hit by 12 pledgers who had already signed their own pint of blood.

The "winner" was a dead-heat: Charles Hamilton and John Holmes, both freshmen from Greenough. The third pledge came from the house proctor himself, Mr. A. A. Robertson.

The ladies of the campus are getting into the act after a sad record of only two pints last year. So far the pledgers include Elaine Sullivan, Rosemary Quinn, and Nancy Keaney from Knowlton and Nancy Pond, Ann Freeman, Helen Praet, and Ruth Sucakas from Butterfield.

The dormitories and fraternities are starting up hard to prove their spirit and state-of-health: Plymouth pledged nine pints (nine husky donors); TEP, 16; and Kappa Sig, 14.

The Blood program is designed to cover the entire campus. The big houses and dorms have "Pledging Teams" (some even have "Floor Teams"). IFC and Pan-Hellenic are "Team Headquarters" for all the Greek houses; Ruth Avery, Amherst, is signing up the commuters at a "Pledging Station" open this week in Mem Hall.

Last year's alibi was: "But I'm under 21!" This year, if your pledge card indicates you are under

Prexy Orders All Fraternities To Close Bars

President Van Meter, on recommendation of the University Committee on Student Life, has ordered that fraternities should remove bar facilities and the entire system for dispensing alcoholic beverages at fraternity houses between March 10 and 14, 1952. The President delegated Dean Hopkins to inform officers and advisors of fraternities of the University action.

The order comes as a measure to protect the University from any legal embarrassment that might come as a result of expressed or implied sanctioning of the illegal dispensing of alcoholic beverages in a fraternity. The University sees this action as a step towards improving the tone of student life.

The full statement made to fraternities follows:

To the Members, Advisers, and Other Officers of Fraternities: Since the Administration granted the fraternities permission to serve alcoholic beverages at mixed social events under policies and practices of their own, the houses have annually reported their policies and practices to the University Committee on Student Life. These have shown significant changes from year to year, and on two occasions the Committee has studied them with special attention to locality. On the second occasion—last November—the fraternities provided the Committee with particularly detailed

World Student Fund To Look For Money

The World Student Service Fund, an association for the assistance of students and professors throughout the world, is preparing to launch a fund-raising campaign on the U. of M. campus in the near future.

W. S. S. F. is not a charity organization but a system of mutual international assistance with students contributing medical and laboratory equipment, duplicating machines, clothing, money, and books.

Mrs. Phyllis Gierlotka, a native of Scotland who has worked in Poland at the University of Warsaw, in England, and in the southern U. S. has come to this country to become New England regional secretary. She visited the U. of M. on March 4 to aid in setting up a W. S. S. F. committee for the coming drive.

Woman Marine at UM To Explain Program

Women interested in enrolling in the Marine Corps Officers' training class will have an opportunity to talk with Lt. Patricia Maas and her assistant, Sgt. Betty White, this week. Lt. Maas and Sgt. White will be in the Springfield area at the U. S. Navy and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, 211 Cass St., on Saturday, March 15. They will visit Smith, Mt. Holyoke, and UM.

Women between 18 and 25 who are college graduates or are regularly enrolled in a course leading to a degree and who are physically qualified and of high moral character are eligible for the two six-week courses which may be completed in one or two summers and which include instruction in a variety of non-military subjects from tennis to technique of instruction as well as the military subjects such as drill and military law.

Faculty Takes Off For Two Hours Today

A two hour familiarization flight over Westover Field over the Connecticut Valley and other sections of Massachusetts scheduled today for UM faculty members was cancelled due to weather.

The flight will probably be made next Tuesday in a C-54 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. USAF headquarters has restricted the group to two members of each department.

Members of the faculty who will make the flight include: R. Holdsworth, forestry; J. Bailey, pomology; K. Cashin, and F. Chakour.

UM On Color Film; Bowker Premiere

Picture Three Years In The Making; Showing Culminates 2000 Hours' Work

An event long awaited on this campus—the showing of "Know Your State University", a movie conceived, produced, directed, and financed by the students and faculty of the University—will have its first showing this Thursday night at 7 in Bowker Auditorium.

The 25-minute movie, all in color, will have a second showing at 8 p.m. The film stars Alice O'Donnell, '51, who was the runner-up in last year's National Esquire Girl Contest. A liberal arts major with a minor in home economics, she is now teaching in East Longmeadow. Bruce Wogan, the co-star, was an industrial engineering major now at Fort Dix. The movie, an idealization of highlights in a year's activity, takes the two stars through their academic and leisure life.

The idea for the film was originated by Vincent Lecesse, class of '51, who organized a committee in 1949. The first year the committee laid plans, interested Pop Barrett in being cinematographer and Bob McCartney in the direction and writing of the script and then held a large campus dance and several "tag days" to accumulate funds. No actual shooting was done until August of 1950.

This fall the film was cut down from 3600 to 800 feet and matched to the script. The Bay State Film Company of Agawam, who make films for Dartmouth, W.P.I., and Norwich among other colleges, did technical aspects. According to Bob McCartney, we were fortunate in getting Bob Tyrol, well-known in collegiate circles as announcer of the Monsanto radio program entitled "Songs from New England Colleges", as narrator.

Co-sponsors of the film are Adelphia and Isogon, senior honorary societies, who contributed one Campus Varieties gift of $400 toward the financing of the film. The classes of '50 and '51 through their class presidents, Bob Leavitt and Dick Boynton, and through Dean Hopkins, appropriated surplus class funds of $1200 from their treasuries.

The exact cost of the movie is not yet tabulated but will not exceed $2500. This figure is one-fourth the normal cost of approximately $10,000 due to the fact that the taking, script, and editing were done largely by University men—Bob McCartney and Pop Barrett—who put approximately 2000 man hours into the filming of the movie. The script took one month; each of the original 240 sequences took from 1½ to 2 hours.

Lesson Precedes Concert at Cage

Pearl Primus, noted American negro dancer, will present a single performance at the Hicks Physical Education Building on the U. of M. campus on Wednesday, March 12, at 8 p.m.

Miss Primus, whose appearance is sponsored by the department of physical education for women has just returned from an overseas tour of Europe and the Near East.

At 4 p.m. in the Drill Hall on Wednesday, Miss Primus will give a "master lesson" in primal technique. The lesson is open to both men and women students. It is expected that she will have members of her troupe of dancers and musicians present at that time.

Negro rhythms from the jungles of Africa to New York City's Harlem will feature the performance entitled "Dark Rhythm".

The performance by Miss Primus and her company will be presented in two sections with episodes ranging from "Study in Nothing", the "Mischievous Interlude", and "The Freedom Train" to a group of three spirituals, a folk dance, and finally "Hard Times Blues".

Considered one of the outstanding negro dancers in the world, Miss Primus has been honored by the Newspaper Guild of America with the Page One Award for her outstanding interpretation of the dignity and beauty of African culture through the dance.

Reservations for the Pearl Primus concert may be obtained by calling Amherst 900, Ext. 323.

Mills to be Swarming With Women Next Year

Dean Hopkins recently announced that Mills dormitory will be converted into a women's dorm next year. Butterfield will remain a women's dorm, and Chadbourne, Greenough, and Baker Houses will all be used by freshmen next year. Senior men will use Brooks House, and County Circle will remain in the same capacity as at present.

Allen To Speak On Job - Getting Letters

All students, men and women, interested in the technique of writing better letters of application are invited to hear Prof. Elliot D. Allen of the English Department at 11 a.m. on Thursday, March 13, in Old Chapel Auditorium.

Seniors and underclassmen now writing letters will find his suggestions helpful. Mimeographed material will be available.

This Should Only Happen To You

When a blood donor goes to Knowlton, this is what happens:

The donor, at the time he is scheduled, fills in a simple form at the registration desk. His medical registration card is typed from this. He is then sent to a table where his temperature and pulse are taken and recorded.

At the next table, a trained nurse takes his blood pressure and hemoglobin. If he is anemic or has too high or low blood pressure, he is not allowed to donate.

In the donor room, the donor finds a bed vacant for him. A small amount of novocaine is given him.

Coronary Thrombosis

An excerpt from the President's report in the years '48-'49: "We are asking for funds to increase the size of the library. Our library was built by state and federal funds in 1935, when we had an undergraduate enrollment of 1069. We have a beautiful library but it is inadequate for the present and future student body. The library is the very heart of the University and we must make it possible for many more students to use the library at one time. Fortunately, this modern building was so constructed that it can be enlarged readily."

The library could "be enlarged readily"—if we had the money. The operating budget of the University in '48 was about 1.5% of the State budget while comparable figures ran from 2.2% in Connecticut to 9% in Maine and New Hampshire. President Van Meter made no further request for funds for the library in the report of '50-'51.

Lack of Space

The deficiencies of the library result from lack of space and lack of funds. Expansion must come to house the services which the library is now unable to render. A partial list of items to be included in the expansion might include, according to Mrs. Morey, acting librarian, study rooms for graduate students and faculty, typing rooms in which students might take notes, more art rooms, soundproof rooms in which students might listen to records, microfilm equipment for research work—to say nothing of books. In short, we have enough that could be put into an expansion. It might be a good idea to put books published after 1920 in the expansion also, but is the expansion anywhere in sight?

Personnel

According to the American Library Association publication, the U. of M. ranks far below the minimum staff required for a university of this size. We have approximately one half the staff we should have. Library personnel change quickly because many young women work for a year or two until their husbands graduate; the head cataloguer must then take time to train new personnel and accustom them to library procedure. The books from Devens, numbering 12,00 to 15,000, were transferred the summer before last. Since then, the present staff has done a commendable job in cataloguing half these books; had we an adequate staff, the books would be catalogued twice as fast and in circulation that much faster.

Four College Plan

Smith, Amherst, and Mt. Holyoke colleges recently proposed a plan whereby the facilities of all four libraries would be available to the students of the four colleges. Mr. Wood, former librarian, opposed the proposal because he felt that being under state control, we could not be sure from one year to the next of having sufficient funds to continue in the agreement and should not agree unless we could keep our side of the bargain. He has a valid point, of course, but no group under state control is sure from one year to the next that it will be able to continue the status quo. Our dire need should have been the first consideration.

Departmental Libraries

Many students desiring books find them listed in departmental libraries, open only from 8-5. Due to lack of space in Goodell and to the desire of the faculty to have these books handy for their majors, this practice seems to be the only answer at the present. When a university has only one copy of a book and that one dated prior to 1920, it is indeed in sad shape.

Vandalism

A vigorous alumni body and an informed legislature is the answer to problems of funds. However, not all the inadequacies can be traced to the legislature. A great deal of money is spent, of necessity, to replace current periodicals that are stolen or mutilated by the student body. As important as the calling of attention to needs is the pride we should have in what we do have in our library.

There is a wide difference between college pranks and vandalism. Students who do not understand this difference should be expelled from the University until they learn the difference. Dean Hopkins is now handling the disciplinary problems of the University. We feel he is too lenient. We are one of the few universities that allows an honor system in the library; it is our business to make that system work.

The Men's and Women's Judiciary bodies might also take action in regard to students who violate library rules. There is no excuse for vandalism, be it the destruction of Metawampe or the theft of current periodicals.

Only $300

A recent letter to the editor stated that the class of '51, because it had only $300, could not set up scholarship aid or consider any large expenditures.

We have discovered an interesting fact: the classes of '50 and '51 together had $1200 in their treasuries of which they were unaware until Dean Hopkins discovered it after their graduation and called the attention of the class presidents to this surplus. Of this amount $575 belonged to the class of '51.

We know the class did not know this, but . . .

No Tuition

In compliance with a recent request that the Collegian inform the student body of bills to come up in the legislature, we should like to call attention to one which has come up several times in the past and is sure to come up again. We refer to the raising of the tuition from $100 to $200. The logical thing would be no tuition whatsoever. U Conn students pay no tuition, but a large student tax instead. We have only to look at their campus to see the wisdom of such action.

The money from tuition, board halls, and such items goes into the state treasury; we see nothing of it unless it is re-appropriated to the university. We can be sure that the activities fee we pay comes back to us in every case either directly or indirectly in the form of better publications, for example.

To present one example with which we are familiar: two years ago the Collegian requested an increase of 25% per semester. The finance committee of the Student Senate thought that with 50% advertising the paper would not need the increase. When editor Sinclair pointed out the disadvantages of this percentage of advertisements, the finance committee reversed its decision and recommended the increase.

The proposed increase then went before the student body. Those who voted largely favored the increase, but at least 50% of the students had to vote and a two-thirds majority of this 50% had to approve the proposal before it passed. The bill did not pass —because far less than 50% of the students voted.

The Handbook, the Collegian, and the Index could do much more in service to the University if they were not hampered by increased printing costs, cramped space due to ads, etc.

Sometimes we cut our own throats.

Student Life Report

The report of the Student Life Committee appearing on page 1 was written by Bill Deminoff for the committee and the Collegian. Mr. Deminoff was selected by the committee; hence, his reports may be regarded as the official statement of the faculty and student members of the SLC.

We are happy to have a student member serve as a representative in the interests of our policy of presenting reports based on first-hand information rather than second-hand accounts.

VERA DEAN'S LETTER

Mrs. Vera Dean, who caused quite a stir on the campus by provoking intelligent thought and discussion, writes of the student body:

"You all made me feel very much at home and I shall look forward to continuing our acquaintanceship, so auspiciously begun, when I commute to Smith College next fall. I was deeply impressed by the excellent level of the students' questions."

FROM ITALY

This extract is taken from a letter written by Jean Small, '51, who is studying in Naples, Italy under a Fulbright Award, to the Fulbright Committee:

"I should like very much to be able to tell you and the many others who made possible my year in Italy how extremely happy I am here. The Zoological Station has proved to be a fascinating place in which to work, not only from a scientific point of view but also because of the human contacts one has here. My friends represent at least six different nations and all are eager to exchange opinions with one another on any subject imaginable. Besides all this of course there is the sheer beauty of Italy which never ceases to impress me. If only all people could have as experience similar to the one which I am now enjoying, I am sure that the world would be a much better place in which to live".

RUSH TICKETS

Rush tickets for the Student Prince at 60 cents per ticket are available for each performance.

Folly

As early as April of '47 we had received more than 2000 applications for admission from Massachusetts boys and girls and nearly 5000 more requests for application blanks. More than 40,000 boys and girls were graduated from approximately 400 public high schools and private schools in the state as of June, '47.

What possible folly could have prompted the legislators to think they could, as they stated, limit enrollment to Massachusetts students and still satisfy the educational requirements of the state? Where did they think they could put these students? They would do well to look to the development of facilities here before they try to crowd in more students.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

You are asking for student participation in raising the standards of our noble institution.

We say noble institution. Yes, in the minds of a few people this is a fine school. Some students enter with the ideals, character, and dreams that are supposedly traditional of our American youth.

The few who managed to hold on to these ideals have certainly had them knocked out of them in the past week.

The public actions of some of the fraternities in their pledge hazing definitely proves the statements of those people who deride fraternities and their purposes. The houses seem to compete with one another to see which one can win the title "most vulgar."

Anyone who can condone the disgusting displays that are forced on the eyes of the graduates, undergraduates, and professors should leave school. Further education is worthless to them. Or better yet, maybe the minority group of idealists should leave before the dirt rubs off on them.

Ann Green '53
Carolyn Moulton '53

P. S. We are in favor of hazing when it is executed along the more sensible lines: that is, when it is humorous but decent.

THE SEVEN DAY SWEATER DIET!

The deadliest poison in a college woman's dress diet, we think, is—sameness! As anybody knows, even if she's not a summa cum laude, every body (the student body, especially) gets tired of wearing the same old thing. And seeing it on someone else.

So because the sweater is as much a fixture on the college campus as a bust of the founder, we'd like to propose a "7-Day Sweater Wardrobe." A sweater a day—with a different color for every day in the week—should really keep the monotony away, as it conversely invites new interest. How about a brilliant "Sweater Septet" of yellow, red, blue, green, white, beige, pink—all made of famous "BOTANY"* BRAND NO-DYE-LOT YARN! Just a few hours of inexpensive knitting per diem with this extra-fluffy, easy-to-handle, 100% virgin wool yarn—and in no time at all you'll be dubbed Sweater Variety Girl of 1952 by some of your classmates . . . and a deadly femme fatale by others.

And you'll never, never run out of yarn with "BOTONY" BRAND NO-DYE-LOT YARN. For whenever you buy it . . . wherever you buy it . . . at school or away . . . you can match any color . . any time . . . anywhere. You can buy "BOTANY" BRAND NO-DYE-LOT YARN at

Chet Gladchuk, B. C. Grad Named New Line Coach

Chester S. Gladchuk will join the staff of head coach Charlie O'Rourke as line coach for the Redmen football team, it was announced today by Director of Athletics Warren McGuirk.

Gladchuk, a center for Boston College in 1938-40, played on the same team as O'Rourke. Playing for Warren Harding High before entering B.C., he joined the New York Giants pro team after graduation. In 1942, he entered the Navy V-12 program. He served as line coach of the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, King's Point, in 1945, and the following season coached the line for New York University.

In 1946 and 1947, he returned to play for the Giants, but gave up active playing in 1948 to become head coach of the University of Bridgeport eleven. His 1949 assignment was as line coach for the Montreal, Canada eleven. The last two years have been spent in business in Bridgeport.

The entire coaching staff is busy lining up plans for spring practice at the University under head coach O'Rourke, line coach Gladchuk, and end coach Earl Lorden.

Folk Dancing

Square dance demonstration by seven foreign plus local groups will highlight the forthcoming Recreational Conference this Saturday. Watch for it.

Football, Tennis Coaches Call Candidates Out

With the smell of spring in the air, Redmen spring sports are already emerging from the long winter hiatus.

Head Coach Charlie O'Rourke, bolstered by the completion of his coaching staff (Earl Lorden as end coach and Chet Gladchuk as line coach) has issued a call for spring football training. All students interested were asked to attend a meeting on Thursday, March 13, at 4:30 p.m. in room 10 of the Phys. Ed. building. This meeting applied to all candidates who had not reported for the previous meeting held last week.

Coach Earl Lorden already has the batteries of the Redmen varsity baseball nine working out afternoons in the Cage. The rest of the squad will start working out in the very near future.

Coach Steve Kosakowski has issued his first call for tennis candidates to report to room 9 of the Cage on Thursday, March 13, at 5 p.m. The squad, led by Captain Bob Allen, is expected to start working out immediately and will be out on the courts as soon as the weather clears.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 36...THE OTTER

A usually mild-mannered and easy-going lad, he really made the fur fly when he realized the trickiness of most of the so-called cigarette mildness tests! He knew there was one honest test of cigarette mildness. Millions of smokers everywhere know, too — there's one true test!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a pack-after-pack, day-after-day basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

reports of their procedures. Some of these seemed to infringe the state liquor laws. The Administration accordingly asked the legal opinion on the subject from the firm of Ely, Bartlett, Thompson, and Brown in Boston, of which Joseph W. Bartlett, a trustee of the University, is a senior partner. According to the findings of this firm, the following measures are forced upon us by state law. But they are also the first step in significant improvement in student life, and hence in the service of the University to its constituency:

1. On account of their present practices respecting alcoholic beverages, the fraternities are in an untenable legal position. According to Section 2, Chapter 180, of the General Laws of the Commonwealth, a college fraternity is a club; and by Section 61 of Chapter 138 clubs are forbidden, as clubs, to sell (under a chit system or any other), distribute, or dispense alcoholic beverages without license. A fraternity which, as a chapter or corporation, allows any of these practices is liable to prosecution as a maintainer of a "common nuisance." "Whoever keeps or maintains, or assists in keeping and maintaining, such a common nuisance shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than one hundred dollars and by imprisonment for not less than three nor more than twelve months." Accordingly, the fraternities must cease, as chapters or corporations, to deal in alcoholic beverages; in order to avoid grounds to suit, they must remove all bars or similar equipment by March 14, 1952, at noon.

2. The University disapproves of the use of alcoholic beverages in fraternities, and insists upon immediate compliance with Statement 1 above. But it also recognizes the desirability of self-control by the fraternities through their own governing bodies. It therefore urges that the fraternities take every possible step during the remainder of this academic year to de-emphasize the use of alcoholic beverages in the houses. At the beginning of the next academic year, these recommendations will be reviewed and clarified.

Our practices until now, though shown to be illegal, were arrived at in good faith, largely in an endeavor to achieve proper control of alcoholic beverages by the fraternities themselves. The Administration wishes to thank the large number of fraternity men who have hitherto cooperated in this endeavor. It also counts upon all fraternity men to cooperate in the same spirit, in our adjustment to the new situation.

Sincerely yours,
Robert S. Hopkins, Jr.
Dean of Men

Blood Giving Process ...

The giving of the blood takes 10-15 minutes; a band aid is placed over the slight puncture and the donor is taken into the canteen where he is given coffee or a Coke with a sandwich and is then released. The entire process takes a little over an hour.

A donor should eat a light but nourishing meal between two and four hours before donating. Fatty foods such as cream and butter should be avoided, but bread, meat, fruits, tea, and fruit juices will be satisfactory. Anyone between 18 and 59 can donate; the minimum weight is 110 pounds.

Our campus quota is 400 pints (Smith girls alone gave 375 pints on Feb. 27) in bottles not on pledge cards. You can give one pint per year; some soldier or marine needs one per hour. A pint from you in '52—we need every pledge!

Candid UM ...

The movie is intended to be a "celluloid viewbook" of general campus life and covers the main aspects of academic progress. It is not intended to be a thoroughgoing treatment of any one school or department of the University.

A brochure announcing the availability of the film is being sent out to all high schools and civic organizations in Massachusetts. The film will be distributed to them through the department of visual aids in education. It is intended for people not as familiar with the University as the student body and is thus entitled "Know Your State University". The name "Candid UM" was merely an operational title. A special showing of the film will be held at the Jones library this Sunday at 5 p.m.

At the premiere Thursday it is believed that Miss O'Donnell and Mr. Tyrol will be present. Dave Baker, '53, who did an excellent job in the sound transcription of the Chorale and the chapel chimes, will be on hand. Efforts are being made to have Wogan and Lecesse here on special passes. Gordon Taylor of Adelphia, the M. C., will present Bob McCartney and Pop Barrett. The film will be presented by McCartney and Barrett to Bob Kroech, president of Adelphia, and Bach Flaherty, president of Isogon, who will then make the presentation to President Van Meter. Special invitations have been sent out to all those who helped with the production.

21, the Red Cross chapter in Hamp sends out a Parent's Consent Form to your folks—with a stamped envelope addressed to Dean Hopkins' office. This Form must get back before you can get into the schedule for the donation on March 25 and 26 at Knowlton. The pledge card must be filled out completely (don't forget the name of your home town). Students are asked to urge their parents to be prompt in sending back the Consent Form. For the witness, Mom can witness for Dad or vice-versa.

On the pledge card are two choices of time interval. Try to keep them wide apart; if you have a whole hour or two, state this fact as it will help in scheduling those who have only limited time. You will be scheduled only after your consent form arrives from your parents. The Red Cross will send you a notice card, verifying the time you can appear at Knowlton. Many may appear but not all are taken—for reasons of recent colds, health (pulse, pressure) or unusuable blood type.

Blood pledging teams are asked to turn their pledges over to the next higher unit in the organization. They will report and turn in the cards to Captain Herman ARMOR, who will forward them to the Red Cross and see that the Parent's Consent Forms go out.

Prexy Calls For Students' Blood

Realizing the difficulties of our servicemen and the responsibilities placed on our shoulders by the Korean War, President Van Meter urged the student body to get behind the Red Cross Blood Drive in its campaign on this campus.

In a letter to all students at the U. of Mass., the prexy commented, "The importance of the present national emergency is recognized by all of us but there is distressingly little that we can do to help. The burden of stopping Communist aggression rests on a handful of men and women in the armed forces who face the common enemy on the snowswept hills of Korea. They must endure the dangers and discomforts and deprivations of an army in the field as the face crippling deformity and death in the face of the principles for which we all stand.

"But there is one thing that we can all do," the president continued. "Blood means life to thousands of wounded men. They are calling for more blood and we can supply it in

Phys Ed Bldg. Will Complete Quadrangle

by Nancy Deignan

The University Alumni Building Corporation is now securing authorization to begin construction of two new dormitories for women, similar in size to Hamlin and Knowlton. Construction of the two self-liquidating dorms will cost $800,000.

The dormitories will be located east of Hamlin and Knowlton with an oval driveway, with parking space in the center to serve the four residences.

The Building and Grounds Committee of the Board of Trustees met last Saturday to choose the building sites. Chairman Philip Whitmore announced that the L-shaped dorms would be situated in the rear of Hamlin and Knowlton with the proposed new dining hall and Phys. Ed. building completing the quadrangle.

Although the bill is yet to be passed by the House of Representatives, and signed by the Governor, Treasurer Johnson predicted that the bill would go through the remaining legislative channels without any obstacles.

The University Alumni Building Association is made up of a group of prominent alumni interested at present solely in the building of dormitories for the students. They lease land from the state and bonds are issued in the name of the Association. The University leases the buildings and the rental income is sufficient

Frats Pledge 120 Pints So Far

The blood drive is well underway as indicated by the number of pledge cards which have been returned to Captain Herman's office. The pledge cards which have been returned thus far are: Mills—26; Plymouth—30; Greenough—5; Knowlton—31; Chadbourne—29; and Interfraternity 120.

However, this makes only a total of 241 cards returned out of the 1000 cards which have been distributed. It is urgently requested that everyone interested in giving blood obtain and sign a pledge card as soon as possible. Speed in doing this is most important, first, in order that the committee may send, and have returned, the parents' consent form and second, that time scheduling for donations may be done.

Pledge cards may be obtained from a proctor, a senator, or the fraternity or sorority representative on Blood Drive committee. In filling out the card, the donor is asked to indicate all hours that he would be available to donate blood so that conflicts will be avoided.

Student Life - An Orphan?

by Ruth Sullivan

One of the principle points of discussion at last night's senate meeting was whether the Student Life Committee was a committee of the Senate or of the administration. No conclusions were drawn and the constitution committee is to look into the matter. If it is a committee of the Senate, meetings should be open to all students and to the press, as well as complete review of all motions by the entire Senate. The Student Life committee reported that it had reviewed the progress of Phi Delta Nu and Tri Zeta, new sorority and fraternity, as well as receiving reports on the newest fraternity, Delta Sigma Chi.

The committee reported on the new regulations for drinking in the fraternities, which were announced in the last issue of the Collegian, as well as stating that only faculty members, Alumni, and graduate students were eligible to chaperone mixed affairs.

Larry Haworth proposed that outsiders would speak only at the request of Senate or by permission of the president obtained before the meeting. The motion was defeated. The Senate meetings are, as they have always been, open to the public and the policy has been to let any who

VALHALLA FOLK DANCERS PERFORM TOMORROW

Concert Review

by Bob Boland

Pearl Primus deserves superlatives, but none are adequate to describe the performance of her and her company on Wednesday evening. Stunning and brilliant are small indication of what the thoroughly appreciative audience experienced. Suffice it to say that for those fortunate enough to attend it was a most unique and exhilirating performance.

Beginning her program with dances out of her recent African tour, Miss Primus prefaced each group of dances with a charming explanation of the origin and aim of Negro dancing.

The African group of dances displayed the remarkable, almost unbelievable, agility of the troupe. Miss Primus is an outstanding example of what an artist is capable of when training and ability are combined. Her delination and control in such numbers as "African Ceremonial" and "Dance of Strength" were the products of crystalline thinking and interpretation.

It is impossible to say whether any one dance was the highlight of the program. Each number was evidence of Miss Primus' unusual touch in training and choreography. Nothing was extraneous or unnecessary. Miss Primus is gifted as few others are, with an intelligent approach that allows no movement simply for the

'Prince' Shows $600 In Clothes Sunday

The Operetta Guild will hold its first dress rehearsal of The Student Prince Sunday, it was announced today by Director Dorie Alviani. The costumes—approximately 200 in all—arrived Wednesday from Stage Costumes, Inc. of New York City.

The cast of 75 will shed its dungarees and campus garb for the dress of Heidelberg and Karlsburg. The costumes, which cost approximately $600, will fill two rooms. The Costume Committee, headed by Pat French, will have the task of shaking out wrinkles, pressing and fitting.

This is the time when the Makeup Committee, headed by Louise Elliott, swings into action. A new makeup will be used for The Student Prince. It is called "Stein's Cake Make-up" and is both waterproof and non-drying. It saves time, for no cold cream base is needed, and it can be washed off easily.

A new switchboard for lighting has been added to Operetta Guild equipment. This was designed and constructed under the direction of William Shrader, a student in the Electrical Engineering School and member of the Operetta Guild. According to Howard Galley, Guild Stage Manager, the new switchboard will provide "greater variability and control for more subtle lighting."

Due to the overwhelming demand for tickets, rush seats are now available for all performances. These are the seats in the balcony closest to the stage and originally were not to be sold. This marks the earliest and largest sellout of any show in the history of the University.

Freshmen To Select Majors and Advisors

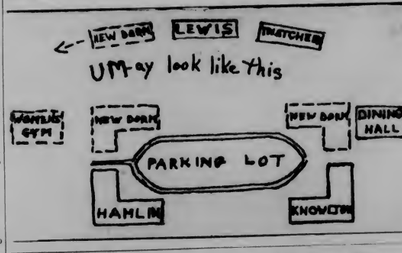
All freshmen will be required to meet with their advisors for consultation and counselling in connection with selecting a major department or school during the coming days of March 17th to 29th.

Advisors and freshmen will confer to determine the department in which the freshman will major. The freshman is then sent to the head of that department or a member of the department staff who may be assigned as the Freshman's new advisor, with the Freshman Major Election form. The signed card must then be returned to the original advisor.

The head of the major department or his designated assistant will then become the freshman's new advisor.

Those freshmen who have selected a major within the scope of a school or division, should present their Freshman Major Election Form to the Dean of the school or the head of the division concerned.

Those freshmen who have no specific major objective will counsel with their present advisor. In the event that no decision can be made the freshman will then report to either the Dean of Men or the Dean of Women.



16th Annual Rec Confab on Campus

Ten sectional workshops ranging from arts and crafts to winter sports highlight the 16th Annual Recreation Conference at the U. of M. this week, according to Chairman Lawrence V. Loy.

Leadership techniques are being stressed by nationally prominent recreation specialists who are visiting the U. of M. campus on March 12, 14, and 15 to head up the workshop forums.

For the first time in several years the annual Turf Conference is being held concurrently with the general conference sessions. The turf program is headed by Prof. Lawrence Dickinson, assisted by Prof. Geoffrey Cornish of the department of agrology.

Sessions this year include arts and crafts, games and social recreation, folk dancing, nature recreation, music, dramatics, mountaineering, archery, tennis and winter sports. The annual folk festival will be held on Saturday evening, March 15.

The recreation conference is designed primarily for leaders of youth and adult groups such as the Boy and Girl Scouts. The general public is invited to attend, however, and scores of visitors annually augment the delegates in attending the various sessions.

State Budget Given

The House Ways and Means Committee has reported the state budget to the House of Representatives. Items applying to the U. of M. are as follows: State Budget total—$280,011,465; University appropriations—$5,213,601. A special item for Commonwealth Scholarships for $25,000 was also set up.

Dr. Boas To Open Hillel Lecture Series

"Modern Thought and Religious Belief" will be the subject of a series of lectures sponsored by the Hillel foundation.

Darwinism and religious belief is to be the subject under discussion when Dr. Marie Boas of the History department initiates these lectures this Sunday, March 16.

On Sunday, March 23, Mr. Jerome Rothenberg of the economics department at Amherst College will speak on Marxism and religious belief.

Psychoanalysis and religious belief will be discussed by Professor William Graham Cole of the department of religion at Smith.

Each lecture will be held in Skinner auditorium at 8:00 p.m.

Hillel is attempting to bring to the campus a program of real worth that presents both the religious and the secular form discussion under the leadership of well qualified speakers.

God Helps Those Who Help Themselves

Some places have floodcrests. Our university is the only one that has mudcrests. Those near Middlesex, Berkshire, Plymouth, Hampshire, and Suffolk houses and those around the engineering building hold undisputed first place in the circle of colleges and universities.

These mudcrests are characteristic of a prevailing pattern on the campus—much talk, many promises, no action. It would be better to promise nothing rather than arouse false hopes.

Two years ago the Senate started a campaign for sidewalks. They were supposed to be built this spring but have been postponed until September due to insufficient funds, but more important even than funds is the necessity of using the grounds department personnel for preparing the campus for commencement. Hard-surfaced sidewalks cannot be laid at this time of year; even if they could, the men could not be taken off other jobs.

The men of the dorms are willing to lay planks or boards themselves as a temporary relief measure if they can get the boards. Mr. Brehm, superintendent of grounds, says the cost of the boards would be too high for such a temporary measure. We found through checking that the cheapest suitable boards would cost 14 cents a board foot. It appears to us that the men could pick up enough boards around the power plant to make the ramp. Gravel at $1 a yard might be another possibility.

Mr. Brehm showed us a map on which the Planning Committee had sketched in a possible sidewalk extending from the rear entrance of Middlesex and Berkshire and leading into the parking lot in front of Federal Circle. This is the shortest route. But is it the most economical? The people using the sidewalks should determine where the walks should be rather than the walks determine where the people should walk. The walks are utilitarian, not ornamental. (The route now used most commonly goes between the women's athletic field and some experimental buildings, leads toward the road at the side of the Cage and across the lawn next to the front part of the Cage). This walk would be longer, but it would be preferable because it would be used.

Those who have it in their power to shift funds to make the walks available or at least to sanction some temporary measures might be faster to act if they had to walk through the mud for about a week. Mud tracks into the dorms and into the rooms as well as being hard on clothing so that the campus, the dorms, and the rooms are all defaced to some extent. As a plan of action, we suggest that the interested group of men living in that area ask for an audience with Treasurer Johnson in order to explain the situation fully. The president of the Senate and other campus leaders should also be present.

As for the area near the engineering buildings, the engineers might help themselves. They could put in, as part of the surveying courses, a practical project of laying several feet of sidewalk. They could consult with the class in biological field studies to find how they work the clearing of the area behind the infirmary into their curriculum.

In both cases, the fraternity pledges and brothers during Pledge Week might have laid planks and taken measurements for wooden ramps rather than the type of measurements they took in the C-store. They would not, of course, have been used by many fraternity men, but the best element in good character is the one which prompts us to do something for someone else without recompense. Here we have husky, able-bodied men that could lay wooden ramps in no time and what do they do? They parade around in paper bags, pajamas, and towels because some fraternity brother dreamed up these silly pastimes for them.

As a final consideration, we cannot beautify some parts of the campus to the neglect of others and hope to attain a satisfactory result.

The cinder block dormitories and the engineering buildings are on the outskirts of the campus but they are still part of this campus—a very important part.

Misunderstanding Cleared

At the IFC meeting Wednesday night, the fraternities voiced an objection against the manner in which the Student Life Committee ruling was communicated. The fraternities felt that they had been dealt a bad blow and a sudden one.

The Student Life Committee, according to Dr. Helming, felt that it was serving the fraternities; it also felt that it would be guilty of breach of trust if it held back information that would subject the fraternities to suit. The frats stated they had never been sued and might have gone on a long time without being sued. The fraternities, in short, feared that this ruling would lead to further control of the fraternities. They seemed to think there were sinister motives behind the ruling.

Dr. Helming agreed that the fraternities should have been taken into confidence as soon as the Student Life Committee had assimilated the facts. The Committee had to live up to its agreement to keep the information submitted by the fraternities confidential. Dr. Helming said that in the future the IFC will be consulted and proposals referred to the Council first.

We feel the fraternities are to be commended for their cooperation in stopping the violation of the law. The fraternities need more clarification of the ruling which will be forthcoming. The misunderstandings, we think, will be cleared up when the fraternities are in possession of this information.

Out of the meeting and the desire of the IFC to be consulted on similar matters came several sensible suggestions regarding the new ruling on chaperones. For mixed dinners and open house, the fraternities feel there is no need for chaperones. They stated that if the public was ill-informed as to what went on, the deans should inform the public rather than impose a new ruling. They also suggested that there be age specifications for chaperones when it was a question of a young married couple.

It seems that consulting the IFC on proposals involving them would reveal sound viewpoints that may be taken into consideration before the new rulings are made. The faculty will sometimes overlook important questions. The rules will then be understood from the start.

Age 2 or 20?

Miss Riggs' letter brings up an interesting point—our sense of propriety. The masses of snow in front of the fraternities and sororities are typical of the habits of many groups.

In running dances, some organizations will leave the dance hall in shambles or only partially cleaned up. They will borrow equipment and either never return it or else bring it back late, half destroyed at that. When John lends Jim a microphone, there is nothing so aggravating to John as to have to chase Jim all over campus to get back his own property. Many organizations on campus are extremely wary of lending even items as small as ash trays because once they lend them they never see them again.

We want to be treated as adults. If we are adults, we should act responsibly, not like little children whose mothers pick up after them.

Is this carelessness the result of a me-for-me-and-I-don't-give-a-hoot-about-the-other-guy attitude? Though we ourselves may never again use Drill Hall or Mem Hall for another dance, we still must consider those student groups who will use the halls after us and not endanger their chances to use the facilities.

Not even a sap bucket can hang on a tree in peace before some smart aleck gives it a whack or leaves the top off so that apple cores are found floating in the sap.

Men who are supposedly guests at the open dormitory dances certainly abuse the hospitality of their hostesses by wandering through the corridors visiting the young ladies' rooms. Another group of erstwhile young men will come pounding in full force at the doors of Butterfield at 2 a.m. We ask you—is this humor or downright stupidity? We don't think it funny; we say it's pathetic.

It is precisely students like these who would degrade this university into a second-rate institution.

Hell Weeks Are Waning

Call it what we will—Hell Week, Character Building Week, Pledge Week—the fraternities are wasting manpower and brains.

If pledges wear towels and pass out reams of toilet paper at the theater to the townspeople to prove themselves worthy of wearing certain fraternity pins, may we hazard the notion that any nincompoop can do the same? If they carry on such practices in the sense of tradition, tradition is not getting any better for it.

In America a man or woman of 40 is still regarded as a child. Immature actions are passed off as "pranks". Townspeople gain no respect for pledges who pass out paper at the theater—they think instead that these "fraternity kids" have no sense.

We have come away from the Hell Week idea and seem to be in a transitional stage by doing nothing too bad and nothing too good. The fraternities took a step forward in sending their pledges in groups on projects Saturday. Fraternities on this campus need never worry about finding enough helpful projects to work on.

Most important is the fact that Indiana University, Purdue, Butler, DePauw, Cornell, and many midwest colleges have converted Hell Week into Help Week with admirable results. We seem so very anxious to follow colleges like Cornell and Purdue in football practices—how about following in this idea?

Dear Editor,

I have just returned from the library with a strong feeling of disgust. That library could easily win a contest for the noisiest building holding the most active people on the whole U.M. campus—small wonder since there are not desks, bookholders, or sufficient light for proper concentration by any but the most serious grind who wisely confines himself to another place of study. The dictionary in the second floor reading room is in almost total darkness and therefore totally unavailable for use without severe eyestrain after sunset.

And where are the manners of the erstwhile students on this campus? If they have any, they keep them well hidden while in the libe. It is easier to concentrate in Draper at noon than to study in the libe after 7 p.m. If the students have nothing to do, they might at least find another place to expend their energies. It does seem to me (and I avoid the library on all but the most necessary occasions for this precise reason) that people could keep quiet in the reading rooms and do their social visiting and joint studying some other place.

Regarding the question of reserve books—of necessity(?) there seems to be a shortage of all reference books. Why is it impossible to have more than one or two copies of these most frequently used books for the largest classes? My third successive attempt to procure a reserve book used as a running reference in a class of 50 people was futile.

With such a lack of adequate library facilities, it is no wonder there is so much ill-prepared work.

Mr. Wood may have been a holy terror but he did a fine job in maintaining order and quiet in a place which should have that if nothing else.

Students certainly wouldn't think of studying in Converse Library or any public library and creating the disturbance so much in evidence in Goodell.

Wrathfully yours,
Elinore Mason

A prize, bigger than the first, should be given to the fraternity or sorority which cleans up the mess left by the sculptures. Or else the prize should be contingent upon ability and desire to clean up.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In reference to the timely letter written by Dr. Everett Sanderson, M. D., which appeared in a recent issue of the Collegian, we would like to commend the idea expressed therein, and also suggest that the Inter-Fraternity Council look into the feasibility and advantages of a constructive "help week", replacing the present so-called Character Building Program here on campus.

wishes to speak before the senate.

Lou Marshall, reported that he had been to see Dean Hopkins to protest the practice of giving hour exams after major campus functions. He said that many of the professors made up their schedules during the summer and could not change the dates of the exams without great inconvenience. The Senate passed a motion that no hour exams be held the day after major campus functions. The problem of conflicting activities on Monday and Tuesday nights was discussed. The Operetta Guild will not be meeting on Monday nights too much longer, and as there seems to be no alternate time for all the activities the conflicts will have to be met with as best they can. Such speakers as Vera Dean must come when they are available so other activities must suffer if we are to have any such speakers.

Larry Haworth asked that the senate look into the matter that the same men would be living in County Circle for three years and never have a chance to live in the new dorms.

Dick Jones resigned as chairman of the Buildings and Grounds Committee.

John Dillon reported that there would be a lacrosse team this year. The athletic department will provide only the equipment, the students must provide their own transportation this year. All freshmen and sophomore men will have to pay a $5 fee to be spent for equipment. Junior and senior men who elect physical education will not have to pay this fee.

Infirmary conditions were discussed. High temperatures were still a necessary requirement for admission. This is usually due to the crowded conditions, but often is held to when the infirmary is not crowded.

Work and Scholarships

All students desiring scholarship aid or work for the school year 1952-53 are to file applications in the Placement Office by April 15.

As the applications must be countersigned by parents, it is urged that students take them home for spring vacation.

Students are reminded that a new blank must be filed each year. Students now working or holding a scholarship must reapply.

sake of movement. These things were particularly noticeable in the precision of the entire company and their obvious artistry.

The second half of the program moved the Negro dance from Africa to the New World. Here, Miss Primus displayed her talent for subtle humor and satire. The dances of the Indies and America were vibrantly inspired. Miss Primus' final numbers were based on the Negro spirituals, the real, absolute basis of American dance. Every movement of her short, supple body was as eloquent as the mood en toto that the audience experienced.

The authentic costuming, and the lighting that was available, considering the facilities, heightened the entire program. The drum solo of Moses Miann's deserves acclaim for doing through drums what no words can do in poetry.

This reviewer's only regret was that Miss Primus did not return to the Negro origin and climax her program with more of the African dances which opened the performance.

No one knows the conveniences and inconveniences of a house as well as the residents themselves. Dean Helen Curtis, who is conferring with the architect, Louis W. Ross, would like to have suggestions from students, especially from past or present residents of Hamlin and Knowlton Houses, regarding either important features or small details which would make the new dormitories more serviceable to student residents.

Dear Editor:

Carolyn Moulton and Ann Green aren't the only women on campus who have been disappointed by the tone of the fraternity hazing.

We had understood that hazing was supposed to be one way in which fraternity pledges were put to trial as to good sportsmanship and ability to take a bit of hardship like MEN. However, the type of hazing displayed by the greater part of our fraternities is no more than high-schoolish in nature. Certainly men aren't created from monkeys.

The sensuality encouraged by most pledge-hazers has been not only obnoxious but thoroughly nauseating.

Chess Team Competes

The Chess Team played their first match of the season March 9 as they accepted the challenge of the Amherst College club. Each of the games was an interesting and spirited battle, but when the results were totaled, Amherst had won five games and the U. of M. two with the eighth board going to U. of M. by default.

A girl seeking a gift which will please a male, on the other hand, frequently has to do a bit of brain-cudgeling. A wallet? A lighter? He probably has both. Ties? . . .Wonderful—but how to account for a man's taste? What, then, is the answer?

Something he's certain to especially appreciate because you've knitted it with your own hands! Like a handsome sweater . . . or a pair of manly, colorful, always popular argyle socks . . .or, most ideal, a distinctive combination of the two.

I.M. BB Continues With AEPi, SAE, IND, Grads, Castoffs on Top

The intramural basketball season finally resumed the last half of its schedule after a two week layoff due to basketball games and the small school tourney. With about one month left in the schedule, the race is narrowing down right to the wire.

In League A, Alpha Epsilon Pi took a half game lead over Sigma Alpha Epsilon as they whipped Tri-Zeta. Both teams are boasting undefeated slates and are aiming for their clash near the end of the season that should decide the championship.

In League B, the Independents boast the only undefeated slate in the league as they continue to hold their lead. Hot on their trail is Chadbourne B with a 5-1 record.

League C finds the Castoffs, defending league champions, holding a half game lead over the Grads as both have unblemished records. Berkshire B still breathes hot on the necks of the leaders with a 5-1 slate.

The Women's Basketball League, rolling into the final stretches of a winter long schedule starting in November, will hold the playoffs for the league championship within the next two weeks.

At the present, the girls from Butterfield are outpacing all rivals in first place. In second is Pi Beta Phi, the only sorority in the top three. In the third spot is Hamlin House.

Due to the fact that the Drill Hall floor was being repaired, many of the league games had to be postponed.

Dear Editor:

I figured out a few statistics on the basketball team that you might be interested in.

To look at our record, 4-17, one would think that the U. of M. had a pretty poor team this season, but actually our opposition wasn't as good as us, if you don't include B. C. and Rhode Island who beat us by wide margins. Even if you do include them, the average of points per game is less than one point more than the Mass. team. I figured out that the total points of our opposition were exactly 17 more than our total points in the 21 games, that is 1294 to 1277. Their average was 61.6 compared to our 60.8. Our record could very easily have been reversed if we had had a few breaks.

Joe Kenmore

Ed. Note: Pipe dreams are nice though inaccurate. Besides Rhode Island and B. C., we were slightly beaten by Providence 86-66, Maine 59-80, Brown 61-78, and Connecticut 64-78. Actually we did lose seven games by a total of ten points. Also the totals for Mass. and the opposition were 1277-1395 for averages of 60.4 for them to 63.6 for us. Nice try tho.

In the weeks to come, this corner will be filling your ear with the inside of the U. M. baseball situation. Many already familiar names will be renewed in your minds, and many new and favorable ones will join them. Now that the final basketball has been stored away and the curtain has fallen on a fighting, but luckless team, our attention turns to the spring agenda and the NATIONAL SPORT, baseball.

This year's team is one of great promise. Last year's team was the first one in quite a while to have a winning record. This team, with a 10-8 record, lost five one-run games, one of which came at the hands of powerful Springfield, the team that represented our area in the NCAA finals at Omaha, Nebraska.

Smith to Captain

Coach Lorden isn't saying much in the Cage, but you can be sure that he isn't wearing that smile for nothing. For he has plenty to smile about. Behind the platter he has this year's captain, Don 'Dinny' Smith, a capable receiver who swings a powerful warclub. From last year's infield, he has 'Ace' Dougherty at the hot corner, Ack Akerson, who covered the shortfield, and little pivot man Ray Gunn. First base is without a returning vet. In the outfield are: 'Red' Bakey, who patrolled left, and 'Bobby' Driscoll, who roamed the right-field pasture. Also back is Al 'Chatter' Raviolli, who proved to be an invaluable reserve.

Pitching Aces

The two aces of last year's pitching staff, Kroeck and Corkum, are back to try and mow 'em down.

All these boys know, however, that they have a fight on their hands to keep their jobs. Since the day the 'Earl' first called practice warmups, there have been quite a few unknowns who have looked little short of spectacular.

PRINCE SHOWING ALL WEEK

An. Hus. Dept. To Hold Biggest Show in World

The barns and offices of the College Farm and the Animal Husbandry Dept. at the U. of M. are buzzing with activity these days. Student members of the Animal Husbandry Club are working feverishly to complete plans for "the biggest student livestock show in the world"—the Little International Livestock Show. Presented in conjunction with the showmanship courses in Animal Husbandry, it has grown in popularity and scope to become the largest and best show of its kind in New England. Last year's crowd of 1500 spectators is expected to be exceeded this year.

This year's show will be held at Grinnell Arena on March 22 when sixty Animal Husbandry students will vie for honors in fitting and showing. The big show featuring the Fitting and Showing Contest will start at 8 a.m. on Saturday morning. Each student will present an animal of his choice that he has trained and fitted for the show. There will be classes in beef cattle—both Hereford and Angus —Shropshire sheep, Chester White hogs and some of the best Percheron and Morgan Horses in the country. There will be attractive prizes awarded and the names of the winners will be engraved on permanent trophies which decorate the Animal Husbandry Seminar Room throughout the year. The winners of each class will compete for the Ensminger Trophy for the Premier Showman in the final event of the day.

Prizes and awards will be presented by Commissioner of Agriculture Henry T. Broderick, Leo F. Dougherty, also of the Mass. Dept. of Agriculture, Pres. Ralph Van Meter, Dr. Dale Seling, and Director Roland Verbeck. Medals, books, magazine subscriptions, and many other prizes will be presented to winners in the Fitting and Showing Contest. The medals are donated by the Mass. Department of Agriculture.

In a lighter vein will be the special gesture of the show such as the

Finally, the students on this campus have had a glimpse of what their University has to offer. "Know Your State University" was planned to show others how Mass. Aggie has metamorphosed from a pretty little farm into a beautiful educational institution, but it has done more than that. It has opened the droway eyes of some few hundred students and made them stop feeling sorry for themselves.

When you go home and start talking about why your college is better than Harry's, perhaps you won't have to look down at the floor as you've done in the past because you were too lazy to find out what UM really has to offer, for in a 25 minute film you've had your eyes yanked open.

Although some of the scenes may have seemed a little unrealistic to us students, the picture for the most part actually depicted life as it really is here at the University. Many students have joked about "their profs" who serve coffee in the C-Store about the 65 man staff of the Collegian, the cramming for an exam while shaving.

Those students and faculty members who packed Bowker for both showings at the world premiere learned a few things, too. Few, if

Open House Is Enjoyed by 750

The Engineering Open House, with more than 750 attending, was a greater success this year than last. The many exhibits displayed by the students and instructors were well received by all those who attended.

Many high schools throughout the state were represented in the off campus groups that attended the show. Several engineering alumni also returned for the show.

The dance, held Saturday night as the climax of the show, was very enjoyable but attended by only a small group.

Among the more popular exhibits were: the still which was making 186 proof alcohol displayed by the chem engineers, the new departure ball bearings shown by the Agg Engineers, the movie taken by the industrial engineers, the Ford motor being put through its paces, and many others. Most of the displays showed a clever use of some necessary engineering principle.

The School of Engineering is very pleased with the results of the show and with the interest shown in it by all groups concerned.

Students Form Club For Ike's Campaign

A "Students for Eisenhower" campaign has been started on campus under the direction of Dick Levine and Art Mintz—leaders of a group of students who feel that Ike would make a good president.

The U. of M. is the fifteenth campus in Massachusetts to start such a project. The directors receive their material from "Citizens for Eisenhower" in New York and Mrs. Grant of Northampton, delegate to the Republican convention.

A mock congress and a rally are planned, and it is hoped that Christian Herter, Republican nominee for governor of Massachusetts will speak, according to Mr. Levine. The boys have been distributing pins and pamphlets and are requesting help from any interested parties.

Scholarships Can be Picked UpFrom Treas.

The 250 recipients of the Commonwealth scholarships may call for the money at the treasurer's office between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Those students who received a scholarship in September must turn back the amount of the scholarship received; the rest of the money they receive in cash. In cases where the semester bill amounted to more than $250, the bill is paid. Instead of having the difference between the bill and the $250 credited, they will receive the difference in cash.

To the student who receives a Commonwealth scholarship as a freshman, the true worth of the scholarship aid is $1,000 according to Dean Machmer. If the students awarded these scholarships maintain a satisfactory scholastic average in their studies and can still show their need for financial assistance they will retain the $250 grant for the following year. Thus it is possible that a student may receive one of these scholarships for four years accumulating a total of $1,000 worth of help. Freshman, sophomore, and junior students should apply for Commonwealth scholarships for next year by April 15.

Since the provision is made that each class be awarded 25 of the 100 Commonwealth scholarships, there will be $6250 available to incoming freshmen. This should serve to attract many high school graduates pressed for funds. Dean Machmer added that Robert McCartney and his staff are composing a letter to be sent to the high schools in the state informing prospective students of the manner in which they may apply for this financial aid.

SENATOR RALPH O. MAHAR

Prince Opens Tonight After Weeks of Work

The long-awaited production of The Student Prince will open tonight in Bowker Auditorium at 8:15. Tickets for all five performances have been sold out, although a few "rush" seats are still available.

According to Prof. Lawrence Dickinson, Business Manager of the Academic Activities Board, approximately 5,000 tickets have been sold. This marks the earliest and largest sellout in the University's theatre history.

Director Alviani said today that the arduous rehearsals have netted tremendous changes, not only in the show as it will be seen by the general public, but also in the members of the cast in particular.

"The Operetta Guild exists," stated Doric, "not only to give talented students an opportunity to express themselves in various occupations before an audience, but also to build the character and personality of each student so that he will want to give of himself to others."

Doric has witnessed repeatedly changes in attitude and behavior among the members of the Operetta Guild as they worked on a production. "Individual performance in any character is only as great as it serves all other units of the production," he concluded.

The leading roles in the Guild production of The Student Prince will be played by Jean Murdock, as Kathie, and Robert Pollack, as Prince Karl Franz of Karlsburg who goes to the University of Heidelberg and there falls in love with Kathie, a waitress at the Inn of The Three Golden Apples. This is Jean's second leading ingenue role for last year she starred as Fiona in Brigadoon. Pollack, however, is a newcomer to the Guild.

Ray Frenier, who played in the Guild productions of Brigadoon and The Red Mill, will play the role of the kirdly Dr. Engel in this week's sellout show. Other Guild veterans are: Lorna Wildon, who will play the part of the Princess; James Chapman, Captain Tarnitz; Mary Lowry, Gretchen; and Bob Boland, Count von Mark.

Women to Elect Judiciary Wed.

Co-eds were given a chance last night to choose a new Judiciary Board from 22 candidates representing the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes.

Freshmen included Brenda Campbell, Joan Manley, Gail Riley, and Lucy Tibbals.

Sophomore candidates were Ruth Burns, Susan Dewar, Mary Harding, Stephanie Holmes, Frances Jones, Nancy Montgomery, Nancy Motte, Beth Nava, Martha Okum, Phyllis Robinson, and Barbara Rugani.

Sally Caude, Nina Chalk, Barbara Mae Dean, Eunice Johnson, Nancy Meader, and Arlene Rudman were the junior contestants.

Nancy Meader and Nancy Motte were the only members of the board to run for re-election.

Primary elections are scheduled for Wednesday, March 19.

UM Songs in Book

The Monsanto Chemical Co. has just published a music book entitled Songs from New England Colleges.

The book, including two songs from the U. of M., also features songs from Holy Cross, Brown, Colby, U. Conn., Harvard, Dartmouth, Amherst, Bates, Boston College, Boston University, MIT, Middlebury, U. of New Hampshire, Providence College, Trinity, Yale, Tufts, Wesleyan, University of Vermont, and Williams.

Besides the songs, one page of the book is devoted to a description and a picture of each school. The U. of M. picture is of Old Chapel and the songs are "Sons of the Valley" and "When Twilight Shadows Deepen."

The book is not for sale but is offered without charge to the audience of its radio program, "Songs From New England Colleges". Those desiring a copy need only write to Monsanto Chemical Company, Merrimac Division, Boston 49, Mass.

Blood Report

Five hundred and sixty-six pledge cards, of the 1500 distributed, have been signed and returned to Captain Herman's office. The committee is pleased with the results and is grateful to the pledge teams for their efforts and to the students for their cooperation.

However, this figure will not be sufficient to meet our goal of 400 pints of blood. Of every 100 pints of blood pledged, the Red Cross estimates at least 20 will be unable to donate. This situation has been emphasized because of the many colds prevalent on the campus during the recent weeks.

Hence, in order to provide a margin of safety for the actual donation of 400 pints of blood, the number of pledges must be considerably above 566. If some houses have cards they cannot use, it is requested that they turn them over to houses which need them. It is preferred that all the official pledge cards be used before makeshift ones.

Dean Hopkins is now receiving returns of the parents' consent forms, and the Red Cross will soon send notices to the donors informing them of the time for their donation.

Fraternities: Pro or Con?

Judging from the letters this week, we feel the fraternities are reading into the editorials words that are not there and implications that are not made. We should like to point out that we make it a policy to print exactly what we mean—nothing more, nothing less. We aim for directness rather than subtlety. If we thought Dean Machmer, Dean Hopkins, and Dean Curtis should be discharged immediately from their positions for one reason or another, we should not hesitate to say so. Or, if we thought all fraternities should be abolished, we would not hesitate to say that. But we have not said it.

Sensationalism?

A few fraternity members seem to feel we tend toward sensationalism of late. The report of the Student Life Committee was thought to be distorted and inaccurate though we stated the report was written by the Committee representative. Had we been looking for sensationalism, the Student Life ruling would have been our golden opportunity. The entire paper would have played up the decision with the result that outside papers would have snatched the story and slanted it much to the discredit of the University. We offer suggestions on the improvement of the University; we try, at the same time, to follow the suggestions we make. We understood the position of the fraternities in regard to the ruling and therefore commented favorably on their attitude.

Praise Where Praise Is Due

We agree that fraternities are responsible for the success of many drives. When the fraternities do something extraordinary, they receive praise for it as in the editorial of March 7. Their efforts in the blood drive, Greek Week, and Winter Carnival Week largely speak for themselves as fine accomplishments. If, however, we have failed to give adequate recognition to the fraternities in the past, we take this opportunity to do so. We do not automatically oppose the fraternities in every issue. There are certain points on which we would solidly agree with the fraternities—for example, in opposing housemothers for fraternities since the financial argument involved here would seem the most important consideration.

However, we place fraternities on the same par as any other group in the student body or administration: if we conclude that certain facts should be pointed out in regard to their actions or policies, then we will point out the facts. The fraternities cannot claim that the facts we printed were distorted. What they regard as distorted is the opinion expressed, but the function of the editorials is to give opinion. Opinion is always slanted one way or another precisely because it is opinion. In regard to letters to the editor, we do no editing. They are printed just as they come in to us. This semester we have printed all we have received—we do not throw into the waste basket those that do not agree with our viewpoints. We have not as yet cut the length of any letters; if parts are cut, three dots indicate the omission. The letters are, therefore, the opinion of individuals or groups on the campus.

Why

Neither the letter of Miss Riggs nor the editorials attacked the publicity and goodwill brought to the University through the snow sculptures. Nevertheless, visitors come to the campus at all times of the year, not just during the Winter Carnival Week. They will remember an ugly image of uncleaned snow as long, if not longer, than that of a beautiful snow sculpture. High school students are now coming for interviews along with school officers and these sights do not speak well for the University. If for no other reason, we would think the fraternities would take pride in the appearance of their own grounds. Some of the high school students are future members of the fraternities—don't the fraternities want their houses to look well for them? We might compare the situation to that of our own homes where cleanliness is in order both for our own sakes and for visitors. The editorial attempted to point out that a job, whether undertaken by a fraternity or any other group, is not finished properly until the place looks as neat as it did before the function was held.

Mud-Slinging

We are expressing a sincere sentiment when we say we are proud of the fraternities and of any group that contributes in any way to the betterment of the University. In pointing out such items as uncleaned snow, we are not slinging mud at the fraternities— we have enough mud on campus now. Rather we want basically to be proud of the fraternities all year long as well as during Carni Week. If we were trying to knock the fraternities at every opportunity, we should not bother with these points but rather let them continue to their own detriment.

The Root of All Evil?

The idea of cancelling Saturday classes for "help" days has merit and the calendar committee of the University should consider opening the academic year one, two, or three days earlier to allow for just such events as this. The calendar is made up about two years in advance, however; though the deans may have wanted to cancel classes, they may have been forced to refuse due to dates having been already set. We tend to blame the "administration" for all the evils on campus. They must meet certain requirements just as every one of us must meet requirements. Among these is a stipulation for a certain number of class hours per year.

Two Heads Are Better Than One

What is so preposterous about fraternity men laying planks for the cinder block area? We feel that many projects on campus could be helped by cooperation between fraternities and independents. We made the suggestion because (1) judging from what we saw, the brothers don't seem to know what to do with the pledges except deck them out in all sorts of outfits or put them through pranks that the men admit in their letter are not up to college level. It is these actions we are attacking and attacking strongly. (2) On many campuses, the entire student body—fraternity men along with independents—work together to put in the things they cannot obtain from the administration or the state legislature and thereby shame both into faster action. Back in 1914 the classes of '14, '15, '16, and '17 pledged five hours of labor per man to lay 5000 feet of tile drains besides contributing $5 per student toward the fund. Do we have anything that can compare with that? (3) Independents would help fraternities if both had some project to work on but someone has to make the first move toward joint cooperation. We get nowhere fast when each group looks at the other and waits for the other to begin. The fraternities could easily assume the initiative here because they are organized whereas the independents are not.

Provincialism

Pride in appearance is not restricted to the lawn in front of the fraternity house but involves the whole campus. Fraternities might have considered as projects the clearing of the brush in front of Baker dorm or helped in any number of projects too numerous to mention here. In addition, the editorial to which the letter refers was entitled "God helps those who help themselves" suggesting throughout that the men in the cinder block area do something to help themselves out of their predicament.

Our Purpose

Each of our editorials has an idea behind it; the purpose of the editorial in the last issue was to point out the advantages of Help Weeks to fraternities and to outsiders as well. The projects undertaken can range from painting the fraternity house to campus projects to off-campus projects. At the same time the fraternities are helping others they would also be helping themselves.

We are not out to tear down everything on the campus. We take pride in our University, but we would like to make it even better by remedying, or speeding the remedy of, things not so desirable such as Liberal Arts Annex, the facilities of the library, the absence of sidewalks, the inadequacy of the alumni bulletin, the need for a Student Union building. This is the one purpose behind all the editorials thus far. We feel Help Weeks would be one of the best steps forward—as important as a Student Union or any other problem. We assure the fraternities that if they did take such action, the Collegian would be the very first to praise and the last to stop in its commendations.

If the fraternities do not believe this, they may take us up on it.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

As members of a fraternity, we have gradually become irritated with the editorials and letters which have been printed in your paper in a biased and distorted fashion. The edition of Friday, March 14, was the crowning blow. We feel that the time has come for us to defend the fraternities.

First, concerning the preposterous proposal that fraternity men and pledges lay down planks when there are at least 300 "husky, able-bodied men" residing in those dorms. These men are suffering from the negligence of the Administration; therefore, why bring fraternities into the question? We have our own property to maintain. For example, we do not seek the aid of the dorm residents when we seed our lawns.

Second, concerning the letter of one Miss Riggs, members of fraternities and sororities spent hours laboring under hardship to make the Winter Carnival a success by building the snow sculptures. These sculptures attract more publicity and goodwill for the University than any other event of the academic year. Now we are being condemned because there remains in front of three or four houses the skeletons of a few sculptures. Perhaps Miss Riggs and other critics who enjoyed the prestige created by these sculptures would rather we did not build them, since they make such a "particularly disgraceful mess" of our campus.

Third, let us consider Pledge Week in general. For the benefit of the campus as a whole, and particularly for those few demure damsels who are so easily nauseated, the Administration suggested to fraternities through the IFC that pledges be assigned to Boys Clubs and Boy Scout camps for clean-up work and repairs. Yet, when the IFC asked the administration for cancellation of classes Saturday morning so that these pledges could get in a full day's work, the request was refused.

Admittedly, some pranks were not up to college level; however, why not consider some of the more worthwhile endeavors of fraternities—Saturday night entertainment for the campus as a whole; one of the most enjoyable weeks of the school year made possible solely through the efforts of fraternities and sororities, namely Greek Week; boarding and housing prospective University athletes as a favor to the Athletic Department; and the fraternities' support to such projects as the blood drive and the Campus Chest. Therefore, before throwing mud at fraternities at every opportunity, let us compare the benefits derived from these groups to other campus organizations.

We fear for the health of Mr. Ben Ricci, for he may collapse from the overwork of treating the strained and wrenched arms of the mudslingers. Two things we do not fear, however, are that these people will never run out of mud to sling, and will never cease to trump up idiotic and picayunish reasons to sling it.

The following letter is in reply to the letter of Ann Green and Carolyn Moulton printed in the March 11 issue:

Dear Editor:

Letters to the Editor, we realize are oft' times written in a moment of haste. With due consideration for the letter written by two intellectuals, we should like to reply to the "deep-rooted" accusations.

The intellectual mind is characterized by thorough and objective analysis of situations and incidents. A superficial analysis of the pledge activities conducted during Character Building Week cannot help but result in a misunderstanding of its basic purposes and motives. Common sense alone will tell you that the physical actions themselves are merely the outward manifestations of a plan which has as its goal the close relationship of pledges and members of each fraternal group.

There are only a few students in this noble institution who possess all the characteristics of the absolute. For those who fall short of this super excellence, those possessed by shyness, boldness, acquisitiveness, vanity and rivalry, for those, "Hell Week" is an omnipotent antidote.

The spotlight of attention is focused first upon the shy, relieving them of their retiring disposition then, upon the bold, modulating the arrogance; next, upon the acquisitive teaching them satisfaction with a modicum; then, upon the vain, showing them the impracticability of self sufficiency; and lastly, upon the misanthrope, pointing out the necessity of mutual understanding and cooperation.

Harmony is the essence of fraternal life, and through modification of the individual the true spirit of Brotherhood can be attained. These modifications are brought about through Character Building Week; perhaps even the minority group of idealists can see the reasoning involved.

To the editor:

Reading the last few Collegians I find myself extremely puzzled by a seeming paradox. Possibly you can enlighten me. It is reported that the fraternities have already pledged 120 pints of blood. Surely this is a fine gesture on their part which should be commended. Again, I read another article praising the fraternities for their cooperation in regard to the decision concerning liquor. Their reaction to the measure seems to me both mature and sensible. There are other instances in which fraternities have exhibited intelli

Aldrich Picked To Captain 1953 Trackmen

Thirteen members of the varsity winter track team earned their letters during the past season as the squad earned a 2-3 record for the year. Sophomore Harry Aldrich, holder of the University and Cage two mile marks and sparkplug of the Redmen win over Amherst, received the double honor of being elected captain for next winter's team.

The letter winners were: Arthur Kentuck (captain of last year's spring track team); Halsey Allen (captain of this year's cross-country team and the spring track squad for the coming season); Harry Aldrich; David Lamkin; Lee Fink; Hank Knapp; Frank Barous; Fred Law (holder of the University pole vault record); Ira Nottonson; James Butler; Joe Kelsey; John Porter; and Russ Briere (holder of the University high jump mark.)

The squad, under the direction of Coach Lew Derby, gained wins over Worcester Tech and Amherst, while dropping decisions to Northeastern, New Hampshire and Holy Cross.

Prevey Chosen For Conference Starting Time

The Redmen varsity basketball team finished in sixth place in the Yankee Conference according to a release received today. However, Captain Bill Prevey was the only unanimous selection for the 1952 All-Conference team. Prevey set two new conference marks during the season as he averaged 24.3 points in six games and scored 39 points against Rhode Island.

Prevey was the only U of M player to make the Conference squad. However, Bernie Kaminski, who averaged 15 points per game during Conference play, finished seventh in the League Scoring race as his 15 point average was only 1.6 points behind the second place man.

Playing for the New England College All Stars, Prevey scored a total of five points in 12 minutes of play as the game was monopolized by the Boston College contingent.

In All-American voting, Prevey received honorable mention in the New England District One voting. Incidentally, he outscored every member of the New England First Team.

Inside the Cage

The big question on this year's hot stove is, "Who's going to hold down the initial sack?" Nobody is able to answer this question yet, not even Earl Lorden. Louie Baldwin's departure at the end of last year left a vacant an important cog.

Rumors are buzzing as to who will replace classy fielding, no-stick Lou. As far as is known, there are five prominent figures in the battle for this position.

Lefty Lajoie, a flashy southpaw, who moves around the bag with the grace of a cat, is a junior getting his big chance.

Herb Bamel and Cy Young were both outstanding first basemen in high school. Herb injured his knee during the freshman (1950) football season and consequently wasn't able to try out last spring. Cy, on the other hand, like Lefty, was stuck behind Captain Lou.

Up from last year's freshmen, is Johnny Pasteris, who is part of a very smooth infield. Playing the last five games with a severe ankle sprain, he still looked extremely swift and remained a good sticker.

Number five of the competitors is Captain "Dinny" Smith. This is strictly a rumor but may easily prove the answer. Big Don knows what to do anywhere on the field. The mitt he'll hold up will save many overthrows. Tall and rangy, he'll be able to stop many balls otherwise tagged "OUTFIELD".

Behind the plate it's not impossible, or improbable, that Mr. Lorden Divencenzo. Howie had this chore with Red Ball's freshmen and Buster was a capable receiver back in Beverly.

The Captain declared that although this is excellent morning exercise he will not quarrel with anyone who believes that we need more class room, or more conveniently located classrooms.

He also stated that although he has been privileged to hold this trucking job only since November, this practice has been going on for several years.

any, of the observers realized the indescribable beauty of the campus which can be paralleled by few other colleges, REGARDLESS OF SIZE. We kick about the lack of school spirit, but did you notice the facial contortions of the packed stands during one of our less publicized contests?

Everyone smiled when one of the older buildings on campus was shown as a "picturesque remnant" of the days when a class boasted 47 students, but few thought of the quality of instruction offered in the dilapidated old shack. It was the student body, proud of their school, who brought about many of the changes on this campus, informal and good. The students here now and those to come, and those who have left, are a potential political force. Let us not forget that we are a State organization, and that such a fact can work in our favor. The veterans, along with the student body and the Collegian, got their pressure groups working successfully for the name change of Mass. State College to the U. of M.

It will be the students themselves and their voting parents and friends who will get a new Student Union, better roads and services, a new liberal arts building, and fame for their University.

The money for this project will be provided each year through Senate Bill 691. The idea was recommended to the Recess Commission on Education by members of the University staff in November, 1949. The bill was recommended by the Commission in a report issued on March 1, 1950.

The members of the Commission who sponsored the bill were: Senators—Ralph Mahar, chairman, Franklin-Hampshire district; Sumner Whittier, Everett; Charles Hogan, Lynn; and Joseph Melley, Chelsea; and, on the part of the House, Ralph Sullivan, House Chairman, Boston; Wilfred Mirsky, Boston; John Brennahan, Lawrence; John Lynch, Springfield; Robert Tivnan, Worcester; Patrick Plunkett, Lowell; Richard Hull, Rockport; William Cowing, West Springfield; Harrison Chadwick, Winchester; and Harold Putnam, Needham.

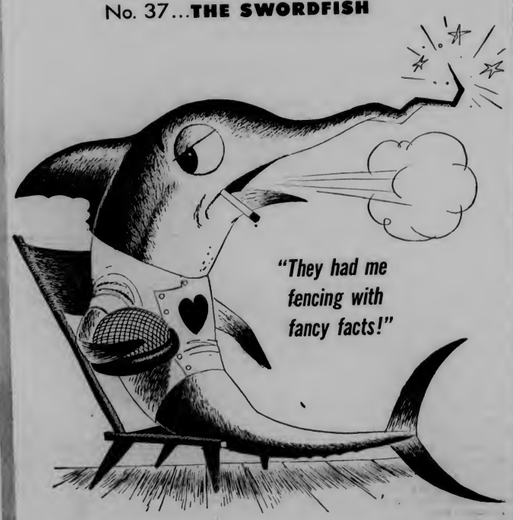
Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 37...THE SWORDFISH



They crossed swords with the wrong man when they engaged this swashbuckling senior in combat! At first, he was foiled by the tricky, "one-puff" . . . "one-sniff" cigarette mildness tests. But he parried their thrusts with this gleaming sword of logic: The only way you can judge mildness is by steady smoking. That's the true test of cigarette mildness!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke, on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

After all the Mildness Tests . . .

Adelphia - Isogon To Sponsor Dance

Mem Hall will be the scene of an all-campus dance this Friday night from 8-11 p.m.

The dance is under the sponsorship of Adelphia and Isogon for the purpose of raising additional funds for the new University publication that will be similar to the movie seen last week. No admission will be charged, but donations will be solicited for this project. Refreshments will be served.

Chaperones will be Dr. and Mrs. Grimshaw. Social chairmen are Jean Hazelton of Isogon and Larry Litwack of Adelphia.

Senior Class Gift Committee

The Senior Class Gift Committee met March 11 to consider gift suggestions made up to the present. About fifteen suggestions were considered. Although the committee will present all the suggestions before the class convocation to be held this week, the six suggestions selected as being the most feasible were: a painting for the library (a campus scene to be painted by a national artist); books for the library (approximately 200 books selected on a percentage-of-enrollment-per-school basis); a television set for Mem Hall; a bulletin board for C-Store; a contribution to the Mt. Toby Project in the form of a lodge or shelter; plans for display gardens between Wilder Hall and main road.

gence. No fraternity man needs to be ashamed of this part of the record.

In striking contrast to these pleasant thoughts are the many letters attacking the fiasco of Character Building Week—lately enacted and gratefully buried for another year. Of course, the initiated realize the term is unfortunately spoken "with tongue in cheek".

There is something more seriously puzzling to me than this contrast in behavior. Most of the fraternity men that I know are responsible individuals. I find it extremely difficult to reconcile or even associate the boorish pranks of "initiation" with them. Possibly, there exists a secret code which I am ignorantly unaware of that is yearly dragged up. It may be that these antics represent the phenomenon of "mass psychology" or the "herd instinct"—or is it sheep? No matter, it is still a riddle.

Certainly, I cannot recall a single instance of having heard these practices defended by fraternity men. What keeps them going then? One suggestion is perpetual motion, but I rather suspect that it is something more akin to inertia.

In any case the enigma remains. You explain it, I can't.

A. Romasco, '52

(Editor's Note: The answer may lie in the fact that we do not always do what we know is best either because we do not wish to be the first to change or because it is easier to conform to the group.)

When a male wishes to impress a girl, he thinks he knows exactly what to do. He brings her candy, perfume or her favorite flowers. Any of these traditional offerings are sure to be rewarded with a winning smile and a delightful "Thank you"! It's as simple as that!
A girl seeking a gift which will please a male, on the other hand, frequently has to do a bit of brain-cudgeling. A wallet? A lighter? He probably has both. Ties? . . .Wonderful—but how to account for a man's taste? What, then, is the answer?

Something he's certain to especially appreciate because you've knitted it with your own hands! Like a handsome sweater . . . or a pair of manly, colorful, always popular argyle socks . . . or, most ideal, a distinctive combination of the two.

Knowlton To Hold Bottle Party; Students Will Supply Own Pints

Audience Reaction To Premiere Spells Success For 'Prince' Show

by Pauline Stephan

A capacity crowd gathered at Bowker Auditorium Tuesday night to see the initial performance of "The Student Prince". The audience's response to the dancing, singing, acting, and the light, fresh humor of the play indicated how much they enjoyed the show.

In the opening scene Bob Boland gives us a good example of his talents. He carries his role of Count Von Mark with an easy poise which characterizes his entire performance. In his triple role of actor, dancer and director, Bob has again done a magnificent job. His sets, unbelievably realistic, create an atmosphere which spreads its charm over stage and audience as well as a special highlight of the play—Bob's marionette dance in scene 1 of Act 2. Many thanks, Bob Boland, for the time and energy you have so willingly contributed to the Operetta Guild and the U. of M.

The bouncy, original dancing of the play gives added charm to every scene and is highlighted by Mary Lowry's interpretation of the Gretchen role. Miss Lowry hops, pirouettes, twirls and bounces over the stage in a manner which adds sparkle to every scene in which she appears.

Deserving of great praise is Wilburt Richter in his role as Lutz. His irascibility, extremely convincing and good for many a belly laugh, provides the play with much of its finesse. Richter never once gives the audience a hint of stepping out of character. Coupled with Howard Galley as his buffoon-servant he steals the show at opportune moments.

Robert Pollack and Jean Murdock, as the Prince and Kathy, bring alive the romance of student days. Their voices, blending beautifully in "Deep In My Heart", add the warmth so necessary to every performance, and the sentiment about which the play is woven.

The Student Chorus, led exceptionally well by Don Dalrymple, James Patterson and Ernest Nelson, carry many moments with heartfelt exuberance for their songs. In the "Student Life" scene every one of them

Baby RD's In 3 1-Act Plays

The first production of the Associate Roister Doisters will be three one-act plays on Thursday, March 27, in Bowker at 8 p.m. under the direction of Shirley Hastings, Francine Freedman, and Mario Bruni. The committees are headed by the following: make up, Frances Jones; tickets, Al List; staging, James DeWolf; lighting, Miles Jones; and publicity, Betty Tourville.

Tickets will be on sale at the box office.

Gravel Instead Of Boardwalks

At long last the boys in the low rent district can discard their muddy hip boots. Gravel walks are now being started in front of Middlesex and Plymouth.

During the summer a hard surface will be put on these walks. Money is not available now for the materials needed for hard surfacing. The work being done now involves, for the most part, labor which we already have. It is eventually planned to build a walk up to the parking lot, behind Paige lab. and out to the Cage.

Fine Arts Council Shows Water Color

To the card games, the devoted couples, the brief naps, and attempted study, in short, to the atmosphere in Mem Hall, something new has been added. Sponsored by the Fine Arts Council from March 8-26, ten water color paintings, the work of the art faculty of Syracuse University, are exhibited in Mem Hall.

The paintings are a "traveling exhibition", a collection which during a year's time is displayed at various museums, colleges, and universities throughout the country.

Brief biographies of the artists posted near the hall door at the south end of the room reveal a variety of backgrounds and experiences.

Freedom of expression is noted in the wide variety of styles in the collections with the paintings ranging from a rather realistic portrayal of recognizable objects to more abstract forms.

The exhibitors, all at present teaching art, through their own paintings and constant communication with the latest developments in the contemporary art world, are offering their students insight into the field.

66 Summer Courses

Any student interested in this summer session is asked to consult the catalogue in the Dean's Office. Enrollment should be made as soon as possible, because insufficient enrollment in any one course will necessitate its being dropped from the program.

All courses for the six week summer session from July 1—Aug. 13, have been selected. There will be a total of 66 courses. For the first time, there will be a workshop in Arts and Crafts, taught by a specialist from the National Recreation Association.

Another interesting course is a special workshop in French and German. The intensity of this course will enable it to provide students with advance degrees to pass an exam showing a reading knowledge of French or German. It would also prove invaluable to those interested in teaching, as special emphasis will be placed on grammar, pronunciation and intonation.

Frat Bar Question Returns To Senate

With eight of the senators absent and eight of the ten standing committees reporting 'no report' the senate held its regular meeting last Tuesday.

One of the main topics of discussion was as to whether the recent order of the President concerning fraternity bars meant that the physical bars were to be removed. It was brought out at the meeting that this question would be answered by the Student Life Committee at a meeting with fraternity presidents and the IFC on Thursday evening.

The Building and Grounds committee reported that the Housing office and the University followed a policy of giving the best men's dorms to the freshmen men in order to give them a good impression of the school. Mr. Thomas, housing officer, stated that this policy brings the fewest complaints from the men also.

Lou Marshall, Curriculum Chairman announced that there was no possible way for freshmen, required to take mathematics, to have this requirement waivered by a test. He also informed the senate that Dean Machmer is planning to arrange a six week study program for next year's program. Mr. Ken Kurtz, a national officer of the National Student Association, from Swarthmore College gave the solons a talk on the activities of his organization on an Intercollegiate level. He pointed out the 'many worthwhile projects' carried out by NSA.

Jim Porter, a new senator from Brooks House was sworn in.

Prohibition, Devil, And the Dean

by Art Berger

Are you a tyrant-regimenter of youth,
Or an angel, keeping men from acts uncouth?
Is yours the task of making prohibitions,
Curbing normalcy with man-made inhibitions?
Or is your magic subtle like the elves,
Saving grown-up children from themselves?
For your chapeau: should you wear horns or halo?
Many say yes; a few say they don't know.

* * * *

Strange are the ways of the Dean
And quite often indirect.
Yet in the end he always wins out,
And the plans of Greek devils are wrecked.

18 Faculty Members Up In The Air

On a flight planned by the U.M. AFROTC section for the faculty, 18 faculty members took a two hour trip on March 18, that included flying over western Mass, circling Amherst, proceeding to Boston, and back to Westover. The group was shown the operations of the Terminal at Westover where servicemen leave for foreign duty. Prior to returning to Amherst, the group had lunch at the Officer's club at Westover Field.

If pictures of the group or campus are desired, notify Lt. Cole, AFROTC.

Prexy, Hopkins To Donate First; 1095 Pledges Received To Date

President Ralph A. Van Meter is to open the Blood Drive at Knowlton on Tuesday, March 25, at 10 a.m. by being the first to donate a pint of blood. He will be followed by Robert S. Hopkins, Jr., Dean of Men, Lt. Col. Lewis R. Adams, Armor ROTC, and Lt. Col. Dwight W. Pratt, USAFROTC.

Mr. Sidney Lovell, janitor at Knowlton House, will be the last donor of the drive. He will not be able to give his blood until this time, as his assistance will be necessary in Knowlton until the completion of the drive.

At the last report, there have been 1095 pints of blood pledged. This prompt and unselfish response of the student body has just about promised that the Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit will be greeted with enough throbbing veins to make the campus quota of 400 pints—delivered. The Red Cross has stated that they will be able to deal with 150 more donors than this if necessary. The Red Cross appointment cards will be arriving Monday and Tuesday of next week so check your mail boxes often!

If you have signed a pledge card but do not receive an appointment card, do not appear at Knowlton. This means that the scheduling was closed, either before your parents' consent form was returned or your pledge card received, and the Bloodmobile Team will have no information about you.

Here are the final instructions for blood donors:

1—When you receive your verification card from the Red Cross, you are expected at Knowlton at the 15-minute interval stated.

New Lady Judges In; All Seated But One

Nancy Meader, Nina Chaik, '53; Frances Jones, and Nancy Motte, '54 have been elected to serve on the Women's Judiciary Board for the 1952-53 term.

Due to an unavoidable error, the name of one freshman candidate, Brenda Campbell, was omitted from the ballot. Since the Judiciary is composed of two juniors, two sophomores, and one freshman, another election will have to be held. Sophie Sowyrda announced that the Senate Committee on women's affairs would try to have the results of this run-off election by March 21.

If all of the votes have been tabulated by Tuesday, March 25 the new members of the Board will be sworn in at the Senate meeting that evening. The Chief Justice of the General Court which is the combined Men's and Women's Judiciary will swear in the new Board.

The results of the elections held March 17 are final as far as upperclassmen are concerned and they were not primaries as was erroneously reported in the March 18 Collegian.

Campus Girls Help Entertain Leeds Patients

Entertainment for men in the suicidal and convalescent wards at Leeds Veterans Hospital, Northampton, is the service of a group of girls from campus who go there one night weekly to spend two hours in an attempt to relieve the depression of the patients.

Nine girls passed the orientation course last spring which consisted of three lectures and an exam. Throughout the year they have visited Leeds to dance, play pool or cards, talk, and join in other activities with the patients. For the men, who seldom see people from beyond the limits of the hospital, it is a welcome diversion.

All the volunteers are of the Newman club at present. They are: Julie Balicki, Mary Harding, Frances Kerley, Joan Kennedy, Betty Lupien, Jeanne Mangum, Gretchen Mathias, Marcella Methe, Joan Reardon, Mrs. Goldberg, wife of a professor in the English department, and Mrs. Whipple, housemother at the Abbey, do hostess work.

Leeds hospital, a hospital for mental cases, has over 1200 patients from World Wars I and II and the Korean War. This opening for outsiders to work with the patients is a part of their Recreational Rehabilitation program.

We Have No Heart

There are certain legislators, faculty, and students who, when the word Student Union are mentioned, envisage a tremendous dance hall and nothing more. For the enlightenment of these individuals, we present a guest editorial by Mr. Porter Butts, national expert on student unions from the University of Wisconsin:

A Community Center

The days when the union was merely "a place to meet" and a place to eat are long since gone. The union is now a community center of the first order. It is a reading room, art gallery, workshop, music hall, theater, game room, dance center, public relations agency, ticket bureau, convention headquarters, post office, and store.

Serves The Campus

It is a laboratory of student management and self-expression; caterer to the campus at large, housing the bulk of its meetings; trouble-shooter in certain problems of student personnel; teacher of the arts of leisure and recreation. It concerns itself with the whole area of student life and interests outside the classroom, exploring all the possibilities of making study and play cooperative factors in education.

As A Natural Laboratory

It is a priceless tool for shaping community solidarity and the individual student's sense of social responsibility—a natural laboratory where all who will may have a part in the direction of community enterprise, the kind of social and service institutions where it can immediately be apparent that the ideals of democracy are practices and that they work.

Of Surpassing Necessity

The union, as much as any university institution, has a part in the present educational job of surpassing necessity—the job of enlisting every student possible in a personal concern for the general welfare. Increasingly the center line objective of the union is this one of training of students for leadership in a democracy—by providing the maximum means and tools for practicing leadership of their common life together on the campus.

To The Campus Social and Cultural Life

If a union is to respond effectively to the wide range of needs and interests of a university population at leisure, if it is to become genuinely a community center—the social and cultural heart of the campus—it will draw together in one place those facilities and activities which will give everyone in the university family—students, faculty, alumni (not just students)—a reason for coming to the center.

By Providing Daily Living Facilities

It will provide for the things that human beings do in their more elemental daily activity: places and means for meeting friends, for conversation, for lounging and smoking, for reading the newspapers, for refreshment. For young people especially, it provides for dating and dancing, and for active games. It will provide rooms and equipment that will incite activity and encourage the congeniality and friendships that come from working together on common projects. And finally it will offer facilities that will introduce students to the enduring satisfactions of the arts, of books, of hobbies, and generally the creative use of leisure. Coming to the union for one activity, students will be exposed to, and perhaps inspired by, another activity. Cultural interests, community activity, and daily living thus may blend into truly an art of living, one and indivisible.

For Which The U of M Will Be Richly Repaid

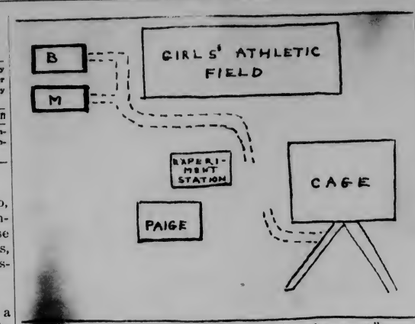
The university will be richly repaid if with the creation of the union the overall design for campus living is made right, even though it involves some readjustment and shifts of existing facilities. Certainly it is a mistake in planning if the union is treated, as it has been on some campuses, merely as a catch-all for just those miscellaneous university needs previously not accounted for, without regard to implanting in the union the core of activity essential to a good campus center.

If the Student Union Is Laid Out Properly

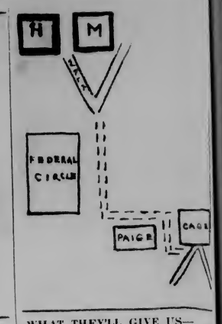
A multiple-purpose community building must mean many things to many people at the same time; the staff will face a continual stream of operational problems including scheduling of facilities, supervision of activities, direction of personnel, etc. Good community design must, therefore, not only provide the right facilities, but also arrange them in relation to one another so effectively that the active direction of the program can function with maximum convenience and efficiency.

And If Students Participate.

The only effective way to accomplish these aims is to include student participation at all planning stages and to keep the student body fully informed, step by step, of the planning as it proceeds. Not only do the students need a new student center; they need also to know that it is theirs, and that its ultimate form is a direct reflection of their needs and wants.



WHAT WE WANT— This is the route where the men walk.



WHAT THEY'LL GIVE US— Grounds dept. will put in two gravel walks which will be surfaced this summer. Other walks will be put in later where lines are sketched.

The Beaten Path

The grounds department is now digging out two short sidewalks near Middlesex and Hampshire. These short bits are better than nothing and will probably be used by the men during downpours but only then.

In the 15-minute interval during which we watched men returning from campus, not one person out of 50 went via the long route. What the men used was the route shown in the accompanying sketch.

It is futile for us to urge students to keep off the grass. All of us, despite our social conscience, will cut across the greenest grass when we are late or pressed for time. Why not, therefore, put in the walks that will be used from the beginning?

The students have clearly indicated by their own tracks what route is the most practical. There is no excuse for anyone's not knowing this. Granted we must be economical, but we waste more money in the long run in reseeding lawns than in laying walks properly in the first place. May we repeat what we previously stated: the students determine where the walks should be laid rather than the walks determine where the students should walk. The sidewalks now being laid only mean the addition of a third walk across the lawn by Paige Laboratory to save further damage to that already sad-looking bit of grass.

We are taught in class that erosion should be checked as soon as possible. Out by the cinder blocks we have one of the most perfect examples of soil being allowed to wash off the banks near the girls' athletic field. Again, false economy and another example of the disparity between what we preach and what we do.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I for one disagree with the statement that "Hell Weeks" are an "omnipotent antidote" to "those possessed by shyness, boldness," etc.

We have had in our society from time immemorial men who have been shy. Some have never been "relieved of their retiring dispositions" despite their awareness of their own shyness. No Hell Week I have ever seen on this campus or any other would cure the shy or even come close to helping the shy overcome this tendency. If anything, it would aggravate the condition.

It is really quite remarkable that Hell Week is such a panacea. Maybe Hell Weeks on a world-wide basis would cure the evils of the world in "modulating the aggressiveness of the bold," etc. Which of these qualities is satisfied by the vulgar measurements I saw done in the C-store? If that is a remedy for shyness, let us by all means keep the men as shy as possible.

Harmony, "the essence of fraternal life", is brought about by working together in a common cause. A few hours of work on a helpful project with a good square meal afterwards for the pledges, instead of spaghetti dyed blue, purple, and sky-blue pink, would go a longer way toward harmony.

Mr. Garnett and Mr. Blake say there are only a few who possess all the characteristics of the absolute. Why don't they do something toward this—a real challenge? What we need is more students of the caliber of Miss Green and Miss Moulton who analyze situations thoroughly and objectively and state their arguments simply and directly.

Unfortunately we have an atmosphere opposed to intellectualism and an attitude of antagonism toward things done on a large scale or done well. It is time for these two attitudes to go.

Sincerely,
Mike Evans

Dear Editor:

I think we ought to be very sensitive to the well-expressed opinions of our students particularly those which have been voiced recently via the Collegian and the Senate concerning the muddy walks and roads.

Apparently there are no funds now available for the permanent improvement of those facilities. But the installation and maintenance of a network of duckboards in the cinder block area would make it possible for us to have a neater looking campus; it would result in less wear and tear in the dormitories; it would mean that students would have a greater incentive to keep their rooms in reasonably good condition; it would improve morale considerably.

Most of the roads in the "back of the campus" are positively disgraceful—we all agree on that. But, is there some way that we can get in on the road building program of the Commonwealth?

Although I realize the financial limitations fully, I want to add my voice to those already raised about these unfortunate conditions. It seems to me that we ought to try to make walking and driving conditions more acceptable for our students (our main reason for existence) and for our many visitors (our principal means of support).

(Editor's Note: The above is a copy of the letter sent to the President, Treasurer Johnson, the Senate president, and the Collegian.)

Dear Editor,

An old but unsolved problem: the infirmary. I am concerned, primarily with the hours, or lack of them, when a student may receive attention. If a student has classes from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., he might attempt to visit the infirmary around 8 a.m. If he does he will see a sign stating "Do not ring bell between 7:45 a.m. and 8:15 a.m. unless it is an emergency. Breakfast is being served." He waits until 8:15 a.m., rings the bell and manages to get himself into the place by talking rapidly to the woman who answered the door. A nurse, hurrying by, stops long enough to see if he is breathing his last, while he takes an opportunity to ask if she could help him.

"I won't stop unless it's an emergency, I have 20 patients to attend to, and I'm one nurse short today."

He mentions his classes. "Ditch one of them and get excused from the class," she replies and is gone.

The above episode happened to me on March 14, and no doubt others have had a similar experience.

Queries: Must the infirmary be closed from 11:30 a.m.—1 p.m.? Must the infirmary close at 4:30 p.m.? Why isn't the infirmary open on Saturday and Sunday?

Recommendations: (1) an adequate staff, (2) out-patient dept. open from 8:30 a.m. on, so that students having classes all day may be able to receive attention.

I think that this is the first problem to be solved. If a person may not be allowed attention, why start to worry about the facilities and the quality of the attention?

Jeanne Parker '53

(Editor's Note: We have heard of all complaints concerning the infirmary especially, it seems, in regard to inadequate care due to the lack of bed space and shortage of nurses. This is an old problem and we are checking with Amherst College to see if any of their satisfactory infirmary procedures could be incorporated into our infirmary. If we discover any practical suggestions, we will present them.) appears "gone beyond recall". (Watch for Ernest Nelson in this role).

Also worthy of great praise are Lorna Wildon for her beautiful singing of "Overhead the Moon Is Beaming"; Jim Chapman for his great singing and his complete control of the stage whenever he appears; Ray Fenner for his sympathetic, convincing portrayal of Dr. Engels, and his singing throughout the play; and Howard Galley for his lively comedy especially in the Duck scene.

Melvin Tucker brings tears to the eyes of many with his acting in the role of the bent, crippled and simple-hearted Toni.

Bright authentic costuming is especially noteworthy from the opening scene until the end. It lends a general exuberance which is picked up by the players as they step into their various roles.

The Operetta Guild has done it again. The show which 5,000 people will see during these five days will be remembered as a highlight of our U. of M. life. A special and sincere vote of thanks to Doric Alviani—who through his tireless efforts has molded our production of The Student Prince into a never-to-be-forgotten event.

5—After your donation you are asked to enjoy the canteen for at least fifteen minutes so you can be "observed" (nurses check your recovery.)

6—Please: Be prompt — Be orderly — Be quiet.

Important—The space at Knowlton basement is very limited and will only accommodate the scheduled donors and the blood teams. So please—no tourists, this is serious. Also, the first floor lounges are not expected to be open, so men, please respect the privacy and dignity of the house—a girls' dorm.

The faculty and staff will have an on-call pledge group in order to provide donations if for any reason they are running short.

The secondary mission of the Blood Drive this year was to prove that the students themselves could conduct a successful program without calamities and confusion. This they have done—and proudly. To carry this success down to the last pint on Wednesday, the donors are asked to guard their health and not tear themselves down over the weekend. On the day of their donation they are asked to eat well—avoid the heavy, creamy stuff—BUT EAT SOMETHING! —and be on time at Knowlton.

Leeds Hospital . . .

The patients work at manual arts and dramatic presentations. Other activities include maintaining their own newspaper and radio broadcasting station and playing baseball with outside teams.

Volunteers come from Pittsfield, Greenfield, Northampton, Amherst College and many other nearby areas to assist the work at the hospital. Yet there are over three hundred individual openings on any afternoon from which newcomers, men or women, could make a choice.

The chief problem on our campus has been one of transportation. Mrs. Whipple has found it very difficult to locate people each week to drive the group to Northampton. If a list could be formed of people with cars willing to assist in this way, each would have to serve only occasionally.

On April 2, 3, and 4 interviews for any interested men and women will be conducted to obtain an additional group.

Batting practice started in earnest last Tuesday as the Varsity Basketball floor was at last stored away. Moving from first to second and short, there are seven men battling it out for this vital middle spot. Last year's varsity keystone combination were "General" Bob Akerson at short and Ray Gunn pivoting around at second. In sharp competition with them are two of last spring's freshmen infielders, Bernie Kaminski at second and Bob Pedigree holding down short. This should develop into quite a battle, but don't lose sight of the fact that there are many new faces out that are still unknown quantities.

Castoffs Beat Grads 36 - 34 To Take League Lead

Sparked by a last ditch effort by Kobak, the Castoffs beat the Grads in a battle of previously unbeaten teams 36-34 in a double overtime game to move into the lead in League C of intramural play for the first time this year.

The two teams, both boasting 6-0 records going into the game Monday night, were both up for the contest. With the score and lead going back and forth, it was a battle between Howland and Naida for scoring honors. At the end of regular time, the two teams were tied 27-27 as Kobak stepped to the foul line for two foul shots. However, both of them missed to force the game into overtime. Due to the fact that both teams were championship contenders, NCAA rules were invoked with three minute overtime periods.

In the first overtime, the two teams matched each other point for point to end the canto at 33-33. In the second overtime, with fifteen seconds to play, there was a spill in mid-court with Kobak picking up the loose ball, going down court on a breakaway, and scoring the winning basket as the final buzzer sounded.

Doherty of the losers was hurt early in the game to injure the Grads chances. However, the defending league champions took advantage of every break to annex the victory. Referees for the game were Akerson and Granville who did a great job in holding down the spirited teams.

In League A, meanwhile, AEPi and SAE continued to battle it out for the lead. AEPi met QTV in one of the feature games of Tuesday night and walked off with their 8th straight victory by the close margin of 28-25. The win kept the Blue and Gold one half game ahead of their neighbors with their winner-take-all meeting coming next Wednesday night.

In League B, the Independents were still holding on to the lead, although three teams were breathing down their necks. With a 7-0 record, the Indies were followed by Chadbourne B, Brooks, and the East Experiment Station each with 5-1 records. The Independents met Chadbourne B on Wednesday night in one of the most important games of the season. Tonight will find two more of the challengers meeting as Brooks meets the East Experiment Station at 8:00 p.m.

Student Life Meets IF Council; Much Discussion - No Resolution

UM Embassy Asks "Can Religious Faith Free Trapped Generation?"

Are you Athesist or agnostic? Are you Protestant, Catholic or Jew? Can religious faith free our trapped generation? This is the question that the University Embassy, opening tomorrow, is presenting to the campus for discussion.

Spencer Miller, Jr., president of A.I.C., will initiate the two-day discussion tomorrow at 4:15 at Mem Hall auditorium. On Thursday at 4:15 again in Mem hall, William Miller, professor of Christian ethics at Yale University, and commentator on a weekly radio broadcast, Religion at the News Desk, will address the campus.

Discussions will be held in the dorms on Wednesday night and the Greek houses Thursday night under the direction of the visiting leaders. The "Agnostics Forum" on Thursday morning in convocation hour at Mem will provide a final quiz period for cross examination of all the leaders by attending students.

Guild in Tears Viewers Cheer End of Beer

by Larry Litwack

The stein crashes to the floor and shatters. A five month dream is shattered with it. But for the cast, it will never end. For them, the dream of Heidelberg will live forever in their memories.

The curtain opens on the final night of the show. The audience sees brilliant lighting and imposing sets as the actors begin to relive their roles. But backstage, there is another drama being re-enacted—a drama of real life that is even closer to the hearts of the cast.

In front of the footlights, the actors go through their lines. Behind the sets, people sit silently on the stairs thinking of the play. Everyone talks in hushed whispers as if afraid of breaking the spell. Some attempt to lose themselves in studying, a commonplace action in a dream world.

The entire team of cast, properties, costumes, and staging combine to produce a flawless performance. But always in the back of their minds is the thought that the dream is almost over. A star comes off the stage in tears. This time they are real as she has fallen completely under the spell of the tense emotion of her role.

Another star comes off as everyone regards him with respect. A man among boys, his distinguished portrayal of one of the most human characters of the play earned him the deep admiration of the entire cast.

Each person goes on the stage determined to give everything he has to making this the greatest performance the audience has ever seen. Each person succeeds as the comedy crackles with new sharpness, the dancing sings with grace and rhythm, the songs are supercharged with vibrant emotion, and the simple sincerity of the leads and the natural sadness of the story all combine to tug at the heart strings of the audience.

The curtain goes down for the final time. One of the greatest stars made his final curtain call. Everyone repeats the same words, "we have been a part of a great cast in a great show." Even those with minor roles

Clarification of Tax Ends Senate Struggle

The separation of the Student Tax for the Athletic Fee, a much discussed topic on campus, is finally a reality.

The term bills for next semester will carry the items separately listed as the students have desired. This action culminates a long battle in the student senate. Treasurer Johnson commented that one of the reasons for the delay was that the office preferred to exhaust the supply of term bills with the old single listing and then order the new separated bills.

Collegian Competitors

There will be a compulsory meeting of Collegian competitors and others interested, tonight at 7 in the Collegian Office.

UM&Foreign Students To Hold 2-Day Panel

The U. of M. will be hosts to approximately 200 foreign students from several New England colleges and universities at an International Weekend, organized by the S.C.A., International Club, and International Relations Club, to be held April 19 and 20.

Many parts of the program will be open to U. of M. students and those wishing for international contacts may be hosts or hostesses to the foreign guests.

The program for Saturday noon includes Professor Salvadori of Smith College speaking on "Can Democracy Satisfy the Needs of the World Today?" Group discussions on specific points in the speech will follow. Representatives of the groups will then present the conclusions reached at a luncheon discussion to follow.

After the panels, refreshments will be served and at 3:30 the discussion

SLC, Dean Questioned on Women, Procedure, and Representation

A variety of fraternity problems were discussed by the Student Life Committee and the Interfraternity Council at a meeting on March 20 at Kappa Sig. Of the four major problems brought up, only one was solved by the committee.

Upon the request of the Interfraternity Council, the Student Life Committee agreed to review its policy in regard to chaperones. It was suggested by some fraternity men present that chaperones be required only at Saturday night parties and exchange suppers; that they be determined by age limit and not by restriction to members of the faculty or alumni. The committee will review its policy at a meeting this afternoon.

The evening's discussion started with "the Administration's attitude toward the social development of students." In reply to this question, Dean Hopkins, speaking for the administration, said that there must be some control exercised by the administration over the students. A fraternity member said that this may be true, but he felt the administration should refrain from treating students as a parent treats his children.

The dean left the door open for student criticism and possible revision of an administration position if the student opinions were responsible and their reasons sound.

Dr. Feldman, speaking for the SLC, explained that the fraternities were

Chaplains Council To Assist & Advise

Cleverly crammed into two days and presented to us with gift card reading "Do not open until March 26 and 27"—the University Embassy Bowker auditorium—metamorphosed for a campus Vesper service. The planning body? A new group on campus this year, the Chaplain's council.

Its purpose is to assist in advising and planning in regard to all-University affairs that the Protestants offer the campus, such as the Christmas Activities Fund drive, the Christmas vespers, the Lenten Communion services, and the University Embassy. It also works to coordinate the schedules of activities planned by the different Protestant groups to avoid conflict, a service long needed on campus.

The new organization does not eliminate the S. C. A. although it has absorbed a few of its functions.

Parade of Quartets From Nearby Towns Will Present Old, New Favorites on Mar. 29

Featured in the program of quartet harmony to be presented at Bowker Auditorium on March 29, is this group from Northampton who call themselves The Rambling Four. Left to right are: Joe Lewandowski, George Carpenter, J. Arthur LaPrade, and Jack Laflair.

For the first time Amherst is to be visited by the Parade of Quartettes featuring male quartettes and a mixed chorus of fifty voices. This group, assembled from nearby communities, presents a two and one-half hour program in Bowker Auditorium on Saturday, March 29.

Among the quartettes expected to sing will be the Rambling Four of Northampton, Four G's of Holyoke, Mellow Chords of Leeds, Harmony Knights of Cushman, Off Key of Williamsburg, Pioneer Valley Four of Conway, Whip City Four of Westfield, Whip City Four of Chicopee, and the Tri-City Four of Chicopee.

In addition to the quartettes other artists will perform. Ray Fremen of Northampton will sing two solos, and novelty numbers will be presented by the Kolanimski Sisters of Cushman, the Carpet Baggers of Enfield, Conn., and Ethel Prescott, accordionist.

The quartettes will sing the old favorites as well as many numbers heard only on the stage.

The proceeds from the concert will aid the Organ Fund of the new Wesley Methodist church on North Pleasant street.

Dreimal Hoch!!

Extra special "dreimal hochs" to: Ray Frenier who, as Dr. Engels, gave the best performance we have seen in four years. This was Ray's third lead, his other two being in The Red Mill and Brigadoon. To Bob Boland and Howard Galley who throughout their college years have been largely responsible for the progress of the Operetta Guild with Boland especially noteworthy in choreography, setting, and posters and Galley in staging and lighting. To Bill Shraeder for building. To the band. To Bob McCartney and Doric for the rewriting of the script. To the entire Student Prince cast; even our heartiest congratulations fall far short of what we wish we could say in words to express to you the appreciation of the entire University.

Don't Fence Me In

For Little International, we translate Dreimal Hoch into English—Well Done!

It is achievements like this year's Little International that make us proud of the work of Stockbridge school, that make us agree with Swift when he said in Gulliver's Travels, "whoever could make two ears of corn, or two blades of grass, to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind and do more essential service to his country than the whole race of politicians put together."

Once to Every Class Comes The Moment To Decide

To provide the seniors with adequate information on the class gift suggestions, we are listing each suggestion with approximate cost and the pros and cons expressed by the class gift committee. The information has been checked by several committee members and is correct insofar as they know.

1. Television Set
Approximate cost: $400, but insurance for maintenance would raise this estimate considerably and almost double it. Location: south end of Mem Hall.
Pro: No one on the committee could think of a good reason for a set, but since there was so much discussion, the committee decided to mention it to the class. Con: the set might be easily broken as dormitory phonographs are. Repair leaves the set unavailable for use for long periods of time.

2. Scholarships
Here the committee felt the money would be used up in a year or two. Even if put into an endowment fund, the interest does not accumulate fast enough. On a further proposal that scholarships be set up for children of the class of '52, the committee pointed out such a procedure would be unfair because some members already have children and the funds, in any case, would benefit only a few.

3. Bulletin Board for C-store
About $80. Glassed in and lighted, 6 ft. by 4 ft., locked at all times, under the supervision of the University News Service. Purpose: better display of hometown news clippings (replacing the present bulletin board in the C-store). Pro: would serve the entire student body, could be moved later to Student Union building. Con: glass might get broken.

4. Gate Posts
Cost: $700 at the least. Location: south entrance to the campus near Phi Sig replacing present signs. One post on each side of the road with a neon light overhead and design such as books and graduation cap saying "University of Massachusetts, gift of class of 1952". The inside of these posts, measuring 6 by 3 by 2½ ft., would be of stone but the outside of copper or bronze. Pro: lasting memorial; no one could walk off with them. Con: aesthetic objection to neon light; design at top vague as yet and makes no provision for state seal which, it is felt, ought to be included; present signs considered adequate; an open campus has no need of gateposts.

5. Sidewalks for Engineering Building Area:
Pro: definite need. Con: a legitimate state expenditure; too costly ($1 a ft. with walk 3 ft. wide needed; hot top costs $4 a ton.)

6. Student Union Fund
Con: a gift to be placed in the Student Union impractical at this early stage; no concrete plans underway as yet.

7. Movie Camera for News Service
Con: dismissed as not a proper type of gift.

8. Prints for "Know Your State University" film
Cost: $100 per print. Pro: only one print of the film will take time to make the rounds. Con: the film will be changed in 5 years; other sources can be tapped for the prints; only about 3 are needed, so this would mean splitting up the money.

9. Flower Gardens near Wilder Hall
Cost: about $700. Garden started five years ago but funds to finish it will not be provided for another five years. Rows of lilacs on either side; green in middle; flower beds in front of lilacs; steps as they are already set in. Pro: beauty; lasting memorial that could be easily seen from main road. Con: flowers will be in bloom in summer when most of the students are home with no memorial in winter months; the state will eventually provide funds for this; no guarantee that University will not someday run pipes through this area or build there; no assurance of funds for maintenance.

10. Books
For $700, 233 books can be bought figuring roughly $3 per book. Department heads would submit a list to the Deans of each school. A senior committee would make the final choice. Books would be bought on a school basis according to percentage of enrollment in each particular school:

School	Percentage of Books	Cost in dollars	No. of books
Liberal Arts	26	$182	61
Science	23	161	52
Ag. & Hort.	15	105	35
Engineering	14	98	33
Business Adm.	11	77	26
Home Economics	9	63	21
Physical Education	2	14	5

Pro: departments need not textbooks but either basic works of reference, short commentaries, or supplementary works for which the state provides no funds (and will not provide them in the future); departments like history, sociology, and English could pool the books (biographies, for example, would be acceptable to all three); bookplates in cover of each book saying "Gift of class of 1952" would be permanent reminder multiplied 2.3 times; books can be here in time to set up display in library bookcase for commencement. Con: no adequate means for protecting books from disappearing; books will become outdated.

11. Water-color painting of campus pond or other landscape scene to be done by a nationally-known artist:
Cost: between $500 and $700. Location: library, at head of stairs going to mezzanine, transferable later to Student Union building. Pro: lasting memorial; visitors will see it as well as students; the University does not have a painting that is remembered by the student body. Con: fear that this will develop into another Metawampe; difficult project for student committee to control.

Of these suggestions, the ones left on the blackboard at the close of the meeting were: books, flower garden, gate posts, bulletin board, painting for library, prints of "Know Your State University".

Food For Thought

May we add a No. 12 to the list? A special edition of the Alumni Bulletin. Cost: $700 would be ideal; $300 or $400 would do it. About 30 pages devoted to explaining our needs and the means of remedying our lack of funds (basic to all our problems) would, we believe, solve almost all difficulties. This edition would be sent to every alumnus of the U. of M. and every member of the state legislature. The Bulletin would serve as a model to alumni of what their Bulletin, their main source of information, should be. Once a good sample issue was put out, maybe those alumni dead only from the knees up would support their bulletin so it could regularly come out at this level—a level basic to alumni morale. "Special edition of the class of 1952" would be marked on the front page.

Pro: definite need; we cannot expect alumni to solve our problems if they don't know what the problems are; lasting memorial; ready for commencement if one or two seniors helped (if not, ready for fall); students would have excellent opportunity to verbalize their needs in a manner that would accomplish something. Con: Is there some other way by which this same end could be accomplished, such as 100% membership of the class of '52 in the Alumni Association with each member giving $5 toward support of the bulletin?

Lemons or Peaches?

The question of whether the $700 should go toward one gift or be split up into several gifts will decide itself when the class narrows down to two the gifts to be considered. This decision, should, however, be up to the class.

The problem of whether the gift should be ornamental or utilitarian rests with each individual. Mr. Phillips brought out an important point at the class meeting when he asked if the gift was supposed to be something that has a plaque on it saying "gift of class of 1952" or something to help the University. Some feel it should be something superfluous, something the State would never be expected to appropriate. Others feel it should be of help, to serve as many students as possible.

Beyond these two general comments, we should like to present one or two specific thoughts. These are not an attempt to railroad through one idea over another; we are not so naive as to believe we could anyway. However, since the purpose of an editorial is to give opinion, we feel justified in asking serious thought on these considerations:

Can We Be Sure?

Will we be able to finance the gate posts for $700? In Amherst, contractors are unionized and by the time labor and materials are figured in, it would seem the gate posts would cost almost twice $700. The dimensions of 6 by 3 by 2½ are also rather puny for gate posts.

If we are to decide in favor of the flower gardens, we ought to make some stipulations with the University whereby, if construction were started in that area, the flower gardens might be reseeded elsewhere and the plaque moved to the new site. Are we sure that this can be done?

Temperamental Artists

The painting is a good idea just as Metawampe was. The Indian statue would have been an excellent symbol. The members of the class of '50 were nobody's fools. Many were more intelligent than we and some of their best leaders worked on the execution of details. This type of gift always requires supervision after graduation as well as tact in handling the artist. If the class should decide in favor of this, it might help to have three or four faculty members on the committee to see to it that we get what is wanted. But we wonder if even faculty members can influence a temperamental artist? An artist does not always do what we want but what he thinks best. This can lead to definite displeasure on our part.

Ready In Time?

One great source of dissatisfaction in the past has been that the gift is never ready in tangible form by graduation time and thus details drag on and on. The only suggestions that could be ready for commencement would be the bulletin board and the books.

Foolproof Suggestion

Of the suggestions presented thus far, we can see only one that is foolproof. That is books—for the following reasons: (1) it will take a long time for 233 books to disappear. Even if they do, they will have served their purpose in giving the underclassmen reference books dated after 1918. (2) Students are not as likely to walk off with books of reference as they are with Ernest Hemingway. (3) This is one gift for which the class of '52 could never be criticized. We need not fear that others will regard us as long-hairs for having given books. We believe instead that they would heave a heavy sigh of relief at having escaped another flagpole, or even worse, a television set. (4) as to books becoming outdated, we cannot hope to find a gift that will last through time immemorial. Flower gardens, gate posts, bulletin boards become outdated also. Books, however, are such that they have value every minute they are in use and even right up to the last minute of their use. Their value is not finite, as in the case of sidewalks. Even if we had a million dollars, there would still be merit in buying books. (5) We have already voted two places on which we will have plaques: the Christmas tree on Mem Hall lawn and the Adirondack shelter on Mt. Toby. No one will walk off with these two. Of that we are sure. We already have, therefore, two perpetuations of the name of the class.

Faculty and Underclassmen

We feel the gift should be something we need. If we were an exceptionally wealthy institution, we could put in all sorts of ornamental items. We are not as yet that wealthy. Faculty members might be approached and asked for their opinions—they are wiser than we and their longer experience on campus would bring sensible comments. Discussion with underclassamen would be invaluable also; they will be looking at or using whatever we leave as a class gift.

A Gift Divided

If books are voted, the entire $700 will do the most good rather than a split sum. If a bulletin board is desired and if the money is to be split, we feel the Alumni Bulletin edition would be more valuable a contribution than flower gardens, gate posts, or the painting.

No Pressure, Please

In any case, we must give careful thought to the question before 11 a.m. on Thursday. Let's not vote for television because Joe, our best buddy, is voting for that. Instead, let us use the intelligence God gave us to keep ourselves from being pressurized into voting for one thing or another.

People usually make mistakes because they have not adequate information or have not accurate information. We have tried to give adequate information above; the information is accurate insofar as we can check it.

The decision is now up to each one of us.

OMISSION

The unsigned letter appearing in the last issue was sent in to us by Dean Hopkins. We regret that his name was unintentionally omitted through a typographical error.

State House News

(The purpose of this column is to provide accurate information about what is happening in the State House affecting our University. The Springfield Union correspondent in the State House provides us with information by telephone whenever it is necessary to supplement reports he has in the Union. The Collegian Editor would appreciate being informed by members of the legislature who receive this paper, or any other readers, should there be the slightest inaccuracy in any statement. As a general policy, we plan to summarize news from the State House about the University which appears in the daily papers and to check this news for accuracy with authoritative sources on campus or in the State House.)

Budget Cut Twice

According to the Springfield Union of January 29, the budget submitted to the Governor by the University Treasurer, on behalf of the trustees on Sept. 15 of last year asked for $5,979,958.

The Budget Commissioner, who prepares the so-called Governor's Budget which is submitted to the House Ways and Means committee, cut the trustee budget to $5,569,086 before submitting the Governor's budget to the committee.

The Ways and Means Committee made a further cut of $131,863 in the University's budget. The Union reported that President Van Meter, Secretary Burke, and Treasurer Johnson requested the Ways and Means Committee on Jan. 28 to restore this committee-cut in the Governor's budget, and quoted Treasurer Johnson as saying that the cut affected 46 new instructional positions—20 temporary positions that should be made permanent and 26 new positions that are essential to take care of an entering class of 1000 next September.

Basically, this cut, unless corrected, will result in the turning away of students or else a lowering in the student faculty ratio. The ratio set by the trustees, upon the recommendation of President Van Meter, stands at 13 to one—meaning 13 students to each teacher. The student-teacher ratio is the measure of the quality of instruction, according to educators.

The House and Senate usually pass the budget recommended to them by the Ways and Means committee though individual members sometimes make amendments on the floor. The House and Senate usually give us along with other publicly-supported agencies, a supplementary budget at the end of the session.

Treasurer Johnson said the budget as recommended by the Ways and Means Committee was $487,350 less than our minimum estimate. The cuts do not mean we won't be able to ob-

AEPi To Face SAE For League Lead Tomorrow Nite

Intramural basketball continues to move towards completion the each league nears the end of its schedule.

In League A, AEPi and SAE are still battling it out for the league lead. With both teams sporting identical records of 8-0, they will meet in the clash that will probably decide the championship tomorrow night at 7:15. Each team has three games left in their schedule with AEPi meeting Phi Sig and Theta Chi and SAE meeting Alpha Gam and Tri Zeta. On the basis of the past week's performances, SAE will go into the game as slight favorites due to their decisive 38-19 win over a QTV team that had previously lost to AEPi 28-25. Theta Chi and Kappa Sig are battling it out for the number three spot.

League B saw the Independents clinch their hold on first place by whipping Chadbourne B 42-27. Another of the challengers dropped by the wayside when East Experiment Station beat Brooks in a thriller 34-32 to take over sole possession of second place. Brooks and Chadbourne B are tied for third with 5-2 records. This third place tie will be broken tonight when the two teams meet at 8 p.m. The Independents have but one game left when they play Brooks on Friday. The East Experiment Station team has two games left against Mills B and Berkshire A. Should they take two and the Independents lose to Brooks, there will be a playoff.

In League C, the Castoffs maintained their lead over the Grads by taking a 2-0 forfeit from Chadbourne A Right behind them in second are the Grads with one loss and Berkshire B with two losses. The league leaders have two games left against Middlesex B and Greenough. The Grads have three left against Mills A, Berkshire B, and Plymouth A. The Grads-Berkshire B game on Thursday night should settle the race for second place.

Tennis Coach Cuts Squad To Fifteen Men

Varsity tennis coach Steve Kosakowski cut his squad down to 15 men yesterday in preparation for the final training before the opening match of the 15 game schedule against Boston College on Apr. 21. Only four are members of the two upper classes.

The members of the team are: Captain Bob Allen '52; Harold Weston '52; Wolfgang Schubel '53; Mel Tucker '53; Art Berger '54; John Fellers '54; John MacLeod '54; John Murray '54; Randall Haydon '54; Don Ross '54; David Rice '55; John Sterling '55; Clarence Simpson '55; James Kidd '55 and Charles Tilton '54.

Allen and Weston are the only two lettermen on the squad. However, Mel Tucker is improving rapidly and should rank right with the top two in winning his share of matches this year.

As yet, the squad is still somewhat unknown to Coach Kosakowski as far as starting berths are concerned. An intersquad tournament is being held to determine the relative qualities of the men.

Inside The Cage

The athletic department has signed a $900 bonus pitcher—"Iron Mike". Mike is one of those new-fangled pitching machines. He can pitch two dozen baseballs without being refilled. He throws every pitch known. Not only does coach Lorden feel this is the solution to the age-old problem of pre-season sore arms, but he feels it also aids in getting more needed batting practice.

The batter is warned by two lights. Green means it's safe to step into the box; red means "get set—here it comes".

Mike's First Strikeout

Upon his arrival from the South, South Boston, Mike was ready to go to work. He chose as his first victim, Victor Keedy, former A. I. C. baseball great, world famous armchair quarterback, and back porch expert. Keedy, big and brawny, dared Mike to strike him out.

The green and red-eyed monster took little notice of the mortal and proceeded to blaze three balls right by the amazed Keedy . . . Rumor has it Vic has not lifted his big black bat off his shoulder yet . . . This bit of information comes from the South End Critics, Mike's appreciative audience.

Dismond Dust

Chuck Doherty has returned to action. Welcome back, Chuck . . . Really impressive—Paul Divencenzo, who continues to tear into both left and right handed slants . . . Cornfoot Finishes 5th in New Englands

The varsity swimming team under the leadership of Coach Joe Rogers made their final appearance of the season last weekend as they traveled to Boston to compete in the New England Intercollegiates. In the medley relay, the Redmen finished fifth, while in the 200 yard back stroke, Redman ace Dick Cornfoot finished fifth as the winner set a new pool and meet record of slightly over 2:14.2. Cornfoot's previous best time has been 2:20.6 in the University pool.

not consulted on the liquor question because the committee was not sure what, if any, action would be necessary as a result of the investigation conducted earlier in the year. When questioned as to what started the liquor investigation, Dr. Helming stated that there was an annual review of conditions as stipulated when permission for the use of alcohol was granted. When it was suggested by Officer Blasko that some "hell-raising" had taken place, it was decided to circulate the questionnaires among the fraternities. Some of these answers revealed that the rules had been violated in certain cases. The IFC asked if this would not have been the time to call on fraternities to act according to a policy of self-control. Mr. Varley of the SLC stated that fraternity advisors considered the question at this time and that recommendations were made to the fraternities to exercise better control of the alcohol situation.

The next problem discussed was IFC representation on the committee. A number of the fraternity men said that the representation of fraternities was unsatisfactory. They felt that, since some of the organizations represented on the committee were larger in number than others, the larger organizations should have more representatives. As the Committee is set up now, every group represented, regardless of size, has only one vote.

Mr. Foley stated that it was a question of communications, not of representation. The IFC took strong exception to this. They felt that the fraternity representative should be able to stop proceedings until the IFC had a chance to consider the question. The discussion ended with no solution being reached except that the committee would try to consult the council on major issues.

A suggestion by Jack Benoit that the faculty representation on the committee be cut down was side-tracked when Dr. Helming stated that the whole question of the relation of the SLC to the students was currently being investigated by the Constitution committee of the Senate.

The committee was asked to give the reasons why the fraternity advisors had asked that no girls be allowed to go above the first floor during a fraternity party. It was revealed that there was an old ruling prohibiting girls from leaving the common rooms during a house party. This brought up the question of the definition of a common room. Dr. Helming suggested that fraternities individually decide this question and submit reports defining what common rooms should be.

The meeting officially ended with Dean Hopkins' reading a statement issued from the president to the effect that all physical bars must be removed from the houses by April 5 or the frats would be subject to disciplinary action. This order was prompted by the advisors' appeal for a definition of bars.

are thankful they had the opportunity to become a part of the group.

The veterans complete the saying—a great show under a great director. The director who has won the love and deep respect of all who have been fortunate enough to work with him. The man whose innate love of working with youth is reflected in his eyes as he is considered the only really happy man anyone has ever met. Filled with the zest and sparkle of life, he imparts this same spirit to those with him. Standing alone almost ideal as among men, he molded a group of individuals into a team, filled them with his love of beauty and the satisfaction of a job well done, and then stepped back to permit them to take all the credit for the superb job.

For that is the type of man he is. He wants no credit for the magnificent performance. He feels that all the credit goes to the cast. He may have taught them the rudiments of their roles but it was up to them to give an adequate or great portrayal of their lines.

All of these thoughts run through their minds as they silently walk off to remove their costumes and makeup for the last time. The whole idea is wrapped up in a single rose which the Prince holds as he thinks of Toni's last line "I thought that it might remind you of Heidelberg."

Senior Class Meeting

The senior class meeting in OC Aud. at 11 a.m., Thursday, March 27, will be conducted in the following manner: 1) all sponsors of gifts will be asked to step forward to present concrete, full details to the class and answer any questions the class may have. Each sponsor will have three minutes. 2) Any new proposals may be submitted to the Index office before noon of Wednesday, March 26. 3) At the conclusion of the discussion period, an elimination vote will be taken to narrow the gift possibilities to two. 4) The class will have five minutes for further questions and discussion of the merits of these two gifts. 5) A final vote to determine the class gift will conclude the meeting. Voting will be by a show of hands; the class marshalls will count the number and the chief marshall will record it on a stage black board.

Gift suggestions in addition to those proposed at the last class meeting are welcome, but the sponsor must be prepared to present the class with detailed information and answer questions the class may have concerning his proposed gift.

group on the relationship of National Panhellenic to the campus will be led by Joanne Dodds, traveling Counselor of Kappa Kappa Gamma, who is visiting the local chapter. Joanne graduated from West Virginia University last year and has spent the past year visiting college campuses.

The workshop is of value to both the individual members and the sororities as a whole. The Workshop is for everyone: all sorority members are invited to all or to any part of the program. If you have ideas, come and bring them; if you don't, come and get some.

Top Show Honors Go To Marshall

by Marjorie Vaughn

Accompanied by assorted "moos", "baas", "oinks", and "whinnies", John Marshall, a Stockbridge senior was awarded the Ensminger Trophy as 1952 Premier Showman at the Little International Livestock Show. Kenneth Alves, a UM junior, was named Reserve Premier Showman.

All day long on Saturday, March 22, Stockbridge seniors and University juniors majoring in Animal Husbandry competed for honors in the fitting and showing of beef, horses, swine, and sheep.

The gaily decorated Grinnell Arena was small for the crowd, and balcony, bleachers and stairway were jammed with spectators.

The animals had been carefully brushed, carded, curried and combed for weeks. From the horses with their gay crepe paper braid and flowers to the snowy white, immaculate pigs, they were as well-groomed, festively decorated a group as ever graced a barnyard.

The four beef winners, John M. Marshall, Lucia Pierce, Allen Perley and Charles Graves were awarded their prizes by Roland Verbeck, di-

RDs Announce Cast For 'Eden'

The cast for the Roister Doister production, "Eastward in Eden", to be presented during Parents' Weekend this year, was announced this week. The play, which is the unusual love story of Emily Dickinson, has been cast with many newcomers to the organization, as well as several of the old favorites of campus productions.

This play, which is actually the Active Group's production, is a joint activity of both R. D. groups. The reasons for this are that the new constitution is difficult to fulfill so soon after its adoption and because the three one act plays to be presented by the Associate Group later this month cannot satisfy their talent.

Featured in the cast in order of appearance will be:

Austin Dickinson	Mario Bruni
Lavinia Dickinson	Marguerite Follett
Maggie	Rosemary Quinn
Lucy Plum	Nancy Gilley
Helen Fiske	Hope Hartigan
Susan Gilbert	Shirley Tuttle

Annual Spring Day? It's All Up To You!

Seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen will be able to get together at the Rifle Range on Apr. 19 from 1 - 6 p.m. for Spring Day.

This year's event marks a trial period for students of the U. of M. because of the rowdy exhibition displayed last year. If the event goes over well on Apr. 19, a Spring Day will be held yearly.

The junior class has planned events including athletics, square dancing, and music in the area set aside for Spring Day. No fires or glass will be allowed; food will be distributed by a chit system.

Letters to the Collegian are requested for suggestions to the planning committee. The cooperation of all is requested to make Spring Day successful.

Queen to Reign; New Feature Of '52 Greek Week

The Interfraternity Council has, for the past several weeks, been laying the plans for Greek Week which is to be held the week of Apr. 21-26. The aim of the council is to establish a tradition which will find Greek Week the biggest social attraction of the year on this campus.

In addition to the features which have been offered in previous years—the intersorority sing and declamation, the interfraternity sing and skits, and the Greek Ball—two new features have been added. For the first time, there will be a Greek Queen, to be known as Aphrodite, named at the Ball. The climax to the week will be a monster rally on Saturday night at which the queen will award prizes to the houses which win the various competitions during the week. The results of these competitions will not be revealed until then.

Bob Smith of Theta Chi and Jack Stuart of Tri-Zeta are supervising the week's activities. Larry Miller of TEP and Ed Craig of SAE are co-chairmen of the Greek Ball, while Marv Glazer of AEPi is chairman of the sing competition and Glenn Barber of ZZZ is chairman for the skits.

Senate Discusses Student Life Work

The Student Life committee gave a report on the joint meeting with the I. F. C. Council. Liquor regulations were discussed and Dean Hopkins defined the administration's policy as being one of neither complete liberty for the students nor one of complete control. The question of chaperons for mixed social affairs was brought up and the proposal that mixed diners be allowed on Friday evening, Saturday noon and evening, and Sunday noon without chaperons will go to the Women's Affairs Committee for approval. If this passes, the fraternity officers will be responsible for the conduct of these affairs. The question of whether Student Life meetings should be open to all the students was brought up again. Nothing can be done until the status of the committee is determined.

Rosemary Quinn questioned the legality of the Senate stopping financial aid to the National Student Association when the student body had voted to support it. Pres. Pehrson said that although the students had voted to support it, a fee for its support had never been put on the Student tax as such, and it was completely within the power of the Senate to appropriate from their general fund as they saw fit.

Mixed Dinner Chaperone Rule Changed By Student Life

Frat Men's Requests For Rule Change For Weekends Granted

by Bill Deminoff

Provided the Women's Affairs Committee of the Senate has no objection, both co-eds and off-campus women will be able to be guests at fraternities for certain meals without being chaperoned, it was decided at a Student Life Committee meeting last Tuesday.

Discussion centered around the desirability of relaxing the present rule with the possible result that abuses might make the privilege worse than the original rule. It was suggested by several members of the Committee, however, that some measure of responsibility should be given the fraternities in the hope that this might lead to a tradition of good conduct and experience in exercising self-control.

It was therefore moved and passed that, upon approval of the Women's Affairs Committee, beginning April 18, mixed dinners will be allowed in fraternity houses at the evening meal on Fridays, the noon and evening meals on Saturdays, and the noon meal on Sundays without the presence of chaperones required. The new rule will remain in effect until the end of the semester, with responsibility for the good conduct of these affairs being placed on the officers of each fraternity.

Ed. note: The following is supplementary to Mr. Deminoff's remarks:

This ruling comes about after much agitation by the fraternity men. While they grant the necessity of supervision at parties, they question the need at wekend meals. The present rule has been violated many times since the houses wouldn't know there would be women present at meals until it was mealtime. When this has happened, it has been impossible to register the chaperone at the last minute.

'TC Fraternity To Try 'Mother' In Fall of 1952

Theta Chi will be the only house on campus to sport a housemother next fall. A spokesman for the house reported that the majority of members agreed that adoption of the proposition suggested by the administration would benefit the house as a whole.

When queried unofficially Tuesday, members of the other fraternities replied that no definite action on the controversial subject is to be taken in the immediate future. The chief reasons given for the reluctance to carry out the suggestion were the lack of facilities and expense involved since the housemother would have to be provided with a bedroom, sitting room and bath.

The matter was brought before the fraternity corporation presidents at a meeting March 22 which Dean Hopkins characterized as showing "true spirit."

Pres. Van Meter also attended the meeting and was glad to see the favorable reaction some fraternities displayed toward the proposal. He be-

PRESIDENT VAN METER PREPARING TO DONATE BLOOD.

388 Pints of Blood Given By University

This year's Blood Drive came to a successful completion at 5 p.m. on Wednesday when the final pint was taken from Mr. Sidney Lovell, the janitor of Knowlton house. The Northampton Chapter of the American Red Cross collected 388 pints from the students and faculty here at the University.

Even if the figure fell short of the 400 mark, the drive has been very successful since the Red Cross usually takes only 150 pints per day. During the two day stand here they took 180 on the first day and 208 on the second. They had to reject 111 donors out of the 500 called.

Many interesting anecdotes have come from the drive. Capt. Cookingham was unable to give blood because he has been back from Korea less than six months. His wife quickly stepped in for him and signed "Mrs. Capt. Cookingham" on the ROTC roster as a donor.

"The Administration of Justice Is The Fairest Pillar of Government"

This September women will be assigned to Mills dormitory. Brooks will be given over to senior men. Chadbourne, Greenough, and Baker will house freshmen.

The present junior class has 442 men. Brooks houses about 150. The fraternities cannot house the rest. What does the housing office intend to do with the rest of next year's senior men? Indications are that they will have the cinder block dormitories.

Living in the cinder block dorms is not as pleasant as living in the Alumni dormitories. Even the slightest noise carries throughout the building. Conditions for study are not ideal; the noise is anything but conducive to sleep. According to inhabitants of the dormitories, the proctors, with their limited powers, cannot do anything to keep order or enforce rules, though they may wish to do so.

The freshman men are given the better dormitories because freshman year is a difficult transitional period. This practice is justifiable. However, no senior can graduate with a failure on his record either first or second semester of his senior year (except under rare circumstances). The Scholarship Committee is reported to be planning to enforce this oral rule which, at one time, pertained especially to the second semester but is gradually being extended to first semester. It is, therefore, as important for senior men to have good study conditions as for freshman men.

Some of the men have lived in the cinder blocks for two years and are faced with a third year there. For this September the University officials should see that first choice on Brooks goes to any present juniors who have spent a year or two years in the cinder blocks.

Is Mills absolutely necessary to the women in September? Could they manage without it?

As long as the cinder blocks are in use for undergraduate men, a rotation system could easily be worked out whereby each man spends a year—either his sophomore or junior year—in the cinder blocks.

Rather than concern themselves so much with fraternity housemothers, those who determine housing problems could well direct their energy toward this one. The fraternities manage very well without housemothers and need no "help" from the deans, we feel. Why not start with the points that most need our attention instead of those that lead to a useless expenditure of money and the creation of figurehead positions?

We Salute

Capt. Reinhold Herman for his work on the blood drive.

As pledging chairman, he has had the biggest job of all in being responsible for the system and organization of pledging during the drive. He received and tabulated these pledges daily and handled most of the publicity. He has kept the Collegian and radio station up to the minute in the matter of pledges. He has been completely cooperative with all persons concerned with the drive.

We salute Capt. Herman, U. of M.'s one man army, and one of our finest examples of student-faculty relationships as they exist in some cases and should exist in many more.

A Ship Without a Rudder

Additional funds for 46 instructors are being requested in the University budget. We wonder if one of these positions might not be that of a student activities director who is badly needed on this campus.

At present we have nine regular faculty members being paid a total of $1150 in extra compensation for being business manager of student publications, advisors to these publications, and advisors to singing, acting, and radio groups. Seven of them receive $100 each as compensation for their duties. This is no compensation but a mere pittance, even an insult.

As faculty members, they are expected to teach and to do research. They do not, of course, object to being business or faculty advisors because they say they enjoy the student contacts they have through these mediums, but we feel it both unfair and detrimental to the University for such a practice to continue. Unfair because it is too much to ask of individual professors in the light of their already overburdened schedules, and detrimental because the time they would spend in research or in teaching is cut short.

The dean of men and the dean of women in most colleges handle disciplinary action. Here the deanship is not only that but also a position of full-time social chairman, advisor to many student organizations, and housing supervisor as well. By the very nature of their positions, deans are hardly ever popular social chairmen. How can one person even be expected to be both a social chairman and a disciplinarian?

We have observed that many of the major events on campus are successful only because Dean Curtis does much of the work herself and checks on the progress of the organization. She is, of course, perfectly willing to do so and is to be commended for so doing, but at the same time we feel it is hardly fair that she should have to do this.

By tripling the expenditure given to these nine people mentioned above, we could have a full-time social chairman and student activities director who could take over the business management (and this is a headache with the limited funds of the University) of student organizations that need outside supervision. He could act as a helpful advisor to student groups like the Senate, not trying to check their activities but rather giving them useful hints on the best expenditure of funds and the best channels for accomplishing objectives. Though students will pride themselves on being the cat's pajamas, they are not always the wisest of the wise and while it is good to have students take over as much responsibility as possible, there are some phases in which students have neither sufficient time nor knowledge to do a proper job. This one man could relieve much of the delegation of authority that inevitably results in each professor's being given a little extra sideline in addition to his already overcrowded classes.

One head in a position such as this would seem better than nine individual members since his time would be devoted solely to this and he would know the over-all picture of the University and how each organization fits into the whole. He could work closely with the University News Service, which is short-handed, in improving public relations of the University as far as students were concerned.

We wager that a student activities director such as this would go a long way in eliminating many administration committee meetings called to solve urgent problems that might have been caught by the activities director in the nick of time before they became urgent.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I want to correct the statements being made that I, as president of the class of '50, was unaware that my class had a balance in the treasury until Dean Hopkins informed me of same.

When I was elected president of the class, I made certain, after a conference with Mr. Hawley, that no funds would be spent from our treasury except on my written approval. This was followed until the final sum was signed over for the "Know Your State University" film.

Dean Hopkins did write and ask if my class would contribute to the film. After corresponding with the members of my executive committee, I did sign over the money. May I say that I was aware at all times of the financial conditions of my class. I think if you check back on my record as an administrator in student government and class office you will find that no grass grew under my feet. Your statement, therefore, in issue 3 11 52 of the Collegian is entirely erroneous as relates to me and my class.

Sincerely,
Bob Leavitt, Pres., class of '50

(Editor's Note: We did not say the president was unaware of the financial conditions of his class—because we knew from Dean Hopkins that Mr. Leavitt was consulted on what should be done with the balance. We stated that, due to some cause of which no one is sure—perhaps the books kept by the treasurers over the four year period—the class thought it had less for the gift than it actually did. The balance was discovered at such a late date it was not possible to consider it in original class gift plans. Mr. Leavitt says he corresponded with members of his executive committee. This seems to confirm the lateness. We did not quarrel with the worthy cause to which he signed over the money and we did not intend the statement as a personal insult to him, but rather as an answer to Mr. Swanson who said the class of '52 had far more money for a class gift than his own class of '51.

Mr. Leavitt's arrangement providing that no funds be spent from the class treasury without his written approval, as president, might be a good precedent for all senior class presidents to adopt.

Dear Editor:

The story on "The Student Prince" in last Friday's Collegian seemed to be more of a eulogy than a review. Miss Stephan praises every aspect of the show and makes frequent use of such words as "magnificent", "unbelievably realistic", "smarkle", and "great praise". Although this may be true, there is not a single word of criticism. The article leaves the reader with the impression that the performance was absolute perfection. The reviewer of a play is called a critic for a reason. The function of criticism is to lull those concerned into complacency.

I agree with Miss Stephan in many of her comments on the technical perfection of the show; but I felt that there was something lacking. I couldn't help comparing it with "Brigadoon" of last year. I realize that the two shows are related but different mediums of expression. Perhaps this fact explains part of my criticism; but not all of it. "Brigadoon" had a sparkle and zip which "The Student Prince" sadly lacked. There seemed to be a miserly expenditure of nervous energy which makes the difference between a good show and an excellent show. It is difficult to put a finger on the reason for this, but I would like to ask a few pertinent questions. Was the show overrehearsed? Was the cast too tired to expend the extra energy needed? An answer of yes to either of these questions would explain the uninspired performance.

I would like to congratulate the cast and all concerned with "The Student Prince" for a good performance, but not the best that could have been given.

John Carroll, '53

(Editor's Note: The paragraph heads in the following letter are ours.)

To the editor:

I, too, would like to throw my hat into the ring. "Fraternities, pro or con." Has it come to this? Have we gotten to the point where we are questioning the right of the formation of fraternal groups? Is the campus not willing to accept fraternities? Has the movement against fraternal living grown to the point where a stand in defense of the existence of fraternal groups is necessary?

The Administration—??

The administrative body—where does it fit in? Is it in favor of or opposed to fraternities? There is a real question. The administration is in favor of fraternities. Why else would it have urged so strongly the recent formation of two new brotherhoods? Then again, maybe the higher-ups do not approve of their "children" living closely together and in groups small enough to really know each other. After all, it is this matter of really knowing our neighbors that makes us able to live with people. Fraternal living is such that a neighbor's faults become accepted as faults and lead not toward making that neighbor a cast-off.

Being Treated Like Children

I cynically used the word "children" above because the latest move of the Dean's office seems to imply their regard for us as such. The aforementioned move is simply the "arrival of prohibition". The gracious

State House News

Friends

We have been asked who Rep. Wilfred Mirsky is and why we ran his picture in the issue of March 18. Mr. Mirsky is the House Chairman of the joint Senate-House education committee and introduced the bill providing for Commonwealth scholarships. He is 45, a graduate of Boston Latin School, Harvard College, and Harvard Law School. A lawyer before his election to the House in 1949, he is one of the most able members of the House and a staunch supporter of the U. of M. He now has pending in the House a bill on a U of M. Medical School branch in Boston.

He lives at 46 Warner St., Dorchester. We give his address in the hope that students living in Dorchester will inform their parents and neighbors to vote for Mr. Mirsky.

We run Mr. Mahar's picture because he is Senate chairman and overall chairman of this same committee. He is 40, a graduate of Tufts and Northeastern School of Law, served in the House from '37-'44 and in the Senate from '45 to the present.

He lives up the street in Orange and has a law office in Greenfield. He introduced the bill to change the name of Mass. State College to the University of Massachusetts at the request of a student committee set up by the Collegian in '46. He has proved a real friend of the University.

U. of M. Film

According to the Union of March 21, "legislators were treated today to a motion picture showing activity on the University of Massachusetts exhibited in the House reading room by Professor Arthur Musgrave and Robert J. McCartney". The showing of the picture was arranged by Rep. Philip Whitmore (R), Sunderland, a member of our Board of Trustees, and Rep. Wilfred Mirsky (D), Dorchester. Among the 60 legislators who attended were: Sen. Ralph Mahar (R), Orange; Sen. Christopher Phillips (R), Beverly; Rep. Allison Dorman (R), former councilman of New Redford and an alumnus of the U. of M.

Student Visit

Dr. Wanlass and Dr. Goodwin traveled to Boston on Tuesday, March 25, with four sections of their Government 28 course to be guests of Rep. Whitmore. The classes were given a tour of the State House and sat in on a committee hearing on highways. Richard Furbush (R), Waltham, president of the Senate, spoke to them on the duties of the Senate president. A special executive assistant to the House Ways and Means committee went through the budget procedure using the University budget as his example. The clerk of the House told of the procedure by which an idea becomes a law. Thomas O'Neill (D), Cambridge, speaker of the House, and Charles Gibbons (R), Stoneham, minority leader in the House, also addressed the group. The group later attended an afternoon session of the House.

Dead Bill

According to the Union of Tuesday, March 25, the House killed a bill to authorize trustees of the University to "establish a recreation extension service to promote greater utilization of natural resources." This is a great loss: we already have a recreation extension service under Lawrence Loy and Ruth McIntire. What we need is more funds for the operation of the already existing extension service.

Garage Bill Passed

The House passed a bill allowing the U. of M. Building Association to build garages worth up to $20,000 and rent them to U. of M. officials and tenants of housing. These garages will be near the veterans' housing project, it was reported in the Union of Wednesday, March 26.

Bills Pending

Rep. John Costello of Boston, in House Bill 842, is asking for a medical school in the city of Boston to be affiliated with the U. of M.

Daily News Lauds Bar Ban Here; Urges Police Check Roadhouses

Editor's Note: The following editorial is reprinted from the Springfield Daily News of Saturday, March 22.

Drinking at colleges has always been a favorite pastime for some students, and a delicate problem for most administrators.

Many college songs, "Paige's Horse," "The Whiffenpoof Song," and the variety of stein songs, indicate that students have always taken more than an academic interest in drinking.

The problem became acute when our college campuses were crowded with veterans, many of whom had been introduced to liquor during the war years, and most of whom had reached legal drinking age.

Most college fraternities set up bars operating on the "chit" system, but the system had many abuses. Underage and intoxicated customers were too frequently served.

After a student was shot to death in a fraternity house last month, Williams College imposed strict rules on house parties. Henceforth, all students and guests attending parties will have identification cards and the number of guests from other colleges will not exceed 180 for coming house parties. A police officer will be present at all dances. Sunday parties will be restricted.

At the University of Massachusetts, fraternity bars have been closed. This action was taken after university officials had learned that underage students and nonstudents were being served at the inexpensive and casually supervised bars.

There are few veterans still in college. Most of the students are youngsters who entered immediately after high school graduation. Only a few of them reach their majorities before senior year. It is therefore necessary that the colleges restrict drinking on property under their jurisdiction.

However, limitations on drinking in fraternity houses may tend to drive younger students to the roadhouses which dot the highways near the campuses. The restrictions at college may mean that students, unable to drink on campus, will drink off campus and drive back to college after the roadhouses close.

The commendable policies of Williams and the University of Massachusetts should be supplemented by a closer surveillance by municipal and state police over drinking places located in and around college communities.

It is all very well for citizens to complain that the colleges should prevent drinking among students. The colleges have shown an earnest desire to curb the practice, but their actions will do more harm than good if small-town cafes are allowed to continue serving minors.

—OFFICIAL NOTICE—
Dean's Saturday

All freshmen are requested to see their advisers on Saturday, March 29. The report of their standing in the different classes will be given them at that time. If any freshman is in doubt as to his adviser, due to his having changed his major or to the fact that he was admitted to the University in February, he should report to the Dean's Office for assignment.

The Dean's Saturday report for all students in the three remaining classes will be posted in the Dean's Office in the usual manner.

1952 Class Rings

It's not too late to order class of '52 rings. Orders will be taken in the C-store on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week (April 1 and 2) from 2-4. The deadline for senior orders is April 15.

Through such an order, the administration has lost the faith of the large majority of fraternity men and, in addition, has encouraged drunkenness to replace sociable drinking.

False Reasoning

What sound reasoning is there behind this command? Bars would be "constant reminders of a previous privilege", "too likely to be misinterpreted by persons not enrolled as students", "symbols of a phase of culture inimical to University standards of department". To me this is where the "mug-wumps" yell "Be good children!" This so-called reasoning is as childish as would be an order to remove all easy chairs because they provoke laziness and recall relaxation.

Battles and Dark Corners

Discouragement of drinking is one thing, but absolute and immediate abstinence is still another. Any adult person can understand the retreat of sociable drinking into the depths of drunkenness. Sale of liquor has been curtailed. Accepted. To drink, the young adult must purchase an entire bottle rather than singular drinks. With bottle in hand, the dark corner seems the safest spot to our would-be-law-abiding young socialite-for-the-evening.

Drinking undercover will undoubtedly lead to consummation of a greater portion of the bottle due to accessability and added glamour if nothing else. If perchance there is any left after the evening, again accessability of the now-hidden liquor tends to provoke drinking at other times than at parties. This is not theory; it is already a noticeable fact. Strict patrolling will be necessary next, to enforce this strict prohibition.

Remove All Bars

However, it is at this point that the Dean's office and I lose the common ground of agreement. I, and I am not alone, feel that the order to "remove all bars" is an indication of the administration's possessing moisture behind the ears. As any fraternity man, I realize that the governing power of the university has the right to issue a statement such as this, but I cannot agree with their exercising this right.

For Better or Worse

The "chiefs" claimed to be pushing the cessation of dispensing for the good of fraternities, but the removal of bars clause seems to spell nothing but trouble. A move such as this can do nothing but drive drinking underground and firmly root bootlegging.

Building Plans At Rutgers; U.M.?

The following is the partnership used by Rutgers, the state university of New Jersey, to finance university buildings and other needs:

The state should be called upon to provide the basic educational facilities which bring enrichment of college spirit so highly prized by those institutions not content to give their students merely the basic necessities of higher education. This is the hope and the plan which the Administration and Trustees project for the physical improvement of various campuses of the University.

Proposal to Keep Bars

I propose that the removal statement be withdrawn by the administration. My grounds are that through a bar system, regulation of drinking can be accomplished by the fraternities themselves, which on the whole have done a seemingly creditable job to the present. Any mixing of liquor and fraternity men could be watched and controlled through such a system. Granted, fraternities cannot sell liquor or dispense liquor bought by the group, but granted so is the fact that individuals can and will buy liquor. Any and all of this liquor should be kept in a bar by which removal of accessability can be accomplished. Why is the Dean's office encouraging drunkenness? Decent drinking can also be a creditable phase of an education.

Money Question Again

The Dean of Men appears to favor hard times for the fraternal groups. Does he figure this is what holds them together? Cessation of dispensing meant a decided decrease in income for nearly all of the fraternities. Now he demands an increase in expenses by forcing the physical removal of these reminders of childhood days. Many of these counters can well be used for dispensing of food and even converted to soda bars to recall a part of the stricken revenue. However, all bars, no matter how recent and how much their cost, are to be removed from the sight of all sweet innocent children.

Social Benefits Necessary

Fraternities are the chief source of social life on this campus. A desire for University appearance in the public eye is evidently hovering around the Dean's office. To acquire publicity, through sports or otherwise, an up-to-par school spirit is necessary. That spirit cannot be attained without some system of social benefits. Indecent drunken brawls would undoubtedly cast a foul odor over all social life.

— To Dean Hopkins —

To Dean Hopkins I say, "Let us be men and women. Let us build up rather than destroy school spirit. Let us adapt our bars to remain on the legal and safe side of the law, assume the responsibility of safeguarding our interests by letting us continue socially as ladies and gentlemen, for certainly you cannot expect to halt all drinking by building a fence around the nearest bar."

I am going now to lock my liquor closet, pointing out in closing that this letter might easily be a petition with many signatures rather than just a humble opinion.

Chuck DeDeurwaerder

To the Editor:

One day as I was sitting with notebook and pencil in hand, listing eligible males from the social register for my daughter Gweadolyn, it occurred to me that education is rather a nuisance. Between what is expected of one during one's life-time and the duties exacted from one after one's death, education has ceased to be either a profit or a pleasure. I, of course, have always been of the opinion that a man should know either everything or nothing. Education tampers with the delicate, exotic bloom of ignorance. That's all that can be said about education.

Now, I see nothing wrong with the "nauseating" antics of fraternity hell week. A man should always have an occupation of some kind. There are far too many idlers in the world as it is. If putting on obscene exhibitions in the College Store will keep the boys busy and away from idle studying, then I advocate it. It is much jollier to find the boys having

Collegian Sponsors Benefit; Back The Typesetters' Ball

We have on campus a noble, self-sacrificing, but unfortunately not self-sufficient group of men. They bemoan their plight as they toil long hours in a small dark room under extremely high temperatures. No sooner is one project complete than they must begin another with many a sad sigh. They are the backbone and the left ankle of the Collegian and Index. In order to alleviate this pitiful condition, the Collegian has organized a "Typesetters' Ball" whose proceeds are to be used as relief funds for indigent photographers.

(Editor's Note: There really will be a dance tomorrow night at Mem Hall beginning at 8).

The art staff of the campus publications are laboring under difficulties which would stun lesser men. They carry on bravely, but now outside financial help is needed to make up even the simplest composite. Hence the dance.

According to the social chairman, "the Typesetter's Ball will be an extremely jazzy affair. If it is well received, it may well become an annual event as important as the Mili Ball."

The refreshments served will be printer's ink and dry galley proofs. The Auditorium will be given the proper atmosphere with dummies and poop sheets.

Donations will be solicited.

SAE Beats AEPi 23-9 To Take League A Lead

A strong SAE quintet turned on a full court press against AEPi on Wednesday as the two unbeaten teams battled it out for the League A lead. Sparked by a twelve point barrage by Dick Torchia, the SAE team scored five points in each of the first two periods while holding the Blue and Gold to a single point.

With a six point spurt by Bamel in the third quarter, Pi closed the gap to 8 points as the score read 16-8 at the third quarter mark. However, the fourth quarter saw the SAE quintet again come to life to go on to win 23-9. The win gave SAE the league lead with each club having two games left. However, the victory went a long way towards clinching the league crown for SAE since the victors have to face two weak teams in Alpha Gam and Tri Zeta.

Meanwhile, in League B, Brooks dropped Chadbourne B out of a tie for third place by nosing them out on Tuesday night 31-30. The other two league leaders, the Independents and Castoffs, each maintained their lead as the schedule moved into its final week of play.

Ballmen Elect Co-Captains; 10 Men Win 'M's

The varsity basketball team took three ballots in the last two weeks and finally elected co-captains for the 1952-53 Redmen quintet. Elected to lead the Ballmen were sophomores Bernie Kaminski and Henry Mosychuk, two of the stars of last season's starting quintet.

Awarded varsity letters were the following men: Captain Bill Prevey '52; Henry Mosychuk '54; Ed Concison '54; Bernie Kaminski '54; John MacLeod '54; Paul Bourdeau '52; Ray Gunn '52; Jack Delahunt '54; Bill Stephens '53; and Manager Gerry Goldman '54.

Kaminski was second in scoring for the Redmen last season with a 10.9 average, while Mosychuk was close behind with an 8.8 average. Of the nine team lettermen, the Redmen will lose only three by graduation.

Ben Ricci To Organize LacrosseTeam

For the first time in history, a semi-official lacrosse team will be organized at the University. The team, started and coached by Ben Ricci, University trainer and a graduate of Springfield College, will play a series of four games this spring with a strong possibility of becoming a varsity sport at the University next year.

Only ten out of the 49 men that have reported have had any previous experience in the sport, but Coach Ricci hopes to have the squad ready and in shape for their four scheduled informal games with Deerfield Academy, Lowell Textile, Mt. Hermon, and Amherst College.

The ten men with experience to report were: Dave Allen S'52; Conrad Briggs '52; Warren Hill '52; Reed Mellor '54; Bill Moffitt '53; Ed Moiselle '55; Paul Puddington '54; Steve Root '54; Bob White '55; Dick Williams '53; and Dave Yesair '54.

INSIDE THE CAGE

In an extremely short time, our baseball team will open its 1952 campaign. Even as this is written, robins are seen in even the remotest spots of campus; students (?) are sitting on the lawns; and Coach Lorden prepares to take the wraps off his charges, and bring them out into the sun.

The emphasis this year is on speed Coach Lorden has the boys running, running, running. The sanded area normally used for broad jump and pole vault events is being utilized as a sliding area. All this week, hook slides, fade-away slides, and even head firsts are being practiced. In short, 'Earl' plans to use any way possible to get that EXTRY base.

Good Morale Evident

The pre-season chatter this year seems to express high hopes for the team. Everyone is hustling and anxious to work hard. No one appears out of condition. Last year's regulars are really going to have a fight on their hands once the team ventures from the confines of the cage.

On A Limb

In fact, if pre-season looks are any criterion, we can expect the best baseball nine our school has ever had. Our batting seems to be more than adequate. Don Smith, Paul Divincenzo, Bill Bakey, Bob Kroeck, Phil Costello, and Al Rabaioli, just to mention a few, have all been meeting the ball hard and square.

Our pitching can be anticipated with great hope. Reasons one and two are, of course, two fellows whom the opposing batters claim throw as pirin tablets instead of baseballs: last year's mainstays—Bob Kroeck and Chet Corkum. This year they should receive a great deal of help from members of the other three classes. Coach Lorden has been doing quite a bit of work with two left-handed freshmen, Don Swanson and Joe Fonzette.

Pitching from the opposite side of the mound, freshman Phil Tarpi, sophomores Hugh Mckenzie and Steve Davis might be called on to do their share. Davis, at present, is plagued with wildness. Bob Smith, Bob Corkum, and Leo Bacchieri round out the mound staff which appears well balanced from stem to stern.

Aside from the regular season games, there has been talk in the cage of one or two pre-season contests with Westover Field. If these materialize, watch this column for time and place.

Tennis Squad Now Training

The varsity tennis team continues to conduct their pre-season intra-squad tourney as Coach Steve Kosakowski attempts to estimate the relative values of the squad before the opening match with Boston College on April 21.

Led by Captain Bob Allen, the squad is seeing quite a bit of the country these past few weeks as they have been conditioning over the back roads leading to Hadley. However the exercise is beginning to show results.

Coach Kosakowski has been very favorably impressed by the work of Allen, Mel Tucker, and a newcomer to the team Wolfgang Schubel, a junior from Germany. The coach expects to round the club into shape and hold their own against most of the team's opponents.

Following the initiation, the annual fraternity banquet was held at Wixgins Tavern, Northampton. Toastmaster for the evening was Dmytro Shaban, '49. House President Herb Wild and Initiate President Steve Dwyer were the main speakers.

In intramural athletics, S.A.E. maintained its lead in bowling with a record of 31 wins and 9 losses in 10 matches and remains tied with A.E.Pi in basketball with an unblemished 8 and 0 record.

S.A.E. regrets to announce that because of the tremendous overcrowding at Saturday night parties, hereafter these parties must be strictly limited to guests invited by the brothers and the members of other fraternities on campus.

CONCERT BAND

The U. of M. Concert Band has revised its Spring schedule and has consolidated the previously scheduled concert of March 30 with the Parents' Weekend concert on May 4. The Parents' Weekend concert, featuring pianist Flora Contino, will be held in Bowker this year.

rector of short courses, Kenneth Alves and Miles Richmond, horse winners, received their awards from Leo Doherty, Massachusetts director of fairs. Dale Sieling, Dean of Agriculture, presented the swine showmanship award to Arnold Gurwitz, and Richard Nickles received his trophy for sheep from President Ralph Van Meter.

Each of the eight winners from the four classes were finalists, competing in the Premier Showmanship Contest. The two winners were chosen from the eight for their superior ability in showing beef, horses, sheep and swine all to best advantage.

Judges were Donald Kinsman, a UM alumnus of the class of '49, now an instructor in Animal Husbandry at the University of Vermont, and Donald Grant, herdsman at the University of Connecticut.

The co-ed milking contest was a hilarious display of what happens when a city girl tries her luck in getting Bossie to give a test-tube of milk. Sixteen inexperienced co-eds armed with test-tubes and pretty smiles had a minute to see how much of the container they could fill. They managed to find the right side of the cow, but from then on, the technique closely resembled an orchestra of clarinet players.

Janet Anderson, Mime Bradshaw, Nancy Wechter and Helen Houle were the four finalists. Janet Anderson won top honors and a silver cream pitcher.

The 1952 Little International was dedicated to William Smith, UM herdsman in recognition of his 32 years of service. It was the 13th show held on campus, and was sponsored by the Animal Husbandry Club. John Libbey, club president, was show manager.

The Rhinehardt trophy for excellence in judging was presented by Helen T. Sellew to Jean Sanborn and Everett Hatch. Both had judged over 200 classes, and a close tie made it impossible to choose between them. They both received medals, and have their names engraved on a plaque in Stockbridge.

Prizes were donated by the Department of Agriculture, various breed associations and the Ensminger Trophy by Mr. James Watsen, Editor of the New England Homestead.

lieves the houses will benefit in the long run since the whole tone of the atmosphere will be raised and it will be possible to relax many of the rules regarding the conduct of mixed social events.

It is thought that the move on the part of Theta Chi is just the beginning and that housemothers will soon become an accepted part of fraternity life on this campus.

Letters to the Editor . . .

a good time than to witness their brows all knit together at Goodell Library. Goodell is so disgustingly crowded and noisy and ill-lit.

It is very strange. Our university seems to suffer curiously from athleticosis. Should we finance the athlete and publicize the university through our athletic programs, or should we allow our campus hero to wash dishes in Draper? I think it high time the athlete demanded his rights. This shilly-shallying with the question is absurd. I am always telling this to my poor nephew, but he never seems to do anything about it. He either looks shocked, which is vulgar, or laughs, which is worse. But German sounds a thoroughly respectable language, and indeed, I believe it is so.

When we came to college to improve our minds, we put away childish pleasures. We lose our parents' protection, which seems to me like gross carelessness. Indeed, it seems to display a contempt for the ordinary decencies of family life.

Before I draw this epistle to a close, I must tell you my views on fraternity drinking. Alas! The sad fate of the fraternity bar and rail. The administration decided that it should not survive. So, with great confidence in the opinion of its elders it immediately died. I am glad that it made up its mind at the last to some definite course of action and acted under proper advice. But, as I was saying to the Duchess of Bolton, twenty-nine is a very good age to be married at.

Rev. Donaghy Leads '52 Newman Retreat

The Newman Club will sponsor its annual retreat immediately following spring vacation: Apr. 16, 17 and 18 (Wednesday through Friday). The outstanding event in the school calendar for Newman Club members is this retreat. The schedule will follow the same pattern as in past years with Mass in St. Brigid's Church at 8:30 a.m., a conference in Old Chapel Auditorium at 5 p.m. and the evening service in St. Brigid's Church at 7:30.

The annual Communion breakfast will follow on Sunday, Apr. 20, in Draper Annex at 10 a.m. The speaker will be the Rev. John Harrington, the chancellor of the Springfield diocese. In order that proper plans may be made, students are requested to purchase their tickets from dorm chairmen before the spring holidays.

The retreat director will be the Rev. William A. Donaghy, S. J., superior of Campion Hall Retreat House for laymen in North Andover, Mass. Father Donaghy is a native of New Bedford where he received his preliminary education before attending Holy Cross College. He entered the Society of Jesus in 1929 and studied for the priesthood at Shadowbrook and Weston. Following ordination, he pursued his graduate studies in English at St. Louis University in St. Louis.

For two years Father Donaghy was Associate Editor of the National Catholic weekly, America. In 1945 he was assigned to retreat work, at the same time remaining as a columnist and poetry critic for America. In 1948 he was appointed Superior of his present assignment at Campion House.

Father Donaghy is without doubt one of the best known retreat masters in the eastern part of the U. S. and is in constant demand. The Newman Club feels most fortunate in being able to have him for this function and it is hoped that all students of the Catholic faith will enter wholeheartedly into this three day retreat.

DIRECTOR FATHER DONAGHY

Inside The Cage

Last Saturday, with the sun shining and a balmy east breeze buzzing the area, the 1952 edition of the U.M. baseball team saw daylight. The first afternoon on the outside found the boys engaging in an inter-squad game that developed into a pitcher's duel with Bob Krock and Chet Corcum the shining lights. Each turned in three inning stints on the hill unearthed.

After nine innings of play, the score read 3-2. To give each team a name is impossible because the players were used interchangeably and many played three and four positions. What a ball club! They can play anywhere.

The losing pitcher in all probability was Lefty Don Swanson, who pitched well but was being hit. The only real hit came off the bat of Dick Noonan and that was hit right at a fielder for a routine fly. (If you can call "routine" for a ball that tears a man's glove from his hand.)

Two of the very promising mound prospects, Joe Faucette and Phil Tarpey, have been released to the freshman team. Both these boys, Coach Lorden admits, are fine pitchers. However, under Coach Ball, they will have more opportunity to play than on the varsity team.

An interesting sight inside the cage has been Tony "Bonzo" Cirillo. Tony is quite frequently seen running around the outside circle of the cage with a 25 lb. weight in each hand. Upon questioning him, we found out that the University, in the near future, is to be represented in the professional wrestling ring. He has signed to meet a popular and famous wrestler believed to be the famous bad man, "Wild Bull" Curry, immediately after vacation.

QUARTERLY ANNOUNCEMENT

The Quarterly announces that the Spring issue will appear on Wednesday, Apr. 2. Among the new contributors will be Bill Deminoff, Dorothy Curran, Jack Reed, Pamela Perkins, and Al Leavitt. Two new features have been incorporated: "Criteria and Criticism" and illustrations for several stories.

Contributions are now being accepted for the Commencement issue and can be left at the Quarterly or given to any staff member.

SPANISH PLAY

The U.M. Spanish Club will present Sin Querer, a one-act comedy by Jacinto Benavente in Skinner Auditorium on Thursday, Apr. 3, at 8 p.m. The cast includes Lorraine Cole, Max Aprile, Liz Mantel, and Anthony Bernatowicz. There will be no admission charge and refreshments will be served.

IRC to Sponsor Trip April 18

The International Relations Club in cooperation with the clubs of A.I.C. Springfield College, and other area colleges will sponsor on Friday, Apr. 18, a one-day trip to the United Nations in New York. ANYONE is invited to join the trip: the cost of transportation will be $4.25.

A chartered Greyhound will leave the campus at 6:30 a.m., Apr. 18. A guided tour of the UN building, lunch in the UN cafeteria, and a visit to a committee session are included on the itinerary. The group will return to the campus between 11 and 12 p.m. The Dean's office will grant excuses from class attendance for those who take the trip; "late" permissions may also be obtained for girls. The affair will be chaperoned by Dr. Carres of the history department.

Those who desire to make this trek must sign the sheet provided at the main desk in the library before Friday, Apr. 4, at noon. A meeting will be held Wednesday, Apr. 16, from 4:30-5:15 p.m. in the lounge of Mem Hall where details will be given and the transportation fee will be collected. Further information may be obtained at any time from Dan Porter or Howard Mason, both at Mills House.

Maroon Key Society Awaits Nomination Papers From Frosh

All freshman men interested in running for the Maroon Key Society, the sophomore honor society, must file nomination papers with Ben Ricci at the Phys Ed building on Apr. 3 before 5 p.m.

When a nominee turns in his papers, he will be scheduled for an interview with the Key to tell why he wishes to be a member. Twenty men will be selected from the candidates on the basis of character, ambition, and interest.

The nomination papers must be signed by 10 members of the freshman class and be written in the following form: "We, the undersigned, do hereby nominate ..... Room .... to become a member of the Maroon Key Society of the U. of M." All freshman men may sign an unlimited number of papers. Any freshman men are eligible.

This year the Maroon Key has worked on the freshman orientation, as hosts to visiting athletic teams, as host (with the Scrolls) at the high school weekend, the March of Dimes, Bill Prover night, Christmas Vespers, and registration. Much credit for the efficient functioning of the Key this year should go to Ben Ricci who has acted as their advisor since the rope pull. It was under his supervision that the Key wrote its new constitution which is currently before the Activities Committee of the Student Senate for approval.

Irish Playwright Lectures Tomorrow

Dennis Johnston, Irish playwright, will give a lecture on "The Abbey Theatre" in Old Chapel Auditorium on Wednesday, April 2, at 8 p.m.

Mr. Johnston is author of The Old Lady Says "No" which was presented some years ago at Amherst College. He was for five years director of the Dublin Gate Theatre and is currently visiting lecturer at Mt. Holyoke College.

14 Districts Form Regional NESDC

A regional center of the New England School Development Council has been established at the U. of M., it was announced today by Dr. Albert W. Purvis, head of the department of education.

Fourteen western Massachusetts school districts comprise the Council's new branch. The purpose of the organization is study and research in school problems.

Two research-study projects chosen by the schools themselves, are already underway, Dr. Purvis reported. They are: "What constitutes a good grading system for elementary schools and what type of report should go to parents?" and (2) "What are the most effective techniques for dealing with individual differences in heterogeneous classes?"

Teachers in each group meet once every three weeks to confer on problems. Dr. Purvis is coordinator of the center and D. Justin McCarthy, assistant professor of education, is consultant to one of the groups.

Poll To Seek Suggestions Of Students, Faculty For Project

WITH AN EYE TO THE FUTURE. —Photo by Coffin

Did you ever realize that you had an area within a short distance of the campus where it could be possible to go for skiing and skating in the winter and picnicking and hiking in the spring and fall? Well, a committee of students and faculty has been formed on campus in an attempt to provide an answer to these dreams.

The Mt. Toby Recreation Committee was organized late last fall when, like Topsy, "it just grew." Led by Cap'n Bill Vinal, a group of five people first investigated the possibilities of the new University property around Mt. Lincoln in Pelham. After a survey revealed that the area would not be suitable for the committee's purposes, a group of students and faculty made a second survey of the Mt. Toby and Ox Hill area to the north of the campus.

There, an investigation proved that the area was ideal for the committee's purposes. With the greatest possible cooperation from the Forestry department of the University, more trips were planned, a formal organization was set up, and plans were started to bring about the dream of the members of the committee.

Preliminary plans drawn up under the guidance of the Forestry department called for the work to be divided into short and long range projects with careful planning to insure the achievement of the committee's goals. After careful deliberation, the group decided to conduct a poll of the entire student body to determine what provisions they would like to see made for the area.

Proposed plans would then be carefully discussed as to their feasibility and incorporated into the master plan, if it were found worthwhile. The committee is now investigating the possibilities of constructing a lodge, ski area, picnic area, trails, and other provisions for the benefit of the entire student body. These proposals will be incorporated with the results of the poll to determine the master plan set-up. This recreation area is to be strictly for the use of the students and faculty of the University.

The poll to be published in next Tuesday's Collegian will include all

One Vote Victory Contested By Seniors

After a hot debate lasting for an hour, the senior class voted 47-46 to give $700 to the University for gardens out in front of Wilder Hall. Books for the library was the proposal defeated.

Immediately after the meeting a movement got under way to have another meeting called to take a recount. A petition was signed by about 60 seniors demanding a recount. The General Court of Justice (combined Men's and Women's Judiciaries) will meet tonight to decide whether the class officers should be directed to hold another meeting and take a recount. On the possibility that the court will decide in favor of the petitioners, the recount will be taken at the meeting of the class of '52 at Goessmann Aud. on Thurs. at 11 a.m.

McGuirk to Ask For $5 Fee From Frosh and Sophs

The Board of Trustees will vote at the next meeting on a recommendation by Mr. Warren P. McGuirk, director of athletics, that freshmen and sophomores pay a $5 fee for the "gear" they receive.

The date for the next Board meeting has not been definitely set by the President, but Mr. McGuirk believes it will be held in April while the President's office claims it will not convene until Commencement time.

This fee is being requested to help defray the cost of providing physical education uniforms for all male students taking required phys. ed., men taking part in intra-mural sports, and students and faculty members who use the Cage for recreational purposes, according to Mr. McGuirk.

Under the above proposal, junior and senior students who are still making up required phys. ed. credits will not be expected to pay the fee.

Mooney vs. U. of M.

Soph-Senior Hop has always been a tradition whereby the sophomores treat the seniors at commencement time. The tradition grew out of friendliness and need. Friendliness developed between the two classes when the seniors practiced with the sophomores behind the college barn for the approaching rope contest (the juniors did the same with the freshmen). The need arises from the fact that seniors should be as free as possible from all unnecessary commitments at commencement.

This year the senior class must decide at the next meeting whether this tradition is to be kept or whether it is to be discarded along with $600.

A $600 Subsidy

It was felt by the senior class president that Soph-Senior Hop should have a big name band. Preparations were made to sign Art Mooney for $1100. According to the sophomore class president, the only way Art Mooney can be obtained is by a $600 subsidy from the seniors to the sophomores. The sophomores would pay $500 for Mooney plus an additional $250 for small items such as corsages and decorations. Even with the subsidy, they might lose $50-$75.

Objections Raised

So much dissatisfaction has been expressed over this arrangement that it will come up before the class for decision. The senior class officers saved this $600 from items such as invitations—a step forward to which no one objects. (The budget allows $1300 for the banquet; $700 for the gift; $725 for invitations and commencement; $415 for booklets; $275 for the Alumni Association making a total of $3900. An additional $600 for Mooney would bring it to $4500.)

The objections center around the breaking of the tradition by giving the sophomores a subsidy and the sagacity of sinking $600 into such a venture. It is thought that the seniors would be just as content without Art Mooney and that it would be better for the sophomores to give us a band within their price range as they always have in the past.

According to the sophomores, they can get a band that would provide danceable music for $400, meaning a saving of $100 for themselves and $600 for the seniors. This matter is felt to be of such great importance in view of the large sum of money and the tradition-breaking that it will be brought out on the floor for the whole class to vote on.

For Mooney

The president of the senior class feels that Soph-Senior should stand out as a cherished memory for all the seniors, that the sophomore class should not finance Soph-Senior at all, and that nothing else could be done with the $600. He says the class gifts before ours have averaged $1 per student and that with $700, the class of '52 will have given approximately $1 per student.

We are taking a stand with the group opposing the spending of this $600 for the following reasons:

1. Certain Mills men have said they have not had an opportunity to hear a big name band during their four years here. To them we say that it is their own fault—there are enough women to ask and enough dances too. They will be no more anxious to attend this one than any other.

If we were to take a poll of how many people would like to see Barnum and Bailey Circus perform on the library lawn, everyone would probably think it highly unusual and vote "yes". When the time came to attend, however, a great many of those who said yes would be tied up with other engagements, especially in a busy week like that of commencement. They might even find things to tie them up to get out of going. If this type of thing changes with a name band for Soph-Senior, it will be the changing of human nature and this will be a major accomplishment.

2. Is Art Mooney so important? Is he a big name? We don't think so. Some big name bands one enjoys listening to but one cannot dance to. Winter Carnival Ball this year was more successful than ever—without a big name band.

Apathy

3. The statement about $1 per student in the class of '50 is erroneous: $2100 was the class gift—$1500 for Metawampe and $600 for "Candid UM". Regardless of that, is there any rule saying that each student should not give more than $1? What is the idea—so prevalent among some of the student body—that because the tuition is inexpensive they can get by on a minimum expenditure of effort in studies and extra-curricular activities, on a minimum of spirit and interest in the University? The roots of apathy lie in this feeling. Is this idea of $1 per student a carry-over from apathy or a complete lack of interest in the welfare of fellow students at the University? Because the money was saved on the one hand, should it be squandered on the other?

There is some sentiment that putting $600 into the class gift would be too generous. Since when is there such a thing in this world as "too generous"? There is selfishness, however, and some members of the senior class seem to have a priority on it with items such as $300 for a picnic.

4. The class of '52 can afford a large expenditure. If the tradition is changed, however, so that seniors finance the Hop, will succeeding classes be able to adopt the change financially? As the tradition stands now, the present sophomores will receive in two years the same they do for the seniors now.

5. The seniors should not expect the sophomores to go into the hole for this hop. Would they be willing to accept whatever band the sophomores can reasonably afford? For a sum considerably less than $1100, the seniors could have quite desireable music.

What To Do With $600

6. We never thought we would live to see the day when anyone on this campus could not find some useful purpose for $600. We are still astounded. For those who are wracking their brains for a reasonable use to which we could put this $600, we wish we could scream the following suggestions:

Bob McCartney of the University News Service needs two prints of Candid UM. He could use 12 prints to advantage—he now has four since the trustees financed the purchase of an additional three. This would cost $230. The campus bulletin board would take only $80 or $85. The argument against it that the glass might be broken is a weak one: we might as well stop putting glass in buildings for fear that this glass will get broken.

Solution

The one drawback to the Alumni Bulletin was the strings attached to it in the way of controls. We now have a solution, one that would leave the seniors in complete charge. With $600, the senior class could publish a bulletin of six pages (newspaper size). In it we could cover all the needs of this University and include the most beautiful shots ever taken of Liberal Arts Annex, the Math building, fourth floor North College. This edition sent to legislators, alumni, women's groups, parents, and students would repay us at least 100-fold for the money put into it. The editorial board could consist of the top three editors of the newspaper, the top two people on the Index, the presidents of Adelphia and Isogon, a member from the senior class executive committee, the president of the student senate, and three members of the senior class chosen by the previously mentioned board. This staff would take into consideration those who supposedly have the most contact with campus events and would represent the seniors adequately.

Biding Our Time

Many of our needs the State should take care of; the alumni should take care of some others. The fact remains that they cannot do so unless they know what these needs are, and fulfillment of needs takes time. If half of us have been on this campus four years and still don't know how the University runs, can we expect alumni and legislators, who are out of contact with us, to know? Should we just sit and wait for events to take their course or should we try to help the classes that will come after us whenever we have it in our power to do so?

Possible Combinations

If this $600 is voted over to the class gift, there are any number of things that could be done with it. Both books and the flower gardens would satisfy just about everyone with enough left for two prints of Candid UM. Or all $1600 might go toward books. Or we might have books, two prints of Candid UM, the campus bulletin board, and the special bulletin. Because we have $1600 instead of $1000 does not mean we have to start from the beginning to consider suggestions for the gift. The ones we already have are as good, perhaps, as any we might now think up.

What shall it be, seniors, $600 for Art Mooney or $600 for the University that is your Alma Mater?

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

In reference to the senior class meeting held Thursday morning, March 27, I should like to put down a few of my thoughts. It appears to me that there is a certain type of mentality among seniors of the University that compels them to feel that the only way their class name can be perpetuated is by having the name on a plaque. This is a laudable way of having the class name last over many years, and during a time when there is nothing better to do with the class gift, I would be wholly in accord with the idea.

The class of 1952 is in a different situation in that the University is suffering growing pains and there are a few things that we as a class can do. A step forward was made with "Candid UM." This is a fine movie and will serve the purpose for which it is intended. The picture will be shown in all high schools in the state as well as the various alumni groups and especially to the General Court. This will take a great deal of time. If perhaps we had two or three more copies, (cost about $115 apiece) it would cover a wider area in a minimum of time.

Next is the special edition of the Alumni Bulletin, having in it not only class notes of previous graduates but also a concise picture of the needs of the University. This could be accomplished by a joint committee of alumni and students. This could also be sent to the members of the General Court (perhaps in conjunction with the showing of "Candid UM") to give them a better perspective of their State University.

I think both suggestions are worthy of consideration by the senior class. This would not only be a step forward for the University but also for the senior class.

Yours for deep consideration and realistic action, I remain

Sincerely,
Arthur Alintuck, '52

(Ed.'s Note: See last seven paragraphs of editorial.)

To the Editor:

My only comment on the class gift: another flagpole—with leaves and flowers this time. What is this University coming to?

Sincerely,
Thomas Kenny, '53

To the Editor:

The two senior class meetings held thus far to decide the 1952 class gift seem to have been a complete waste of time. In view of the result, the seniors could just as well have sat out on Goodell library lawn and let the wind carry away the $700.

In one of your first editorials, called "Beware of Classes Bearing Gifts", you urged the seniors to live up to the position of leadership which seniors should occupy in the eyes of the undergraduates. Your plea apparently fell on deaf ears. Or, if that is "leadership", Heaven keep the three undergraduate classes from following in their footsteps.

Irately yours,
Catherine Baron

To the Editor:

As a past editor of the Collegian, I would like to point out that a college newspaper can provide students with facts and well-thought out opinions.

It is a shame that the college newspaper cannot provide some of the student body with a sense of judgment and common sense. The class gift recently voted seems to show a tremendous lack of both judgment and common sense among the seniors.

Sincerely,
Dusty Evski, '53

To the Editor:

Are there only 93 people in the senior class who are interested enough to vote for selection of a class gift? Should the votes of 47 of these people be sufficient to select the gift for the entire class? My answer to these questions must be an emphatic "NO!"

I imagine that there are some people who believe that the vote of the senior class meeting of Thursday, March 27, on the matter of a class gift should be accepted as final. These people will say that apparently only a small percentage of the class had enough interest in the problem to bother attending the meeting and that the group assembled were the only ones interested, and therefore their vote should be accepted. There are, however, several weaknesses to this argument. In the first place, the meeting place, Old Chapel Auditorium, is certainly not large enough to hold the whole senior class, and if they all did try to assemble, there would have been so much confusion that I doubt that anything could have been accomplished. In the second place, it was a mistake to suppose that anything resembling a fair representation of the senior class would attend such a meeting, or that the results, if indeed there were any, would really be an accurate picture of the class opinion on a class gift.

This second point of mine needs further clarification. Had I been able to attend the previous class meeting, I would have said this earlier, but my experience with mass meetings has shown me that very little of real

Castoffs Take League Crown; Brooks Beats Independents

Completing their regular schedule, the Castoffs repeated their undefeated season of last year to annex the League C crown on Friday night when they gained a forfeit over Middlesex B. The win gave the league champions a season's record of 10-0.

In second place in League C are the Grads with a record of 8-1. By taking a game by forfeit from third place Berkshire B, the Grads practically clinched their position with only Plymouth A to play. Berkshire B with a 6-3 record is still fighting Plymouth A (5-3) for the number three spot.

In League B, third place Brooks came up with a great upset win 28-19 over the previously unbeaten Independents to drop the Indies into a tie with the East Experiment Station. Each team now has one loss as against eight wins. Brooks is safely established in third with a 7-2 record. If the Independents beat SAE-B and the Experiment Station whips Berkshire A, there will be a playoff for the league crown prior to the playoffs.

In League A, SAE moved one step closer to the crown by whipping Alpha Gam 30-17. The unbeaten leaders have but to face Tri Zeta to clinch the league crown. Still in second is AEPi, with Theta Chi and Kappa Sig tied for third with 7-2 records. AEPi will meet Theta Chi on Thursday night in a crucial game that will decide second place.

importance is ever accomplished at a mass meeting held on an informal basis. Usually such a meeting degenerates into a battle between small pressure groups who try to push their measures through. Because I know that many in the senior class have witnessed this very thing happen several times during the past four years, I do not blame them for not attending a mass meeting held on such an informal basis that no check was ever made to be sure that all present were seniors. (I know of at least one person present at the last meeting who was not a senior).

I would also like to question the real sincerity of the group assembled Thursday morning. Doubtless, there were some who wanted to get an honest opinion from the class on the selection of the class gift, These people, however, were not in the majority. Most of the people present seemed more concerned about meeting a time limit than they did about getting a good choice for a gift. The proof of this statement lies in the fact that no sooner was the final figure of 47 votes put on the blackboard than the assembled multitude heaved a mutual sigh of relief and dashed for the door. No one even suggested a recount, although there was a difference of only one vote between the two choices.

I do not wish to argue with the 47 students who voted for the Wilder Hall garden, for they have every right to vote for their choice. However, I do not think that 47 votes should be enough to decide our class gift. If the officers of the class want to get a true sampling of the class opinion, then they should give every member of the class, and only members, a chance to vote by ballot in such a way that each person could vote independently without any pressure from friends, neighbors, or small, well-organized pressure groups. The resulting choice may be the same, but at least we will be sure that our gift is really the choice of a great percentage of our class.

Of the members of the senior class to whom I have talked, most of them have expressed dissatisfaction with the choice made at the class meeting. It seems to me that it would be a mistake to present to the school a gift which most of the class does not approve. I believe that only by ballot could we really find out just what the class thinks about our class gift. I will willingly offer to help the gift committee if they decide to adopt a ballot system.

Hopefully yours,

Conley to Sing Arias In Cage

Faux Pas

by Bruce Fox

The next few paragraphs should bring quite a bit of contradiction from some of the less informed students on my favorite campus. The reason is that someone is coming out in FAVOR of one of our more criticised institutions, the infirmary.

Our source material comes from a reliable and rather attractive source who has spent quite a bit of time around moaning students.

Figures tell us that total bed facilities (including 2 recent additions) allow for 24 ill students from a total enrollment of about 4,000. The isolation ward is equipped to handle the shocking number of SIX patients and has allowance of one lavoratory for students with communicable diseases. This means that isolation patients have to be put up in the regular ward, possibly contaminating others until diagnosis is certain. Such pressure was witnessed by this reporter when he observed a full isolation ward last week.

With a full women's ward, a filled isolation ward, and a busy men's ward, the nurses still managed to give terrific personal service and individual attention. Hats off to them.

Another, and probably the major complaint of students, is that the requirements for admission to the infirmary are not just ordinary ailments, but a "raging fever". Let me explain here and now that students have in the past been admitted without fevers (especially women students), but that temperature appears to be the only feasible criterion for admittance now. What if two of the 24 beds are available and two students with sore throats are admitted? During the course of the night (and it's a frequent happening there) two students with acute illnesses and fevers are taken to the infirmary; they would be refused admittance; it's as simple as that.

Mardi Gras Balloting Under W. S. S. F.

The steering committee of the U.M. World Student Service Fund announces that solicitations will be taken April 28-May 5 all over campus. All donations will be made individually in small envelopes which will serve as a ballot for each contributor to vote for a Mardi Gras queen to be chosen from the candidates sponsored by U. of M. residence houses. Similar voting will be held at the Mardi Gras on May 10. The size of the contribution is a personal affair: only contributors may vote.

All contributions will go into a fund to be used in a program of mutual assistance for students all over the world. The fund is not administered on a scholarship basis but is used to supply the things most needed by students, be they books, microscopes, or clothing. Many countries contribute, each one giving something it has (not necessarily money), to those who have nothing. This program of student aid by students is a main factor in promoting international relations and understanding for students in other lands today.

Instructors To Take Required Courses, Too

Along with all other state employees, the staff and faculty of the U. of M. were notified recently that they will be required to take the standard first aid course of the American Red Cross as a civil defense measure.

The local Red Cross chapter will supervise the program, Pres. Van Meter said. Heads of departments will help schedule hours for their staff members, and all instruction will be arranged during the regular work day.

Scoopin 'Em Up

(Formerly Inside the Cage)

The major league ball clubs are heading north to their home fields; Ted Williams is taking his physical; it looks as though the Yanks will lose Jerry Coleman to the Marines; Lou Boudreau is experimenting with a new lineup; and U of M looks ineffective at the plate.

This Tues. saw the second intersquad game of the current season take place within the fences of Alumni Field. Just like the first contest, this turned out to be a pitcher's duel. This time Bill Bakey emerged the victor in besting young Don Swanson, 1-0.

Swanson pitching very effectively, threw one bad pitch and boom went his game. With Johnny Pasteris at the plate, Swanson pumps, dips, throws; the curve doesn't break; wood meets leather and the first official home run of the 1952 season soars towards right field, bounces into the beautiful bushes, as Pasteris bounces across the dusty, spike scarred plate.

Although Bakey was the winning pitcher, he was not too impressive. He was wild and except for some extremely good support might have ended up on the other side of the score. Bakey is very fast and with

International Weekend Aim Is Good Will

"Can Democracy Satisfy the Needs of the World Today?" is the theme of the International Weekend to be held here Apr. 19 and 20. With foreign students coming from Harvard, Yale, Columbia, and other schools, many viewpoints on this topic will be aired under the leadership of U. of M. faculty members.

The conference, being held to help clear up misconceptions about life in foreign countries, will also include a dance, under the direction of Lawrence Loy, and an Interfaith Worship service to help us practice what we preach. It is hoped that the U. of M. will extend a hearty welcome to these student-ambassador-guests.

Judiciaries Elect Chiefs For Courts

The new Judiciary boards selected their chief justices this week. Serving as chief justice for the Women's Judiciary for next year will be Nina Chalk, '53. John Heintz is serving in the dual capacity of Chief Justice of the Men's Judiciary and the General Court of Justice. The General Court is made up of the Men's and Women's Judiciaries.

Serving with Heintz on the Men's court are John Carroll, Alan Waxstein, Joe Lucier, and William Carroll.

With Miss Chalk on the Women's board are Frances Jones, Nancy Meader, Nancy Motte, Joan Manley.

Spring Is Here! Mosquitoes Are Too

Bothered by insect bites lately? With spring scarcely underway, entomologists at the U. of M. have discovered a new species of mosquito in Belchertown.

This brings to 42 the number of true mosquitoes known to occur in Massachusetts. All but two species hunger for you at mealtime.

In addition, this new arrival may be on the prowl when less hardy relatives are grounded by cold weather. Its only other known habitats are Alaska and Labrador.

Senate President Files Complaint To General Court Questioning Legality

The recommended rule change allowing campus women to attend certain unchaperoned weekend mixed social functions has been rejected by Dean Helen Curtis, according to Senate President Alan R. Pehrson.

In a letter to the General Court of the Student Government Association, President Pehrson requested action on the legality of the action taken on the recommendation. "It is my belief that this matter has not been considered through the proper channels as required by the laws governing the Student Government and the Student Life Committee," wrote Pehrson. He continued, "I herewith file a complaint with the General Court requesting that they determine the legality of the actions taken to date in regard to this matter."

The joint student-faculty Student Life Committee recommended that the rule change become effective on approval of the Women's Affairs Committee of the Senate, which organization did approve it on March 25, according to Pehrson. The letter explains that the matter was "then transmitted to the Dean of Women for approval as required by the Student Government Constitution."

Dean Curtis disapproved of the recommendation, and it was referred back to the Women's Affairs Committee where it is now being reconsidered.

The General Court met last night to deliberate Pehrson's complaint of April 2, and the results were announced over station WMUA.

Dean Curtis' Statement

Late Wednesday afternoon, Dean Helen Curtis issued the following statement to the Collegian concerning this question of chaperones.

"It is the responsibility of the Committee on Women's Affairs to vote regulations which will promote conditions on campus, conducive to the best standards and they should be hesitant to change policies that might mean a lowering of the standards."

Emphasizing the many sides to the question, she stressed the fact that we must deeply consider any action we take. The prevalent custom, she added, in college fraternities across the country is to include chaperones at any mixed social event.

She added that it has always been the procedure in the past when questions of this type arose to include the Women's Judiciary Board, House Chairmen, Sorority Presidents and sometimes the Housemother in an informal discussion of the matter before it was voted upon.

Events and Action to Date

The rule change was passed by the Student Life committee with the provision that it be approved by the Women's Affairs committee of the senate before it was final. However, any action of the Women's Affairs committee must be approved by the dean of women before it becomes valid. This committee approved the action of Student Life at their regular meeting Mar. 25. The following day Dean Curtis reversed this decision on the grounds that there should be

Frats Choose Queens - To - Be

With Greek Week nearing, the Inter-Fraternity Council has been completing the final plans which they hope will aid in establishing the tradition of Greek Week as one of the biggest social functions of the year on this campus.

Candidates for queen of the Greek Ball were announced this week by the Ball committee. The following girls were nominated by the fraternities: A.E.Pi, Lois Lesberg; Alpha Gamma Rho, Gwendolyn Card; A. T. G. and Sigma Delta Chi, Pat Duffy; Kappa Sigma, Bobbie Mitchell; Kappa Kappa Sally Marsh; Lambda Chi Alpha, Freddy Dole; Phi Sigma Kappa, Carol Hartley; Q. T. V., Barbara Brown; S. A. E., Jacqueline McCarthy; Theta Chi, Shirley Stevens; T. E. P., Ina Melamed; Z. Z. Z., Shirley Mitchell; and Sigma Phi Epsilon, Jean Hale.

An elimination vote will be held on Thursday, April 17 in the fraternities. The three finalists will be known as Aphrodite, Athena, and Hera and will be introduced to the campus during Greek Week at the skits, sing, and the dec.

The committee is planning a unique method of introducing the queen this year who will be known as Helen.

The committee for the 1952 Greek Ball is headed by co-chairmen Larry Miller and Ed Craig who will be assisted by Morton Geller, Frank Hadley, Norm Silcox, Al Wakstein, and Clint Wells.

O'Donnell and Rose Secure Ford Awards

Two members of the U. of M. faculty have been awarded Ford Foundation Fellowships from the fund for the advancement of education. They are Dr. William G. O'Donnell, associate professor of English, and Israel Rose, assistant professor of mathematics.

The terms of the award grant a year's leave of absence from the U. of M. to pursue a course of study and research in connection with the recipients' major fields. Both professors will take their leave during the next academic year, Dr. O'Donnell to pursue research work in American literature at Harvard University and Prof. Rose to pursue research in the application of modern techniques to mathematics courses, principally the history of mathematics, a modern geometry course, and a new freshman course aimed at non-science, non-mathematics majors.

Comments on Miss Curtis' Disapproval

1. Dean Curtis is ultimately responsible for rules governing the conduct of the women on campus. Whenever any trouble arises, the parents of the young woman involved will, in many cases, hold the dean responsible though they usually have only themselves, if anyone, to blame.

2. Aside from this consideration of responsibility, there is nothing we can see that would prompt a disapproval of the proposal to allow unchaperoned mixed dinners at fraternity houses.

3. If college women or men are to get into trouble, they can do so anywhere, even at a social affair where chaperones are present. Those who break the rule will break it anyway as deans well know.

4. The fraternities need a chance to prove themselves. We firmly believe that social pressure within the house and the pride of the members will result in better conduct than any chaperones could effect. Fraternity men realize that closing of the houses or expulsion of a member would come from any infractions of proper conduct.

5. The rule would be in effect for a trial period of six weeks this spring. Is there any objection to giving young men and women a chance to show they can and will act responsibly?

6. Possibly the rule in the past has been impractical. If Suzy Q. from home comes into the fraternity house at 11 a.m. Sunday without having previously told Jim she would be in to visit, Jim cannot throw her out. Neither can he find a chaperone for a one o'clock dinner.

7. We will not, after all, be leading "sheltered lives" all our lives. College is supposedly a training for later life. Men and women of our own age who do not attend college are out on their own and manage quite well.

8. Most people will act decently if only we trust them. If we do not, they are more bound to act as we fear they will. Forbid a group of college women to drink and they will drink just for the sake of drinking whereas, otherwise, it never would have entered their minds.

9. The deans would like the student body to trust them, to believe that they favor self-government as much as possible for the students and that they act in the interests of the students. How can they expect the students to have faith in them when they have so little in the students?

10. Faculty guests are always "invited guests". This might be a good opportunity to see just how welcome they are. Perhaps they will be even more welcome.

11. The Student Life Committee report stated that the rule would go into effect if the Women's Affairs Committee of the Senate approved it. They did approve it.

We Will Keep Faith

We feel the fraternities' petition to the president of the University requesting that bars be kept in the houses is justified.

1. Insofar as we can determine, retaining the bars would be legal.

2. The fraternity houses have the right to determine what the furnishings of each individual house shall be.

3. There can be no objection to bars being used for dispensing soda pop or snacks.

4. The fraternities installed the bars at their own expense. They must also remove them at their own expense. This is a definite financial burden.

5. Fraternity men realized the necessity for the Student Life Committee ruling. They accepted it. They will not revert to the old practice simply because the bars remain in the fraternities.

6. The University, of course, has control over each student here since it can determine the basis for entrance and withdrawal of students. However, the president and the deans will say they favor self government. The petition says in effect that the opportunity of students to take responsibility would be needlessly curtailed. We agree.

What we need to strive for is greater freedom with stiffer penalties for abuse of that freedom. This is education for citizenship in a free society.

Education - For What?

On page 1 appears a story about faculty and staff members being required to take a first aid course.

Suggestion: why not require first aid of all women students on campus? There is now offered a first aid course but few have the time to elect it. If it were compulsory, it would be taken and not half so much objected to as some of the gym classes—modern dance, for example. Most women students take modern dance only because they have to get a dance requirement in somewhere. A few like it; most consider it a waste of time.

The first aid requirement could be met in the eight periods of gym which now have only four requirements, most of which can be satisfied in one gym semester. There is more need for first aid than for modern dance.

We are not by any means trying to tell the women's phys. ed. department what to do. This is offered, however, as a suggestion for which there is a definite need—always, not just in wartime. How many times have we seen someone faint and 20 people stand staring at the person on the ground, not knowing what to do?

And then we call ourselves educated!

Coke Bottles and Dusty Floors

Mills men now receive periodic visits from men who inspect their rooms for dusty floors and count the number of Coke bottles left around the rooms.

It is believed the men are paid for doing so, and then making a report to the head proctor who, in turn, gives each proctor a list of men with dusty floors, unmade beds, and Coke bottles.

If this is true, we ask you—how can we have patience with reports that the grounds department cannot lay sidewalks because they are short-handed when men such as these have nothing better to do?

Tsk, tsk, tsk! We go not from the sublime to the ridiculous, but even beyond this to the super-ridiculous.

Finances and Controls

Two major considerations enter into the problem of fraternity housemothers: the expense involved and "control by the administration".

Financially there is not only the need for remodeling the house and depriving three or four members of rooms in the house but also the salary that must be paid the housemother. The proposed housemother is referred to as a "figurehead"; that is, a woman who would not have a voice in the policies of the house. Her main advantages would be the receiving of guests, the raising of moral standards, general better living conditions, and the "woman's touch". We wonder, however: if the housemother is to be this figurehead, what is the use of putting money into remodeling of the house and into a salary for her? We can see the advantages, but we believe the expense would be too great for the advantages obtained.

The women on campus generally feel there is not a great need for fraternity housemothers. For the raising of moral standards, several have suggested housemothers in the freshman and sophomore men's dormitories—one on every floor would probably be needed.

It is reported that visitors to the campus (not personal friends, but newspapermen, etc.) are shocked by the crowded conditions in the fraternities and the consequent sloppiness. The remedy for this condition, if it is such, would be an addition to the house. A housemother might help to some extent, but she cannot make the house any less crowded. The fraternity cannot afford the addition and must accept a certain number of men in the interests of breaking even financially. Have the people who objected to crowded fraternities—outsiders, members of the faculty and administration—ever looked at the freshman men's dormitories this year and last year?

It is said that the "administration" would submit to the houses an approved list of women available for the position. Who specifically in the administration—Dean Curtis, Dean Hopkins, or President Van Meter or all three? What the fraternities, and the whole campus could use would be specific, clear information rather than vague generalities—not only in this matter, but in every matter.

Would the fraternities be free to discharge this housemother if they so desired?

Dr. Helming of the Student Life Committee says the housemothers would not act as policemen for the University. There are always, however, meetings of housemothers. It seems logical that the same would happen with these housemothers. The one big question in the final analysis outside of expenses is "control by the administration" leading possibly to ultimate abolition of fraternities.

In regard to the situation at present, we feel a house should go ahead and accept the housemother if the advantages for them would outweigh the disadvantages. Theta Chi should not be regarded as "apple-polishers" of the administration by any means for they have the facilities easily adaptable to a housemother. Kappa Sig and Tri-Zeta, for the same reasons, reportedly lean toward acceptance of housemothers.

A fraternity should not, however be forced into accepting a housemother if they do not desire one—whether in five years or ten years, they still should not be forced into it. The Student Life Committee ruling was a question of legality—this is not.

Rather than housemothers, would not a housemother-cook be the solution to the problem and be much

The solution? Put the infirmary on the priority list for new buildings! The place was fine and well-equipped and staffed when there were 1500 students on campus. If there isn't any money, there can't be anything bought or built!!

Why should any doctor come here full time? The starting salary for a senior physician, according to secretary of the University Burke, is $6,780, with implements of $300 yearly for the next three years, and another raise after 7 years with another after 11. When asked if he thought this would be enough to induce a young doctor to come here, Mr. Burke explained that he felt there were two types of doctors: those who want private practice (with its much greater personal and financial remuneration) and those who want institutional security. The latter is probably the only factor that will keep a doctor here. Let's make him earn his money; that is, visit the infirmary when you need treatment, but bear with him at the same time. He'll be working for UM along with us for what we need.

more acceptable to the men? A woman employed as housemother alone would have time galore on her hands and actually be paid for not much of anything. A combination of housemother and cook, however, would be of great help to the fraternities in accomplishing all that a housemother would and more besides.

Vote On Housemothers

At the March 22 meeting of fraternity advisors and corporation officers with University officials, it was voted that "those fraternities which now have adequate quarters for a housemother undertake to employ such a person by September 1952 and that the other fraternities refer the matter to their corporations in the near future and that they subsequently inform the President of the University of the date by which it can be expected that a housemother will be employed."

SAE Clinches League A Title; AEPi, TC Meet For Second

Facing a weak Tri-Zeta quintet, SAE rolled over their opposition to finish their second undefeated intra-mural season of the year and clinch the League A crown in so doing.

Meanwhile, Theta Chi romped over QTV 46-24 as three of the Theta Chi starters hit for double figures. Casey was high with 15 points followed by Watts with 14 and Stutzman with 13. The win gave Theta Chi undisputed possession of third place with a chance to tie for second in their game with second place AEPi last night.

A surprisingly strong TEP squad sprang an upset over Kappa Sig on Tuesday night to drop the losers out of a third place tie with Theta Chi.

The final standings in League B saw the East Experiment Station and the Independents end in a first place tie with Brooks in third place.

League C found the Castoffs racking up an undefeated season to clinch first followed by the Grads in second and a third place tie between Berkshire B and Plymouth A.

The standings:

League B—Final Standings

East Experiment	9-1	.900*
Independents	8-1	.888*
Brooks	7-2	.777
Chadbourne B	5-3	.625
Mills B	5-6	.454
Theta Chi B	4-5	.445
Plymouth B	4-5	.445
Middlesex A	3-7	.300
Berkshire A	2-8	.200
Kappa Sigma B	1-7	.125

League C—Final Standings

Castoffs	10-0	1.000
Grads	8-2	.800

There will be a playoff for the league crown after vacation. The Independents' final opponent was disqualified.

It was at this point that senate president Pehrson intervened and submitted his request to the General Court.

time, it isn't impossible to see him chalking up those wins alongside Kroeck and Corkum. He and Swanson both know their way around that old hill, both boys are cockey and Ty Cobb would have nothing to say against them.

BIG BATS BOOM BLANK

Aside from the fact that Pasteris poled a long ball, the other batters haven't looked too impressive. However, it's a bit too early to say there's something wrong. Two days in the sun is no criterion for judging a ball club.

KICKING UP DUST

Wed. was rather dismal and the 'Earl' called practice indoors. This practice session started all the observers jumping to conclusions. In the infield, was Pasteris at first, and Bob Akerson, last year's shortstop, was alternating with Mr. Pivot, Ray Gunn, at the middle sack. Bob Pedigree, smooth working shortstop, covered the short field. Rabaioli and Doherty still battle for third, Smitty is fooling around out in the pastures, leaving Burns and Devicenzo to combat behind the dish.

Do you know what the starting lineup's going to be? Neither do we! Yet we do know that whatever the coach decides, the university will be pleased to field this club.

THE AX IS SWUNG

In the interim, have a good vacation and if you can't take part in a sport, be one anyway.

UM Pistol Team 7th In Country

The U. of M. varsity pistol team finished their 1951-52 season ranking 7th in the country after 10 weeks of competitive shooting against some of the top teams in the country: Coast Guard, West Point, Oregon State, and Annapolis.

Before the close of the season, the Redmen lost to West Point 915-1015 in a shoulder to shoulder match at the Academy. Coach Joe Rogers will lose four of his top men due to graduation this year—Dick Hames, George Serpis, Fred Creed, and Bob Smith.

Next season, much will depend on juniors Don Kallgren and Ken Alves, sophomore Joe Rogers, Jr., and freshman Ira Nottonson.

THE LADY AND THE LAW

That applies not only to evolution, but to the psychology of dress. A woman, for instance, desires to be different not only from other women, but from herself. Even if a girl can't change her face, one good way of changing her pace is by varying her wardrobe.

A campus version of this quick-change act is the "7 Color" Sweater Wardrobe. By wearing a different sweater in a different color every day of the week, you give your appearance a refreshing lift constantly. Be Happy-GO LUCKY!

I play my trumpet here in school; My roommates raise a howl— But when I give them Lucky Strike, They smile instead of scowl!

Gerald Osheroff, Harvard University

In a cigarette, taste makes the difference— and Luckies taste better!

The difference between "just smoking" and really enjoying your smoke is the taste of a cigarette. You can taste the difference in the smoother, mellower, more enjoyable taste of a Lucky ... for two important reasons. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco ... fine, mild tobacco that tastes better. Second, Luckies are made to taste better ... proved best-made of all five principal brands. A Note of Explanation

Those who are wondering about ... two pages today, we should like ... plain that funds dictated to us ... between a six-page issue Fri... with none today or the regular ... on Friday with two today. We ... we should give advance coverage ... veral events occurring in the first ... of the week—Newman Club re... Eugene Conley Concert, United ... trip, as well as notices of ... ings—and to two very important ... coming up this weekend: ... Day and International Week.

Incidentally, before we start griping ... were we one of the minority of ... ents who voted on the referen... last year providing increased ... to the Collegian? Or were we ... azy to vote? Invariably those ... did not take the time to vote are ... who complain the fastest and ... loudest.

And a mere 50 per cent of the student body voted, there might have been a six-page and a four-page issue each week—as we had last year—or even two six-pages per week. The staff would be eager to put out 10 pages or 12 pages a week instead of eight. It would mean no more work since we discard 50 per cent of what we could use to advantage due to lack of space—even when we print notices in small type and eliminate mastheads and columns. More space would mean that the staff could serve the campus to greater advantage.

Last year the cost of paper for the Collegian went up 33 per cent. A 25 per cent increase in the tax from $2 to $2.50 would have given your newspaper approximately the same tax support as the Collegian of last year. As it is, we have been operating under increase in costs plus decrease in appropriations.

Amherst College has a $3 tax; ours at present is $2.

How about it: will we care enough this year to vote sufficient funds for what can and should be one of the most powerful forces for student expression and action or will we slit our own throats again later this spring when the Senate will consider the budget?

Gala Week Highlights Spring; Greeks Reveal '52 Schedule

Next week the Greeks will take over the campus for the annual delight week of Greek activities. Starting on Monday and going right through Saturday, the frat men and sorority women will vie in the annual competitions and enjoy the new and improved Greek Week.

The events begin on Monday at 7:30 in Bowker with the Fraternity sing. All fifteen houses will be competing for the first three prizes, so important in fraternity competition.

Tuesday evening will find the sororities vieing in the Sing and declamation.

The houses take over Bowker again Wed. at 6:30 for the Skit competition. If these are of the same caliber as present trends seem to indicate they should be really worthwhile this year.

Friday night the annual ball takes place, highlighted by the crowning of Queen Helen, a brand new feature this year. The ball will have dancing from 9 p.m.-1 a.m. with Billy Butterfield's orchestra in the Northampton High School Gym.

Saturday night the most novel and interesting innovation of the Week will take place. Queen Helen will present plaques to the winners of the competition events at the college. The chairman for each event will be responsible to keep the winner of each event a deep dark secret before the presentations are made.

The IFC and the Panhell council have really gone all out to make Greek Week a really big social affair of the year. From the plans at present it looks as if they have succeeded.

Pres. Truman to Miss the Opener; Lorden To Toss Out First Ball

Well, come this Wednesday, the Lordenmen journey to Storrs in the Nutmeg state to do battle with a powerful UCONN nine. This game will not only open the 1952 U of M baseball season, but will be the initial clash of what might be a championship Yankee Conference Team.

On the Friday before vacation, your reporter had occasion to watch the home team in a pre-season game with Westover. The score at the end of nine innings showed the U of M 3, Westover, 0. Corkum pitching five innings, struck out 8 men and gave up a total of zero hits. Bob Kroeck gave up only one hit for the rest of the route.

Big Don Smith, Howie Burns, Paul DiVencenzo, Bill Bakey, Ray Gunn and Bob Pedigree all contributed one or more hits to the attack. The reason for the low score was some extremely poor base running. This, however, should no longer be evident since this "baptism under fire."

The starting lineup Wednesday will probably be as follows. (Ed. Note: Ted Williams is not starting)

John Pasteris '54	1b
Ray Gunn '52	2b
Bob Pedigree '54	ss

1952 Retreat In Progress Wed. Thru Fri.

The 1952 Newman Club retreat begins tomorrow and continues through Friday, Apr. 18. One of the best known retreat masters in the eastern states, the Rev. William J. Donaghy, S. J., will direct the three-day event.

The daily retreat program will start with Mass in St. Brigid's Church at 6:30 a.m., continue with a conference in O.C. Aud. at 5 p.m., and conclude with an evening service in St. Brigid's Church at 7:30.

A Communion breakfast will be held on Sunday, Apr. 20, in Greenough Cafeteria at 10 a.m. when the Rev. John Harrington, chancellor of the Springfield diocese, will be the speaker.

Students from both the U. of M and Amherst College will be making this retreat here.

200 U. M. Students To Attend U. N. Fri.

Over 225 University students have tentatively signed up to take the one-day United Nations trip on Friday, Apr. 18, sponsored by the International Relations Club.

Those who have signed MUST stop at Mem Hall Lounge between 3 and 5:30 p.m. tomorrow, Apr. 16, to pay their $4.25 transportation fee. Any signee not paying this fee at the stated time will be unable to make the trip. Due to a limitation of busses, only 200 of those who signed will be able to go. Tickets will be given Wednesday afternoon at Mem Hall on a "first come, first serve" basis. All information concerning the trip will be given at that time.

Any student who did not sign in advance and who still wishes to go may do so, provided the 200 student quota is not filled by 5:30 Wednesday. Those students MUST report at Mem Hall Lounge from 5:30 to 6 p.m. Wednesday, Apr. 16.

Remember, absence slips will be granted by the Dean's Office for those definitely attending the trip, and blanket permissions for girls will be provided on request.

Court Defines Standings Of Senate Groups

In a heated three-hour session last Thursday, the General Court of the University gave their decision on a case submitted by Bob Pehrson, president of the Student Senate. Pehrson challenged the legality of the action taken by the Student Life Committee in referring the proposed change in 25 chaperone rule to the Womens' Affairs committee.

In a carefully framed decision, the court decided: 1.) all committees of the Senate, including the Student Life and Womens' Affairs committees, are responsible to the Senate 2.) a committee may not redele a its powers and 3.) the proposed change falls solely within the jurisdiction of the Student Life Committee. The court suggested that the proposed rule change be reconsidered by the Student Life Committee and referred to the Student Senate for approval.

It seems that the perennial question of the position of the Student Life Committee in Student Government structure has at last been determined. Student Life is a committee of the Student Senate and is therefore responsible to it. The court readily admitted the power of the Womens' Affairs committee for independent action in matters pertaining strictly to women.

This is one of the first major problems of constitutional interpretation which the court has faced. Several ambiguous and contested points were cleared up by the decision.

USAF Announces New Requirements

The USAF has announced the eligibility requirements for its aviation cadet pilot, navigator, and single observer programs. Juniors and seniors may qualify for the cadet program without obligation during the school semester and enter into cadet training after graduation. The five-hour mental exam and the moral interview board have been eliminated for men with two or more years of college to speed up processing of cadet applications, thereby allowing men to qualify by passing the physical exam at Wes over AFB.

Successful completion of these two qualifying phases gains for the applicant a letter of deferment effective on the date of completion of the coordination tests, as well as a letter of acceptance as a qualified aviation cadet with which the applicant may enlist for a 2-year period, the same as that required by Selective Service. Qualified applicants who decide to take advantage of air cadet opportunities gain a $35,000 flying education in the year of training, win their wings and a commission with a starting salary of $5,000 per year.

Capt. Frank Chandler, representing the New England recruiting district, will be at the University in Mem Hall, second floor, to interview all interested juniors and seniors April 16-18 from 9 to 5 daily.

I. M. Basketball

Intramural basketball moves into the final playoff rounds this week as three teams battle it out for the intramural crown.

Prior to vacation, the East Experiment Station nosed out the Independents 31-30 in a playoff game to take the League B title. Gleason and Vanasse sparked the losers while Lou Kirsch brought the victors the win with a total of 18 points.

Last night, the East Experiment Station met the Castoffs in the semi-final round as SAE drew a bye into the finals. The winner of last night's game will meet SAE in the championship game tomorrow night.

An. Hus. Club

There will be a meeting of the Anhus Club tonight in Bowditch Lodge at 7.

No. Not Again! ! Metawampe Is Gone

Metawampe has disappeared again and this time not even Dean Hopkins knows where the ill-fated Indian is.

Since the last outbreak of vandalism when the butt of the gun and one of the legs were damaged, Metawampe has been locked up in the power plant. No one knew of his whereabouts, however, since Dean Hopkins' only comment was that he was hidden.

Metawampe was recently put into a crate to be sent to surgery to South Deerfield to the sculptor who cast him. When the grounds department personnel checked into work on Wednesday morning, Apr. 13, they found the crate had been broken into and Metawampe kidnapped during the night of Apr. 9.

The men won't have to worry about washing paint off Metawampe for a while, at least not until he reappears—if he does.

Students, Faculty Await Spring Day

Starting at 1 p.m. next Saturday, Apr. 19, U. of M. students and faculty will gather at the rifle range for the annual Spring Day under the sponsorship of the junior class. The committee has planned softball games, clambake events, square dancing, volleyball games, and a professional jazz concert to climax the afternoon.

The five-inning softball games will be student-faculty affairs, coed, married versus single men, and the fraternities versus the independents. All may participate by contacting house social chairmen, interdorm representatives, or department heads. The names of those playing in the student-faculty game will be chosen from a hat two days before. It is hoped that President Van Meter will be the chief umpire and that Ed Jazzinski will assist him.

Entered in the poll are all the proposals made to date for possible uses of the area. Students are asked to check those projects they would like to see created and to list any suggestions for other possible projects.

The poll will be collected tonight following the concert by representatives from each housing unit. The results will be tabulated by the class in public relations and then examined by the Toby committee who will base their future plans on what the students want in relation to the possibilities.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I still think the senior class gift was a poor choice.

There are several reasons for this opinion, but here's the major one: such a gift is only worth-while as long as it is properly maintained, which will require a great deal of labor. The University can't even build necessary sidewalks; how will they get the necessary labor to maintain such a garden?

It has been argued that we have been promised that these gardens will be maintained. I can only say that if they are maintained as well as our roads, lawns, sidewalks, library, and buildings, anyone who wishes to observe the beauties of our class gift will have to blast his way through with a flame-thrower.

Dick Lettis

(Editor's Note: Perhaps the class of '53 will purchase the flame-thrower. Or perhaps we shouldn't suggest this for someone surely will.

There are many of us who think a better choice could have been made. The president asked the class not to deride the choice made: we cannot resist noting, however, that had it been a better choice, no one would think of deriding it.

Mr. Delaney mentioned at the class meeting there were hard feelings. We think it was not so much the gift that gave rise to the hard feelings but the attitude of some seniors present—and we are not referring to all those who voted for Wilder when we say that. The group to whom we are referring know very well who we mean. Had their attitude verged upon ignorance, it would have been bad enough; rather, it came close to insanity.

This group knows just all there is to know, it seems. In fact, they know too much. These people didn't need to consider the function of the garden, the view, and the choice of location. This group doesn't care who maintains the gardens—why should they? They'll be gone come June and then the grounds department has another headache on its hands. If the personnel hadn't spent so much time cleaning paint off Metawampe, etc., they might have had some time to lay a couple of sidewalks.

As for Mr. Holmes, he will find much to his amazement and disillusionment perhaps, after his graduation, that we are Victorian but the rest of the world is contemporary. If he cares to know why we say this, we will be only too glad to tell him why.

It is astonishing that we can't seem To learn anything from those who have failed before us but have to do it through our own bitter experience. It is also astonishing to see how the character of students is revealed when they pop up without being recognized by the president to throw in their two bits' worth while someone else has the floor. Common courtesy is a thing that should be learned long before college.

Whoever made the suggestion to divide $600 among the seniors ought to be ashamed to call himself a member of this University, let alone the class of '52: if that's the kind of alumni we produce, no wonder the state legislature hesitates to appropriate funds for higher education.

Something else that invariably happens: those who do nothing for the University over a period of four years, suddenly, by sheer force of numbers, manage to determine class policies. Those who have a sincere interest in the University are in the minority.

Now that we have Wilder, let's hope this group can act with Mr. Holmes in the way they should have had they been "big" enough to do so in the first place. It is not often that a class has a president who deserves so much time and thought to the class functions and who comes up with excellent ideas like that of alumni support for the University. He deserves the utmost cooperation and now that the controversial class gift is over, perhaps the seniors can act harmoniously and sensibly with him in a manner befitting seniors of a university.

People are not bitter without cause. Yet we are not so bitter that we cannot hope for better from these people who almost led us to believe that our view of human nature was not cynical enough, and not so bitter that we cannot hope our doubts about Wilder were unfounded.)

Lost: approximately 100 jackasses lost from various parts of Massachusetts four years ago.
Found: all 100 showed up at 11 a.m. on Thursday, Apr. 3, in Goessmann Auditorium.

Spring Day . . .

The clambake events will include buy-girl wheelbarrow races, pie-eating contests, potato-sack races, and the three-legged race.

Volleyball contests will be for men and women and for Greeks vs. independents.

The cooperation of the students is asked for no fires, no glass, parking only in marked areas, the placing of refuse in the receptacles provided, and no cases and kegs. This is not a dry affair, and to insure its success and continuation, the committee has requested that drinking be curbed from what it has been in the past.

Food for the evening meal will be supplied by the dining halls upon payment of 35 cents to the dormitory representative.

Infirmary Capacity Shown Inadequate

Poor Conditions of Health Services Brought to Light

By Joe Kenmore

Campus health facilities about 1935 consisted of two old buildings (now the out-patient and isolation wards), one nurse, and a housekeeper. Shortly after, a doctor was provided and an additional building added—an old stable moved next to the two existing buildings and converted into what is now our infirmary. The student body then numbered less than our present freshmen class.

We had then a good infirmary for a small college. We still do. The only thing is that the college grew.

During the year '40-'41, the infirmary treated 253 bed-patients who spent 1070 days at the infirmary; 4,726 persons were treated as out-patients. As of March 29 this year 555 bed-patients and 5,759 out-patients have already been cared for.

Difficulty of Comparison

Facilities offered here cannot easily be compared with those on other campuses. Probably better than 90% of UM students are within 100 miles of their homes; the students can therefore be sent home without too much difficulty in cases requiring hospital treatment. This means that less elaborate facilities are required here than if the students came from distant homes.

No charge is made for ordinary health services; it is correct, then, to compare our services with those offered where students are charged a health fee.

Like the Army

The fairest comparison that could be made would be with conditions in the Armed Services, our infirmary operated on the same premise—you are either sick enough to be in bed or you are well enough to be in class. The in-between cases must be handled in a daily clinic because this is the only feasible way to assure the maximum use of available facilities.

The hospital bed-population ratio of the armed services is about 3.5 to 1,000. For us, since we are coeducational, the ratio should be at least 5 to 1,000.

Sufficient Beds, But . . .

A conservative estimate of our bed capacity would be 25. We have 25 beds, but this estimate holds true only if no contagious cases of emergency arise. In our isolation ward, which has six beds divided between separate rooms, only two different types of contagious diseases could be

Fine Arts Council Sponsors Lecturer

"Excavations on Samothrace", an illustrated lecture by Archaeologist Phyllis Lehmann of Smith College will be the next Fine Arts Council attraction at the U. of M. The lecture, open to the public, will be in Skinner Auditorium on Apr. 24 at 8 p.m.

Miss Lehmann is the author of several books and articles on Greek and Roman art and archaeology. She is a graduate of Wellesley College and holds a Ph.D degree from New York University. Before coming to Smith in 1946, she was curatorial assistant in the Brooklyn Museum, instructor in the history of art at Bennett Junior College and assistant editor of "The Art Bulletin" for a year.

Conley Concert Well Received; Last This Year

By Will Richter

Eugene Conley, world-famous tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Association, closed the current concert series Tuesday night with one of the finest recitals ever heard on this campus. Mr. Conley's resonant voice was easily heard from any point in the Curry Hicks Cage, and his varied program was received with enthusiasm by the large audience.

Particularly appealing were his interpretations of favorite Puccini, Mozart, and Verdi arias, and the traditional Irish ballad, "The Garden Where the Praties Grow". Generous with encores, Mr. Conley offered five: Schubert's "Serenade", Verdi's "Questa o Quella", from RIGOLETTO, Massenet's "Ma Reve", from MANON, "Danny Boy", "The Ballynure Ballad", and "I Hear You Calling Me".

Eugene Conley, like his friend Dorie Alviani, (they sang together professionally for several years) possesses an appealing personality, which combined with a rich tenor voice, provided warm rapport with his audience at all times. To recount the entire program would be pointless; simply let it stand that Mr. Conley sang an inspired and inspiring concert and made many friends here.

Solons Approve New Class Election Plan

The Student Senate put its stamp of approval on a constitutional amendment this week which provides for the election of class officers in the spring.

The proposal, which must be approved by the president of the university and by the student body provides that: "Sophomore, Junior, and Senior class officers shall be elected by secret ballot not prior to the second week and not later than the fourth week of April, but shall not assume office until the first week of the following fall semester. The term of office will run until September of the following school year.

"The freshman class officers shall be elected by secret ballot within eight weeks of the beginning of the fall semester to serve until the following September."

This change, which has been discussed for over a year, is being proposed in order that the election of officers is not dragged out until the first semester is almost over. Under the present system the class officers are not elected until after the senate has finished its organization, which takes at least five weeks. Many times it takes almost two months for the senate to get organized.

The students will be asked to decide this matter in a special election later this month.

The new constitution for the Macoon Key was passed by the Activities Committee of the Student Senate and subsequently by the senate itself.

Under the provisions of this document the Key joins the other three honorary societies in becoming a self perpetuating group.

The Key is meeting almost every night interviewing candidates for the twenty man group. The final selection will be made within two weeks and the new members will be installed at a special taping ceremony.

Redmen Drop Opener On 3 Run Fifth

The varsity baseball team went down to an opening game defeat at the hands of defending Conference champion Connecticut 5-3 at Storrs as the Huskies jumped on starter Chet Corkum for three hits, a walk, and an error by Doherty to score 3 runs and clinch the win. The loss was the second in two years by Corkum to UConn.

Hardy Awarded Ec Fellowship

Dr. Harold E. Hardy, professor of business administration at the University of Massachusetts, has been awarded a fellowship in business for the coming summer by The Foundation for Economic Education, it was learned here recently.

The college-business exchange program enables professors to match some of theories and beliefs with the actual experience of business executives. More than 60 leading firms in the United States cooperate in the program.

Dr. Hardy will use the grant to pursue research in the field of marketing. He holds the B.A. degree from Pomona College, and a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Minnesota where he was a teaching fellow. He taught formerly at the University of Missouri and at the University of Minnesota, and also spent 12 years in the marketing division of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana before he joined the University of Massachusetts faculty four years ago.

Legislature Passes $800,000 Bond Issue

Two Women's Dorms, Garages Next Building Corp. Project

The State Legislature authorized the issue of an $800,000 bond issue for the building of two new women's dormitories, according to the Springfield Union. Quoting Sen. Ralph Mahar of Orange, the Union said that this will bring the total for the UM Building Association to $4,600,000.

The bill, which was signed by the governor last week contains $20,000 for garages and $780,000 for the two new dorms.

This will bring to 11 the number of dormitories undertaken by this association. All of the buildings are entirely self-supporting. The amount charged to the students for living in these dorms is just enough to cover the amortization of the bond issues.

The building association leases the land for these dorms from the state and issues bonds to cover the costs of construction. The students, through their room rent, pay off the bonds and interest. When the buildings are paid for they revert to the state.

Total land leased by the state now amounts to 19 acres under control of the Building Association. The membership in the Association is limited by law to the officers, faculty and alumni of the university.

The association was established in 1939 and authorized to make a $540,000 bond issue. In 1945, they were given approval for another $500,000. In 1946, the General Court approved $400,000 more. In 1948, $1,500,000 was approved; in 1950, $800,000 more.

The U. of M. World Student Service Fund Drive will get under way next week with the beginning of solicitations on Apr. 28. Contributions will continue to be taken through the Mardi Gras on May 10. The list of queen candidates is incomplete but will be released soon.

W.S.S.F. is based on the conviction that education for international understanding is an integral part of the relief enterprise and is working to promote the extension of material aid, the mutual sharing of knowledge and experience in dealing with basic university problems, and the bringing together of students and teaching staff without discrimination of race, religion, or political opinion.

A Happy Medium

Spring Day will be here Saturday. The junior class and notably Red Bakey, Shelley Saltman, Milt Neusner, Dick Casey, Blitz Walter, Doris Goodfader, Eileen Toner, Norma Regis, Frank Donovan, Stan Kramer, Sumner Shore, Bettina Hollis, and Priscilla Ordway have worked hard to make it a success. All indications are that it will be the most enjoyable and most successful of all years.

If the students act responsibly (and they can do so and still have barrells of fun), there is no reason to believe that Spring Day will once more be a day set aside in the academic calendar. Four years ago, Spring Day was a tradition: the chapel bells would ring at noon and students and faculty would take off to the hills or just relax. It was anticipated with great pleasure. Abuses of the holiday by a minority of students through wild beer parties led to its discontinuance.

Perhaps the majority will rule this time to prove that the best Spring Day of all is one that is a happy medium between a monastic picnic and an orgy.

Your Opportunity

The topic of the International Weekend of April 19 and 20 will be "Can Democracy Satisfy the Needs of the World Today?"

This brings to mind one striking actuality—that college students think on problems a great deal more than adults think they do, but on basic questions they seldom know what they believe or why. Why are we Protestants rather than Catholics or Catholics rather than Protestants or not all of the Hebrew religion? Or not all Mohammedans? How many of us know what the differences are in reality—not the differences that are rumored but the ones that actually exist? Why are we Democrats or why are we Republicans? "Because Dad is" is a poor answer. Do our actions prove we are Christians or do we just call ourselves Christians and proceed to act in a most un-Christian fashion?

What is democracy? Do we believe in it? If so, why? Is our conception of it any different from that of the other peoples of the world?

The truly educated person tries to find the answers rather than wait for them to drop from Heaven into his lap. Colleges should aim not only to teach students what to think, but more important, to teach them to think. Most students are content to find reasons for believing as they do.

Rather than engage in much long research, we will have an opportunity to find out at first hand the thoughts of representatives of other countries on this point. Until more people will have studied semantics, the best we can do is try to understand any fundamental differences, if there are any, in meanings of terms and then proceed from there. If we understood the attitude of other peoples, we should not make so many blunders in our own relationships with them. Nor would our State Department in Washington.

This is the first time that the U. of M. is playing host to international students from colleges of New England and New York. These guests will inevitably carry back with them impressions—good or bad. The quality of these impressions rests only with us. Here's a chance to study people—the most in eresting study there is—and a chance for publicity—good publicity as great as that offered by the Winter Carnival Week, perh ps greater even in the light of its relative importance to all of us living in an era of international misunderstanding when m n and women still strive for goodwill as advocated by Woodrow Wilson.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

The new regulation requiring the hiring of housemothers in all fraternities disturbs us very much. This is an extremely expensive problem, involving the cost of renovating and the added expense of her salary.

The proposed advantages are namely: 1. Raising of moral standards; 2. Better living conditions.

The men living in the houses are comprised mostly of juniors and seniors. The majority of these men are of age and are deemed old enough, according to law to take care of themselves.

If the Administration is so set upon raising moral standards, it is our opinion that they should begin with persons whose ideas and habits have not already been developed.

The houses are becoming more and more crowded of necessity. As the cost of living goes up, so must the income of the fraternity, for a fraternity is run essentially as a business and must make a profit or, at least, break even. The addition of men is thus essential in keeping a fraternity in the black. A housemother would necessitate housing more men in order to meet the added expense.

Would this further overcrowding of living quarters be considered an improvement by the Administration? Evidently, yes!

The American youth spends the first 18 years of his life at home under pettycoat control; as rightly it should be. We then have a small period of five to ten years of partial freedom when we may enjoy living as a group of men. Then we settle down for another 50-60 years under a pettycoat rule. Must we now give up our small amount of freedom to an Administrational league of pettycoat spies? This is a democratic country and supposedly a democratic campus. Are compulsory housemothers democratic? Definitely not! First it was cars, then liquor, now housemothers. What next?

Sincerely,
William H. Crowell '53 AGR
David Houston '54 AGR

Springfield Medical School

A special public hearing will be held in Springfield Apr. 24 on the multi-million dollar proposal calling for the establishment of a medical and dental school branch of the U. of M. in Springfield, Boston, or elsewhere.

Interest in the establishment of the school in the Springfield area has been so intense that the Springfield City Council has offered the State land for the schools free of charge.

The commission, headed by Sen. George J. Evans (R-Wakefield), investigating the proposal has held six meetings so far during which they have discussed organization and approach to the problems of establishment of a medical and dental school.

The two major problems under discussion have been the question of recruiting medical and dental personnel and the idea of establishing a commonwealth Medical Center which would be a "real active center of the healing arts".

Garages

Gov. Dever last Thursday, Apr. 4, signed the bill filed by Alden C. Brett, president of the Hood Rubber Company and a U.M. alumnus, allowing the State to lease two acres of land to the Mass. Building Ass'n for construction of $20,000 worth of garages here.

The measure was changed in the Senate so that the amount to be spent was limited to $20,000. Professors, instructors, teachers, and employees of the U. of M. living in University housing units will be able to hire these garages from the trustees.

IM Softball To Open April 28

Intramural softball will start on Monday, April 28 as entries for competing teams were announced today. Director Sid Kaufman announced that the following rules would apply for entries:

1. Only one team from each housing unit on campus will be allowed—one from each fraternity and dormitory. This rule is necessary due to the fact that there are only 17 playing dates and nine available diamonds.
2. All entries must be in to Mr. Kaufman by 4:00 p.m. on Monday, April 21, to allow time for scheduling.
3. First come, first served!

2 UM Players LeadNat'lRating

Two University varsity basketball players made their appearance in the final national small college basketball ratings received today.

Captain Bill Prevey finished 6th in the national scoring race with a 22.6 average. Top man in the standings was John O'Brien of Seattle University with a 23.4 average. Alan Schutts of Springfield College finished in a three way tie for seventh with a 22.5 average.

John MacLeod, veteran guard for the Redmen, finished with the dubious honor of ranking 7th in the country in most personal fouls committed as he committed 86 fouls in 21 games for a 4.09 average. The only other New Englander to make this list was Parker of New Hampshire with a 4.20 average in 29 games.

I am Industry—1952

Ushered into a new world,
I had a bustling, brawling, bruising youth.
I was a potential giant awakening in a world of giants.
People were hurt when I first stirred in life;
Then I grew and learned;
Then I matured and knew that
Though I work with water and metal and chemicals and fire,
I am more than these things.
I am the people's work!
I am the people's dream!
I am the people!

With maturity, I have grown, too, in social responsibility.
To the people.
To America!
And even to those beyond our shores.
My efforts are not in selfish interest;
Rather, all my brain and brawn strives for the good of the many.
I am the American way!

Now, I have sworn that these things shall be:
I shall deliver ever-better products to those who use my fruits!
I shall offer equal opportunity to those who work at my side
Whatever their race!
Whatever their creed!
Whatever their color!
Whatever their national origin!
I shall forever do my part to keep America great!

And why?
Because only in this way can I remain a healthy force in our free world.
For when I am healthy, America prospers.
And tyrants tremble before my might.

I am America's life-blood!
I am America's strength!
I am the bulwark of the World's freedom!

Infirmary . . .

handled at the same time. We lack separate isolation wards for men and women so that if only two men with measles and one girl with scarlet fever were admitted the present facilities would be inadequate.

Nurses

Even more serious than lack of physical facilities is the shortage of nurses. The infirmary is allowed four full-time nurses with provision for a temporary relief nurse. The nurses, however, are allowed only 40 hours per week and these hours must be worked within five consecutive days.

Under the same regulations a temporary nurse has been assigned to outpatient duty. One temporary nurse can hardly be considered adequate in view of the number of cases handled in the outpatient department. No definite provisions are made for replacing an incapacitated permanent nurse on short notice.

Red tape slows down getting the services of extra help in time of emergency. Permission must be obtained from Boston, the persons involved must all be X-rayed, etc. All this takes time and sometimes means dangerous delay. In the past, the faculty wives have come to the rescue.

Needs

One of the sharp needs is provision for separating the more serious cases from the minor ones. The lesser-ills can be adequately cared for in a ward, but the more serious cases deserve a special room. A room is also needed for observation cases when there is a possibility that the patient may have a communicable disease. It is hardly wise to place him in a ward and later find he has the measles.

The other needs, all of them critical, are; a new building to provide the necessary physical facilities, more nurses on the permanent basis, and more freedom from red tape in time of an emergency.

On the planning level is a possible suite in the new Public Health building to be used for out-patient service.

Tied Hands

At present, the infirmary does the best it can. Its hands are tied so to speak. It operates on a 40 hour week not because of selfish reasons, but because that is all it can do. Its services are available at all times for emergencies; minor ailments, however can be taken care of on a rigid schedule.

Varsity Netmen Open Against B.C. Monday

The varsity tennis team under the leadership of Coach Steve Kosakowski and Captain Bob Allen will open their roughest schedule on Monday when they meet a potent Boston College squad on the UMass courts.

With about three weeks of practice behind them in preparation for their 15 match schedule, the Redmen are rapidly rounding into shape. Although faced with the problem of a comparatively inexperienced club composed almost entirely of sophomores and freshmen, Coach Kosakowski is faced with a great rebuilding job.

As yet, he has not decided on his starters for Monday, but some of the men have proven themselves in practice. Led by Captain Allen, the starters will probably include John MacLeod, Clarence Simpson, and Mel Tucker. The remaining positions remain wide open.

Chess Club

The Chess Club will meet Sunday at 7 p.m. in the Commuter's Room of Mem Hall. Plans will be made for matches, tournament, and membership. All those interested in chess should come to this meeting.

Spfld. Union Enumerates Advantages Of Western Mass. Site Over Eastern

A public hearing will be held in Springfield on Thursday night by a special legislative commission studying the possibility of establishing a medical and dental branch of the University. Under a bill, which was introduced by Rep. Wilfred Mirsky (D-Boston). House chairman of the Education Committee, there would be a two year course in Medicine.

The bill provides that until a four-year course could be established, the medical school "shall cooperate with other medical schools so that those students who have satisfactorily completed the two-year course of instruction may transfer to such other schools to complete their education." The standards of the school would be set by the American Medical Association and "other recognized medical societies for grade A medical schools."

Springfield vs. Boston

The hearing in Springfield is being held to determine if the school should be established in Springfield or Boston. The city of Springfield has offered to grant land for the school to the state. The Springfield Union, in one of a series of editorials last week on the medical school, stated that the governor's office tends to favor the Boston site. The Union editorials favored the Springfield area.

One editorial pointed out that the "classes of several medical schools already in Boston are hard put to find patients," and that "the students of the Boston schools, despite the large

Greek Week — Sing, Skits, Ball & Declamation

by Glenn Barber

Greek Week activities got off to a flying start last night with the interfraternity sing. Tonight the sororities will have the spotlight as they compete for honors in the intersorority sing and declamation. Judging from past performances, this event will be worth witnessing.

Tomorrow night the fellows will again invade Bowker for the interfraternity skit competition, which will feature a variety of skits having such titles as "Pilgrims Regress," "Olympiad '52", and "Man".

Friday night will find all the Greeks in a mass exodus to Northampton to dance to the music of Billy Butterfield and his orchestra at the Greek Ball, at which the first queen of that event will be named.

Another innovation to Greek Week will be introduced on Saturday night when, at a rally near the College Pond, the winners of the week's activities will be revealed for the first time and presentations made to them.

The competition in the week's events promises to be keen, as the results will go a long way to determining the winners of the overall interfraternity competition for the year. Points for the sing and skits will be awarded on the basis of 20-14-7 to the top three houses in each event.

Going into Greek Week, the standings in fraternity competition were: SAE, 45 points; TC, 31; KS, 17½; AEPi, 17; SPE, 14; LCA, 7½.

Spring Day Remains Annual Affair and Dean Approves

THE JAZZ BAND puts a zippy touch into Spring Day at the Rifle Range. The highly successful events of last Saturday insured future Spring Days.

Spring Day will be an annual event in the future, as far as Dean Hopkins is concerned. The Dean disclosed this fact this morning in a statement in which he also said that the administration was pleased at the apparent success of Spring Day this year.

No serious damage or destruction of property has been reported, and the program of events planned by the committee went off very well.

The committee would like to express its thanks to the student body who cooperated with them so well to make the event a success. They would also like to thank the Maroon Key who handled the parking problem.

In addition to those named last week, Knoby Nolan and Joe Daly served on the committee.

FCC Grants FM To UM Through WMUA

Last week, the FCC granted an educational FM broadcasting license to UM's radio station, WMUA. FM programming is being planned before the opening of school next semester since conversion from carrier-current would take the rest of the present semester.

The trustees of the U. of M. made application for the FM license early this year for a three-fold purpose: 1. to set up an entirely legal means of broadcasting educational programs; 2. to increase transmission power and to develop a larger off-campus audience; 3. to overcome carrier-current reception difficulties which existed in some dormitories on campus.

WMUA, established in 1948, was one of the charter stations in the Pioneer Broadcasting System which has college stations at U. of M., Amherst, and Smith.

The present station officials include Eugene Ryan, station manager and Frank Spear, technical director. Faculty advisors include Prof. Ray Wyman, administration; Prof. W. W. Smith, technical adviser, and Prof. Arthur Niedeck, production adviser.

Internat'l Weekend Proves Successful

The International Weekend conference at which 50 delegates from foreign countries were present at the U. of M. on Apr. 19 and 20, was considered a success by the committee of which Bob Eckberg and Wolfgang Dunnebier were co-chairmen.

With students representing Italy, France, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Norway, China, the Philippines, Guatemala, India, Ceylon, Canada, and Chile, the panel discussion on "Can Democracy Satisfy the Needs of the World Today?" under the direction of Dr. Max Salvadori of Smith College proved very interesting.

The visiting students from A.I.C., Smith, Amherst, U. of Rhode Island, Wesleyan, U. of Michigan, and N.Y.U. were impressed with the U. M. campus, especially after the tour of some of the buildings. About 30 U. M. students participated. It is hoped that another such conference will be held next year.

THIBAULT CONCERT

Conrad Thibault, baritone, will appear at John M. Greene Hall, Smith College, on Friday, Apr. 25, in a concert including sacred songs, folk songs, classics, and Negro spirituals. Mr. Thibault, a native of Northampton, has sung on many radio programs and now has his own TV show, "Music Hall."

UM Represented At Conn. Valley Student Scientific Conference

The Connecticut Valley Student Scientific Conference will hold its 32nd annual meeting at Mt. Holyoke College on Saturday, April 26. The main speaker will be Dr. Paul B. Sears, Chm. of the Yale Conservation program, who will speak on "Climate Writes Its Record."

Undergraduates from various departments will represent the University at the confab. Papers or demonstrations will be presented by Halsey Allen, Ruth Halton, Melwyn Fine, Mae Louise Jezyk, Edward Parsons, Muriel Fauteux, Edna Dick, Nancy Harrison, Evelyn Yeutter, Barbara Sosinska and Carol Orrell.

The conference will open with a registration period from 9 to 12 in Whitney Hall. President Ham will welcome the delegates at 10:30 when Dr. Sears will speak. The visitors will be able to satisfy their hunger pangs with an old fashioned New England lunch which will be served in the nearby Congregational Church.

Demonstrations and student papers will be presented from 1 to 4:30 in the fields of: Astronomy, Bacteriology, Chemistry, Engineering, Geology, Home Economics, Mathematics, Physics, Physiology and Zoology.

Class to Pay Bill For Vandalism Acts

The freshman class at Amherst College has been given a bill from President Cole and Dean Wilson to pay for recent vandalism, according to The Amherst Student.

The newspaper reports that about $1000 worth of damage was done in one night, apparently by a small group of freshmen following fraternity rushing. Too much beer was blamed.

"This latest round of vandalism brings the total damage bill since last fall to nearly $3000, including over $1000 for windows alone," the newspaper reports in its April 10 issue.

The April 17 issue also reported that "anyone found involved in vandalism can expect immediate suspension with no questions asked." (Ed's Note: Perhaps the same policy would help Metawampe. What we think of Metawampe is no secret, but as the gift of a class of the University, the Indian should be respected as University property.)

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Published twice weekly during the college year except for examination and holiday periods. Accepted for mailing under the authority of the act of March 3, 1879, as amended by the act of June 11, 1934. Printed by Hamilton I. Nesceli, Inc., Amherst, Mass., Telephone 610.

Subscription price—$2 per year; $1 per semester. Office: Memorial Hall

The President Speaks

House Bill No. 847 asks that the U. of M. establish immediately schools of medicine, dentistry, engineering, law, pharmacy, optometry, business administration, diplomacy, education and "all other schools deemed essential to the proper education of the children of this commonwealth."

We are always glad to have two of a good thing and would be delighted with two schools of engineering and two schools of business administration, but we should first build up the schools we have and take care of first needs such as the establishment of the school of nursing.

The sponsor of the bill is a friend of the University; he simply has not enough information. The School of Engineering, established on Sept. 1, 1947, is accredited by the Engineers' Council for Professional Development. For him and for others who do not realize the accomplishments of the School of Science, we have the following guest editorial from Pres. Van Meter:

"Our work in sciences has been well developed and widely known for many years. Three recent publications have emphasized our work in science so strongly that I cannot refrain from mentioning them to you.

Fifth In The Nation

"The first was a survey of the origins of American Scientists published last May in Science. The survey covered the 10 year period from 1921 to 1934 and ranked the colleges and universities on the number of graduates per 1000 undergraduates who went on to receive the Ph.D. degree from some graduate school, not necessarily that of their Alma Mater, and who were listed in American Men of Science. The University of Massachusetts ranked fifth in the nation and well above all other colleges and universities in New England.

Seventh Place

"The second was a similar survey, the results of which were published in Engineering and Science. It covered the period 1936 to 1946 and in that decade ranked the University of Massachusetts 7th in the nation and, again, well above all other colleges or universities in New England.

30 Out of 150

"The third was a survey the results of which were published by the Office of Scientific Personnel of the National Research Council. It covered the period 1936 to 1945 and ranked the leading colleges and universities on the total number of graduates in science who went on to the doctorate regardless of the size of the institution. Here we were handicapped by our small size. Even so, the University of Massachusetts ranked 30th in a field of 150, outranked in New England only by Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Yale.

Third in Forestry

"Whatever else this means, at least we are inspiring a large number of science students to go on to further study. I have no reason to believe that a similar study of the other parts of our University would find a different situation there. In fact, the results of the recent Junior Forestry examinations by the United States Forest Service have just reached the office. Eleven of our Forestry students took these examinations and placed the University of Massachusetts third among the 26 undergraduate schools of Forestry in percentage of successful entrants. This is a reflection of general college training as well as specific training in Forestry.

The U. of M. Student

"In part, I believe this is because of the kind of student that comes to the University. Most of them know what it means to work and to earn a part of their own way. In general, they are appreciative of the opportunity offered them by the Commonwealth and plan to make the most of it. They are intelligent and ambitious. They realize that thorough preparation is in these days a necessary prerequisite to maximum success in any profession."

Letter to the Editor

"No matter how deep the shadows,
No matter how dark the way,
May He whose love is unfailing
Give courage to you today."

Dear Editor:

Our sincerest sympathy in this, your hour of need.

In the future your good taste and discretion will be sorely missed. No effort will bring it back.

We sincerely hope that none of the jackasses you were riding will kick or throw you for a fall.

Yours-in-grief,
Blanche Johnson, '52
Herbert Maxfield '52

(Ed's Note: Well, to each his own. The only time we think the other fellow is intelligent is when his views are the same as ours.

All editors get the axe at one time or another from everybody on campus. We are used to it. As for good taste and discretion, we defend a certain point of view because we believe it is right; we attack another because we believe it wrong. If we achieve good taste or discretion along with stating our belief, so much the better, but if we think a thing wrong we should still think it so if 100 per cent of the campus felt the opposite way.

As Voltaire said, we disagree violently with what you say, but we will defend to the death your right to say it. For us, the issue is now closed.)

GREEK WEEK PICTURES

Pictures of the Inter-Greek Week activities will be handled by Ralph Levitt, 103 Mills. Any group wishing special pictures should make necessary arrangement with him as soon as possible. Prints of the activities will be available to the campus within a week after the activities.

State House

New Trustee

F. Roland McDermott of Franklin was appointed a trustee by Gov. Dever on Apr. 4. He replaces Ralph Taber whose term has expired.

TV For Education

The Federal Communications Commission has allocated 23 new television stations for Mass. In view of this allocation, Sens. Ralph C. Mahar (R-Orange) and Christopher Phillipps (R-Beverly) filed a resolve authorizing the state Board of Education to make tentative application for operation of one of these channels for educational purposes.

The FCC says that one of the new Boston channels is to be reserved for educational purposes. Once having made application, the board will study the desirability and feasibility of the Commonwealth's embarking on such a project. The state of New York has already granted legislative approval to similar steps taken by Gov. Dewey. Rep. Mirsky has been influential in the House in urging the use of TV for educational purposes.

$10,000 for Dutch Elm Disease

The Shade Tree Laboratory (the building attached to the Faculty Clubhouse opposite Clark Hall) needs $10,000 as "a positive must" to fight Dutch Elm Disease, according to Commissioner of Conservation Arthur Lyman. The disease, of virus form, is carried by beetles and has spread through all of Massachusetts except the Cape Cod area. The bill asks for state aid; another for co-ordination between county and municipality.

Budget Cut Again

The U. of M.'s budget was cut for the third time by the Senate Ways and Means Committee of which Senator Edward Staves (R-Southbridge) is the chairman.

Branch of the University

House Bill No. 1468 filed by Meyer Pressman (D-Chelsea) and No. 846 by Charles Kaplan (D-Dorchester) asks for a branch of the U. of M. within a radius of 15 miles from the city of Boston or in Boston itself.

The purpose would be to teach subjects relating to the arts and sciences and would include faculties of medicine, dentistry, engineering, and any other branches approved by our board of trustees who would manage the branch and all real and personal property belonging to the Commonwealth and occupied or used by the University. The trustees could purchase or sell, hold and manage any real estate or personal property of any type necessary for establishing a branch.

The board of trustees of this branch would be our present trustees including the governor, commissioner of education, president of the University, ex officiis plus not more than 15 appointive members—two representing labor at all times; two, industry; two, educational institutions in Massachusetts. Four would serve for one year, four for two years, and four for three years. Upon expiration of term of office of any appointive member, the governor would appoint his successor for a term of five years in accordance with the advice and consent of the council.

All receipts from student activities (college store, dramatics, band, athletics, etc.) would be retained by the trustees in a revolving fund to be expended under their direction in furthering the activities from which these receipts came. A complete accounting of receipts and expenditures would be made to the governor annually. Monthly statements of receipts and expenditures would be made to the comptroller by the treasurer.

To all of which we say: Why not build up the University we've already got instead of set up a new one?

W.M.L.S.P. JUDGES

Three U. of M. professors have been appointed judges for the Western Mass. League of School Publications, an organization whose members are the staffs of high school newspapers. In the forthcoming newspaper competitions, Dr. Stanley Koehler will judge the best short story, Miss Leonta Horrigan will judge the best poem, and Prof. Arthur Musgrave will judge the papers for general excellence.

Miss Horrigan and Mr. Koehler are members of the English department; Mr. Musgrave is professor of Journalism.

Tomorrow's Limits from Today's Doubt

Thinking of the establishment of a medical school, we are reminded of a statement once made by Franklin Delano Roosevelt: "The only limit to our realization of tomorrow will be our doubts of today." Why not stop saying "it cant be done" and go ahead and do it?

When the medical school question has arisen in the last two years, much sentiment has been voiced against it by those who think it curious that the State should spend money for medicine when it has so much difficulty financing the University it has already. They feel we are not ready for a medical school because of so many other physical deficiencies, and they fear that the State will not adequately support such a costly institution.

This is not necessarily the case. It would seem logical that the State would uphold adequate standards, and it is probable that the budget for the medical school would be separate from that of the University.

If we are to have the medical school, a location in Springfield would seem preferable for those reasons already cited on page 1. From an over-all point of view, people would get the greatest gain from the establishment of a medical school in an area where there is none. In Boston three medical schools are already competing with one other for teacher beds as well as teachers. In an atomic age, there may be merit in decentralizing medicine just as there may be merit in decentralizing industry.

The commission studying the situation is doing its best to determine whether Boston or Springfield would be the better site. We will cover the hearing Thursday night. Until then, we favor Springfield and feel that the U. of M. is ready for medical and dental schools. (And for others too.)

Hilarious Show Coming Soon

The 1952 edition of the "Greatest Show on Earth" will be unfurled on the stage of Bowker Auditorium on Friday evening, May 9, when the Faculty Frantics makes its hilarious appearance on campus.

For the first time since 1950, the faculty will shed their drab professorial clothes and don the magic garb of showmen as they take over the stage of Bowker. Music, dancing, and drama galore will make their appearance as the students get a chance to see their favorite faculty members in a once seen-never forgotten show.

Under the direction of a show committee composed of Mrs. Arthur Musgrave, Mr. Albert Madeira, Mr. Walter Mientka, Mrs. Leon Barron, Mrs. Bronislaw Honigberg, Phil Sullivan, and Mr. James Ferrigno, faculty members are already rehearsing for their stage debut.

The students will have the rare opportunity of seeing all of their favorite profs and members of the administration forget their customary humdrum existence and escape into the world of show business as they reveal previously hidden talents. Those who had the opportunity of seeing this show two years ago will never forget it. Don't miss it. Watch for further announcements later.

Redmen LaCrossers Seek Second Win

The Redmen LaCrosse team scored a 7-4 win over Amherst in the first game in the history of the University last Friday at Amherst.

In defeating a veteran Amherst team, the Redmen were led by Bob White with three goals and Dave Yassair with two. Al Korzen and Phil Huber each chipped in with a tally. Dave Allen, despite a severe ankle-injury, held the "lavendar hill mob" to four goals.

Coach Ben Ricci remarked that the team "looked good and learned a lot." Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, the University will play the Deerfield J-Vs at "Ricci's Range" behind Theta Chi. A big crowd is expected to witness this new, exciting, spectator sport which is the fastest game on two feet.

Devens Men Hold Gala Farewell Party

Plans are now in the making for a gala farewell event for students who attended the U. of M. extension branch at Fort Devens. The affair, being sponsored by members of this year's graduating class who attended the school at Devens prior to transferal here. The Extension was closed in 1949 and the final class which attended are currently seniors.

At a meeting Apr. 17 at QTV, it was voted to hold the event Friday, May 9, in Amherst. The spot will be announced later.

Kenneth Skantz has been named general chairman. Steve Pappas and Chester Kulis are co-chairmen for the off-campus group.

Limit: 12 mph

At the request of Federal Circle residents, Officer Blasko has announced that speed laws in that area will be strongly enforced for the protection of the many small children who are in or near the roads where drivers are kicking up dust hurrying to class. Stating that being late to class is better than injuring a child, he said that top speed in Federal Circle is 12 miles per hour and offenders will be punished.

which they invited the students of neighboring colleges. The result was an enjoyable session of discussion and interchanging of ideas. From the meeting evolved the annual conference. It is a good example of what students are capable of accomplishing on their own.

The conference is a wonderful opportunity to find out what is being done by students at other colleges in the various fields of science, as well as a chance to exchange ideas on student life in general. Schools represented at the conference will be Smith, Trinity, Wesleyan, Williams, Connecticut, Amherst, Dartmouth, St. Joseph, Springfield, American International, Conn. College for women, and the Conn. Teacher's College.

facilities there, are now required to spend weeks in Providence and elsewhere."

"It is a fact," the editorial continued, "that the high percentage of high priced medical care in Boston does not provide the type of ward patient willing to submit to student minstrations.

Teaching Bed Need

"On this student teaching bed requirement, the Springfield area is untouched. The fact is that the lack of resident doctors and interns is very readily felt, as the heads of the local hospitals have stated to the commission.

"If the number of "teaching beds" is determined to be too few in the Holyoke, Chicopee, Springfield area, there is no reason that travel to the hospital facilities of Northampton, Greenfield, Pittsfield, Hartford, and Worcester should be ruled out. Again it should be noted that Boston colleges are now forced to send their students over 40 miles."

In another editorial in this series the Union chided the medical profession for not being more interested in the training of more doctors.

"Their publicity screeches in fear and opposition to socialized medicine," the editorial said. "If they leave no other alternative, they will have themselves alone to blame. It is time the medical profession took a look around and began pointing to possibilities, not impossibilities."

The Union also said that Springfield has a "far more serious need than Boston. It is even an argument against Boston that there is so much talent crammed in the 'Hub.' "

The editorial continued by saying that Springfield "has some of the greatest medical talent in the world" and that there "must even be specialists in other places than Boston." It also argued that the University and other schools in the area offer "exceptional talent" for teaching in the sciences.

"As long as there is disease and sickness elsewhere there must be doctors and medical attention elsewhere," the editorial said. "The basic fact is that placing another clinic . . . in Boston is like gold-plating the guilded lily.

"Springfield is the geographical and logical center between Pittsfield, Hartford, Worcester and Greenfield. If super specialists are an absolute must, there is nothing to prevent the extra trip from Boston. Meanwhile, the less exotic diseases continue."

There have been six hearings held by the commission prior to the one this week in Springfield.

Rep. Mirsky is sub-chairman of the commission. Sen. George Evans (R-Wakefield) is chairman.

Corkum Cools Boston College; Pedigree Provide Power, 5 - 2

Yesterday on alumni field, cool Chet Corkum proved too much as he handcuffed one batter after another of the so-called B. C. power. Striking out eight men, Corkum mixed up a smooth variety of pitches as he kept chucking past the batters into Burns' waiting mitt.

Capt. Don Smith broke out of his hit famine and drove in run number 2 with a sharp single to right field.

AIR FORCE NOTICE

In order to meet with second-semester seniors and graduates who are interested in applying for post-graduate training as USAF weather officers, Lt. Col. H. H. Slater of the USAF Air Weather Service will visit the U. of M. on Apr. 30.

Newcomers Continue To Shine

Bob Pedigree again gathered in two hits, scored a run and drove in two more to spark the team to its second victory. John Lajoie also continued on his merry sluggin' way as he became the proud papa of three more bungles.

Lajoie and Pedigree teamed with pivot Ray Gunn in setting up three double plays.

Krock Thursday at B.U.

The password of this club seems to be "Omaha". They'll try to continue on their road there at B. U.'s expense this coming Thursday, aways. Big Bob Krock will probably get the nod from Earl and he should be ready.

On To Omaha

This is a good club, an aggressive club, and above all a winning club. They love to win and we love to watch them . . . they may very well be on to "Omaha, Nebraska" for the NCAA Championships.

ROD AND GUN CLUB

There will be a Rod and Gun Club meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Conservation Building, room 109, Mr. Richard Stroud, state aquatic biologist, will speak on fishery activities in Mass. All wildlife majors should attend.

Kroeck's Four Hitter Gives Redmen 4-0 Win Over Williams

Patriots' Day last Saturday proved to be an extremely gratifying one to the loyal Redmen rooters as they saw both the varsity and freshmen nines come through with impressive victories.

The varsity Spring Day game saw right handed Bob Kroeck hold the vaunted Williams power scoreless over the full route to insure the Lordenmen of a 4-0 opening day victory.

While Kroeck was allowing a total of four hits, our boys collected eight. The big swingers were Bill Bakey and Bob Pedigree. Bakey, playing with an extremely sore left arm, scored two runs, hit two doubles, and was credited with one RBI. Pedigree, a sparkling shortfielder, hit safely twice and credited for two RBI's.

KROECK'S KORNER

Bill Bakey, aside from the fact that he enjoyed a superlative day at the plate, also pulled off the fielding gem of the day . . . with a man on base, cleanup batter Bob Depopolo blasted one, long and deep to left . . . Bakey back to plate gathered it in going away . . . Earl 'the man' used some of Lou Boudreau's strategy when he sent Bob Kroeck, a good hitting pitcher, to the plate in seventh spot . . . His strategy paid off.

Little Indians Drop Opener 2-1

The Frosh baseball team lost a close, hard fought, extra inning game by the score of 2-1 to the University of Connecticut frosh.

A hit, stolen base, an error, and a fly to the outfield provided the UConns with the winning run.

Blanchard, Bell Give Frosh Win

With a five-run rally in the eighth, the frosh baseball team edged out the Williams frosh 7-6.

Doc Blanchard and Bob Bell both came through with two-run singles in this frame. Bell's hit drove in the tieing and winning runs. A superb fireman job by Phil Tarpey in the last three innings was one of the high-points. Only one hit was made off Tarpey and that was the first man to face him.

W.A.A. ELECTIONS

Candidates for W.A.A. offices are the following: president, Lorraine Lively, Nancy Allen; vice-president, Merc Carlson, Sonya Anderson; secretary, Joan Manley, Carol Hartley. All active members of W.A.A. are eligible to participate in the elections which will be held in the women's dorms tonight after closing hours.

Track Squad Against Williams

The varsity track team opens its season tomorrow, when the Redmen oppose a strong Williams team on Alumni field. Hampered by poor weather, the team has had little practice, and Coach Derby's forces were dealt a severe blow over the spring vacation when middle distance star Joe Kelsey pulled a muscle during a workout. He will be lost to the team for the season. This is a recurrence of the injury that hit Kelsey during the Amherst indoor meet.

Distance star Harry Aldrich is on a two weeks cruise with the U.S. Navy, and will not return until two days before the opening meet. The Redmen will be out to build up their point total in the field events with Fred Law in the pole vault, Russ Briere and Lee Fink in the high jump, and Art Alintuck, Red Porter, Al Gilmore, and Art Konigsberg in the shot put and discus. Ira Nottonson and Dave Lamkin should do well in the hurdles and dash.

Butterfield and Trumpet Are Features of Greek Ball

"The World's Greatest Trumpet Player", Billy Butterfield, will be playing for the Greeks and their friends tonight from 9-1 for the annual Greek Ball. The ball is being held, as last year, at the Northampton High School Gym.

All those attending the ball will have the opportunity to vote for the queen from 9-10. The three finalists, as announced at the other activities this week, are Barb Brown, Bobby Mitchell, and Freddy Dole. One of these three girls will be chosen to reign over the remaining Greek Activities. The Queen will be presented at the ball after the ballot-ing.

BILLY BUTTERFIELD

The Northampton High School is located on Route 9, the left hand side, just before the Cooley Dickinson Hospital. To get to it, follow 9 right through Hamp and past Smith.

Harry Sands, an alto sax, and his Quintet will be featured during the intermission.

Featured with Butterfield's orchestra will be Jane Nealy and Tommy Taylor. Billy and his band are outstanding among groups available for college dances. His aggregation is one of the most sought after because most college students prefer his slow tempo for their dances. This year's ball promises to be one of the best in recent years.

Frats Sing Monday

Greek Week festivities began with seven houses participating in the Inter-Fraternity Sing on Monday, April 21, in Bowker Auditorium.

Two faculty members from Mt. Holyoke College judged the sing on the basis of 60 points for rhythm, tone, harmony, and color; 20 points for response to the director; 10 points for choice of songs; and 10 points for dress and stage appearance. The results of the sing along with those of the skits will be announced at College Pond this Saturday night at 8:15. Marvin Glaser was the master of ceremonies and Alan Shuman did a magic act during the intermission.

Sig Ep, led by George Nickless, sang Brothers Sing On and Deep Purple, SAE, led by Gerald Vanasse, sang You'll Never Walk Alone and Drums in My Heart. AEPi, led by Dick Levine, sang Three Bells and Birth of The Blues. LCA, led by Jack Cody, sang Barber Shop Medley and Grim Grey Palisades. TEP, led by Macey Miller, sang My Buddy and In The Still of The Night. Delta Sig, led by Dave McKean, sang Aura Lee and Dry Bones. AGR, led by Tony Pacheco, sang Shortening Bread and Winter Song. Phi Sig, led by Phil Johnson, sang The Beer That I Left On the Bar and Balling the Jack. TC, led by Roland Gagnon, sang September Song and Blow Gabriel Blow; and Kappa Sig, led by Jim Patterson, sang Beyond the Blue Horizon and Donkey Serenade.

S.A.E. and Phi Sig will be strong contenders for first place.

Donations Are Queen's Votes

When your house representative visits you for a World Student Service Fund donation next week, consider well before making your choice for Mardi Gras queen. With so many well-qualified candidates, you may have a hard decision. The list of queen candidates and sponsors includes: Betty Donahue, Pi Phi; Annette Beaupre, Abbey; Carol Longmore, Lewis; Janet Cormier, AEPi; Carol Hartley, KKG; Janet E. Peterson, PDN; Donna Cohen, SDT; Sue Brosseau, KAT; Vicki Milandri, SK; Anna Grant, Butterfield; Yvette Monnet, SAE; Barb Stevens, ZZZ; Ellie Nelson, Knowlton; Bailey Schanberg, TEP; Shirley Tuttle, Thatcher; Elaine Maitland, Chadbourne; Jackie McCarthy, Hamlin; and Gail Riley, Chi O.

Balloting will proceed as follows. From your W.S.S.F. house representative you will receive a small envelope into which you will put any amount of money you wish and seal it. On the outside write the name of your choice for Mardi Gras queen and return the sealed envelope to your house collector who will turn it in to the W.S.S.F. drive treasurer.

Remember—W.S.S.F. is not charity. It's a program of mutual assistance by and for students and professors in colleges and universities throughout the world.

Sat. Night Climax

Tomorrow evening Greek Week will reach its climax with a colorful ceremony to be held at the College Pond at 8:15. The Greek Ball Queen and her court will announce the winners of the IF Sing and Skit, and present the top Greeks with their awards.

The winners of the Sorority Sing and Declamation will also be presented their trophies. With costume parties at all fraternities, it is hoped that

Dairy Show Has Queen, Bovines Cheese Festival

More than 25 U. of M. and Stockbridge School of Agriculture students will combine their talents in setting up exhibits for the fifth annual Dairy Industry Show at Flint laboratory on May 3 and 4 from 1 to 5 p.m. daily.

Students will vote this week to select a "Queen of the Dairy Festival" to rule over the show from coed candidates being sponsored by fraternities. The queen will be crowned by Dr. Dale H. Sieling, dean of the college of agriculture and horticulture, at 3:30 p.m. on May 3.

The exhibit will take up two entire floors of the Flint Laboratory building and include the following: a cheese festival in which major dairy concerns will provide cheese samples and demonstrate some of the uses of cheese in the present-day budgeted family income; an ice cream carnival where visitors can observe the manufacture of ice cream and sample the various products being processed; a milk processing plant where milk is received, pasteurized and bottled; the story of quality control—what it is, how it affects the consumer, and how it safeguards the health of children.

The Annual Dairy Classic will be held on May 3 in Grinnell Arena. This is a student managed dairy cattle fitting and showing contest with judging in four classes: Guernseys, Holsteins, Ayrshires, and Jerseys. Finalists in each division will compete for the premiere showmanship award.

Senate's Meeting Shortest On Record

In a 12 minute meeting, Bob Pehrson read a reply to the Senate's letter about the crowded library condition. The answer stated that the condition was being studied and would be taken care of as soon as possible.

Pres. Pehrson announced that he would meet with Student Life Committee Thursday night to discuss the status of the Student Life Committee. The power and limitations of this committee are still not clearly defined.

The Women's Affairs committee announced that they were sending a delegation of women student leaders to a student government conference at the Univ. of Conn.

The Senate voted to give the Public Relations committee $35 for pictures for the U. of M. calendar.

IRC To Hear Commentator

The International Relations Club will present Hubert Kregeloh, eminent international affairs commentator, as the Club's final speaker of the year at Old Chapel Auditorium on Tuesday, April 29, at 8 p.m. at a public meeting.

Mr. Kregeloh is the international news analyst for radio station WSPR. Surveys indicate that he commands one of the largest commentator audiences in the area over which he is heard. Mr. Kregeloh is a lecturer and writer on foreign affairs and the author of several articles on Communist manipulations in the US.

At the U. of M. next Tuesday Mr. Kregeloh will speak on "Was Korea a Mistake?"

U. M. Host To Folks For Weekend Events

Students to Give Various Performances For Parents

An all campus activity, Parents' Weekend, will be held May 3 and 4. Two days of events have been planned for parents and students: department exhibitions, Naiads, President's Reception, Roister Doister play, band concert, and tapping of Scrolls and Isogon at Junior-Senior Processional. Overnight accommodations for parents will be provided at all dorms and private homes on Saturday night.

All students who are planning to attend the Roister Dolster play during Parents' Weekend and whose parents will not be present are asked to obtain tickets for Friday, May 2. There will then be more seats available for parents on Saturday, May 3.

Eastward in Eden

A highlight among the activities planned for Parents' Weekend will be the performance of the play "Eastward In Eden" by the Roister Doisters on May 2 and 3.

The play, by Dorothy Gardner, traces the life of the noted Amherst poetess, Emily Dickinson, and is based on the novel "This Is A Poet" by Profesaor George F. Whicher of Amherst College.

"Eastward In Eden" covers Miss Dickinson's life and her inner conflict that prevented the poetess from accepting many of her family's Puritanical views as well as her romance with Charles Wadsworth, a Philadelphia minister.

Taking the part of Miss Dickinson is Shirley Hastings, '54, an accomplished veteran before the footlights. Charles Wadsworth is portrayed by Jim Chapman and the other members of the cast include Marie Braui, Marguerite Follett, Rosemary Quinn, Dick Stromgren, and Hope Hartigan.

The background of this powerful play has a great deal of local interest. Miss Dickinson's father was treasurer of Amherst College, and Miss Gardner, the author of the play, was graduated from Smith College.

This is the first time this play, portraying the life of the native poetess, has been presented in Amherst.

Band Concert

The University Band will present its third concert of the season on Sunday, May 4, at 2:30 in Bowker Auditorium. This concert will be the last public appearance this year and will be given as part of the Parent's Weekend program.

The program will feature Mrs. Fiora Contino in the first movement of Grieg's piano concerto. Mrs. Contino is the wife of band director Joe Contino.

Also on the program will be a trumpet trio with John Sterling, Lawrence Cornell, and Vernon Damon.

This concert breaks with tradition in that it is the first time the Parents' Weekend concert has been presented indoors. There will be no charge for admission.

Naiad's Show

The Naiads, co-ed water ballet group, will present their second show of the year during Parents' Weekend on May 3 and 4.

The 21 member ballet group has planned a program of six numbers

Learnin' From The Young 'Uns

Parents' Weekend brings to mind a group that has worked hard and established itself so well on campus that similar bodies will be set up in the future for the freshmen as a matter of course. We are referring to the Freshman Interdormitory Council who are responsible this year—their first year of existence—for organizing Parents' Weekend.

The Council was originated by three sophomores who have worked with it in an advisory capacity—Joe Powers, Al Good, and John Heintz. They had in mind a group that would co-ordinate the social activities of the freshman class in order to unify the class and enable freshmen to participate more easily in campus activities.

Under the leadership of Jake George, the group has proved extremely worthwhile. In addition to Parents' Weekend, they have run several dances and have started the idea of The Little Indian, even though they took office late first semester due to the delay in class elections. The other members of the Council, to whom much credit is due, are: Virginia Pannes, Thatcher; Annette Beaupre, Abbey; William Boyle, Brooks; James Connor, Greenough; Helene Gaudette, Abbey; Frances Mulcahy, Knowlton; Dorothy McKenna, Lewis; Carolyn Hosea, Thatcher; and Cynthia Sheinberg, Thatcher.

The Interdormitory Council has one or two representatives from each freshman dorm. An interdorm council set up along the same lines would prove beneficial, we feel, to every class at the University. With the present size of the University, sophomores, juniors, and seniors are spread out so widely that there is always the difficulty of unifying classes before anything can be done with any degree of success.

We might very well profit from the example set by the freshman class in this respect.

Tuxedos At Dinner

We have said once or twice before that we ourselves are responsible for the impressions that others have of us as students and of the University as an institution of higher education.

The Amherst Student ran a one-page spread entitled "From Aggie College to Modern University". We have included in the article called "As Amherst Sees Us" some of the comments that will illustrate our point.

The article written in The Student was sincere and well-intentioned and fell down only where the reporters' information was incorrect. We believe some of this information was given them by U. of M. students who don't know what their University has and has not.

We cannot really believe that we have on this campus a coed who asked if "Amherst boys really wore tuxedos to dinner". By the time we become college students, we ought to know human nature a little at least. The Amherst Coll.e man is no different from any other man here at the Univer.ity or elsewhere. He doesn't like to put on a tux unless he has t.. In our opinion, any man who did put one on that frequently w uld be rather foolish to make himself so uncomfortable when eating.

"Many of the houses are made over ho.ies and do not quite measure up to those at Amherst." Is this so important? Is our society based on modern conveniences and the wealth of our houses? Or does the distinction really rest in whether it is a house or a home?

"The frats recently had their hell week (which did not seem very hellish)". More power to the fraternities if they follow the example of fraternities like Phi Sigma Kapp. at Worcester Tech who this fall went out and constructed an entire home for a family whose house burned to the ground. They will see enough of hell if ever they see Korea.

"Most of the students seem to agree that the student government is terrific, but few had any conception of what it does." We don't doubt that this is true. Evidently we read the Senate reports as just a lot of words. A visit to the Senate any Tuesday at 7 in Skinner would prove enlightening in what Student Senate does and in showing students one of the most efficiently run groups on campus as far as order at meetings is concerned. The latter is sadly lacking at some meetings.

"Shades of Sabrina"—if it was a University student who was responsible for the disappearance of Metawampe, it is most unfortunate that we have copied Amherst College in this respect.

It is also most unfortunate that we don't know enough about our own University to give out correct information about it. The R.O.T.C. came onto this campus in 1916. Under the provisions of the Morrill Land Grant Act under which we were established, we must always have some military training program offered on campus. We have, therefore, had one since 1863. Before World War II, the R.O.T.C. was a horse cavalry unit. Immediately after the war, it became an armored division and air force training unit. We are glad to see the Amherst reporters at least know what goes on. They correctly state that the R.O.T.C. has made its way onto their campus. This it did in 1950.

"The college is supported by the state, etc." is not quite correct. Evidently we don't know ourselves that our Alumni Association has put a total of $5,212,000 into new dormitory and dining facilities. If we were wholly dependent upon the state, we should be minus a great many buildings.

If we are not sure of what goes on, the first thing we can do is refer outsiders to those who know so as to avoid false information from being spread and secondly, to find out so that we will know for the next time.

The concluding paragraph says "Relationships between the two colleges have never been cordial." It also says that the U. of M. is a different college. It certainly is—in many respects. Do we as students know these differences or will we continue to know our University so little that we give out false information?

As Amherst Sees Us

"The fraternities recently had their hell week which did not seem very hellish.

"Many of the fraternity houses are made over homes and do not quite measure up to those at Amherst; most of them have bars and a room for dancing.

"The fraternities rarely have a party with a particular sorority except for occasional exchange suppers although they often get together with other fraternities. Surprisingly enough there is considerable dating with Smith and Holyoke. They go in for costume parties in a big way including a pajama dance, a beach party and even a Charles Adams monstrosity. Square dances are another specialty at the U. of Mass. Four big weekends are staged during the year: The Military Ball, the Winter Carnival, an Inter-Greek Weekend, and the Soph-Senior Hop.

"For traditions the University is almost as rich as Amherst. Its hero is Metawampe, which made a mysterious disappearance earlier this year—shades of Sabrina.

"The honor societies of the University are not quite so traditional as Amherst's. They run various dances for charity.

"The frosh-soph rivalry is dead although a rope pull is held every year which the sophs always win.

"The ROTC has made its way onto the university campus as at Amherst. Grades for these courses are not considered in formulating college averages and do not count toward a degree in contrast to the plan at Amherst.

"Most of the students seem to agree that the student government is "terrific" as one put, but few had any conception of what it does.

"There is also an outing club, an octet known as the "Statesmen", and a radio station. Differing from Amherst, there are some agricultural clubs, and a host of such clubs as the Home Economics Club, The Students Wives' Club, the Psychology Club, the Pomology Club, etc.

"Still another coed having been assured that the reporter was not on pledge duty, finally wanted to know if "Amherst boys really wore tuxedos to dinner."

"Relationships between the two colleges have never been cordial. As we have intimated the average Massachusetts student cares little for Amherst. Amherst students have always looked down on the University as an inferior college. It isn't; it is a different college. There can only be a "healthy situation" if the two colleges respect each other as equals."

FRENCH HOUSE

La Maison Francaise of the U. of M. will hold a coffee hour on Tuesday, Apr. 29, for girls who may be interested in joining French House.

The party, in Butterfield Lounge at 7:30 p.m., is for the purpose of explaining the advantages of living in the French House. Dr. Stowell Goding, pere de la Maison Francaise, will also speak to the guests.

Critic Pans Interfrat Skits

by Frank Jonson

For those who have seen the Interfraternity Skits before, the productions as a whole Wednesday night proved to be a decided letdown. In spite of the successes attained by Theta Chi and Kappa Sigma with their well-thought-out scripts and skillful lighting, many of the skits left the audience with a feeling of dissatisfaction, although it was difficult to put one's finger on the reason.

The whole evening was on a different vein from past years. The humor was more subtle than many expected but most of it achieved the desired result — raucous laughter. Among the more notable skits, TEP's, on religious intolerance, the only one of its sort, and Kappa Kappa's entry, the first one from Stockbridge, were more truth than fiction. Attendance at one small town's town meeting will prove the point for Kappa Kappa. Sig Ep certainly made an impression with their extravaganza. Tri-Zeta's "Olympiad 52" was a good idea well carried out. Alpha Gamma Rho and Lambda Chi were both heavy on the satire while SAE's performance was a distinct disappointment. AEPi's production was just "cute"—there's no other word for it. QTV didn't manage to create much of an impression, either.

It may be the weather, it may be the new regime under which the fraternities are living, or it may be the measles epidemic, but this year's Interfraternity Skits in general were plainly mediocre. In contrast, however, the sings, both sorority and fraternity, were equal to expectations by showing good choice of songs, good direction, and good harmony.

Jingle Winner

Students invariably read over the jingles in the Lucky Strike advertisment and say, "Well, where's the [illegible] of M.? Haven't we got anybody that can write jingles?"

Yes, we have. He's Ralph Levitt, junior and a physics major who hangs out at 103 Mills when he's not developing lithographs for the Collegian.

The jingle which brought him fame in the American Tobacco Company's Be Happy Go Lucky Contest was the one:

"For smoking pleasure you'll agree
From Maine to Carolina
If Luckies in the pack are swell
The carton's ten times finer."

It is not certain if or when this jingle will be used in a Lucky Strike ad in the Collegian. If or when it appears in a college newspaper ad, we will be sent proofs in advance to post around the campus.

Extra Tickets For Wives; 120 Friends

Invitations, announcements, tickets for the senior banquet, and tickets for the Senior Ball will be given out Wednesday, May 7, and Thursday, May 8, in Mem Hall from 10-12 and 2-5.

Each senior is entitled to five invitations and announcements and one ticket. If married, a senior can get a ticket for his wife too. If, however, a senior is to have a guest, he must have another senior obtain a ticket for him. There will be no reserve sections at graduation. Parents of graduating seniors are advised to be at the graduation ceremony one hour in advance of the time at which the services start in order to get the best seats—those on the side.

Invitations are good for four or five people; each person need not have a separate invitation.

The booklets will be passed out by the new Isogon and Adelphia

John Sterling, one of the two freshmen on the club, made it 2-1 as he came back to whip his opponent in three sets. Clarence Simpson, the second freshman, came through with a win and John Murray made it 4-2 at the end of the singles.

In the doubles, Allen and Simpson made it a clean sweep as they whipped the number one duo of the Eagles. The visitors picked up their last two points by annexing the last two doubles matches.

Tarpey Wins 2nd

The frosh baseball team whipped Nichols Junior College 3-2 behind the brilliant four-hit pitching of Phil Tarpey.

Nichols garnered all their runs in the first on two errors, a pair of walks, a fielder's choice and a sacrifice.

The little Indians came back with single runs in the second and fourth innings to knot the score. In the last of the fifth, Mankowski reached on an infield hit. Yogi Wisniewski immediately followed with a long triple to center to drive in the winning run.

Besides pitching four-hit ball, Tarpey also added 12 strikeouts to his total.

Track Squad Loses Opener

The varsity spring track team went down to an opening defeat on Wednesday as the Derbymen, hampered by injuries, fell before the forces of Williams College 88-47.

The only winners for U. of M. were Harry Aldrich in the mile and Frank Barous in the broad jump. Aldrich, limited to two days practice due to two weeks' Naval reserve training, staged a great race to take the mile victory by staving off a last minute Williams bid. Barous came through in the broad jump to continue his indoor winning streak.

Ira Nottonson scored two seconds, Dick McKown hit for two thirds and a second, Al Pieropan scored two seconds, and Law, Fink, Briere, Knapp, Conlin, Steere, and Porter all hit for seconds to swell the Mass total.

Rival Coaches Meet In Spring Practice Game

It will be O'Rourke versus Gladchuk Saturday in an intrasquad game which will highlight the spring training season.

O'Rourke and Gladchuk will be the rival coaches and will have the game run in a regulation manner with referees et al. The only help the coaches will give to the players will be advice when the player has come out of the game for a breather.

At this writing only the starting quarterbacks have been chosen. They will be last year's veteran, Noel Reebenacker and Frank McDermott, last fall's frosh sensation.

This game will be a preview of what is to come next fall. There have been many changes instituted during spring training which will give football fans many interesting games next fall.

Coach O'Rourke has spent the training season in teaching the team a new formation—the straight T-formation—which will provide interesting and winning football. Another familiar sound which will be missing from the scene will be the one-two, one-two yell of the quarterback which has resounded across the gridiron on Saturday afternoons in recent years.

The game is open to everyone and should prove very interesting as the two coaches pull out all stops to whip each other.

Rogowski Paces Redmen To Victory

The U. of M. golf team started its season Wednesday by defeating American International College, 5-4. The most impressive score of the day for the U. of M. was a 74 which was shot by Rogowski.

Lacrosse Team Beats Deerfield

The informal Lacrosse team opened up their 1952 season with a victory as they defeated Deerfield Academy 7-4 on Wednesday.

The Redmen matched their visitors with goals in the first period as White and Touher slammed home goals. In the second period, the Riccimen outscored their visitors 3-1 as tallies were registered by Moffitt, Yesair, and Huber.

In the third period, Moffitt scored his second goal of the day on an assist by Yesair. The Redmen wrapped it up in the fourth on Yesair's second goal.

the gathering will be as colorful as anticipated. A jazz band will provide the rhythm, the queen and her court the beauty, and the costumed Greeks and their dates the pageantry for this final note of Inter-Greek Week.

A national magazine has been given the coverage rights to the 1952 Greek Week, and a picture story of the week is being compiled. Saturday nite's presentation ceremony is to be the height of the Week's festivities, so let's get down to the pond in costume at 8:15 to find out "who won what". In case of rain—Bowker aud., same time.

Sorority Sing

Kappa Alpha Theta, under the direction of Astrid Hanson, walked off with top honors at the Inter-sorority sing while Mary Lowry's delivery of a selection from "Member of the Wedding" gave Chi Omega first place in the Declamation.

This marked the third time in four years that "Sandy" Hanson has lead Theta to first honors, missing a perfect record by placing second last year. Accompanied by Virginia Harper, Theta rendered "All the Things You Are", and "The Hebrew Children".

Second place in the annual Panhellenic contribution to Greek Week went to Pi Beta Phi for their presentation of "Wanting You" and "Lift Thine Eyes" directed by Carol Hinds and accompanied by Jocelyn Dugas. Chi Omega offered "Little David Play on Your Harp" and "The Song Is You" which featured a solo by Lorna Wildon to finish third. They were led by Janet Bolles with Vera Litz accompanying.

Mary Lowry became a two time winner with her performance Tuesday evening since she won the Declamation in her sophomore year also.

The declamations, displaying wide variety in content, were all characterized by a serious note. Carol Hartley's portrayal of a scene from Jane Eyre won second place honors for Kappa Kappa Gamma, while Kappa Alpha Theta took third with Edith Jones who presented Oscar Wilde's Selfish Giant.

Sigma Delta Tau was awarded honorable mention in the sing for their originality as they presented a difficult arrangement of "I've Got You Under My Skin" and "Eli, Eli" a Hebrew hymn. The group was directed by Judy Broder.

Theta and Chi O will receive their plaques Saturday evening at College Pond, although the judges' decisions were announced Tuesday following the performance.

Judges for the Sing included Miss Mary Crapser, Mrs. Edwin Rozwenc, and Mrs. Robert Beckwith.

Miss Ruth Brown, Miss Vera Sickle and Mr. James Perrone served as judges for the Declamation.

Eileen Toner, Panhellenic representative from Kappa Kappa Gamma was hostess for the evening.

MCGRATH REPRESENTS U.M.

RDs Seek Author's Advice To Perfect Details of Play

Shirley Hastings discusses the life of Emily Dickinson with author of the book on which "Eastward in Eden" was based. —Photo by Mason

Roister Doister members at the U. of M. who are currently engaged in rehearsals for "Eastward in Eden", a play dealing with the life of Emily Dickinson, appealed recently to Prof. George F. Whicher of Amherst College, author of the book on which the play was based, for further information concerning the life of Miss Dickinson.

Shirley Hastings, who portrays Miss Dickinson in the play, was seeking further insight into the soul and mind of the poet so that her portrayal could be more comprehensive. Others were interested in how Prof. Whicher came to write his book and what led him to choose Emily Dickinson as subject matter.

To describe Emily Dickinson, Mr. Whicher presented the Roister Doisters with a series of impressions and opinions. He recalled the young Emily, sitting on the stairs, listening to the conversation in the lower rooms, drew a picture of the "heathen" who found no religion which she could accept as her own, yet who saw God in nature. Prof. Whicher referred to her many nature poems, most of which were recently uncovered.

The love story of Emily Dickinson and Charles Wadsworth, the main concern of the play, was not a love story in the general sense at all, Prof. Whicher explained. "The two people no doubt respected and understood each other, but Charles was too loyal a husband, too earnestly the minister, to have loved Emily and she was too susceptible to romantic images for anyone to give much credence to her own version of the story."

In the Roister Doister play, "Eastward in Eden" by Dorothy Gardner, the author preferred the romantic view of the Dickinson-Wadsworth relationship, portraying it as Emily's one great love story.

Prof. Whicher will speak on Emily Dickinson at Old Chapel Auditorium, May 1, at 4 p.m.

Extra Exam Now For Selective Service

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, announced an additional Selective Service College Qualification Test to be held May 22 at 1,000 testing centers for the benefit of students prevented by illness, emergencies, or some other reason from taking the test on Dec. 13, 1951, or Apr. 24 of this year.

Officers at National Headquarters said they could not emphasize too strongly that students who have an admission ticket for the Dec. 13, 1951, Apr. 24 test which they failed to use on the assigned date must submit a new application if they wish to take the May 22 test. The old admission ticket will not admit a student to the May 22 test. He must make application for and receive a new admission ticket.

Application blanks for the May 22 test may be obtained by students from the nearest local board. They must have to return home to the local board which has jurisdiction over them. Application for the May 22 test should be mailed as soon as possible to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey. Applications postmarked later than midnight, May 10, 1952, will not be accepted.

To be eligible to take the Selective Service Qualification Test, an applicant on the testing date (1) must be a selective service registrant who intends to request deferment as a student; (2) must be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time college course—undergraduate or graduate—leading to a degree; (3) must not previously have taken the test.

The criteria for consideration for deferment as a student at the present time is either a score of 70 or better on the Selective Service College Qualification Test or class standing among the male members in the upper half of the freshman class, upper two

Students Wanted For Mt. Toby Recreation

The student body will get their first chance to become members of the newly organized Mt. Toby Recreation Committee this Thursday at 11 a.m. when the first general meeting of the group will take place.

With special invitations being sent to all groups on campus that are connected in any way with the work of the group, the committee is holding this general meeting in Mem Hall Auditorium in an effort to bring more underclassmen into the group and to get more of the student body familiar with the group and the work they are trying to do.

Anyone interested in any phase of recreation work or the other various aspects of the organization is invited to attend the general meeting. The area will be described, the work of the committee discussed, and plans outlined for this year and the future.

Even if you are just interested in having a place for springtime picnics below a miniature waterfall, there is a place for you in the group. Don't miss this chance to become affiliated with the newest and fastest growing group on campus.

Radio Award Winner To Lecture on "Was Korea A Mistake"?

The International Relations Club will present its last speaker of the year with the noted radio commentator Hubert Kregeloh lecturing on "Was Korea a Mistake?" It was learned recently that Mr. Kregeloh is the recipient of one of eight Better Understanding Awards given to distinguished broadcasters and journalists each year by the English-Speaking Union of the United States.

Mr. Kregeloh, who will speak at Mem Hall Auditorium tonight at 8, is the present chairman of the Connecticut Valley Branch of the Foreign Policy Association. He has lectured widely and is the author of many articles on the incursions of Communism in the U. S.

In 1947 Mr. Kregeloh won a Massachusetts George Foster Peabody citation for "outstanding meritorious public service."

Faculty Frolics Features Fun

With about a week and a half to go before the "Greatest Show on Earth" makes it opening (and closing) appearance on the stage of Bowker Auditorium, the 1952 Faculty Frantics is rapidly rounding into shape.

The cast itself has grown into mammouth proportions with over 100 members of the faculty working in the production. It seems as if every member of the faculty is taking the chance to give an uninhibited performance before the very people before whom they must remain dignified during the rest of the year.

Your Choice, Girls

Butterfield, Mills, Knowlton, first and second floors of Hamlin, and the Abbey will be residences for senior, junior, and sophomore girls next year. Freshmen will live in Lewis, Thatcher, and the top two floors of Hamlin.

Room choosing for the class of '55 will be held in the rec room of Knowlton at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Apr. 30. Anyone who cannot attend should arrange to have a substitute select her room. The class of '54 will meet in Knowlton rec room at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, May 30. Any sophomore not able to attend should plan to have another girl draw a number for her. The girls in the class of '55 should drop in to see Mrs. Churchill at Lewis anytime between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m., Monday, May 12, to draw a number and get a room application blank.

All rooms next year will be either single or doubles. Since there are always fewer single rooms than desired, girls are urged to make plans for a roommate and to have alternate requests in mind if it is not possible to have the first choice of residence.

Rates at Mills, Butterfield, Hamlin, and Knowlton will be $165 per year; Abbey rate is $130 a year. Half the sum will be paid each semester.

Recess Commission Parley Hears Heated Debate Over Site

More than 100 persons attended a hearing last Thursday in Springfield to determine if the state should establish a state-supported medical and dental school. Whether the schools, if established, should be in Western Massachusetts or in or near Boston, site of the three existing medical schools in the state, was a major topic of discussion.

Proponents of the schools argued that the institutions would provide needed doctors and raise the medical standards in Western Massachusetts if located in this area. Opponents countered that no shortage of doctors has been proven, that the cost of the schools might be prohibitive, and that state funds should first go to supporting existing medical schools and building up present state hospitals.

Many of the persons in attendance at the three hour hearing were doctors and dentists. The hearing was held before the special recess commission studying the several proposals pending before the legislature.

Dr. James Smead, president of the Hampden District Medical Society, spoke in favor of the Western Mass. site. He suggested that the first two years, which are mostly laboratory work, be conducted at the University campus and that the final two years be set up in Springfield, since the facilities are better for the clinical work involved.

Many other speakers favored setting up the entire course in Springfield or in Amherst. Dr. Eugene Walker, superintendent of Springfield Hospital, pointed out the closeness of other cities available for clinical study. He also cited the fact that the existing hospitals would obtain many interns by this move. He favored the whole program for the campus at Amherst.

Dr. W. A. R. Chapin, Springfield medical examiner, opposed the state school plan, contending that the funds should go to improve existing facilities. He felt that the state school would be a luxury. He suggested that the state work out an aid plan similar to the G.I. Bill for worthy medical students rather than go to all the expense of a new school.

Dr. Peter Zarecki questioned whether adequate beds for study and competent doctors for instructors could be found.

While the study is in its early stages, Rep. Wilfred Mirsky of Boston envisions a small school of about

The finance committee of the Student Senate met last night to consider increases in the budgets for the Index, WMUA, and the Collegian. These increases are being requested by the groups in order to meet added production costs and also to expand their programs.

If the committee findings are favorable, the requests will be submitted to the Student Senate tonight for its approval. Next week these budget questions will be submitted to the students for their approval along with a constitutional amendment which provides for the election of class officers in the spring.

In order for any of these questions to pass, at least two-thirds of the voters must approve when 50 per cent of the student body votes. Last year budget changes and constitutional amendments failed to pass because far less than the required number voted.

Ball Climaxes Annual Greek Week Activities

Greek Week ended on a rather dismal note when the Saturday night program had to be called off because of rain, according to an IFC spokesman. He went on to explain that the council had planned a display of fireworks which had to be called off because of the rain. The original plans arranged to have the ceremony in Bowker in the event of rain, but it was decided that most of the fraternity men wouldn't want to come to Bowker in costumes.

Theta Chi and SAE were the winners respectively in the Skits and sings. Tri-Zeta and AEPi took second and third in the Skits, and Phi Sig and Theta Chi took the runner up positions in the sing.

Miss Freddy Dole, a junior from Shelburne Falls, was chosen as Queen Helen, to rule over the Ball and other Greek Events.

Over four hundred couples danced Friday night to the music of Billy Butterfield. Before the queen was announced, the ten finalists with their escorts formed a cortege. The queen, dressed in regal rape and carrying a bouquet of roses, walked past the members of the court. She was followed by her court of honor, consisting of Bobbie Mitchell, Hera, and Barb Brown, Athena. Dr. Ritchie crowned the queen.

Art Exhibit

Exhibition of lithographs by Canadian artist Jack Nichols will be on display in Mem Hall through May 2.

NAIADS WATER BALLET

The theme of the Naiads' Water Ballet to be presented this Saturday and Sunday, May 2 and 3, at 2 p.m., is "Twenty-four Hours in New York City."

A trio will begin by setting the mood of New York "sophistication" and several favorite spots of interest including Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, the Zoo, Chinatown, and the Latin Quarter will be portrayed. The program will be climaxed by an individual give finale composed of a series of routes which will include all the Naiads plus the freshman club.

Admission is free, but due to the relatively small seating capacity of the pool, tickets will be required for admission. These will be distributed in Mem Hall on Friday from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and Saturday morning at registration. It is suggested that students pick up their tickets early to avoid confusion on Saturday.

Teamwork For Living

Five hundred seventy-six high school students from 35 high schools in Massachusetts will be here all day Saturday for a series of high school relays in running and field events.

To Coach Lou Derby, who organized this event in 1948, the University owes a vote of thanks. Close to 600 students are thus given an excellent opportunity to see the University campus for the first time; many of them later enroll as undergraduates.

The emphasis rests on teamwork rather than individual starring. Herein lies something for campus organizations to think about—teamwork rather than the passing of the buck to the next fellow. This thought might also be called a thought for living—to be applied in the community after graduation and in every phase of our relationships with others.

A Job Well Done

In some of the 80 organizations on campus, we find considerable deadwood in individuals who join organizations, not to work and contribute to the good of the organization but solely to take satisfaction in a long string of activities listed after their names in the INDEX.

In striking contrast to these students are those like the members of WMUA who make their organization an up and coming one. On WMUA everybody works, not just one or two. The top people—Dan Davies as program director; Frank Spear as technical director; Gene Ryan as station manager; Frank Donovan as musical director; and Bob Hartwell as right-hand man of the station—put in from 20-30 hours of work per week. Broadcasting and script-writing take up a great deal of time for each member of the station.

Ed Moiselle and Dave Savoy broadcast the new "Eager Beaver Show" from 6:45-9 a.m. daily. In very few campus organizations would there be two people willing to get up that early to do their part in the organization.

WMUA is not only an example of a strong organization but also an example of an organization that has made a successful comeback after a year of relative inactivity. The station started in '48. The next year, Wayne Langill and Dave Meltzer originated the Pioneer Broadcasting System involving the University, Amherst, Mt. Holyoke, and Smith. Disagreements arose half-way through last year whereupon WMUA withdrew from the PBS and a complete shakeup of personnel resulted.

Shakeup of personnel sometimes comes about at the beginning of each semester. This is not enough. Deadwood ought to be eliminated as soon as it becomes deadwood.

New programs such as "People in the News" and the Collegian of the Air" are in themselves a tribute to WMUA as evidence of new ideas put into effect. Many organizations have ideas which remain strictly in the idea stage—because too many people are too lazy.

More organizations of the caliber of our radio station would be a definite asset to students and faculty. The best satisfaction to others in a group and to ourselves comes from the feeling that our job, no matter what it is, is being done to the best of our ability.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

It might interest you to know that recently I received a copy of a song book of New England Colleges and Universities by the Monsanto Co. of Boston. They were very much interested to know how I came to hear of their offer in Georgia. So I told them I was a graduate of the Mass. Agricultural College and had done graduate work later at Brown and Yale. Still later I graduated in Medicine from Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri. I sent to the Boston Co. of Monsanto a copy of the Collegian telling them that this was how I came to hear of their offer.

So you cannot realize how far your University paper reaches. I read it from cover to cover when it comes.

Incidentally, I am in favor of establishing a medical school in Springfield, Mass. rather than in Boston. I think the "Springfield Union" had a good talking point in this argument. And I hope the legislature will see it that way. As an M.D., I feel that there are enough medical schools in the Boston area now. Certainly it would be wise to spread them out a little, for we know that even here in Georgia the rural communities do not always receive their quota of well trained doctors and surgeons.

Sincerely yours,
Everett S. Sanderson

Dear Editor:

The donkeys who were so vociferous at the Senior Class meetings have turned up again, this time at the Fraternity Skits. This time it would seem there were, unfortunately, many more than 100.

Lorraine Augusta

Home Ec Open House

An Open House is being held at Skinner Hall tomorrow night at 7:30 to acquaint the foreign students of our campus with the work being done to educate women in the field of Home Economics in the U.S. Also invited is the group of foreign students who are visiting our campus for a brief period this spring.

Students of the School of Home Economics will act as hostesses and guides to acquaint the guests with the various phases of Home Economics and to show them the facilities with which the work is accomplished. Members of the staff will be present to answer any questions the foreign students may pose with regard to this phase of the education of women in our country.

It is hoped that, by acquainting these students from other lands with the work we do in Home Economics, there may be some carry-over when they return to their native lands.

150 students. At an earlier hearing, Thomas H. Buckley, state Finance Commissioner, set the cost at 2½ to 3 million.

Rep. Wendell P. Chamberlain, Springfield, felt that the best we could get from the legislature at present was a two year course on the campus at Amherst. He continued that after two years the legislature might be willing to establish the whole program at Springfield.

Many others who were present at the hearing gave their views on the relative merits of the two sites. Among the speakers was Dr. Goss of the Psychology Dept. who pointed out the need for a medical school to provide courses in speech pathology, clinical psychology, and education for the handicapped.

Redmen Blank N.H. As Corkum Pitches Three Hitter

by Al Shumway

Sparked by the three hit pitching of Chet Corkum, the varsity baseball team racked up its third win of the season while whitewashing New Hampshire, 6-0, on Saturday.

Pacing the U. of M. 12 hit attack was Captain Don Smith who broke loose with a bang as he got a triple and two singles in four times at bat.

The Redmen broke loose for three runs in the sixth when Gunn, Pedigree, Bakey, and Smith singled with Smith batting in two and Bakey the third.

In the seventh, Howie Burns poled a 430 foot home run, the first of the year for the Redmen.

In the eighth, the Bay Staters scored their final two runs of the day when Pedigree singled, Bakey walked, Smith drove in one run with a long single, and Bakey scored on a long fly to center field by Charlie Doherty.

Corkum was never in much trouble as he spaced the three hits in the first, fourth, and eighth innings. The win was the second of the year for the veteran right hander.

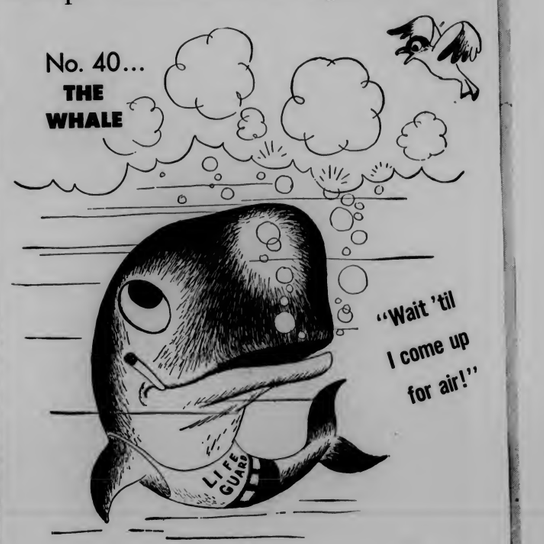
Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests



Poor guy was submerged in a veritable sea of cigarette tests! He didn't know whether he should "blow"—or just jettison the whole job! But he fathomed the matter when he suddenly realized that cigarette mildness can't be judged in one quick spout! Millions of smokers have found, too, there's a thorough cigarette test!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

Terriers Nip Mass. On Luoni 4 Hitter For Second Loss

Breaking loose with two runs in the 4th, one in the 5th, and one in the 6th, Boston University handed the Redmen their second loss of the season 4-1.

Getting to starter Bob Krocek for a walk, single, and double in the 4th, the Terriers were never in trouble as Luoni scattered the Redmen's four hits while limiting them to one run in the eighth when Driscoll walked. Gunn was safe on a fielder's choice, Lajoie reached on an error, Smith walked, and DiVincenzo hit into a force play at second while Gunn scored. The summary:

La Maison Francaise has completed plans for its annual soiree or versissage which will be held in Mem Hall on Friday, May 2, at 8 p.m. The program includes a talk on Victor Hugo by Prof. Geoffroy Atkinson of Amherst College and musical selections by Doric Alviani.

Refreshments consisting of "petits gateaux" and punch will be served. Mr. MacIver of the Fine Arts department will be present to talk about the art exhibit which will be on display.

Faculty Frantics . . .

Practically every department on campus is represented with especially strong groups coming from the English, Psychology, Math, Zoology, and Military departments.

Under the able direction of Mrs. Arthur Musgrave, the Frantics is becoming more than just a collection of amateurs. Unknown to the students, the faculty has among its members many people with imagination and talent.

Heading the star-studded cast are such feature performers as Mrs. Dorothy Feldman, wife of Prof. Robert Feldman of the psych department, who is one of the finest singers ever heard in this area. Mrs. Feldman, a graduate of the Eastman School of Music, has sung professionally with many well known symphony orchestras as featured vocalist.

One of the repeats from the last show two years ago is Mr. Niedeck of the speech department. Once again, Mr. Niedeck will shed his director's role to appear on the other side of the footlights. Billed in various places as "The Great Musician", Mr. Niedeck's act is guaranteed to prove unusual, amazing and hilarious.

Mr. Leon Barron, another member of the English department, will take on the role of a Blues singer. Reports from people in the know say that you can actually hear the rhythmic swaying of the mournful blues' beat when Mr. Barron sings.

All in all, it promises to be a great show—one that will not be forgotten for many years by either the faculty or the students. So come one, come all! The show will be presented for one night only to what promises to be a sellout crowd. Tickets will go on sale at the end of the week so get yours early. Don't miss it!

thirds of the sophomore class or upper three fourths of the junior class. Seniors accepted for admission to a graduate school satisfy the criteria if they are among the upper half of the male members of their senior class, or if they make a score of 75 or better.

Students already enrolled in graduate schools may be considered for deferment so long as they remain in good standing.

These criteria are guides for the local boards. The local boards are under no compulsion to follow them, but any local board classification is subject to appeal. The appeal must be filed in writing with the local board within 10 days after the local board mails notice of classification.

General Hershey has urged all eligible students to take the test so they will have scores in their files when the local boards reopen their cases to determine whether or not they meet the criteria for deferment as students during the next academic year.

General Hershey also has repeatedly stressed that no deferment is an exemption. "A deferment is a delay or postponement," he said, "and in no way cancels the duty of the registrant to meet his obligations."

GREENOUGH HOUSE PARTY

Staff members of the Military Science, Air Science, and Bacteriology and Public Health departments will be guests at the Greenough House meeting, Thursday evening, May 1.

The meeting is being planned by the Greenough House Council under the direction of John Sterling, president and committee members Charlie Hamilton, Jack Mahoney, Woody Woodrow, and Jim Cooper. Jim Connor, social chairman, announces that entertainment will include a magic act by George Banfy, a well known magician who for many years was on the vaudeville stage. He is rooming in Greenough while attending a short course for sanitarians at the New England Field Training Center.

MILITARY BALL COMMITTEE

The second and last meeting of the Military Ball Committee for 1952 will be held on Thursday, May 2, at 5 p.m. in Drill Hall. This is for next year's Ball and all appointments and committees decided on then will be final. Any and all Military and Air Force students interested please attend.

CAMERA CLUB

The U. of M. Camera Club will hold a business meeting Thursday, May 1, at Old Chapel in order to formulate plans for next year. All members are urged to attend.

QUARTERLY TALK

He has published two books of poetry, in addition to editing a third.

Juniors and seniors may remember his talk here two years ago when he read selections from his poetry.

After his talk, a tea will be held at Skinner Hall.

LACROSSE

The University Lacrosse team will seek their second official win of the season tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 when it plays host to the Weavers of Lowell Textile.

The veteran Weaver squad is expected to give the Redmen one of their toughest games of the young season.

Coach Ben Ricci will have to have his club at their best in order to notch the third straight win. With over 200 fans in attendance at the last Redmen match, the U. of M. squad will go all out to prove their superiority.

Everyone is invited to watch the game to see why it is called "America's roughest and fastest sport".

Financial Referendum Prepared; Senate In Hour-Quarter Session

Student Life Spotlighted Again Air Cadet Squadron Approved

The finance committee presented their budget for next year. At least 50% of the student body must vote on this referendum to make the vote legal. At least ⅔ of the votes cast must be in favor of the measure to have it pass. This situation came up last year when, although, the majority of votes were for the increase, less than 50% of the Student Body voted so the bill was lost.

If the proposed budget, passed by the Senate, is accepted by the students, the Student Tax will increase from $15.90 to $17.65. Proposed changes were: Reduction of Foreign Student Aid from $400-$300; Increase of WMUA, $700-$1430; Maroon Key, $10.00; Handbook increase, $.50-$.75; Collegian increase, $.50 increase per semester ($2.00-$3.00); Index, $.25 increase.

Prolonged discussions were held on the increases and the necessity of appropriations for Freshmen Men's Orientation, Women's Student Government, and Women Student Leaders' Conference were questioned but were passed by the senate.

The status of the Student Life Committee was once more spotlighted. Conflicting Student Government Constitutions were brought up and the orphan committee is still searching for a parent. Pres Pehrson stated, in answer to a question raised, that senate representatives to the Student Life Committee can use their own discretion and speak for the entire Sen-

Isogon, Scrolls Tapping Sunday; Proctors Named

The meeting will then be turned over to Nancy Allen, president of Scrolls, who will conduct the tapping of the women selected for the next year's sophomore society.

Barbara Flaherty, president of Isogon, will then announce the recipient of the W.S.G.A. scholarship awarded annually by Isogon to the outstanding woman in the junior class. After receiving directions from Miss Flaherty on line-ups for the juniors and seniors, the group will proceed to the lawn in front of Mem Hall where the outgoing members

Faculty Frantics Ready for '52 Show

Only one week to go before the 1952 Faculty Frantics makes its debut on the stage of Bowker. The cast under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Musgrave has been rehearsing feverishly for two weeks now and the show is almost ready for its big test.

All the musical numbers requiring band accompaniment will be handled by Art Dudevoir and his band who play at Johnny Green's under the name of "Sonny Dude's". Every member of the better than 100 member cast is priming himself for the dress rehearsal on Thursday night and the performance on Friday night.

U.M. Publications Have Price Raise

Three student tax increases and a constitutional amendment will be placed before the student body in a special referendum on Thursday, May 8.

The tax increases include $1. for the Collegian, 25 cents for the Handbook and 25 cents for the Index. The only other significant budget change for next year is the WMUA increase. This does not go before the students for approval since the money comes out of the funds appropriated for that to administration.

The other question on the referendum will concern whether or not the students wish to change the time of election for class officers to the spring.

The senators are considering a new plan for holding the election. While it is not definite as yet, the election will probably be held in the following manner. Polling places will be set up in each of the University dining halls, Mem Hall and as usual in the fraternities and sororities. This is being done so that there will be a better chance of getting the necessary fifty per cent vote.

W.S.S.F. Tells Where Your Money Goes

Did you know that the World Student Service Fund in 1950-51 received from American students and faculty members $25,878.15 in gifts of books, food, equipment, and clothing; $174,000 worth of scholarship aid, and maintenance opportunities for DP students; and $351,696.10 in monetary contributions? Did you know that the main categories of this overseas aid are medical aid, refugee aid, educational supplies, emergency food and clothing, and community centers and self-help hostels?

And did you know that those nickels and dimes you are putting into envelopes this week will go into these same channels? Can you think of a more worthwhile use for that money you donate in voting for a Mardi Gras queen? The W.S.S.F. steering committee can't and that's why they are sponsoring the Mardi Gras on May 10.

The committee requests that you give only as much as you feel you should. Remember—every penny counts. Do contribute when your dorm representative comes around.

Office: Memorial Hall

Subscription price: $2 per year; $1 per semester.

Official undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its contents—no faculty members reading it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

2 Packs of Luckies & a Quart of Beer

The Senate Finance Committee has approved increases of $1 per year for the Collegian, 25 cents for the Index, and 25 cents for the Handbook.

The new Index will soon be distributed and we are certain that there will be unanimous approval of it. Yet we are also certain that, with the Index as well as the Collegian, there is a great gap between what reaches the reader in the final form and what the editors would have liked to see in final form—if sufficient funds had been available.

— Pinpoint Pictures —

As evidence of the ridiculous extent to which the paper has gone, witness the picture of the finale curtain call of the Student Prince in the issue of March 25. Faces look like pinpoints: no eyes, no features. Every face should be clearly recognizable to give at least that slight recognition to those who worked so hard in the production. In the last issue there was no picture of Freddy Dole, Greek Ball queen, although some excellent ones were taken. Reason: no space. No man or woman would object to looking at beauty surely.

Unbeknown to the student body, the photographers of the yearbook and paper as well as others on the staff sometimes put their own money into the Index and Collegian. Why? Because funds are short and because a photographer would not print a picture with his name under it unless it were good. This is not vanity and foolhardiness but the exact thing everyone of us would do in the same situation. The question remains: Should anyone in a university of 3,015 students have to do this?

— Everybody Affected —

Do the men on campus like to read about sports? Invariably they do. Do the teams themselves like recognition for winning games? They would not be human if they did not. Along with good attendance at home games goes a pride in the team. Where else is such pride expressed if not in the newspaper? No matter what group is considered, everyone of us is affected by this inadequacy.

— Pleading —

Should organizations have to plead to have an article printed in the newspaper that is supposed to serve as the central organ of coordinating various groups? Should the editors have to relegate to the discarded file articles that are of interest to students?

— A Chance —

The issue comes down to whether the staff will be given a chance to put into practice their firm and correct belief that the Collegian could be far more powerful than it is at present as an instrument of student expression. If the editors filled the columns with trash, the student body always has the privilege of voting a decrease in funds for the next year. The editors must, therefore, tow the mark. One thing is certain: the staff will never give the University the paper it should have if we never give them the opportunity to do so.

— Two Cents A Day —

Taken as $1 the increase may seem quite a bit to give up. Consider, however, that each page of the paper costs approximately $100. Consider further the 33 per cent rise in costs of paper, the amount of advertising in the paper, and the decreased budgets under which the paper has been functioning for the last three years. Consider still further what the increase means to each of us—50 cents a semester. This would mean depriving ourselves of two packages of cigarettes a semester or of one quart of beer. It would mean two less movies a year or 2 cents a day. Is this too much to ask?

What could the staff do in the line of improving the paper? 1.) Give to all campus organizations adequate coverage. 2.) Run enlightening articles on how the University is run so that all students rather than just a few are acquainted with the running of the University—a most fascinating study, sometimes of inefficiency, sometimes of frustration, sometimes of wonder at the work done despite the strings attached. 3.) Run articles acquainting the students with the standing of the University so that the whole campus knows its university. 4.) Run flyers of real service to the student body such as the confidential guide put out by the Harvard Crimson telling students what courses and professors are good and which are just a waste of time. 5.) Run profiles of student groups such as Scrolls and the Senate to acquaint the students with those who serve them. 6.) Run interviews on pertinent questions—what Dr. Woodside thinks of the medical school, for example. 7.) Run even a thought-provoking column of the caliber of Bruce Bowen's column two years ago.

— The Senate Suffers Too —

On one hand, we have within our grasp the best means of student expression. On another, we have the student Senate. Do we support the Senate and get behind it so that we, as students, can express ourselves? We complain about the "administration", yet it is no wonder that the "administration" can pass rules against chaperone-free weekends, that General Court decisions made according to the Student Government Constitution signed by the President of this University can be reversed. Some feel this is similar to bucking a stone wall, but then, the supposedly formidable Maginot Line collapsed. We have the organizations we need; what we need to do is make use of what we have.

This may seem like a plea. It is—an urgent plea for us to awaken before it is too late.

M - Page Nominations Open

Each year the non-senior editorial executives on the Collegian prepare the M-page on the basis of consultations with the entire non-senior staff of the newspaper and with the student body.

Students are invited to send in letters to the editor giving their nominations for Man of the Year and Woman of the Year along with the reasons for their specific choice. Nominations must be for a senior since the purpose of the M-page is to honor those men and women who have contributed the most to the good of the University and who, by their character, come closest to what the students consider the ideal U. of M. student.

Nominations will also be welcomed by the M-page committee for the athletic coach of the year and the man of the year in all sports, each sport having its separate man of the year. The year covers from last spring to the present time.

All nominations will be duly considered and as many as possible printed in the next issue. The M-page itself appears as a flyer in the last issue of the year.

Student Life Report

Group Is Responsible Directly to President

by Bill Dewinoff

The meeting opened with Dr. Helming reading a letter of President Van Meter's to the effect that the President recognized the UCSL as a Committee of the University, not of any other campus body.

Mr. Hopkins reported that at a meeting with President Van Meter subsequent to the writing of the letter, the President asked that, if any question existed, the UCSL should determine to whom it should be directly responsible.

A discussion indicated that many members of the UCSL felt that the Committee had never ceased being a committee of the University, the President of the Senate's function being merely to forward nominations to the President of the University. Any other interpretation had apparently come from a misstating of Section 24 of the Senate Constitution of 1948.

It was therefore moved and passed that the UCSL consider itself to be, and as never to have ceased being at any time after 1948, a Committee of the University responsible directly to the President of the University, this position being based on the following statement, the only one recognized by the President of the University, in the Constitution of the Joint Student Goverrment Association of 1948:

"The Student Life Committee, which, as an official committee of the University is appointed by the University President, shall supervise the social life of the campus. Students and faculty shall have equal representation. The President of the Senate may make recommendations for the student members which shall include representatives of independents, fraternities, sororities, and the Stockbridge Student Council."

It was further moved and passed that the relation of UCSL to the Student Senate is to be defined in these terms: (1) In order that the President of the University may have a single list of nominees of student members of the UCSL, the President of the Senate will receive the names of representatives of student groups on the committee and forward them to the President of the University. (2) The Womens' Affairs committee and the Mens' Affairs Committee of the Student Senate shall have one representative each on the UCSL. The UCSL recommends that immediately following Senate elections a member of one of these committees, not a senior, be elected, if possible, for a term of two years, and that in the following year a member of the other committee be elected, also for a term of two years. This recommendation is based on the observation that experience is a valuable qualification of any member of the UCSL.

It was moved and passed also that because representation on the UCSL is based on areas of interest, not upon relative number of persons represented, the Committee considers its present composition satisfactory. Therefore, the Committee is not recommending any change in composition to the President.

It was requested that Dean Curtis, the Womens' Affairs representative, and the IFC representative meet with Mr. John Early, pres. of IFC, to discuss the question of conduct of exchange dinners.

It was also moved and passed that the present means of communication between the UCSL and the student body—that is, by reports submitted to the Collegian—be continued, without change.

In a cigarette, taste makes the difference—and Luckies taste better!

The difference between "just smoking" and really enjoying your smoke is the taste of a cigarette. You can taste the difference in the smoother, mellower, more enjoyable taste of a Lucky . . . for two important reasons. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . fine, mild tobacco that tastes better. Second, Luckies are made to taste better . . . proved best-made of all five principal brands. So reach for a Lucky. Enjoy the cigarette that tastes better! Be Happy—Go Lucky! Buy a carton today!

THE DU PONT DIGEST

Ch. E's at Du Pont

Plant development work is solid background for a future in chemical engineering

[FOURTH OF A SERIES]

The work of production supervisors at Du Pont, as discussed here last month, is aimed at getting better results from existing processes and equipment.

In contrast, the job of plant development groups is to find ways to improve methods and products, and advise management when changes should be made for economic or technical reasons. Chemical engineers in this work are responsible for lowering process costs, adapting the product to new uses and improving product quality to obtain a larger share of the existing market.

These duties provide an understanding of the fundamental aspects of the business, as well as a broad view of Company operations. The training and experience a man gains as a member of a plant development group—often a first assignment at Du Pont—is an excellent background for any field he may move into later.

Conducting a development study usually involves obtaining data from laboratory, semi-works and plant-scale experiments, estimating profits and investments, and consulting with sales, research and production personnel, also with auxiliary departments such as Engineering, Chemical and Purchasing, and with outside authorities.

Here are typical problems solved by plant development groups:

John Purdom, B.S.Ch.E., Ohio State '49, and Kenneth Kehr, B.S.M.E., North Carolina State '50, discuss diagram of a process for improved recovery of a nylon intermediate.

1. Prompted by obsolescence and wearing of equipment, experimental studies and economic comparisons were made on the entire process of isolating dyes. Methods in use called for crystallization, filter pressing and tray drying. It was found that a rotary vacuum filter with a continuous rotary steam tube dryer, air conveyor and a dust collection system reduced costs about $50,000 a year.

2. Production of sodium silicate was to be increased substantially, but the tank-type furnace at the heart of the process proved a bottleneck. The furnace design, including exit and entry ports, was improved, and its capacity enlarged at a small fraction of the cost of a new furnace.

With the rapid growth of technological improvements all over the world and increasing competition, plant development work assumes greater and greater status. The Ch. E. entering such a group at Du Pont finds a wealth of opportunity for his skill and ingenuity.

H. E. Graham, Jr., B.S.Ch.E., Georgia I. T. '48, and J. F. Carley, Ph.D.Ch.E., Cornell '51, study a plastic compounder-extractor-extruder for improvements in making plastics.

Thurman W. Kaiser (at right), B.S.Ch.E., Purdue '50, supervises tests of improved process for making neoprene intermediates.

Reid Bernhardt, B.S.M.E., Cornell '44, M.S.M.E., Carnegie '48, and René M. LeClare, M.S.Ch.E., M. I. T. '51, check installation of improvements in plant equipment.

Maroon Key 1st Annual Tapping

The Maroon Key Society will hold its first annual tapping ceremony tonight in front of the library. Among those expected to attend this ceremony are President Van Meter, Warren McGuirk, Dorie Alviani, and advisor Ben Ricci. The 20 men chosen from this year's frosh class have all been active and outstanding in campus activities, according to this year's Key. The men were chosen by the present members of the Key. They will begin their work immediately on the vast program of service to the university.

The new Key constitution leaves the door open for each year's Key to remain active, thus bringing the total membership of the society to 60. The society will then be in a position to fulfill its goal of assisting in class functions, administrative projects, faculty-student groups, athletic events, freshman orientation and finally the upholding of the traditions and spirit of the U of M.

INVITATION

The Intercollegiate Club of Boston has extended to seniors who plan to live in Mass. an invitation to apply for membership and enjoy the privilege of attending its dance series, discussion groups, and lectures to be held at the University Club, 40 Trinity Place, Boston, from Sept. 1952 to May, 1953. Membership is open to single men and women who are college graduates. For more information, write Box 179, Boston 1, Mass.

1st Woman Ever Wins Dairy Show

After a day of intense competition among 58 U. of M. and Stockbridge seniors in the 17th annual Bay State Dairy Classic, before 500 parents, alumni and guests, top honors in the contest went to Jean Sanborn, '52 and Warren Davoll, Stockbridge '52.

Judges J. W. Cobbie and J. D. Dodds from the U. of R. I. chose 14 finalists during the day from the eight breed classes to compete for the Premier Showmanship Award. Miss Sanborn, the only girl in the contest, edged out Warren for top place. She received the Hood Trophy, the Hampshire-Franklin Holstein Cup, Mass. Dept. of Agriculture Silver Medal and a model Holstein cow, as well as the Wirthmore Trophy.

Warren Davoll, also showing a Holstein heifer, was named reserve Premier Showman and, as the top Stockbridge student, he was the winner of the Edward Jazab Memorial Plaque and individual cup. He also received a gold medal, a Holstein wall plaque

"Eden" Hailed Success; Play Not Convincing

by Bob Boland

For the first time in several seasons, the Roister Doisters played to two nearly capacity houses at the UM premiere of "Eastward in Eden". The audience obviously enjoyed Dorothy Gardner's talky picture of Emily Dickinson. The Roister Doisters managed to maintain a high level of expression throughout this difficult and ambitious play. "Eastward in Eden" is a play that is not always convincing, never compromising and seldom activated.

The settings, by the technical staff of the organization, were some of the best we have seen and quite excellently executed. The lighting, while enhancing the nineteenth century sets, did not do as well by the actors, who often found themselves standing in dead areas of light.

There was no part on the play that does not deserve mention, for every bit player gave his or her utmost to the drama. Two of the smaller parts, Maggie, played by Rosemary Quinn and Lucy, portrayed by Nancy Gilley, captivated the audience at both performances. The "huzzahs" for the evening should go to Marguerite Follette. In the unsympathetic role of Lavinia, she gave an otherwise supporting role magnitude and importance. Especially in the third act Marguerite turned in a stunning performance that was tops for the play. Martin Sidman as Father Dickinson was good indeed personifying the Amherst provincialism of the time and the churchman's idea of congregational heathen.

VOTE - VOTE

The undergraduate students will have the opportunity on Thursday to vote on the three student tax increases, Collegian, Index, and Handbook, and the constitutional amendment providing for spring elections of class officers.

Men and women students who eat at Butterfield, Draper, and Greenough will vote during the evening meal at their respective cafeterias. Those who eat at fraternities and sororities will vote at their respective houses also at the evening meal. All other students, including commuters, married students, and those who do not eat in our cafeterias or houses will have the opportunity to vote from 3 to 5 p.m. in the lounge in Mem Hall.

The ballots will be counted on Thursday evening in the Collegian office and the chairmen for the various polling places are requested to get the votes in there so that the count may be made.

It takes a 2/3 majority to pass on all of these issues when at least 50 per cent of the students vote. A similar referendum failed to pass last year because not enough students voted.

Robert Frost Visits UM Again

by Mary Harding

A group of teen age boys wandered listlessly through the door, each one dropping his ink-written assignment on the prof's cedar desk. With each paper received, a deep sigh passed through the instructor's lips. When the last one was in, the prof stood and asked, "Is there anything here anyone wants to keep?"

The unsuspecting students were on their guard. "No, no," was chorused.

"Are you sure?" he repeated. Still the same reply.

"Well, if you don't value them enough to want to keep them, I don't value them enough to read them," and a flurry of white bits of paper floated into the wastepaper basket.

Today, many years after this experience, Robert Frost, New England's greatest living poet, still insists, "I'm no perfunctory reader of perfunctory writing."

Frost is no stranger to the UM campus even though many of us will see him for the first time when he lectures in Bowker tonight under the sponsorship of the Fine Arts Council.

Stretched out in an easy chair in the Lord Jeff, Frost remarked proudly, "I'm an alumnus up there (UM), you know!" Last year at graduation exercises Frost was given the degree of Doctor of Literature.

This is not the only bond between the U. of Mass. and the poet, as

What A "Yes" Could Do

A vote of thanks is due Editor Bill Deminoff and his Index staff for getting the yearbook out on schedule for the first time in five years.

A vote "yes" on the referendum Thursday night for an increase in funds will insure a bigger and better Index for next year—on time. A vote "yes" on the Collegian and Handbook increases would insure bigger and better Collegians and Handbooks also.

Our 15 Planks

A great editor once said the function of a newspaper was to comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable. The following is a platform prepared by the Collegian and is the best statement we can make at the moment of the aims to which we are pledged.

1. Accurate reports of facts in news stories.
2. Best possible use of the Collegian as a central organ for the integration of the many different groups on campus.
3. Constructive suggestions and criticisms.
4. Interpretation of news based on facts and research.
5. The informing of the student body on all matters affecting them in the State legislature.
6. A definite stand on every controversial issue of interest to the students.
7. Promotion of scholarships and academic activities.
8. Priority to news of interest to the campus as a whole over news for special groups.
9. Directness of statement; trend away from vague statements.
10. Greater freedom for student government; i.e., support of those measures leading to government by the consent of the governed. Greater freedom from rules favored with stiffer penalties for abuses of that freedom.
11. Enlargement of the Alumni Bulletin as a key instrument for University publicity—with free subscriptions to each member of the state legislature.
12. Encouragement through publicity to groups starting on campus.
13. Praise to groups deserving it; exhortation to groups falling down on the job.
14. More news about the faculty to promote student-faculty relationships.
15. Persistent campaigning for needs of the University:
    a. urge speedier construction of the following buildings in the order listed—Liberal Arts, Student Union, Goodell Library expansion, new physical education building for women.

Redmen Beaten By Vogel 2-Hitter

The Redmen were nosed out by Trinity in a tight ball game by the score of 2-3.

Bill Lauffer batted in both of the Trinity runs. His homer to left field accounted for the first in the second inning. A long fly off his bat rescued the winning marker in the third.

Don Smith scored the lone run for the Redmen in the top of the fourth.

The play of the day was in the second inning when leftfielder Bill Bakey made a game attempt to stab Lauffer's home run drive. The ball rolled off the top of his out-stretched glove as he crashed into the fence, momentarily stunned.

The loss dropped the Jorden-men's record to the .500 mark with 3 wins and 3 losses.

Poet Frost Comes Every Generation

Robert Frost will give a lecture and readings of his poems tonight in Bowker at 8 p.m. The program will be sponsored by the Fine Arts Council and the Department of English.

Mr. Frost first came to Amherst when he joined the faculty at Amherst College shortly after his return from England, where his poetry was first printed in book form. He is currently serving as Simpson lecturer in Literature and he spends a month of each college semester on the Amherst campus.

Since Mr. Frost has lived much of his life in the town of Amherst, it was natural for the U. of M. to develop a deep interest in the Poet's career. Beginning in the early 1920's, the University has had Mr. Frost lecture at least once in each college generation.

Ec Honors Society

The Economics Honors Society held its final meeting of the year May 1. Mr. Rozwenc, professor of history at Amherst College, presented a thesis concerning a main line drift towards a corporate state. His material was based primarily on The New Men of Power by Mills, and An Essay for our Times by Hughes. Informal discussion followed the talk.

At the business meeting Thomas Bott was elected president for the fall semester of 1952. The remaining slate of officers will be elected in September.

Be A Parent To The Brightside Orphans

The Newman Club is conducting a drive in conjunction with that going on throughout the Springfield Roman Catholic diocese to raise funds for the new buildings at Brightside, the diocesan orphanage. The Brightside Building Fund campaign has set as its goal $750,000, to be raised in a short but intensive drive between May 4 and 12. On Wednesday and Thursday, May 7 and 8, the dorm captain in each residence will be equipped with an identification card and will solicit funds from the students to swell the campaign contributions from this area.

The conditions that the drive is attempting to remedy have been viewed by several Newman Club members who can testify to the inadequacy of the present dwellings, which have been condemned by state authorities. A tentative plan involves the construction of an entirely new development similar to Boys' Town, with emphasis on homelike surroundings for the underprivileged youngsters who spend their early years there. The drive is a tremendous project undertaken for the relief of children who cannot help themselves. Its success will be measured in terms of human happiness and comfort. Whatever students on campus can afford to give will be appreciated by those who are striving to make the drive a success and by the children whom the new project will benefit.

Riccimen Tied As Moffitt Scores 6

In a hard fought overtime game in which 34 penalties were called, the Redmen lacrosse team battled Mt. Hermon to an 8-8 tie last Saturday.

Bill Moffitt had quite a day for the Redmen as he scored six goals, the last coming with 4 minutes left in the overtime period. Neither club had more than a two goal lead at any stage of the nip-and-tuck affair.

The regulation game ended with the score knotted at 7-7. Appleton of the visitors flipped in a goal at the start of the overtime on an assist from Huckabel. Busy Bill Moffitt then tallied on a pass from Connie Briggs.

The game was watched by a large Parents' Weekend crowd as the rookie Redmen hit a 2-0-1 record.

Redmen Take Two Straight As Corkum, Kroeck Split Wins

MASS. 15, COAST GUARD 3

John Pasteris broke into the lineup with five hits in five at bats to pace the 22-hit attack as the Redmen downed Coast Guard 15-3.

Bob Kroeck came through with a neat seven-hit pitching chore. The runs were evenly spaced with none for the Coast Guardsmen garnering more than one safety.

Besides clubbing out five hits—one of them a triple—Pasteris batted in two runs and scored four himself. Ray Lajoie with four hits, Bob Akerson and Bill Bakey with three each paced the hitting attack. Everyone on the Redman lineup garnered at least one hit except for Howie Burns.

The win now makes the Redmen's record stand at 4-3.

The varsity tennis team will take their annual tennis lesson tomorrow afternoon from the nationally ranked University of North Carolina Tarheels on the UMass courts behind the Cage.

The Redmen with a 3-2 record going into the meet will emerge with a 3-3 record as the Tarheels prove why they are annually ranked among the top three in the country.

Coach Steve Kosakowski will start his regular line-up as the Redmen get an opportunity to meet some of the best in the country. and other prizes.

Other breed winners in the show were Robert Crosby, Guernsey; Ben Flint, Ayrshire; and Don Gagne, Jersey.

Other finalists not listed above include John Marshall, Ed Fiske, Sid Montague, John Macomber, Jaws Walsh, Ed Turner, Howard Hunter, Joseph Hayden, and Ron MacLeod.

The sophomores in An. Hus. 26, under co-chairmen Mil Davis and Dick Larson, operated the show for the seniors through sub-committees who handled awards, decorations, publicity, and announcing. Sub-chairmen included Gwendolyn Judson, Herbert Stevens, David Blanchard, Stephen Davis, Joan Arthur, George McMullin, and Frank Bartlett.

Two special events staged by the sophomores were well received by the audience. In the morning the audience participated in a guessing contest to estimate the age, weight, and milk production respectively of three dairy animals. The highlight of the afternoon program was the parade of "farm babies" featuring the young lambs, pigs, foals and calves born this spring on the U. of M. farm.

The Dairy Classic was supervised by Prof. R. C. Foley and J. M. Elliot of the An. Hus. staff, assisted by M. L. Blaisdell, Farm Superintendent, and the various herdsmen.

The role of Dr. Charles Wadsworth, Emily's lover, is one that could easily be overdone or underdone. It is a part that, in less capable hands, could be either oversentimentalized or officious. James Chapman in his first legitimate play gave the role dignity and strength. His performance was honest and convincing.

Shirley Hastings gave a noteworthy performance in the Gardner version of Emily Dickinson. Miss Hastings is a good actress; of this there can be little doubt. During moments of the play there was promise of that electric madness that is peculiarly Emily Dickinson. But Miss Hastings missed the real "substance and intensity" of Emily as the author describes her. There was a tendency to provide Emily with a temperment almost saccharine. Nonetheless, as an actress and in a very difficult role, Miss Hastings utilized her ability to the fullest and gave indication of the fine things she will do in the years to come.

Mr. Nierleck's fine hand in keeping this "word drama" in high key was evident by the quality throughout the play. His direction was intelligent and sound. In the grasp of a less aware director, this play would do little for Dorothy Gardner's reputation to say nothing of what it would do for Emily Dickinson.

There will be a meeting of the Rod and Gun Club tonight at 7:30 in 102, French Hall. Mr. George Rice of Springfield will present a colored motion picture and lecture on his recent experiences in Alaska.

Robert Frost . . .

Frost numbers many of our past and present faculty members as close friends.

First on this list is Edward "Ted" Lewis, dean, past president of UM, and a ranking pitcher for the National Baseball League. In 1912 Lewis was chosen to replace Butterfield as prexy, but we soon lost the former to the University of New Hampshire.

Dr. Frank A. Waugh, one time head of the Division of Horticulture and father of Sidney Waugh, one of the country's foremost sculptors, was also a familiar face to Frost. Another UM man, Charles R. Green, was an avid admirer of Frost's poetry as well as a personal friend. During his years as librarian here, Green began a collection of Frost's work which was to become the largest of its kind in the country.

When asked if there is one poem closest to his heart, Frost's only answer was, "You wouldn't name a favorite child, would you?"

Frost sold his first poem after he "ran away" from Dartmouth. His first book was published "accidently" in England. Frost uses the term "accidently" because at the time, the thought of having a book published seemed remote and impossible.

One day, however, while sorting out a collection of his old poems and being short of cash, he decided to chance on finding a publisher. What a shock he felt when the first sample was accepted and North of Boston was sent to publication.

The next book was even less effort as Frost didn't have to write more material. "I just took another sheath."

With a war brewing in Europe and an uncertain future ahead of him, Robert Frost decided to return home to the country which had so long inspired his poetry. The ocean liner docked in New York and for the want of something better to do, Frost wandered up a side street to the nearest news stand. He bought a copy of "The New Republic" and leafed idly through the pages. There on a dingy side street Frost experienced one of the biggest surprises of his life. In a magazine he had never heard of before he found a review of his latest book by a publisher who was also unknown to him.

For a great part of his life, Frost has been affiliated with the field of education in one way or another. He has taught in prep schools, but he is chiefly noted for his work with college students. Although he has taught at Harvard, University of Michigan, and Dartmouth, Frost considers himself "an Amherst man".

Every year Frost spends eight weeks in Amherst giving lectures which usually culminate in one public reading-lecture. During this time he teaches no regular classes but takes over in a pinch if necessary. These visits are usually scheduled for four weeks in the fall and four in the spring.

WMLSP Delegates

About 300 delegates are expected on Wednesday, May 7, for the 32nd Annual Convention of the Western Mass. League of School Publications. One feature of the program will be a panel discussion on "The Function of a Newspaper." Panel members will be Mr. Harold LeVanway, editor of the Greenfield Recorder Gazette, M. Durbin Wells, reporter of the Springfield Daily News, and two editors of high school newspapers.

Brightside Picnic

An annual Newman Club event will take place on Saturday, May 10. Fellows and girls are needed to take part in a picnic given for forty Brightside children at Forest Park, Springfield. Anyone who would like to attend, and especially anyone who can supply a car, is asked to call Father Power at Amherst 422, or John Shannon at telephone 455-J.

Mt. Toby Com. Plan Workday; All Urged To Give Their Support

A general workday is scheduled for Saturday, May 17, at the new Mt. Toby Recreation project for all those people interested in any of its phases.

Plans call for small organized groups to take on individual jobs at the area as part of a general plan and include developing the picnic and sports area with fireplaces and tables. The original plans, which will be carried out in the future, have been drawn up and include facilities for boating, fishing, skating, skiing, swimming, and hiking.

The following prohibitions have been drawn up to govern conduct and activity in the Mt. Toby Forest and the students are expected to abide by them:

1. Entry into any part of the forest property including the recreational areas during periods when the forest is legally closed by proclamation of the Governor of the Commonwealth (which is done occasionally in the interests of fire protection).
2. Building fires in any but the designated places and failure to extinguish fires before leaving the area.
3. Removal, destruction, or damaging of plant life, forest products, or animal life. Fishing but not hunting is permitted.
4. Tampering with boundary and experimental plot markers, tree tags, scientific instruments, equipment, buildings, and other properties concerned with the research program and administration of the Mt. Toby Forest.
5. Littering the forest and recreational areas with refuse.
6. Possession and use of firearms.
7. Immoderate use of liquor.
8. Use of vehicles within the forest boundaries.
9. Enjoy yourself but crush out that butt before throwing it away.

Since the workday is rapidly approaching, all students interested in helping the project may contact anyone on the new steering committee for the 1952-53 season. The general faculty advisor is Ben Ricci. Chairman of the committee is Bill Whit-

Allen and Parsons Named PBK Scholars

The Pi Beta Kappa scholars of the junior class have been announced by Professor Bruce Morris of the Economics dept. They are Halsey Allen, physics major, and Edward Parsons, pre-med major.

The graduate members of Pi Beta Kappa here at the University select one to three seniors each year as Pi Beta Kappa scholars. This does not mean election to Pi Beta Kappa because the University has no chapter.

Those named are selected from among those seniors who have taken the major part of their work in liberal arts and sciences and who represent best the tradition of a liberal education.

Senate Approves Publicity Funds

The Senate approved an appropriation of $240 for two more reels of the film—"Candid U.M." The publicity committee explained that there was a much greater demand for the film than it was possible to supply with only one print.

Barbara Flaherty, speaking for the Adelphia-Isogon committee for the publicity booklet aimed primarily at the alumni and the legislators, asked

International Theme Used For University Mardi Gras

Gala Cast Of 100 Features Faculty Show

Tonight's the night! The greatest show on earth will be unveiled for the first time since 1950 on the stage of Bowker as the 1952 Faculty Frantics opens with a star studded cast of close to 100 members of the faculty, administration, and coaching staff.

Under the capable direction of Mrs. Arthur Musgrave, the cast has rounded into shape and will play before a sell-out audience according to all reports on ticket sales.

The Mt. Toby Committee will handle tickets at the doors and refreshments at intermission. The doors will open at 7:30 sharp with all seats unreserved except for a small number that will be set aside for faculty wives.

All available tickets for the show will go on sale in the Bowker box office tonight at 7 p.m. From all reports the show will be an unforgettable one—both for students and faculty.

Event Will Benefit WSSF; Van Meter To Crown Queen

The Mardi Gras for the benefit of the World Student Service Fund will take place in the Cage tomorrow from 1:30-12 p.m. The Mardi Gras is planned on an international theme; Butterfield, representing China, will give rickshaw rides complete with coolies around the Cage and there will be similar ideas drawn from other countries by 23 other houses.

The highlight of the affair will be the coronation of the queen by President Van Meter at 10 p.m. She will then award prizes for the best men's booth and the best women's booth.

Drive treasurer George Hanna reports that results of dorm solicitations are being tabulated and votes are being counted for all the queen candidates.

A donation of ten cents per student will more than cover the amount raised by Amherst College at their Mardi Gras put on for the same purpose. Surely a school as large as the U. of M. isn't going to be topped by a smaller institution.

All the proceeds of the Mardi Gras will go to the World Student Service Fund. This program recognizes needs and resources by providing the major part of the international funds necessary to meet university material needs through the fulfillment of priority projects in Asia, the Middle East and Europe. WSSF will relate universities in North America with those overseas through its affiliation program and participation in international conferences, seminars, and studies on university problems.

This is a request to you as sensitive intelligent people to put yourselves in the place of the needy, intelligent, and deserving students in the rest of the world where education is limited to only those with large financial assets. So, go to the Mardi Gras, and have a good time for the benefit of a good cause.

Whew — At Long Last!

Tuesday night the Senate voted $240 for two additional prints of Candid UM. At long last we have the prints we so badly needed. Congratulations to them for helping Bob McCartney out of the dilemma of trying to schedule a whole folder full of requests with the few prints he had, and for helping the student body to get more of the publicity it could use.

In addition, the sincerest thanks of Adelphia and Isogon go to the Senate for the $200 toward their publication—another idea along the lines of Candid UM. The publication will be sent out early next fall to every student. The Senate and the campus have the pledge of the two organizations to do the best they possibly can toward making the publication effective since the funds voted will enable them to attain the goal they had envisaged.

Big Brother is Watching You

Just last week the Student Life Committee decided it was a committee of the University subject solely to the jurisdiction of President Van Meter. This action nullifies the decision of the General Court stating that the Committee was subject to the control of the Student Senate.

On the surface this may seem a picayune point. But when we look at it closely we see that the very basis of student government is shattered. Is this going to happen every time the General Court reaches a decision? The Court, made up of the Men's and Women's Judiciaries, is responsible to the student body for interpreting the Constitution of the student government. The Constitution provides that decisions shall be final. The decision on the part of the Committee subverts the court to the control of the administration.

Two Conflicting Decisions

Let us compare the ways in which these two conflicting decisions were made. First, the committee. The president of the Senate and the Chief Justice of the judiciary were invited by Dean Hopkins to discuss the Student Life situation with the committee shortly after the General Court reached its decision. The day before the Committee met, the invitation was retracted by Dr. Helming on the grounds that the Committee hadn't had a closed meeting in months and wanted a closed meeting. Why they need closed meetings is beyond comprehension.

Evading the Issue

A further consideration is that the group in question is deciding where it belongs. The members discussed the matter with only one half of the Committee present. The only report of the meeting released to the campus was the 'official' report of the Committee which appeared last Friday. This "sonorous bit of nothing" stated that "the committee considers itself to be and never has ceased to be a committee of the University," and as such, is subject to the control of the President of the University—an obvious attempt to evade the issue. We asked where it belonged, not where it was. We already knew that to be true; their decision clarifies nothing.

The Constitution Says ...

Now let us look at the General Court decision. The matter came to its attention in a case referred by Senate President Pehrson questioning the legality of the Committee's action in referring the matter of chaperones at mixed meals to the Women's Affairs Committee for consideration. The General Court decided that no committee could redelegate its powers to another committee and that since both committees involved were Senate committees, they were responsible to it for their actions, not to each other or to an outside official.

The Court came to its decision after a two and one-half hour discussion and another hour of framing the decision. The session was open to the public. The decision was based on the 1949 constitution which explicitly states, in the same section that deals with all the other Senate committees, that it is a joint student-faculty committee. Each of the other joint student-faculty committees are subject to Senate control. Why not Student Life?

Promises or Actions?

Student Life claims it has never been under Senate control. How ridiculous can they be? How ignorant do they think we are? Granted it has never been that way. Do they want us to infer that it was never intended that way? Why did the framers of the '49 constitution leave out the section providing for presidential control of the Committee if they didn't want this committee to be treated like all the others? It wasn't a typographical error. Now who is kidding whom? What are we supposed to believe—what is said or what is evidenced by concrete actions?

The Protective Shadow of South College

The most important consideration is that college is supposed to train us to take care of ourselves. It is a connecting link between the time we are tied to the apron strings and the time we are our own masters in the cruel, cold world. Where is a better place to begin than by controlling our own actions at social events? Certainly if we can't handle the regulations for them ourselves, we can't be expected to take care of ourselves once we are out of the protective shadow of South College.

Are We Adults or Children?

The Student Life Committee has overstepped its bounds. Legally, morally, and reasonably the Committee belongs under the direct control of the Student Senate. The President, of course, still has ultimate control since he can reverse any action of the student government but why not give us a chance to prove that we are, at least to some small degree, intelligent and rational creatures? We know the difference between right and wrong. We are capable of taking care of our own social life. Further, our Constitution provides that we should. Is it not the Student Life Committee that always says "we need and want the opinions of the students in order to reach a fair and honest decision"?

J. H.

(Ed. note: Some feel the Student Life Committee is being unnecessarily "picked on" since the ruling on liquor. This is not so—our primary concern here is whether student government shall be a farce and the Constitution a waste of nine pages in the HANDBOOK. Why have a constitution if it is to be thrown aside always? We have come to a sad state, indeed, when college men and women are denied even one chance to prove themselves.)

Dear Editor:

We should like to recommend Bob Kroeck to the M-committee for consideration as Man of the Year.

Bob has been president of Adelphia this year, was class president in his junior year and vice-president of the class in his sophomore year. He has been vice-president of his fraternity and has played baseball for four years as pitcher and outfielder.

These positions, especially the presidency of Adelphia, involve much work and lead into other channels such as the campus spirit committee. Through office in the organization listed, Bob has been responsible for starting many other projects, one of them being the Mt. Toby Recreational Project.

Bob puts much time into each of the jobs he undertakes with very satisfactory results. A quiet and modest person, he is highly respected by his co-workers.

He cooperates with everyone and is sincerely interested in the good of the University—an attitude characteristic of his four years here.

Dear Editor,

We would like to nominate Barbara Flaherty for Woman of the Year. She has shown ability and leadership in all of her undertakings which include the presidency of Isogon (need we enumerate their projects for this year?), and the presidency of French House, a demanding job she has held for two years. The long hours of work she has put into her Collegian editorials are little appreciated by many people but are representative of her three years' work on the paper.

She has also been a member in many clubs such as Spanish Club, French Club, Pre-Med Club, Newman Club, and IRC.

In addition to this, she has done a great deal of work as a departmental assistant for both the French and History departments.

Listing a person's extra-curricular activities is a poor way to show the amount of effort put into the job. Few people can know the long hours of preparation and the extra work Barb has put into all her activities.

Sincerely yours,
Elinore Mason

Dear Editor:

I would like to submit the name of Ray Gunn for nomination as Man of the Year. Ray is deserving of this title for the following two reasons: accomplishments and character, both of the highest caliber.

To those who know Ray, and that is the majority of the student body, he is a student, an athlete, and above all, a gentleman.

In his freshman year, he was a member of the cross-country and basketball teams. The next three years found him playing both varsity basketball and baseball. For these accomplishments he was elected to the Varsity "M" Club, and this past year he has been vice-president of the club.

Not all of Ray's accomplishments have been athletic. He was vice-president of the Maroon Key in his sophomore year and a member of Adelphia this year. He is also currently serving as vice-president of the senior class. He has been active in the chemistry club, holding the position of treasurer.

In spite of these extra-curricular activities, Ray has managed to be on the Dean's List, which confirms his ability as a student.

Because of the reasons mentioned above, I would like you to consider Ray Gunn as a candidate for Man of the Year.

Sincerely,
George Pearse, '52

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

While I agree with much that the review of Eastward in Eden last Tuesday said, I could not resist writing to add my comments. Specifically, I thought the Roister Doisters did a fine job under difficult circumstances. But what I can not understand is why they make the circumstances as difficult for themselves as they do. The question in my mind is why they chose that play? I can understand the temptation to do a play about a local poet of Emily Dickinson's importance, but perhaps it would have been wise to wait for a good play about her. Dorothy Gardener's play was verbose and slow (I never heard so many people complain about Bowker's seats before) and its attempt to include lines from Emily's poems was too obvious and strained. Her treatment of religious themes was in some places unnecessary and in other offensive.

I hope that in the future the Roister Doisters are spared the necessity of making their gold purses from such unworthy material.

Pan-Hell Council Plan '53 Rushing

The Panhellenic council has been working recently on the rushing rules for the coming year. At the last meeting of the council, plans and dates were arranged for the fall rushing season.

The council has worked to extend the length of the freshman rushing period which proved too short during the past year. They hope to conclude more weekend open-house gatherings which the freshmen will be allowed to attend prior to the formal rushing week. The council also plans informal rushing for second semester.

The council will continue meeting this year to complete the rushing plans.

Netmen Score Against Carolina; Redmen Nine Wins Third Straight

SIMPSON SCORES!

The varsity tennis team scored a moral victory on Wednesday when, for the first time in three years, the Redmen scored a point against the North Carolina Tarheels. Despite the 8-1 loss, the team played superb tennis as they pressed the visitors, ranked among the leaders nationally, all the way.

In the singles, Clarence Simpson, a freshman, was the hero of the day as he came from behind to take his opponent in three sets. Simpson dropped his first set 6-2 but came back strong in the second set 6-4. In the final set, Simpson broke through Sapp's serve to go ahead 3-2, then 4-2, then 5-2. Sapp rallied to a 5-4 deficit, but Clarence withstood the challenge with his best tennis of the year to win the third set 6-4.

The rest of the singles matches were practically set-ups for the strong Tarheels as John Sterling and John MacLeod were the only men to take five games from their opponents.

In the doubles, Allen and MacLeod came through to take their first set 6-2 and then tied up in a duel which they finally dropped in the 16th game. The third set found the UMass duo tiring as the Tarheels took the third and deciding set. The number three doubles team of Mel Tucker and John Sterling engaged in the longest match of the day as they finally dropped their first set 12-10. Fighting for every point despite the fact that the match was already lost, the Redmen pair played the finest tennis this year even though it was not good enough to win.

All in all, Coach Steve Kosakowski is quite pleased with the day's performance as his squad took one point and one set against some of the best men in the country. Carolina, in about 20 matches this year, has dropped only two to Duke and Rollins.

The summary:

Singles:
Sylvia (NC) def. Allen (M) 6-2 6-2;
Browne (NC) def. MacLeod (M) 6-2 6-2;

KROECK BEATS TECH

The Redmen won their third straight game as they downed the Engineers from Worcester 5-3.

The Redmen broke into the scoring column in the last of the first as Bob Akerson singled, Bob Pedigree walked, John Pasteris singled to drive home Akerson, and Charlie Doherty singled to bring in Pedigree.

Don Swanson coasted along with a neat 3-hitter until the fifth when a single by Vancott, walks to Ozell and Grenier, a fielder's choice, passed ball, and a long fly ball to center by Shebek gave WPI a 3-2 lead as Swanson was given an early shower.

The Redmen drew back into the lead in the last of the fifth when Akerson walked, Pedigree tripled to tie up the game, and Pasteris singled through the middle to drive in the winning marker. The Lordenmen added an insurance run in the seventh when Pasteria walked, went to second on a fielder's choice, went to third on a single by Chet Corkum and came home on an error by the WPI first baseman.

Bob Kroeck came through with an excellent relief chore as he allowed the Techmen only 1 hit in the 4 1/3 innings he pitched. The win raised Kroeck's average above the .500 mark to give him a 3-2 record.

The loss was the initial one for the Engineers and they now have a 2-1 record.

The win gave the Redmen a season's mark of 6-3 with their next game this afternoon at Middlebury.

Weak Hitting, Poor Fielding, Tarpey Loses 2

TOO MANY ERRORS

The frosh baseball team lost a heartbreaker to the Trinity frosh by the score of 2-1.

Phil Tarpey again came through with a fine pitching performance. However, the two unearned runs proved to be his downfall.

Bob Brown proved to be the outstanding sticker for the Little Indians as he garnered two safeties.

The frosh have been continually getting good pitching, but the batting has been quite anemic.

The loss made the Little Indians' mark stand at 2-2.

MORE OF SAME

Good pitching and weak hitting again featured as the Little Indians were downed by the Springfield frosh 3-1.

Phil Tarpey's pitching was the feature attraction of the game as he allowed only two hits and one earned run.

Yogi Wisniewski proved to be the most potent sticker for the frosh as he collected two singles—half of the Little Indians' hit total.

The next game for the frosh is this afternoon when they will make up a rained out game with the Amherst frosh.

WE'RE IMPROVING

The Little Indian track team ended their season on a dismal note as they were whipped by Deerfield Academy 57-20.

The frosh were unable to cope with first place but garnered their points by taking a number of second and third places.

Jim Coleman with a second place in the broad jump and a third in the 100-yard dash, Charley Stengle with a third in the mile, and Smith with a second place in the shot put and a third in the javelin were the top point getters for the Little Indians.

The 20 points that the frosh earned in this meet was their highest point total of the season. In their first meet they were drubbed by Williams by the score of 93-15. In their second meet they were defeated by a strong Trinity club. The low point of the season was when they were dropped by Amherst by the score of 114-11.

However, the frosh were weakened by the drafting of the best material for use on the varsity.

Adelphia Tapping At Senior Convo

All members of the class of '52 are urged to attend Senior Convo—their last chance to pay tribute to the seniors who have been outstanding in activities here at UM.

Following the processional, Rev. Sidney Temple will deliver the invocation and Pres. Van Meter will speak on the duties of the seniors once they become alumni. This message has been requested by the students and should prove enlightening.

Ray Holmes will then present the prexy and George Emery with the class gifts and the Academic Activities Awards will be presented by Dean Machmer.

The Adelphia-Isogon gift will be announced by Barbara Flaherty, president of Isogon. The Chi Omega Scholarship will also be given at this time.

Richard Lettis has prepared a thought provoking speech on "Our University at the Crossroads" which is expected to make those listening sit up and take notice.

Concluding the convo, Adelphia will tap nine junior men, 10 seniors and two faculty members to carry on the work of this group.

SophMacKenzie Stops Clark 3-1

Yesterday on chill-swept Alumni Field, the U. of M. warriors scalped Clark University to garner win number 10. With five games coming up this week, Coach Earl Lorden had to reach deep into his manager's bag of tricks and come up with a pitcher who could act as a stopper.

Sophomore Hugh MacKenzie proved to be just what the doctor ordered; prescription three hitter. In getting his career off on the right foot, young "Mac" struck out six. Once in the eighth inning, with bases loaded, no. 1 struck out and the next two batters looked at third strikes.

The wind was blowing from left to right and it was like a miniature gale. In the second inning Clark collected its only run. With two out, a man on first, Mac made one too good for the seventh batter, Lacouture, who promptly tripled but died on third as Mac struck out the next man.

The Redmen were powerless at the plate as Bianchi threw a no-hitter for the first five innings, but, oh, that sixth inning!

Sixth Inning

The UM bench came to life. The Clark pitcher and infield were rattled. With one out, Akerson and Pedigree reached on errors. Smith poked one to right, good for two bases and two runs. Then after Doherty had singled putting Smith on third, the nervous pitcher balked and Smitty walked home to end the scoring.

Mardi Gras Raised $100 For WSSF

Despite fraternity parties, formals, and picnics, well over $100 was raised for the World Student Service Fund by the Mardi Gras committee.

Kisses were at a premium as the Abbey emerged with the largest single contribution from any women's booth. A. E. Pi. took advantage of the sadist impulse in most of us and placed first in the men's division with a sponge throwing booth.

One highlight of the evening was the crowning of Carol Hartley as queen. Prexy Van Meter did the honors with Kappa Kappa Gamma and Kappa Kappa basking in the reflected glory of their nominee.

The committee in charge of the event expressed their pleasure at the turnout considering all the conflicting affairs. Six fraternities, all sororities, and four women's dorms participated. This year was the first time that a dorm has won top honors.

The lack of enthusiasm on the part of the fraternities has been generally attributed to the conflicting house events. Too had that the others could not follow the lead of Kappa Sig and arrange to raise their contribution at a more convenient date. Next Saturday Kappa Sig plans a raffle for the benefit of WSSF.

The committee who deserve the thanks for the success of this year's Mardi Gras includes James Devaney, Dot Skillings, Marion Felton, Mary Lou Grentzenberg, Vincent Terry, Paul Burns, and Ray Walker.

20 Chosen From 140 At Drill Team Tryout

Man & Woman of Year At Soph Senior Hop

U.M.'s senior prom, Soph-Senior Hop, will be held this year in Hadley's brand new American Legion Hall on Friday, May 30. Mal Hallet's orchestra and vocalist, Virginia Brown, will be featured.

by Amy Laurel

The Faculty Frantics presented the other evening in Bowker are an excellent example of the depth of feeling that can be evoked by a discriminating director who knows the capabilities of the actors. Barbara Musgrave, her committee and skit directors obviously searched long and diligently for appropriate vehicles to present in the Frantics, for every skit was admirably geared to the talents of the individuals in each group. What better way to show faculty distaste for solemnity than by hurlesquing academic processions? How to permit the members of the psych and math departments to release their pent-up inhibitions better than by casting them as a grand opera company? (If "Carmen" Cullen's picture does appear in the Boston Herald, will someone please send me a copy?) I know nothing of the military on campus except what I see from the Collegian window twice a week, but several R.O.T.C. men have confirmed my opinion that the "Drill" skit was remarkably expressive of local army aptitude.

Most impressive were those mental giants, "The Delvers", who attacked the problem of Mt. Toby development in true academic fashion, by asking questions and leaving the answers for us to find. (And those are the questions which, if left unanswered, work their way into exams.) Their characteristically lucid line of thought will probably show up sooner or later in someone's lecture notes in Botany 1 or Zoo 35.

But it was in "John Crabapple's Hour of Darkest Peril" that we glimpsed the dramatic intensity of which the faculty is capable. This drama gave the lie to a popular misconception of campus instructors and administrators as bloodless individuals in whose veins runs red ink. (I don't know if that last descriptive phrase is original with me or not. I read a lot.) The general level of excellence of the acting was surpassed only by the deep significance of the skit itself. Here obviously was not a piece to be taken at face value. We must seek the deeper meaning. Only consider: the Dean of men portraying a weak and vacillating character, compromised by the very man who, in real life, would be the one to help him away from the primrose path. Further: consider the chief administrator of law on campus partaking of the cup that cheers in an establishment thinly disguised as Mill's Bar—but clearly recognizable as a dorm really inhabited by a group of clean-cut freshmen who make up the Mills AA (Athletic Association, what else?). A group of men, please note, who would not dream of admitting the smallest flask because no alcoholic beverage is permitted in University operated buildings, as expressly stated in the footnote to part I, section C, page 50 of the U. of M. Handbook. Do you begin to perceive the underlying meaning of the characterization? If you do, you're a better drama critic than I am; it has bothered me all week-end. And just try taking a problem like that to a formal; it's enough to shiver your stole. But let's not delve too deep. The Lean Dean has a long arm, I'm told, and the campus police have an expert who does nothing all day but figure out weak anagrams.

I have tried to avoid commending individual performances for it would be unfair not to mention everyone who contributed to the success of the Frantics. However, I'd like to suggest the establishment of a campus Oscar (dare I suggest a bronze Metatarse [illegible] wampe?) to be presented to Dean Machmer. If Jane Wyman won an award for "Johnny Belinda", Wee Willie deserves one for his touching pantomime presentation of Tiny Tim.

Many students attended the Faculty Frantics with the express desire to see their profs make fools of themselves. By the end of the first act, however, I believe that everyone realized and appreciated the essential dignity and high seriousness which pervaded the entire production. And if I am still here taking trig when the next student generation bowls over the campus to see Faculty Frantics, I shall be very happy to renew acquaintance with Mr. Ferrigno's old jokes.

REFERENDUM VOTE

By a vote of 1268 to 133, the student body passed an amendment to the Student Government constitution which provides that sophomore, junior and senior class officers shall be elected by secret ballot not prior to the second week in April and not later than the fourth week in April, and shall take office the first week of the

A One-Woman Army

In little over a month, Mrs. Barbara Musgrave whipped into shape—good shape—a Faculty Frantics show that had the wholehearted approval of the packed audience. She deserves much credit for her amazingly capable direction and organization of the show.

The Frantics was ample proof that a faculty show need not be restricted to one appearance in every college generation in order to be successful. It was also proof that the faculty are willing to devote some of their time to the furtherance of worthy projects like the Mt. Toby Recreational Project. And, then, what better way for students to find out that their English prof is a captivating blues singer or that the Dean of Men does well in the role of the drunkard? We secretly suspect that the faculty get as much enjoyment out of being in the show as we do out of watching them.

The Frantics was also commendable in view of the fact that students worked along with the faculty in doing the backstage work. Phil Sullivan, '53, was the most deserving of recognition for his work with Mrs. Musgrave.

What The Will To Do Can Do

A word of praise goes to the Mardi Gras committee under Jim Devaney for all the work put into the Mardi Gras which competed with fraternity formals and a busy weekend but held its own even so. Had the people on the Committee not shown an interest in the WSSF, the Campus Chest would have been a complete loss.

Comment On Increase In Tax

To the many who voted "yes" for increases in the Collegian, Handbook, and Index: thank you. It is now up to next year's editors of these three publications to prove that our money is not wasted.

We would like to commend the Senate, and especially Tom Bott of the Finance committee, for the smooth running set-up by which the required number of votes for the referendum were obtained.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Your recent editorial on WMUA (The Massachusetts Collegian, Apr. 29) is deserving of the highest praise for bringing to your readers a clearer understanding of that organization's activity.

A radio station must, of necessity, be a closely knit affair; its personnel must work in perfect harmony, under the most demanding circumstances. Deadwood-as you state in your editorial—must be eliminated as soon as it becomes deadwood; for deadwood jeopardizes the very existence of any organization.

WMUA is not a club; it is not a social organization; like the Collegian, it was created to perform a service for students at the University.

That WMUA has reached professional caliber is evident from the fact that the Federal Communications Commission recently approved its application for an FM license.

The next logical step is accredited courses in radio technique at the U. of M. Even television at the U. of M. is within the realm of possibility.

WMUA, like any radio station, is directly dependent on its listeners for whatever success and progress it has attained, or will attain. WMUA merits the support of every student.

Respectfully yours,
George H. Doyle '50

To the Editor:

In reference to your editorial of Apr. 25 giving to the the Inter-Dorm Council Credit for Parents' Weekend, we, the committee who planned and presented the weekend, wish to make a correction. The students responsible for the weekend are members of the freshman class but not of the Inter-Dorm Council.

However, as we are very much aware of the excellent work being done by the Inter-Dorm Council, we are pleased that although credit was given erroneously, it was given to a highly deserving organization. But in view of the energy and time put into the event by every members of the committee, we would appreciate an acknowledgment of the error.

(Ed.'s Note: Our humble apologies to the Parents' Day committee for what was indeed a flagrant error on our part. The people we contacted to verify the work of the Interdorm Council attributed Parents' Day Activities to the Council. It is equally our fault, however, for not having checked further and we are very sorry the error gave credit to the wrong people. We are glad you brought the error to our attenion for the Activities certainly merited attribution to the right people.)

M - Page Nominations

Dear Editor:

We would like to nominate Irene Finan for Woman of the Year. "Finnegan" has participated in numerous campus activities for four years; and yet, she has never sought recognition of her efforts. She is an excellent example of an all-round college student. Her long list of activities are too numerous to mention, but certain ones should be mentioned. All four years have found "Finnegan" actively participating in W.A.A. During her junior year, she was an interested member of the Senate. Last year she also edited a very outstanding Handbook. She has worked on many committees in connection with her major, Recreational Leadership. These include Winter Carnival and the Folk Festival.

As one of the outstanding women of our class she was elected to Isogon. Everyone knows the amount of work that goes along with this "honor".

Last year, "Finnegan" was president of her sorority, Pi Beta Phi. Recently, she was co-chairman of the steering Committee for the Mt. Toby project. Many hours of hard work were spent pushing this project to a successful start. "Finnegan" has accepted her leadership in these organizations; done her work well, but quietly; and maintained good relationships with both the faculty and the students.

It is hard to put into words all that "Finnegan" has done for our class and the University. We believe that our class should recognize her as Woman of the Year.

To the Editor:

We would like to nominate Larry Litwack as Man of the Year. In our opinion, Larry is the type of University of Mass. man who comes along only rarely. In his four years on this campus, he has shown the spirit, the drive, and the love for this university which we feel cannot be matched

Larry certainly has not simply had a senior year spurt as can be witnessed by observing his sophomore and junior year activities, which are as follows:

Sophomore year: news editor of the Collegian, sports staff member of the Index, varsity tennis team manager, and member of the Marching Band. Junior year: news editor of the Collegian, member of the publicity committee of the Campus Chest drive, sports staff member of the Index, publicity chairman of the Operetta Guild, special events announcer for WMUA, and member of the Marching Band.

With two busy years such as those behind him, one would think that he had done enough for his school, but Larry has kept rolling and in this year, his senior year, he has piled up a tremendous list of accomplishments. These are: managing editor of the Index, social chairman of Adelphia, acting sports editor of the Collegian, publicity chairman of the Operetta Guild, varsity tennis team manager, special events announcer for WMUA, member of the Mt. Toby committee, member of the publicity committee of the senior class, student head of the athletic publicity bureau, and author and editor of the first U. of M. publicity handbook.

This record of achievement, in our opinion, merits Larry Litwack the honor of being selected Man of the Year.

Sincerely yours,
Dick Levine

Dear Editor:

Yesterday I received a ballot on which were listed several requisitions for an increase in the student tax. As you know, the Collegian was one of the groups desiring this increase. Frankly, I voted against every proposed change.

The Collegian receives from each student $2 per year for operating expenses; the Handbook gets 50 cents from each student; and the Index charges merely $4.50 for it yearly. (All these facts are in the Handbook.)

Whether or not the Collegian needs the extra money, I do not know, but certainly the Index is having a hard time making ends meet. (I understand they lost over $1000 over the past three years.) And certainly the Handbook cannot hope to publish next year at 50 cents a copy.

The reason that prevents me from voting for these increases is simply that the student tax is already $36.25 per year for each student. Figuring it on the $100 per year tuition fee, it amounts to a 36¼% tax—for students.

Moreover, $20 of that $36.25 are handed over to the Athletic department for use as they see fit. $20 multiplied by 3015 undergraduate students amounts to $60,300—to one department. Doesn't the State Legislature give any money at all to this department? I understand that they now want to add a slight fee on the freshmen and sophomores to cover the expense for Physical Education. Perhaps they feel it is justified, but I do not. And until there is some fair allotment of the present student tax, I will vote against any and every proposed increase.

Sincerely,
Bruce MacLachlan

(Ed.'s Note: The state legislature gives no money to the athletic dept.

An idea that the U. of M. might use in regard to the student tax is the one used by UConn. No tuition is paid, but a student tax of $100 instead.

This is a sound expenditure of money, for the tuition we pay goes to the state legislature and unless it is re-appropriated, we never see it again. The student tax, on the other hand, goes into student activities and so directly benefits each student.

When we compare our student tax with that paid by students at the other state universities in New England, ours is still the lowest.) . . . . . .

To the Editor:

As a balding grad, I'd like to congratulate you now that the year is almost over in having published one of the finest Collegians I can remember. At no other time have I seen the students show—through Letters to the Editor—more interest in their newspaper.

True, they have not always agreed with your policies, but the very fact that such controversy was aroused shows that at last the Collegian editorial board has had the guts to stand up for its own opinions rather than indulge in the usual shilly shally of trying to appease both students and administration.

I sincerely hope that you get the necessary funds voted to you, and that you go on to publish an even better and even more inclusive publication.

In passing I'd also like to mention my reaction to the repeated vandalism on the much abused Metawampe. I've come to the conclusion that unfortunate percentage of the U. of M. undergrads are devoid of the slightest iota of imagination and humor beyond that allotted to malicious imbeciles. That the intrinsic value of having Metawampe small as he does not penetrate even the well paddled vestigial organs that these vandals and the others of the "younger generation", who apathetically sit by claim for brains, is beyond me. In continuing to dispose of the statue in such a sophomoric manner they show themselves to be social snobs with the sensibilities of a second-rate Babbitt, unable to appreciate anything but size.

The University has never made any pretense of cheap ostentation; why should it start now? Would Metawampe convey the spirit of the school any better if he were 12 leagues high with rubies for eyes, a bone through his nose, and the scalps of three college deans hanging at his belt? To any who have taken "Oh, yeah, Mass. Aggie!" as fighting words, Metawampe should mean something special, for he is the spirit of the U. of M. personified—runty, apologized for, overlooked, ridiculed by those too dense to see the real values.

People said the U. of M. was only a cow college and the school has gone far to prove them wrong. They say Metawampe is an insignificant hunk of bronze, but no one has had the foresight to prove them wrong, to flaunt his size, by making up for his size through other means. Admittedly, he is lost before the somber aspect of Old Chapel, but he wouldn't be if he were painted—well painted realistically in bright colors befitting a warrior. If this were done well, you couldn't miss him for miles!

It has always been somewhat of an American tendency to take the underdog—the "poor slob" to its heart, to glorify him. Apparently the students now enrolled are not made of the stuff that they can stand to laugh at themselves and to laugh with Metawampe. It seems they just can't take it.

I hope Metawampe is back again and this time stays put, but from my knowledge of that certain group of pseudo-sophisticated idiots who are cause of such actions and who bask in the perverted glory it brings them, I frankly doubt it.

Good luck,
Gin Leccese
Oklahoma City

(Ed.'s Note: The staff thanks Mr. Leccese for his compliment. We get the increase. We hope the new year carries on in avoiding shilly-shallying policies.)

Redmen Take 6th Straight Game As Corkum, Kroeck, Swanson Win

What adjectives can describe this weekend jaunt? There aren't enuf in the English language. Terrific, sensational, colossal are just a few which fit. Let's start at the beginning.

The Tribe started their Vermont trip off on the right foot Friday by trouncing the Middlebury Panthers, 8-5. At the start of the game the weather was dry, the field fast and lumpy, with treacherous sloping infield lip. With these conditions prevailing, the Redmen proceeded to take the measure of the vaunted Midd nine.

From the very first inning the Redmen took the lead and never lost it. Corky Lajoie started it off with a leadoff single to center. He advanced to second on a wild pitch and romped home on second batter Bob Akerson's single to left.

The second inning only found the Maroons adding to their lead. Leadoff man Chuck Doherty doubled, Bob Driscoll drove him home with a long single, and then Driscoll walked home ahead of Howie Burns who topped the ball 475 ft. for a home run. Score: Staters 4, Granites 0.

In the bottom half of the frame the Panthers, capitalizing on Kroeck's wildness, scored run number one. In the fourth inning Kroeck again got himself in hot water. With no outs he loaded the bases and then walked a run. Some terrific infield play got Big Bob in the ball game.

The fifth inning again saw Kroeck in trouble, but he managed to get off with only one run. Then the game settled down unil the eighth inning. Bing-bong Lajoie walked. Akerson singled. Two men got out. Pasteris was intentionally passed bringing to bat the man of the hour, Chuck Doherty. The bases plugged, Doherty rapped the ball into right field for three bases and three runs, and from then on, Middlebury was a beaten team.

5th Inning

Smith singled. Pasteris singled. Doherty was walked. Driscoll flied to left, Smith scoring after the catch. On a wild pitch the runners advanced. Burns reached on an error, Doherty scored. Burns went home on a wild throw to end the scoring.

With Swanson wild, Chet Corkum returned to strike out five of the six men he faced, the first time with the bases loaded.

All three games were filled with exciting defensive plays. In this department Chooch LaJoie won the plaudits and the hearts of the Vermont fans. Driscoll did likewise at Middlebury and Howie Burns at both places. The boys knew they had to win and they did. The record is now 10 and 3, six straight wins.

CORKUM & SWANSON WIN

On Saturday the club travelled from Middlebury to Burlington where it'll be a long time before they're forgotten.

Chet Corkum got the nod from Coach Lorden in the first game. Immediately UVM pounced on the unsuspecting tribe for three unearned runs. In the seven inning contest it looked as if that was the way it would end but in the last inning the roof fell in on the Catamounts. The U. of M. bench started in earnest to ride the "Cats".

7th Inning

Burns singled sharply to get us a base runner. Corkum walked putting men on first and second. Bobby Akerson attempted to sacrifice, the now nervous shortstop threw to the wrong base and all hands were safe, Corkum scoring. This brought in a new pitcher. Pedigree up. Akerson was forced, leaving men on first and third. Cleanup batter Don Smith put us ahead with a long single to right.

Ace Doherty stepped in with two out. Buster DiVencenzo was now running for the slow slugger, Smith. Doherty singled, Pedigree scored and on his heels came Buster and the ball. The catcher was awaitin', he was all set, ball in hand; Buster gathered momentum as he bowled over the 200 pound catcher, ball going one way, catcher another and Buster across the plate. The inning ended with Bobby Driscoll out trying to get on first with a slide.

Second Game

In the second game, we again fell behind by three runs and again sheer guts" pulled us out. Young Don Swanson was extremely wild and got himself in toruble. This time, however, we bounced back in the fifth frame.

Lacrosse Team Meets Amherst

The Redman Lacrosse team will close its first season in a contest with Amherst tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at Amherst College.

Seeking a victory in the season's finale, the Riceimen will be out to maintain their undefeated record.

Amherst, coached by a minister from town, has compiled a 3-3 record against rugged opposition such as Brown University.

Capt. Lou Toziher will hold down the center spot for the University while leading scorer Bill Moffit is expected to pace the Redmen's attack.

A large turnout should be on hand to witness the conclusion of a successful Lacrosse season.

BUSINESS AD CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

At the last formal meeting of the Business Administration Club, the following officers were elected for '52-'53: president, Dave O'Brien; vice president, Blanchard Warren; treasurer, Jim Bristol; secretary, Claire Cohen. All are juniors.

Allen, MacLeod Spark Netmen to 6-3 Win

The varsity tennis team split two matches on its over-night trip to Vermont as they dropped a close 5-4 decision to Middlebury before whipping Vermont 6-3 on Saturday.

Sparking the Redmen was Captain Bob Allen who registered wins in both the singles and doubles.

Barous, Law Win But Redmen Don't

The varsity track team dropped below the .500 mark on Saturday as they bowed before the superior depth of Northeastern 98-37. The Redmen were completely swamped as they took only two out of 15 first places for the day.

The only winners for Mass. were Fred Law in the pole vault and Frank Barous in the broad jump. Harry Aldrich ran an unofficial record two mile race but dropped it when Shea made a last minute dash to pass him about five yards from the tape.

The loss gave the Derbymen a record of 2-3 going into their final dual meet of the year tomorrow afternoon with Connecticut at Storrs.

Frosh Split Two; Faucette Loses DeerfieldBeaten

The Little Indians lost a close, hard-fought game with their cross-town rivals by the score of 4-3.

The Amherst frosh scored first in the top half of the first on a walk, error, sacrifice and a single by McFarland. The Little Indians knotted the score in the bottom half of the first as Vic Bissonette singled, Doc Blanchard reached on an error, and a wild throw to third let Bissonette score easily.

In the third, Amherst picked up another pair of markers. The frosh got one of them back in the sixth on a bit of sloppy fielding.

Amherst went ahead 4-2 in the top of the seventh on a play which caused a considerable rhubarb.

Cliff Johnson opened the last of the seventh with a long homer to right field, which ended the scoring for the day.

Lefty Joe Faucette came through with a neat pitching performance, but bases on balls and six errors committed behind him proved to be his downfall.

Summary:

Amherst	102	000	100	482
Mass.	100	001	100	346

FROSH vs. DEERFIELD

With a nine-run first inning, the Little Indians coasted to a 10-6 victory over Deerfield Academy.

Bob Bell opened the game by popping out to short. After that, 10 men reached safely before the second out was made to give the frosh a lead from which they never were headed.

The play of the game came in the fourth inning when Deerfield had the bases loaded and two men out. Eddie Hurley, son of the American League umpire, was at bat and drove a long liner to deep left center which had home run written all over it. Cliff Johnson, however, raced over and made a superb diving catch to halt the rally.

Ralph Mankowsky also made several fine catches out in right field.

Tom Cornelius and Ron Frost combined to pitch the frosh to their third win of the season.

Summary:

Mass.	000	000	010	10-9-1
Deerfield	000	002	040	6-11-2

Engineering Unlimited

Training in many different engineering branches opens the door to opportunity at Du Pont

In recent issues of the Digest, we have discussed opportunities for mechanical and chemical engineers at Du Pont. However, this is only part of the picture. The special skills of more than a dozen different branches of engineering are needed on our scientific teams. For example:

Architectural, civil and structural engineers are attached to the central Engineering Department which handles most of the Company's construction projects. In this work they make site investigations, lay out new plants, design buildings, determine construction methods and specify materials and equipment. They also assemble necessary labor forces at field locations and supervise the building and assembly of complex manufacturing facilities.

Electrical engineers aid in designing process equipment and facilities for power generation and distribution, air conditioning and refrigeration. Instrumentation is another important phase of their work. Continuous automatic analyzers for cyanides, ultra-violet gas analyzers, multivariable recorders, and new photo-multiplier circuits are just a few of their developments.

Industrial engineers help develop methods and standards for new or improved manufacturing processes. This work often serves as training for production supervisors.

Metallurgical engineers play an essential part in the central Engineering Department's program of research. Their studies are aimed at improving equipment and construction materials, as well as methods of measurement and control.

Safety engineers strive constantly to improve the broad safety program initiated by the Company's founder 150 years ago. Du Pont is understandably proud of its safety record, which in 1950 was eight times better than the chemical industry's as a whole, and fourteen times better than the average for all industry.

This by no means completes the list. Every U. S. industry utilizes Du Pont products. Hence there is also a need for specialists in mining, petroleum, textiles and many other branches of engineering.

Along with chemists, physicists and other technical personnel, almost every kind of engineer finds opportunity at Du Pont. Your engineering degree is only a door opener. Any man with ideas, imagination and the ability to handle people will find plenty of room for advancement in this company that has never stopped growing.

This year, The Academics Conspicuous Service Trophy, which is a recognition of that contribution to Academics deemed most significantly an innovation, is awarded to Robert M. Boland of the class of '52. Boland's innovations were partly in terms of student design and construction of sets, but particularly in the creation of ballet, and silk screen posters.

The Academic Managers' Prize of $50, in recognition of routine duties faithfully and intelligently performed, is awarded this year to James H. Patterson, manager of the Chorale.

Diamond chip medals were awarded to James Patterson, Lawrence Litwack, and Mary Lowry.

U.M. Goes For Eisenhower By 398 Vote

Despite the fact that Massachusetts is decidedly a Democratic state, the results of the recent poll taken on campus show a remarkable trend towards the Republican party.

In the presidential race, General Dwight D. Eisenhower practically tripled the total of his nearest competitor, Senator Robert A. Taft. Senator Kefauver ran a poor third in the popularity poll.

In the battle for governor of the state, Christian Herter staged an upset by beating Governor Paul Dever by over 200 votes as the trend continued away from the present incumbent.

In the contest for state senator, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, campaign manager for Eisenhower, rolled up the highest total of the day while swamping his opponent Kennedy by better than 500 votes.

According to the votes turned into the Collegian the totals are: Eisenhower, 554; Taft, 156; Kefauver, 109; Stevenson, 48; Stassen, 38; Kerr, 8; Russell, 8; Harriman, 7; Truman, 3; Warren, 12; Thomas, 2; MacArthur, 1; Undecided, 7.

The totals for governor: Herter, 520; Dever, 373; Undecided, 18.

The totals for senator: Lodge, 713; Kennedy, 211; Undecided, 6.

Orientation Period Planned For Unsuspecting Freshmen

Another first in UM's modern history will be instituted next fall as the incoming freshmen will report to their dorms on Friday, Sept. 19, two days before the upperclassmen. The house counselors will also return on that date.

Opening convocation for the freshmen will be held at 9 a.m. on Saturday. It will be followed by the testing program until 3:30 at which time coed recreational sports will begin. At 6 p.m. there will be a picnic supper and a get-acquainted dance.

Sunday morning the freshman will be invited to attend the church of his choice. At 2:30 there will be a tea for the women commuters and a smoker for the men. Candid U. M. will be shown in Bowker at 3:30 after which the freshman will be taken on a tour of the campus. In the evening dorm meetings will be held.

There will be a men's convo at 9 a.m. and one for the women at 10 a.m. and a joint convo at 2 on Monday. The students will meet with their advisors from 3:30 to 5 p.m. The big and little sister meetings will take place at 9 p.m. in the dorms.

Tuesday the freshmen will register and are invited to attend a registration dance in the evening. Classes will begin for all students on Wednesday.

The president will hold his reception on Wednesday and Thursday nights. Opening convo for the whole student body will take place at 11 a.m. on Thursday.

Friday evening the freshmen will be welcomed by the Senate at a rally. A football game is scheduled for Saturday and a dance sponsored by Isogon and Adelphia in the evening will conclude the opening week.

Senate Fights For Rights At Season Finale

The Senate ended its '51-52 sessions by passing the resolution requesting the President of the University and the Board of Trustees to retain for the Senate the power of deciding how money from the student tax should be spent. This request, occasioned by a request on the part of the Academic Activities Board to control the Student tax, also included that extra-curricular activities in general should be under the jurisdiction of the Student Government, rather than the Academic Activities Committees. This matter concerning either reinterpretation or revision of the Student Government Constitution joins the Student Life Committee dilemma as another judicial problem to be solved.

The Senate voted to buy a mimeograph jointly with WMUA, each paying half, and the Senate's responsibility not to exceed $90. At present the Senate used the machine in the Dean's Office, but this has not been satisfactory, as that machine is often in use and cannot be used by the Senators.

President Pehrson closed the meeting by reminding the senators who were not graduating that they would be senators until next year's election. Tom Bott will serve as acting president.

Service Fraternity Becomes Fraternity

After nearly a year of planning and work, a local chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national scouting fraternity, is about to become a reality. The initiation ceremony is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, May 18, at Butterfield Hall.

The purposes of Alpha Phi Omega are: service to the student body and faculty, service to youth and the community, service to members of the fraternity, and service to the nation as participating citizens.

Present plans include taking a census of entering freshman men to determine what percentage of them are, or have been, associated with the scouting movements, active work on the Mt. Toby Project, and the construction of a foot bridge across the University brook for physical education classes using the area in back of Phi Sig.

Officers for the coming school year are: Bill Whitmore, president; Dick Beddow, vice president; Gil Lafreniere, secretary; Russ Taylor, corresponding secretary; and Dave Houston, treasurer.

Alpha Phi Omega members express their thanks to Ronny Mansback, '52, who has unselfishly devoted a good many hours in order to make Alpha Phi Omega a success.

Student Government Soon Clarified By Prexy's Committee

A revision of the Student Government constitution was proposed this week by a special committee appointed to settle the position of the Student Life Committee in student government structure. The committee has been working on the Student Life problem for over a week. They came to the conclusion that revision of the constitution was necessary rather than clarification of the present document. This decision was reached not only because of the ambiguity of the Student Life Committee.

Recently Dean Rand proposed that the Academics Activities board have control over student tax funds rather than the students. This proposal was also given to the special committee to review.

When this action was taken and when the committee had almost reached an impasse over student life it was decided that the best all round solution was complete revision.

Serving on the committee, empowered by President Van Meter, were Bob Pehrson, Senate President, Nina Chalk, Chief Justice, Women's Judiciary, John Heintz, Chief Justice Men's Judiciary, Dean Hopkins, Dean Curtis, and Dr. Vernon Helming, Chairman, Student Life Committee.

The group has proposed that the Student Senate set up a special nine member commission next year to review the whole constitution of the student government. The commission would be made up of a representative from the Senate Men's Affairs and Women's Affairs Committees, Men's and Women's Judiciaries, IFC, Panhell, Adelphia, Isogon, the Government department and a general chairman from the Senate. There would be, under the proposed plan only one faculty member. Other students and faculty would be brought before the committee in special hearings covering all the sections of the constitution. This group felt that this was the only practical method by which a final solution can be reached in the student government dilemma.

Have Trouble Keeping Your Girls In Line?

Men! do you have trouble keeping your girl in line? Let us then introduce you to a man who has the dubious pleasure of keeping 48 coeds in step at the same time.

Clem Burlingame, new drillmaster for the Drill Team is in charge of planning routines for all home games and the trips to UConn. and Brandeis next fall. With the help of Joseph Contino, Director of Bands, Clem rehearses the Drill Team which is composed of 48 girls divided into six squads of eight each. The routines last for five or six minutes and are practiced Monday through Friday. This rigid program will continue through the football season in the fall.

Joint Chorale Concert Tonight

The U of M Chorale, directed by Dorie Alviani, will present a joint concert with the University Chorus from the U. of Rhode Island, directed by George M. Tinker in Bowker Auditorium at 7:30 p.m., Friday, May 16. The event is open to the public free of charge.

The U. of Rhode Island Chorus was known as the Concert Choir until last year when the school became a university. The 20 year old organization has in it three groups, Madrigal Group, Cantata Singers, and the Clandiggers.

A chorale ballet will be presented as part of the program.

The Chorale will perform two numbers jointly with the Rhode Island Chorus: "Hallelujah" from the Mount of Olives by Beethoven and "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones".

There will be a musical jamboree for anyone interested at the end of the program.

IFC ELECTIONS

The Interfraternity Council elected the following officers at their meeting Wednesday night: Dick Casey, president; Ed Craig, vice president; Glenn Barber, secretary; and Bruce MacLachlan, treasurer. Dick Andrews was appointed publicity chairman.

BIG SISTERS

All girls interested in lending a helping hand to freshman girls at registration and for the first few weeks in the fall are urged to sign up in their dorms on the sheets for big sisters.

Entered as second class matter at the post office at Amherst, Mass. Published twice weekly during the college year except for examination and holiday periods. Subscription price—$2 per year; $1 per semester. Office: Memorial Hall

Official undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its contents—no faculty members reading it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Swan Song

Every editor has a choice of three courses to follow: 1) a continual campaign of warfare against the administration—this makes the editor popular in the eyes of the students; 2) the writing of "sonorous bits of nothing" that the editor hopes will pass as an editorial—this adds nothing to the paper and takes up space that could be better used; 3) the attempt to benefit the students and the University through constructive criticism and ideas.

Our policy has been the third listed. We feel popularity is an empty term signifying a hasty opinion usually passed by those who are in no position to judge. The displeasure of those whose toes are stepped on is negligible when the end we believe to be right is attained. We are confident that next year's editor, John Heintz, will avoid shilly-shallying techniques in his editorial writing.

What we have tried to do during the semester we have already stated in our platform. Without a team operation, however, nothing can be accomplished on a newspaper. The present editor wishes to give recognition to those who have helped her greatly during the past semester. Her appreciation goes, therefore, to:

Will Richter and Bob Boland who wrote the reviews the editor found herself extremely incompetent to even attempt to undertake. To John Soltys, who volunteered his help in any capacity needed at the beginning of the semester. He has helped the editor immeasureably in research work and might well be called an "associate editor" though he is little interested in titles. To Glenn Barber for his excellent coverage of Greek Week and IFC. To Shelley Saltman for his jaunty baseball column and for giving the staff blow by blow descriptions of all that the baseball team does when not playing baseball.

To WMUA who are cooperating with us in the Collegian of the Air, thus enabling us to get more news to the campus. The idea was theirs and has worked out remarkably well from our point of view with John Carroll, Don Ware, and Bob DeSimone doing broadcasting and preparation of the script.

To Senator Mahar, Representative Mirsky, and correspondent Russ Keith at the State House.

To the deans, the president, and the treasurer for being cooperative with reporters though we secretly suspect they must have felt like throwing us all out on our ears at times.

To Bill Deminoff, George Delaney, Dan Porter, Bob Pehrson, Alan Wakstein, Nancy Deignan, and Dave Sokol for their suggestions for editorials and for their helpful criticisms. To Bob McCartney and Mr. Musgrave, advisor to the paper, for their help in directing the editor to the proper sources of information and for their willingness to guide the editor in paths where their years and experience give them greater judgment.

To Lefty, Leo, and Eddie at the print shop for their patience and help when we get the make-up of the paper completely the reverse of what it should be.

On the Staff:

To Nina Chalk for patience and coolness when everyone else is up in the air. As executive editor, she has the organizational ability and the personality that will make next semester's team more closely knit and more efficient than this semester's.

To John Heintz for long hours, hard work, and a handy knowledge of background material. It is quite unusual to find someone upon whom you can always depend for needed assistance. As the next editor, he has the necessary ability, judgment, and willingness to work that make a good editor. The outgoing seniors feel the paper will improve steadily under Mr. Heintz.

To Elinore Mason, who, as campus activities editor, had an extremely difficult and thankless job and almost tore out her blonde hair when articles she sent through for organizations had to wait from one issue to the next to find room. As Associate Editor, Miss Mason has the training that will make her a valuable right-hand man to the editor.

To Bruce Fox whose competence and devotion to his job make him an asset to the paper. He has the potentialities of an excellent managing editor.

To Larry Litwack who has faithfully served the paper in writing sports. Though the editor still disagrees violently with his ideas on athletics, she believes he deserves the greatest credit for the sincere interest and tremendous energy put into his job. He and Al Shumway, next semester's sports editor, have been a two-man staff—a most dependable and capable staff.

To the photographers who sweat down in the darkroom under high temperatures and without the proper equipment to develop the few pictures we have room to run. To Mike Bullock for the photo composites that mean so much more work than the ordinary picture. To Don Heywood for lithographing without ever a thought for glory.

To Saul Feingold who has not yet ceased to amaze us by his remarkable efficiency as advertising manager.

To Al Shuman who completely reorganized the business staff into what is now an infinitely smoother running set-up. He is continuing as business manager so that the business side will be well straightened out. He will probably then become the first executive editor from the business side of the paper.

To crack reporters like freshman Marjorie Vaughn, Nancy Deignan, Mary Harding, Lila Broude, and Stephanie Holmes.

To Joan Nelson and Ann-Marie Lynch, our right-hand men, who not only write in an original style but fill in whenever necessary for others.

To the students who cared enough about what they read to write in letters to the editor. This applies even to the men in Lambda Chi and Mills—the editor is under the impression, for some odd reason, that they still think her a crackpot.

To all my beloved staff who attach signs on my desk—one of them adorned with skull and crossbones saying: "QUARANTEEN! Fair warnin' to bill collectorz, revenooerz, lightnin rod peddlerz, and other city zlickerz: We got leprosy, fallin' archiz, hoof and mouth dizeaz, eneurisiz, D.tz an dandruf—Perceed at yer own rizk! P.S. Beware the Rattleznake. Thuh critter got looze thiz mornin'!"

And there in a nutshell is what the staff thinks of the editor. Some people probably think worse.

B. F.

So long, but not goodbye

Neither words nor space is adequate to express the sincere loss that we of the Collegian feel in loosing Barbara Flaherty as our Editor. We will make no attempt to praise the job she has done this past semester for this paper; the product will serve to speak for itself. At times all of us have disagreed with some of her policies or ideas, but we are all tied to her by bonds of personal respect and admiration. Her moral fibre, ambition, and buoyant personality have driven all of us on in spite of the many difficulties we have encountered.

From all of us to you, Barb, thanks, it has been a great inspiration working with you. May we all wish you continued success and prosperity.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

How but through the Collegian can I express, to the many students and faculty and staff members who gave so generously to the Charles N. DuBois Memorial Fund, my thanks for this expression of their love and appreciation of my husband as a person and a teacher.

My acknowledgment of the gift has been held until an over-all plan for its disposition could be made. Recently, acting in line with suggestions from some of the students and friends, I have incorporated your gift into a general fund to aid in the education of our children. This act is appropriate, I believe, in view of your intentions and my husband's and my interests.

We are most grateful for your loyalty, at this difficult time, and in the future which your thoughtfulness has made more secure.

Most sincerely,
Mrs. Charles N. DuBois

To the Editor:

We ask on what criterion do you, E. Moore, base your comments in the May 9th issue of the Collegian concerning "Eastward in Eden"? Are you using the values of the famous Boston and New York critics as Bill Riley, Elliot Norton, or Mary Sullivan? Or do you profess some superior standard of judgment?

We do not question your identity, for we feel sure that anyone as strongly certain of his own opinions as you are, would not hesitate to use his (or her) real name!

THE "M" PAGE

Each year the Collegian dedicates one page of its final issue to the men and women who we feel have contributed the most to the University. This is our way of saying thanks to the leaders and, through these leaders, to the groups which they represent.

It is very difficult to select a small group of persons and decide that they have been the most outstanding, since it is impossible for us to realize the contributions of the many whose names do not appear on this page. We appreciate fully the efforts of those whom we have not mentioned on the "M" page, and submit this group of seniors as representatives of the class of 1952.

To Bob Kroeck and Barbara Flaherty, Man and Woman of the Year, go the best wishes of the Collegian editorial board. To the runners-up go the applause due them for the excellent work which they have done on campus. To the rest of the seniors we send congratulations and wishes for success in the future and thanks for the work accomplished by each and every one at the University of Massachusetts.

Man of the Year

ROBERT KROECK

The best all-around guy we ever knew, Bob has proved his leadership qualities and earnest desire to benefit the U. of M. physically, morally, and socially through his fraternity, his place on the baseball team, the presidency of his class last year, and the presidency of Adelphia—all jobs simple in name and complex in character. Since he finds no barrier insurmountable and brings each thing he does to a successful conclusion, we have made Bob our choice for Man of the Year.

Woman of the Year

BARBARA FLAHERTY

Probably the most able and versatile woman on campus, Barb shows spirit and sincere determination as well as mental agility in all of her undertakings. No job is ever too small to merit her attention; no job ever too large to tackle. She has a deep interest in each task, sometimes to her own detriment. For these reasons, we of the Collegian chose Barb—president of Isogon, editor of the Collegian, and moving force in many other campus activities—as our Woman of the Year.

Bob Boland

Even by graduation we won't lose Bob since he will probably return next year as an instructor. His achievements have mostly been in dramatics and music. The Operetta Guild, Roister Doisters, Campus Varieties, the Univ. Chorus, the Quarterly—only a partial list of his activities. In his freshman year at the Statesman, the Devens Commonwealth, Merrymount Masque and the Devens Glee Club claimed his many talents.

Muriel Fauteux

Phi Kappa Phi scholar, a Dean's List student and doing Honors work in her major field, Muff has found time to participate in many other campus organizations. Her activities include Scrolls, Isogon, WAA, Operetta Guild, Collegian, and various class committees. This year she was president of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Larry Litwack

Besides Larry's long list of activities which give us an accurate picture of the amount of work he has done for the University. He has worked as News and Sports Editor of the Collegian, Managing Editor of the Index, with the Operetta Guild, Roister Doisters, Campus Varieties, WMUA and Hillel house. He has served with many groups as publicity director, which has almost been a full time job. He is a member of AEPi and of Adelphia.

Kay Romano

As a member of the Student-Faculty Relations Committee, Kay Romano has done much for the advancement of UM. She has been in Campus Varieties and the Mathematics Club. Kay is Sec.-Treas. of Isogon, a Dean's List Student, Chairman of the Women's Leaders' Conference, on the Handbook Board, and the Springday Com. Her abilities have lead her to be House Counselor and House Chairman, a member of the Student Union Com., and vice president of Pi Beta Phi.

Ray Gunn

Ray is most noted for his outstanding achievements in Basketball and Baseball, but this is only one side of his activities. He is a member of Adelphia, the Chem Club, and is Veep of the class of '52. In his first two years he was on the Dean's list. As a Sophomore he was on the Maroon Key. In every one of these groups he has left his mark as a great worker and greater personality.

Polly Harcovitz

Polly Harcovitz has contributed much to the U. of M. Her activities include Panhel, Women's Judiciary, RDs, the Outing Club, SCA, Mother's Day Com., WAA, and has been House Counselor and House Chairman. She has held offices as Vice President of the Home Ec Club, Secretary of the Student-Faculty Planning Board, Publicity Chairman of State Home Ec Club, and has served her sorority, Pi Beta Phi.

Jean Hazelton

Her election to Isogon was only another service feather for Jean Hazelton, who has been Secretary of her class, Co-Chairman of the Winter Carnival Ball Committee, and Events Chairman of the Campus Chest Committee. Jean's versatility is evidenced through membership in Pan Hell, the Operetta Guild, SCA, Spring Day Committee, and Soph-Senior Hop Committee. She has been Social Chairman of Lewis Hall as well as House Chairman. Jean has worked as a member of the Ed. Club, Nature Club, WAA, Naiads, and Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Bill Deminoff

With his working at Butterfield and excellent scholastic standing you would think Bill had little time for out-side activities. However, under his editorship, the Index came out on time for once. He has been a member of the Student Life committee this year. He has also worked for the Pre-Med Club and the International Relations Club. He has been on the Dean's List every semester, is an English Honors major and a Phi Kappa Phi scholar.

Bob Pehrson

Bob's greatest contribution to the University has been through the Student Senate as finance chairman, treasurer and president. He has served on a host of committees as student government head. To begin him on his Army Career Bob has been commander of the troops for the Mili Dept. He is an Adelphian and a member of Sig Ep. With all of these activities Bob has been on the Dean's List four years, is a Govt Honors' Major, and a member of Phi Kappa Phi.

Irene Finan

Another leader on campus has been Irene Finan, better known as "Finnigan." She has been active in Roister Doisters, WAA, Newman Club and the W.S.G.A. Council. This year "Finnigan" has been a member of Isogon and has done a great deal in promoting the Mt. Toby project. She is also president of Pi Beta Phi.

Bob Smith

Bob's toughest assignment has been that of Drill Master of the Drill Team. He is a winner of the Flint Oratorical Contest, a member of the Roister Doisters, Campus Varieties, Mili Ball Committee and represents Theta Chi on the IFC. This year he has served as secretary of the IFC and Veep of Theta Chi. His first three years he was on the Dean's List. Bob is one of the members of this year's hard working Adelphia.

Judy Broder

Judy, who has served as feature editor, editor, and executive editor of the Collegian, has been active in several other campus activities. Besides being a four year Dean's List student, she has worked on the Index, the Quarterly, Campus Varieties and is a member of Hillel, WAA, Isogon and Sigma Delta Tau. These are but a few of her activities which show the merit of a place on the "M" page.

Milt Crane

As Circulation Manager and Business Manager we have great respect for Milt. The Collegian has only been a small part of his activity. Adelphia, IFC (veep this year), Handbook, Index, Roister Doisters, Campus Varieties, Student Senate, Hillel House, president two years, several ball committees, Class ring committee, Executive Comm., and vice president are some of the many groups he has worked on. He is the president of TEP fraternity.

Joan Heath

The "M" Page is for women of leadership. We selected Cherrie Heath and so did Isogon. A Dean's List student for three years, and a member of Scrolls in her sophomore year, she has been Secretary and President of the Panhellenic Council. Cherrie has been president of WAA, and sports manager, and has served on the Carnival Ball Committee and Mother's Day Committee. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

FOOTBALL

Bob Nolan

Bob Nolan has been outstanding in his two years of varsity play and was awarded the William T. Evans Trophy at the Sports Banquet in January for outstanding playing. Bob, who will be a senior next year, is the mainstay of a veteran line that is returning next fall. He has always been a crowd-pleaser with his rugged line-play and should prove to be even better next year with another year's experience.

CROSS COUNTRY

Harry Aldrich

Harry Aldrich has been Mr. track ever since he entered school and was running with the frosh. He has been nearly unbeatable in cross country and has been a star in both Winter and Spring track. As a matter of fact, Harry is the Captain of next year's Winter track team. Harry is also the holder of the record for the two-mile. Only a sophomore, he has ample time in which to try and break many of the other track records.

SOCCER

Al Hoelzel

The leading scorer in the New England Intercollegiate Soccer League, Al Hoelzel by far deserves the recognition given to him as the outstanding man on the varsity soccer squad. His team play and driving competitive spirit make him an outstanding addition to our honor roll of outstanding athletes.

SWIMMING

Dick Cornfoot

Quiet, genial Dick Cornfoot has been the outstanding man on the swimming team since he first joined Joe Rogers' squad. Dick is a two time winner of this award, and being only a junior has a chance to become the first three-time winner on the Varsity M page. Dick was undefeated this year as he set a new college and pool record for the 200 yard backstroke of 2:20.8. Dick has also been elected Captain of next year's swimming team which is as it should be.

WINTER TRACK

Fred Law

A newcomer to the University athletic scene, and the only man from out of state to make the Varsity M page, Fred Law turned in an outstanding record in winter track. In addition to setting a new University pole vault record, Law competed in the dashes and fared quite well as he teamed up the two events for an average of eight points a meet. For his contribution towards bringing the most successful seasons in years, we unanimously picked Fred Law as one of our outstanding athletes.

Bill Prevey

Athlete of the Year

Outstanding man in University athletics this year, and for many previous years, is Captain Bill Prevey of the varsity basketball team. Holder of every basketball record at the University as well as two Yankee Conference records, Prevey finished fifth in the nation among college scorers. A leader among men, Prevey was a team player all the way. A win was more important to him than any individual glory that might result from setting new records. The ovation given him on "Prevey Night" was a living testimonial of the feelings of the students and friends towards Bill. His actions both on and off the courts have earned him this final acclaim as the University athlete of the year.

This year, the COLLEGIAN presents its second Varsity "M" page, honoring those athletes who have been outstanding as important cogs in the wheel of victory, as persons of character and ability, as valuable assets to their respective squads, and above all, as men of credit to the University of Massachusetts. To all those who, by their endeavors and their character, have been representatives of which this university can be proud, the Varsity "M" page is respectfully dedicated. To the seniors, may they go forth and exemplify in life the spirit of sportsmanship and teamwork that has typified their work in athletic contests. To the underclassmen, may they continue for the remainder of their stay at the University to uphold the tradition of the fighting Redmen.

Coach of the Year

After a careful survey of the coaching picture at the University, we came up with the unanimous choice of Ben Ricci as Coach of the Year. His selection will come as a surprise to some. Ricci was chosen for his work in organizing a new sport—lacrosse—at the University. His work with this team is expected to result in a new varsity sport next year. His team is riding the crest of an undefeated season including a decisive win over Amherst College. The members of the team have the utmost respect for Ricci, and his winning team proves that. Despite the fact that his time is somewhat limited by his post as University trainer, Ricci still found time to perform a difficult task well. For these reasons, we select Ben Ricci as the outstanding leader among the Redmen coaching ranks.

College At Devens Now Only History

Emergency Education Begun And Ended Within Three Years

Governor Maurice J. Tobin signed Chapter 596 of the Acts of 1946 on June 14, 1946. By that act he established the agency to carry out an emergency program of college level education designed to meet the educational crisis confronting the Commonwealth through the return of thousands of veterans. These veterans, though qualified to carry college level work and eligible to carry such a program under the G. I. Bill of Rights, were unable to find room on any college campus of Massachusetts or of any other state in the Union.

The decision of the War Department to place Fort Devens on an inactive status as of July 1, 1946, had placed at his disposal the land and buildings of the military reservation located in Ayer. A committee of college presidents, under the chairmanship of President Conant of Harvard, had approved the wisdom of his proposal and had agreed to cooperate in making the venture a success. The trustees of the U. of M. had agreed to accept full responsibility for the undertaking. The General Court of the Commonwealth had provided the machinery and had agreed to underwrite the project. Thus was the U. of M. at Fort Devens established to meet the educational need of the veterans.

Dr. Edward Hodnett was named as vice president, Dr. Wentworth Williams as Dean of the Faculty, and Dr. Joseph M. Stokes, Dean of Students. The last week of August, 1946, saw the arrival of the first staff members in the fields of instruction and administrative help. Five days before the arrival of students, dormitories were found short of beds, at which time faculty members of all ages and grades donned overalls and spent three days moving beds, lockers and chairs into the great three story buildings which comprised the student dorms. Group action and cooperation got things done in time and this sequence was repeated time after time while Devens was in operation.

Space does not permit the yearly coverage of the operation of Devens, and the tremendous task of setting up the various departments and divisions, the library, and the records maintained during the four years go down in state history as a job well done. The showing made by students who attended the school during the four years stand out as a credit to the instructors and members of the administration. As Governor Paul A. Dever said during the final Convocation, "In these sons . . . the Commonwealth can rejoice and take pride."

The final Convocation was held in the Arena on Saturday, May 28. Beneath lowering skies and threatening showers, reminiscent of the opening of this campus, Devens ceremoniously brought its brief period of activity to a close. Drs. Williams and Stokes remained, and the continued interest of the third was disclosed in a telegram of congratulations from Dr. Hodnett, now president of Penn College. Everyone remembers that final day with many state dignitaries present. President Leonard Carmichael of Tufts College spoke on behalf of the Board of Trustees and, speaking directly to the student body, he told them that they might say, "I was at Devens" with a special sort of pride. The main address was delivered by the Honorable Maurice J. Tobin, Secretary of Labor of the U. S. He stressed the ideologies of the students and praised the faculty and administration for their fine work during the four years of existence. However, it was Dean Stokes who spoke the most remembered words when he said that Devens would continue to live "in the hearts of those who love it."

Thus came to a close the school that was fondly known as Devens; only a memory of pleasant months remains.

"Damn glad this is the last one."

Parade, Picnic Feature Devens Gala Farewell

The men who attended the Veterans' Branch of the U. of M. at Fort Devens will hold a gala farewell on the U.M. campus on May 17. This farewell is being sponsored by the men of this year's graduating class who attended the last school year of Devens prior to transferring here. Since the branch school closed in 1949, the final class are now U.M. seniors..

The farewell will begin with a modified 40 & 8 parade starting at Mills House at 1:30 p.m., and winding through the campus to Bowker Auditorium.

At Bowker there will be a short program of speeches by people who were connected in some way with the college at Devens. The highlight of the meeting will be the honoring of Dean Machmer, retiring Dean of the University.

Following the Bowker program, the parade will reform and march back to Mills House to disband. A gigantic picnic will follow shortly at the rifle range for all Devensmen.

Leo Kilcoyne is chairman of the farewell program committee. Edmund Poliks and Kenneth Skantz are in charge of refreshments. Registration will be handled by Richard MacCallum. Paul Rolander and Norman Waks will have charge of the parade. Campus publicity is being handled by Frank Keegan and Edward Tenczar while Steve Pappas is handling off-campus publicity.

The committee has extended an open invitation to all the men who attended Devens College and it is expected that a large number of the alumni will be here for the farewell.

150 Devens Alumni Are U. M. June Grads

Devens Newspaper Close to The Hearts of Leaving GI Students

On June 1 approximately 150 senior men will receive their degrees and another phase of Devens will pass into history. For this is the last class that attended the U. of M. at Ft. Devens.

In Sept. 1946, a branch of the U. of M. was set up in an inactive area of Ft. Devens in Ayer, Mass., to accommodate the large number of veterans of World War II who wished to attend college under the G. I. Bill. For the next three years the veterans who applied and were accepted for admission to the Univ. were sent to the branch at Devens.

In Sept. of '48, the class of '52 began its school year. In June of '49 Devens closed. During the three years of its operation a total of 1400 veterans had started their college studies and transferred on to other colleges throughout the country.

From a group of unused army buildings to a college in three short years was a gigantic task. It wasn't easy, and to accomplish it students as well as faculty pitched in to make it work. From this association arose a spirit—the spirit of Devens.

DEAN MACHMER

Our college buildings are gone now. We have no hallowed hall to return to on alumni day. There is no ivy planting procession to attend each year. There are no athletic teams to perpetuate the name of Devens on the playing field or for us alumni to follow on Saturday afternoon. What is more unique, our alumni can be no greater than the number of men who have already passed through Devens. But yet, the College lives. The spirit of Devens will last as long as there is a Devenaman alive.

We on the Amherst campus are only a small group of the class of '52 that transferred from Devens but we are the largest single group. For this reason we have planned the proceeding in honor of this passing phase of Devens history.

One of the organizations that we were particularly proud of was our paper, the Statesmen. It is only fitting that at this time in which we remember our wonderful experience at Devens, that we do so through that media. Upon these two pages are excerpts of articles, pictures and cartoons that appeared in various issues of the Statesmen.

On Saturday we will have our Farewell and Devensmen will again respond to the spirit we know so well.

Federal Gov't Makes Survey Of '49 Devens

The Federal Government, in the spring of 1949, made a survey of the educational institutions set up to accommodate the veterans who wished to attend college.

Here are a few selected quotations from the preliminary draft of the report of the survey of the U. of M. at Fort Devens.

"Circumstances seldom arise that result in such vigorous educational action as was displayed in Massachusetts to provide low-cost public higher education for its veterans during the years 1946-1949, but the very rarity of the phenomenom gives special significance to its analysis and description. It may be that the spirit, if not the exact pattern, of the Massachusetts adventure may there or elsewhere provide some degree of guidance in meeting even more acute and widespread needs that arise in peace instead of as an aftermath of war.

"The students at Fort Devens come from every corner of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and in remarkably even distribution. A simple tabulation illustrates that, in general, the percentage of students from any county of the Commonwealth was very close to that county's percentage of the total population of the Commonwealth. The institution at Fort Devens served the veterans of the whole Commonwealth in no mere figurative sense, but literally; not ceremoniously, but directly. The institu...

"Naturally, with this course, you'll have to cut down on your extra-curricular activities."

THE SCHOOL REMAINS

When the school started, there was no school. Now that it ends, a school remains. Paradoxically, the thing created became greater than the creator. There is only the heart to judge, and the heart went out to the school.

In September of 1946, there were few books, few buildings, an incomplete staff and over a thousand students. Teachers were arriving and attempting to unpack and to teach at the same time. Administrators were trying to find out what there was to administrate before beginning work. But the school demanded more. And more was given. The syllabus of courses was created, though no one knew for certain what courses were to be offered. But there was to be a school. No one denied that.

It was a joint production. The State took the initiative of ordering it created. The land and buildings came from the War Department. The faculty came, from everywhere, with the distances and strain of the war and life still on their faces. It was not an auspicious beginning, but the school never floundered. Students and faculty took hold, and the long pull began. There was friction—the sort of friction which showed the machine was gripping. Complaints about faculty, about students. You could hear it in the snack bar at almost any time, when students and faculty drank coffee together. You could hear it in the beer-halls, where students and their teachers also drank together. Why not? Some of these students were older than some of their teachers.

The nature of the school was a hodge-podge. The government which had impartially taken these men for war now impartially offered them education. So, a cross section seized education. Many took it for the sake of—as they fancied—greater earning power. But it made no difference. A student may have elected engineering when his real talent lay in another direction. The school tried to help him find it. The school tried to teach him more than engineering. Every student took English and was taught something of his language, its literature and his heritage. Most students took history and saw their war and their times evolving out of the bloody and sometimes inspiring past. That was the common heritage, far above the courses—and they were few—which slanted towards a particular job and which were useless aside from that job. The students were larger men as the semesters rolled.

But the students contributed their share. A newspaper and a literary magazine appeared. A radio station, a theatrical group. These were authorized by State funds, but the time and the sweat that went into them came from students and faculty, side by side. The newspaper began crusading for better chow—always a sore spot—and the amateurish literary magazine, feeling its way, took swipes at indecency, until the students laughed. Yet everything took hold on the fertile soil of hope and imagination. The magazine is now—and this is not chauvinism—equal to any student publication on the Eastern seaboard. The newspaper, plagued by difficulties with various printers, has settled down to steady reporting of campus news, a continued run of typographical and editorial errors, and a cheerfully liberal and independent view of education and society. The radio station has operated along with them, offering low-down jazz and classical music with the same impartiality.

Curiously, there was never much harm done. Chairs were hurled from windows, student elections created an hilarious fire-hose fight involving 600 students, the vice president and the Dean of Students—all soaked impartially—but there were few real troubles, few real scandals. The drinking that went on was quiet drinking, and there were never very many students in the lock-up in Ayer at one time. There were incidents of bad taste, and there were small troubles, and there were minor scandals. But nothing extraordinary, nothing that could cause shame.

So the school evolved, and now it is to close. Devens will be, they tell us, no more. It is, except in the crudest sense, nonsense—of course. No more? Why, we remember when it never was! And now the buildings will no longer be occupied by the students and the friends we knew. But that doesn't mean it is no more. Devensmen are now studying elsewhere—in England, Australia, Germany, France, and in many of the United States. Surely we shall all meet again someday. And surely we shall talk of Devens.

The school is not ended. It is stopped. Nothing more will go on, nothing more that we, who knew and lived in the school, can be ignorant of and wonder about. We know it all—like Kilroy, we were there. So that now that the school is ended, it is really preserved. It is kept forever in our memories. It is ended: Oh, no. It is ours forever.

Ed.'s Note: Last week a couple of Devensmen came into our office and asked if we could possibly spare a page for some excerpts from The Statesman, the official newspaper at the special branch of the University at Fort Devens. On these two pages we present our final tribute to those men who were fortunate enough to be associated with the special branch at Devens. Credit for the ideas and a lion's share of the work on these pages goes to Frank Keegan. Through his ideas and hard work, these two pages have been possible.

Review Of Sports Shows Mommy Spanked by Devens

Nagle, Devens' Greatest Sport Goes on to Fame

Fran Nagle was awarded the Devens "Memorial Trophy" at the D-Night Banquet on January 17, 1949. This was a simple but very impressive ceremony honoring the most outstanding athlete at Devens.

Fran lived in West Lynn and went to St. Mary's High School in preparation for college. He played baseball and basketball during his high school days, but he didn't learn what a football was for until he came to Devens, for St. Mary's didn't have a football team.

When Devens closed in June, 1949, Fran Nagle transferred to the University of Nebraska along with our football coach, Bob Davis, who had accepted the position of backfield coach with the same university.

In the next two years Fran went on to make football history at Nebraska. He quarterbacked the team which sported another All-American, Bob Reynolds.

In his last year Fran was named as an All-American back. On New Year's Day, Fran played in the famous Shrine game in San Francisco where he was one of the quarterbacks for the West.

When the players were named for the College All Star game, Fran Nagle was named as one of the quarterbacks.

tion met an educational need of qualified veterans in every part of Massachusetts, as its founders and governors intended, and as a wise and sound public sentiment demanded.

"The administrative officers at Devens sought men who would not share in the authoritarian attitudes conventionally practiced by a large percentage of the faculties of our colleges and universities. They also shared the conviction that extracurricular activities were of great educational value and provided excellent opportunities for the development of democratic experience in actual practice. They sought faculty members who also shared these convictions and were willing to assume a responsibility for the widest and most cordial participation in extra-curricular matters, as joint participants rather than official institution's supervisors and censors."

EDITORIAL

Though Devens has fulfilled its task, we need not say goodbye. But we should pause to ask ourselves: What has Devens meant to us? Most likely you will find, as I have, that giving these feelings adequate expression is beyond our powers. We can express, however, our appreciation and everlasting indebtedness to the men and women who, in their manifold functions, so generously gave themselves to the difficult task of making Devens a reality. Without their effort and spirit, our education would not have been possible. Devens was truly a community—a community for learning and a community for living; and I hope that all of you will join in preserving the Devens tradition and spirit in the years to come.

U of M Farmers Plowed Under 20 - 14 by Inspired Devens

In spite of overwhelming odds, an inspired Devens eleven summoned the necessary energy and won an amazing victory over their mother club. In the final few minutes of play, Franny Nagle took to the air and with the help of a U.M. miscue and a great catch by Jeff Schreiner in the end zone, the boys from Devens had themselves a much-to-be celebrated ball game. Every man on the team played a great ball game and they really deserved this victory.

Coach Bob Davis, the Chief of the "Chiefs" and the man behind the strategy of the victory, certainly deserves a lot of credit. His tireless efforts to mold his boys into shape should not pass by unnoticed.

The game was a real thriller all the way. An intercepted pass staved off a Deven's TD in the first quarter, and this enabled U. of M. to eventually make the score 7 to 0. The whole rest of the first half was a see-saw battle that resulted in no further scoring.

In the third quarter, Art Bazaris fine blocking and "Twinkletoes" McGlory's fine run put Devens back in the ball game. Then a U.M. fumble gave Devens the ball on the Mass. 16 yard line. Shortly thereafter, Fran Nagle cut loose a throw to Jake Larson who made a fabulous catch going into the end zone. Devens didn't convert and the score stood at 13-7.

The fourth quarter saw the Redmen capitalize on a bobble and go ahead 14-13. It was then a punting contest until an interference on the part of the Redmen put Devens on Mass.' 34. Several plays were then run and time was also running out. Nagle then flipped to Schreiner for the final tally and the ball game.

Looking back, one can see that the football Chiefs hold a unique place in every Devensman's heart. The spirit that they showed endeared them to all their supporters and even to some of the opposition's. On Oct. 23, 1948, they brought into reality that feeling of oneness, that vivacity, that friendliness which had characterized Devens since its first day, by their victory over the mother college.

The Deven's spirit was exemplified in other sports as well as football. In 1947 when the first call for baseball candidates was made, no less than one hundred and fifty men responded. Coach Vic Stout really had his work cut out to get down to the required twenty-odd men.

Tribal battles saw Devens taking the measure of the Redmen for three straight years. In the first year, Devens played the part of a very poor host as they romped to a 15-6 decision. In the second year on the U. M. campus, the Chiefs staved off a ninth inning rally by the Redmen to win a 6-5 victory. Mommy got scalped the third year, too, on the Devens' diamond. After Devens took the lead at the end of the first inning, 7-5, they were never headed.

It proved to be this third season which was the big one for the Chiefs. They boasted a 15 and 7 record, in spite of numerous injuries, and were thus the winningest of all Maroon and White teams.

The Devens' basketball quintet really started off with two strikes against them. They were a freshman club compared with other colleges who had men playing for their third and fourth years. The first season was not too much of a success and found them compiling a 7 and 13 record.

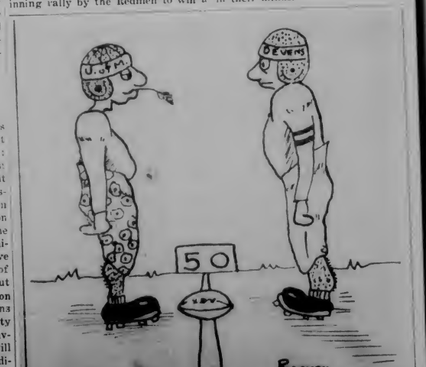
The second season found at least a nucleus for a team, but the schedule really loomed big and threatening. B. U. and Boston College were but two of the powerhouses they would have to face in their sophomore year. Six wins and 15 defeats was the final tally, and one of the victories was at the expense of the U. of M.

The last season found the Chiefs starting off like a powerhouse with a three game spurt. They tapered off however, and lost the next three. They found their way into the Boston Gardens one night and got clobbered to the tune of 81-37 at the hands of New Britain Teachers. The season was still a success, though, because the final whistle of the Devens-UM game found the Chiefs ahead 43-38.

Devensmen also participated in soccer, hockey, and track, and as in the major sports, their spirit still was a great asset to them. Anyone who gets up at 4 o'clock in the morning just to practice hockey, surely must have spirit.

The track team met the finest in the New England squads and it was in track that the U. of M., known as Mommy, got her chance to spank the unruly youngster three straight years.

Although Devens closed its doors as far as being an educational institution goes, three years ago, it still lives in the hearts of those who were there. As the chapel bells ring and the last of the Devens men are graduated their old alma mater will be foremost in their minds.



"Would yew mind of we'uns finished this hyar game fast? Us'uns have ter get back fer milkin'."

Redmen Drop Finale Meet To UConn, 85-49

The varsity track team closed out their 1952 season on a disappointing note as they dropped a meet to the University of Connecticut: 85 2|3-19 1|3. The loss gave the Redmen a season's record of 2-4, their best record since 1948.

Feature of the meet from the Massachusetts's standpoint was Fred Law's outstanding performance in the pole vault. Law set a new outdoor University record as he cleared 12 feet 1 3|4 inches, his highest mark of the outdoor season this year.

The Redmen reached their peak as a team in the 100 when Sullivan, Butler, and Lamkin combined to give the Redmen a sweep of the event.

Frank Barous took his usual first place with a 21'3½". Lee Fink came through with a superb performance for his first win of the year as he hit 5'9" in the high jump.

Redmen Halted By Aces' Clark As Streak Goes

The Redmen's seven-game winning streak went by the boards as AIC eked out a 3-2 win on wind-swept, chilly Alumni Field.

Ralph Clark, the Aces' pitcher, got by on a lot of junk as he held the tired Lordenmen to 6 hits. Bob Kroeck started the game but was knocked out in 3 1|3 innings. However, this does not cast any aspirations against him as he was pitching the game while suffering a case of measles, which weakened him considerably.

AIC garnered their first run in the first inning on a walk by Lorzallo, a single by Al Zordan, and a hard one-baser to left by Gay Salvucci that scored Lovallo.

The Aces drove Kroeck to the showers in the fourth as they came up with a pair of extra-base blows. Carin Nuccio opened the inning with a triple to right center. He remained on third as Archie Perrone popped Kroeck for a base on balls to give the Aces men on first and third. Sellorale came through with the climaxing blow as he laced a double to right center to drive in Nuccio and Clark. Don Swanson came in and put out the fire. He pitched shut out ball the rest of the way, but it was a case of shutting the door after the horse was stolen.

The Redmen were ineffective at the plate until they capitalized on a miscue by the Aces shortstop in the bottom half of the eighth to get a brace of runs. Ray Gunn led off the inning by striking out. Bob Pedigree gave the Lordenmen a base runner by working Clark for a walk. Don Smith then came through with a timely single to place men on first and third. John Pasteris flew out to short center field and the runners had to hold their bases. With the count 3-2, two men out, Bill Bakey grounded an easy bounder to short which was bobbled and let Bill reach first easily. As the runners were going on the pitch, Pedigree and Smith scored easily.

The Redmen were put down in order in the last of the ninth as Clark struck out the last two men.

The loss now gives the Lordenmen a 10-4 record while AIC now has five wins and six losses.

The all important game for the Redmen comes today as they tangle with Rhode Island in a doubleheader which will decide the Yankee Conference Championship. A double win will clinch at least a tie.

However, if Connecticut loses one of their three Conference games this week-end, a double win would give the Redmen their first Conference title. Connecticut is the defending champ and today's opposition, Rhode Island, were the 1949 champs.

Hugh MacKenzie and Don Swanson are figured to be today's starting hurlers, with visions of a Yankee Conference title resting on their shoulders.

In considering a play for production by the Roister Doisters, the Play Reading Committee of the organization tries to choose a play which best fulfills the following desirable characteristics:

1. Enjoyment for Roister Doister members
2. Audience appeal both on and off campus
3. A worthy and tested play containing elements of a lasting quality

"Eastward in Eden" fulfilled these requirements. As you can easily learn by approaching someone who took part in the production, it was a pleasure to work with and present the show; and according to the majority of reports the audience liked it, too. As the test of the play, John Chapman of the Daily News says, "Better than 'Barretts of Wimpole Street'. It captures that heaven-sent-something that makes a poet. Mrs. Gardner has made Emily Dickinson come alive. It's the kind of play I'd go looking for. I was content to listen."

Who could ask for more!

May we bring to your attention the fact that if Art on this Campus depended upon the hardness of the seats such as those at Bowker, then the bleachers in the Cage would have closed down the Concert Association long ago!

Riccimen Drop Finale To Jeffs As Moffitt Stars

The Amherst lacrosse team gained revenge for their earlier defeat as they downed the Redmen ten by a decisive score of 15-7.

Amherst jumped off to a 4-0 lead in the first quarter and had a lead of 6 goals before the Ricci-men dented the enemies' nets.

Bill Moffitt, with three goals and an assist, and Phil Huber with three goals were the outstanding men on the Redman attack.

This was the first loss of the season for the Redmen and gave them a record of four wins, one loss, and one tie.

Netmen Beaten By Maroons 7-2

The varsity tennis team went down to their fifth loss of the season on Wednesday as they were sunk by the superior power of Springfield College 7-2.

The Maroons, hosts for the day, gave the Redmen a rough welcome as they swept all six singles matches. Allen, MacLeod, Simpson, Sterling, Murray, and Tucker all went down before the power of their opponents.

In the doubles, Allen and MacLeod teamed up for the first UMass point of the day and Sterling and Tucker came through with a great performance to get the Redmen's second and final point. In the final doubles match, Tilton and Tucker went down to defeat.

DANCE BAND

The University Dance Band will play for a block dance in front of South College tonight from 9-12.

Ushering at Senior Convo will be Isogon's first project, and ushering at graduation will follow. Returning to school early to help with Freshman Week and registration will be first on the agenda for next year.

Golfers Finish Seventh In NE's; Whip Amherst

Paced by Capt. Ed Rogowski and Dave Damon, the Redman Golf team trounced Amherst at the Orchards Golf course in South Hadley by the score of 7½ to 1½.

On Friday, May 9, the golf team took part in the New England Intercollegiate Golf Tourney and finished seventh of the 23 schools represented in the tournament. Dave Damon shot the lowest score for the Redmen as he came through with an impressive 79.

After four years, the TREADMILL finally grinds to a halt. But before dying a natural death of old age, I'd like to look back on some of the standout memories of these years.

After four years of controversy with everyone from the Dean down, there are still two men who stand out in my mind. One is the epitome of what a professor should be—the type of person who inspires the people he teaches and works with—this is Professor Doric Alviani. His presence here is a valuable asset to the University and his absence or loss would be sorely missed.

The other is the epitome of what a worker should be—the type of person who believes in hard work and who is constantly harassed by inadequate aid and ultra-conservative faculty members—this is Robert McCartney. His work provides an inspiration to all those illustrious members of our over-worked faculty who never seem to find the time to do anything beyond their assigned duties.

As a senior, one hears a lot of talk from under-classmen. The classic tune seems to go like this—"Gee, are you lucky! I can hardly wait to get out of here!" To these persons, I say that you are wasting your time in college. It is an old story that you get only as much out of something as you put into it. Too many people are content to go through college sitting back and letting the other guy do all the work. If a few more people would get up off their rear ends and do some constructive work around campus instead of sitting idly by and criticizing, then this campus would really start to go places.

Another pet peeve of mine in four years has been this matter of publicity. Despite all critics, I still believe that athletics is the easiest way to spread the name of the University. Sports publicity forms an integral part of an over-all publicity program that is designed to get every student and parent in the state acquainted with his state university. This over-all publicity plan is the basic principle behind the special issue of the Alumni Bulletin and the Know Your University movie and booklet. They all tie into a large picture that spells success AND continued growth for the University.

As we look at the juniors, the leaders of the campus next year, we all have the feeling that they will never be able to handle all the responsibility that rests with the seniors. However, the cycle continues and life goes on. For myself as well as for many of the seniors, I say that we hope that we will be "Gone but not forgotten."

Letter to the Editor

Eulogizing people is not one of my habits, but I must accede to it in rectifying a misconception among various of our students concerning the recent Roister Doisters play.

To say that Shirley Hastings was the play would be repeating a truism. Miss Hastings most successfully and completely grasped the intent of Dorothy Gardner's interpretation of Emily Dickinson, played it to the best of her ability, and made of "Eastward in Eden" a stirring and uplifting emotional experience. I am quite certain that only emotionally deficient individuals failed, at least, to sympathize with the neurotic and romantic Emily as Miss Hastings "lived" her role. It is worth noting that adults who, as a rule, are emotionally mature, reacted favorably to Miss Hastings' excellent performance, and that during several superbly enacted passages responded as one to her compelling characterization.

I am duty-bound to congratulate Shirley for being the greatest actress in the best college production I have seen for her firm hold on a role that could have, but did not, descend to mere sentimentality, for her generosity in giving to us now, not "in years to come," a demonstration of truly remarkable talent.

Sincerely yours,
Abraham Newman '53

Mr. Robert Swan, organist at the First Congregational Church, is to give a recital on Sunday, May 18, at 8 p.m. Because he is leaving Amherst for Springfield in the fall, a good attendance is asked—good music, too.

BAND PLANS ANNOUNCED

Band Manager Art Groves announced today that the University Marching Band and Drill Team will travel to UConn and Brandeis next fall with a third trip to Tufts in the tentative stage. Only five members of the band are graduating in June so plans are being made for a bigger and better band.

New staff members appointed for next fall are: Pete Lovejoy, '54, publicity director, and Nom Farwell, '55, co-supply manager.

In its expanding program, new positions of supply assistants, public relations director, and field assistants have been created to be filled by non-musicians.

All students interested in either playing in the Marching Band or filling non-musician positions are requested to contact Director Joe Contino in the Music Office.

U M Gets Face Lifted With Construction Program

The face of the U. of M. is changing rapidly. Among the most noticeable of the changes is the work moving forward on the new dining hall. The building, which was begun last spring, will be completed about May of 1953 and occupation will take place the following September. The total cost of the building is $1,025,000. This amount will cover a totally new unit complete with furniture, steel kitchens, etc.

For the first time, all students except those eating at sorority or fraternity houses will be able to eat in one place. A seven-day meal service is planned. Opening of the new dining hall will not stop the use of the Greenough and Butterfield cafeterias. Maloney and Tessier, architects, designed the building which includes 3 dining rooms, a snack bar and private dining rooms.

Replacement

A new animal disease isolation building is being constructed behind Paige Lab to replace the old Paige Annex. This building will be in use soon. Paige Lab will be renamed Munson Hall for past extension service director, Willard A. Munson. A complete remodeling job will be done and the place will then become headquarters for the extension service. The old Annex, now an animal disease hospital, will be remodeled into a printing shop for the extension service where all duplicating processes will be in use. The vacant extension service offices in South College will be turned into administrative offices.

Two Dorms

The two women's dorms near Hamp and Knowlton are being financed by a bond issue of $800,000. The houses will hold 154 girls each and will face Lewis Hall. A parking area will be constructed in the quadrangle formed by the four buildings.

A garage building for the faculty apartments will be built with $20,000 allotted from the dormitory bond issue.

An $8,000 addition to the greenhouse at Clark Hall is under construction for use in experimentation and research in botany.

New Turbine

A new turbine installed in the power plant will permit the U. of M. to manufacture all its own electricity and make the plant the largest in the Commonwealth.

There have also been many general improvements. The math building has been painted and the trim on many others has been done. More such work is planned.

There has been complete redecoration of Lewis Hall while the Abbey has been both remodeled and redecorated with new ceilings and lighting.

The hayfield in the center of campus has been converted to lawn and will be kept so. There has been paving of roads and sidewalks to preserve the grass. After the new engineering building is completed, the road from Hatch Lab to Gunness will be completed and the area around Gunness landscaped.

4 Freshmen Awarded Alumni Engineering Scholarships

Engineering Alumni Scholarships have been awarded to four men entering the University as freshmen this fall, it was announced recently by George A. Marston, dean of engineering.

The scholarships are renewable for four years at the discretion of the committee.

Students receiving the scholarships include: Albert Bessette, Holyoke; Robert Conroy, No. Brookfield; Robert Gibb, Ludlow; and Virgil Lunardini, Chicopee.

Stag or Drag Ball Opens Social Season

The first all-campus dance of the year will be held Tuesday, Sept. 23, from 8-11 p.m. in the Cage under the sponsorship of the University Faculty Women. The Melloaires will provide music for the traditionally "Stag or Drag" affair. An admission charge of 25 cents per person will be made. (The receipts will go to the Dean's Emergency Fund.)

Enrollment Records To Be Surpassed

Leaders' Confab Co-ed This Year

The first annual Student Leaders Conference was held last Thursday afternoon in Draper Hall. Up until this year there has been a Women's student leaders conference, but it was decided to have both men and women for the conference in the future.

The program, under the direction of Sophie Sowyrda and Rob Pollock, included a lunch and a general meeting to announce the program for the afternoon. This was followed by seven workshops. The conference spit up into the various groups represented and discussions of the coming year's plans were held. Adelphia, Isogon, Scrolls, Maroon Key, W.A.A. Council, I.F.C., Pan-Hell Council, Senate, Judiciary Chiefs and Class Presidents, took part in the meeting.

After the workshops a general meeting was held to receive the reports of the workshops and discuss the dates of important campus events this year. Several persons there expressed a great deal of satisfaction with the program.

All previous records are expected to fall at this year's registration, according to Registrar Lanphear. The U. of M. will have the largest women's enrollment in its history if the present pre-registration trends continue. Approximately 1200 co-eds are expected to register today and tomorrow.

The total enrollment this year, including the Stockbridge and Graduate School students, is expected to top 3800. The ratio of men to women in the undergraduate schools will be approximately two to one.

It is also expected that about 1050 freshmen will register. The total enrollment will be in the vicinity of 3250, according to Mr. Lanphear. The freshman class is slightly larger than last year.

Dean of Women, Helen Curtis, commented: "We are very pleased to have the largest women's enrollment in our history. We look forward to the time when the two new women's dorms will be completed so we don't have to borrow from the men. We are very grateful for Mills being loaned for the year."

Housing

The frosh men will be housed in Greenough, Charbourne and Baker. The soph and junior men will again be in the cinder blocks, and the seniors will be in Brooks.

The freshmen girls will reside in Lewis, Thatcher, and Hamlin. The upper class co-eds will be housed in the Abby, Knowlton, Mills and Butterfield.

High Schoolers To See U Mass

The Annual High School Guest Day, when seniors, juniors, faculty, and parents from all the Massachusetts' High Schools are invited to review student life and activities will be held next Saturday, Sept. 27.

Last year the University welcomed almost 1,000 visitors, according to Alumni Office registration figures. These students, teachers, and relatives represented 120 high schools from all parts of the state. Director George (Ted) Emery said there was no reason why this year shouldn't bring a larger turnout.

The program starts at 9 a.m. and continues through 12 m. with registration and campus inspection. At 10:15 guests will be escorted on a guided tour of laboratories and classrooms of the several colleges and divisions. Luncheon will be served at moderate cost at the UM dining halls from 11:45-12:30. At 2 p.m. visitors will be guests at the Varsity Football Game vs. Bates at Alumni Field.

New Librarian

Hugh Montgomery, assistant librarian at the Harvard University Graduate School of Business Administration, was named librarian at the U. of M. starting Sept. 1, it was announced by Pres. Ralph A. Van Meter. He succeeds Basil Wood who retired last December.

Mr. Montgomery is a native of Cambridge, Mass. and a graduate of Harvard College and Columbia University School of Library Service and has worked in the reference department of the New York Public Library.
